Head of Flying Squadron Orders Owners Holding Two Carloads to Put Stock on Sale at Once

Packers' Manager Held Cudahy Employee Accused of Selling Hinds and Ribs at Excessive Prices

Unless two carloads of live poultry held in the Pennsylvania yards in Jersey City by poultry dealers in New York for purposes of speculation are moved this morning and put on the markets, agents of Armin W. Riley, head of the government's "flying squadron," will seize them and put the chickens on sale at the prevailing market price of 45 cents a pair.

Meat Sale Causes Arrest

At the direction of United States District Attorney Ross, in Brooklyn yesterday, Department of Justice agents arrested Oliver H. Saunders, manager of the Brooklyn branch of the Cudahy Packing Company, 168 Fort Greene Place. Saunders was charged with selling fresh hinds and ribs of beef at excessive prices.

The complainant was John Schroth, a retail meat dealer at 748 Fulton street, Brooklyn, who said he paid 29 cents a pound one day and two or three days later 34 cents for similar goods. Saunders pleaded not guilty before United States Commissioner James H. McCabe in Brooklyn, and was held in $2,500 bail for examination on May 6.

This was the fourth arrest of packing company managers in Brooklyn for alleged profiteering. The other three were of the Brooklyn managers of Swift & Co., Armour & Co. and Wilson & Co.

It was announced yesterday at the office of District Attorney Ross that Abraham S. Straus, Brooklyn department store owners, had a conference through their manager with the District Attorney and offered to place on sale a large proportion of their stock at reduced prices.

The stock thus to be sold comprises wearing apparel for men, women and children, and includes shoes. Mr. Ross said he expected that similar action will be taken by other large stores.

Mr. Riley later said managers of stores in New York City are in communication with him for the purpose of affecting reductions on necessities.

Mr. Riley denied he urged the firm of

Investing—Not Speculating

THESE are times for caution. The investor is offered all sorts of openings for his money. Very attractive rates are offered. What is he to do? If he wishes to speculate, he should get the best information and advice that he can and then plunge and take his chances.

If he really wishes to invest, let him buy First Mortgage Certificates with principal and interest guaranteed by the Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company. Then he takes no chances.

Search and Seizure by Dry Agent Held Illegal

Judge So Terms Any Action That Would Be Trespass Under Constitutional Law

MARQUETTE, Mich., April 21.—Any search and seizure by Federal prohibition agents that would amount to trespass under constitutional law is illegal, Federal Judge Clarence Sessions stated today during the trial of the Sealouche brothers in connection with the Iron River "whisky rebellion."

"A revenue agent could never invade my home or my premises without a search warrant unless I should give him permission," the judge declared. Evidence showed that Leo J. Grove, United States prohibition agent, entered the basement of the Sealouche brothers' store at Iron River to hunt for liquor. The defense objected to presentation of further testimony or of samples of wine said to have been found in the basement.

Judge Sessions excused the jury while attorneys presented arguments. District Attorney Walker argued that the Federal men believed they had the right to search the basement, because, in their opinion, it was connected with the store, a public place, and not with the private dwelling house on the second floor.

Christian Democracy

Not to reach down—Not to push down—Not to stifle any aspiration toward economic or social progress—But to spread among all men the spirit of Christ, that in the ebb and flow of civilization's progress every advance may be wrought out in Christian Brotherhood—

This is the motive behind the Christian Americanization program of Northern Baptists.

This is the motive

That we may extend the spirit of friendliness, helpfulness, and brotherly confidence to the multitudes of strangers within our gates.

That we may demonstrate to them the nobler Spirit of America.

That we may help them to find their better selves in the new land of their choice, and to become the Americans they aspire to be.

That we may assist them in acquiring the language of their new neighbors.

That we may protect them from the forces of vice and greed that are seeking to prey upon them.

That we may introduce Jesus to them as their elder brother and friend of all mankind.

$100,000,000—Apr. 25—May 2

For this purpose and for work akin to it at home and over seas the Northern Baptists begin a campaign on April 25th to raise $100,000,000.

Quicken!

God expects every Baptist to do his duty

Lady Cholmondeley Wins Restoration Of Conjugal Rights

Former Chorus Girl, Divorced by Laird of Kippendavie, Married Son of Marquis in March, 1911

LONDON, April 21.—Lady George Augo Cholmondeley, daughter of Charles Henry Taylor, of Washington, D. C., to-day obtained in the Divorce Court a decree for the restoration of conjugal rights. She was divorced by her first husband, John Alexander Stirling, in 1909.

Decree for the restoration of conjugal rights is the usual preliminary to divorce in this country.

Lady Cholmondeley, who before her first marriage was Clara Elizabeth Taylor, was a chorus girl. She met Colonel Stirling, Laird of Kippendavie, then a lieutenant in the Scots Guards, in London in 1904, and they were married secretly before the fact became known. She was then appearing in "The Earl and the Girl."

In 1909 her husband sued for divorce, naming Lord Northland as co-respondent. In a cross-petition Mrs. Stirling denied her husband's charges and named Mrs. Mabel Atherton, a noted beauty, who later married Arthur Elliot, a dramatist. She committed suicide in July, 1910.

The court, in dismissing Mrs. Stirling's petition and granting a divorce and custody of their only child to Colonel Stirling, said Mrs. Stirling had been ostracized from society by her own incapacity to adopt or ape its manners. It held that she "proved unfit for Mr. Stirling's family circle, and that she had led a bohemian life, in which she is mentally and physically fitted to excel."

Mrs. Stirling was left penniless and returned to the stage, where she appeared in "Daisy Varden," "Our Miss Gibbs" and other plays. In March, 1911, she was married to Lord George, second son of the Marquis of Cholmondeley, a registry office in London. By marrying Mr. Stirling, Lord George forfeited a bequest of $15,000 of Lady Meaux, who left the money for him "on condition that he marry a lady in society." Their only child, a daughter, was born in May, 1913.

Cholmondeley Castle, Lady Cholmondeley is thirty-five years old and her husband thirty-three.

Pratt Says Sims Failed To Grasp Navy's Mission

U-Boat War Won by Britain Before U. S. Entered the Conflict, He Tells Senators

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Red Admiral Sims' criticisms of the navy's conduct of the war were based on the false assumption that combating the German submarine campaign was the main object of the United States Navy, Captain Pratt, former assistant chief of operations, testified today before the Senate investigating committee.

The chief mission of the American Navy, Pratt declared, was to organize the service of supply transportation in conjunction with the army, and to get American troops overseas safely and speedily.

The British got the submarine situation under control in 1917 before the United States could have assisted, the witness declared, and held it to the end.

"The United States Navy was a contributing factor but never the deciding one in defeating the submarine," Pratt told the committee.

Admiral Sims' charge that the navy was not prepared to enter the war was partially true, the officer said, because "our form of government is not adapted to getting into war quickly."

Suit to Recover Seized Enemy Property Fails

Judge Hand Dismisses Action Brought by Max W. Stohr Over Worsted Mills Stock

Judge Learned Hand, in an opinion handed down in the Federal Court yesterday, dismissed the suit to recover the property of the United States Stohr in his own behalf after the stockholder of Stohr & Sons, Inc., against James W. Wallace and the other directors placed in charge of the company's property by the Alien Property Custodian.

Stohr brought suit as a naturalized citizen and the owner of forty-two shares of the capital stock of Stohr & Sons, which on February 20, 1917, became the owner of 14,900 shares of the Botany Worsteds Mills, a New Jersey Corporation, owned in Leipzig, Germany. Later Stohr & Sons obtained 5,890 more shares of the Botany Worsteds Mills stock.

All the shares were seized by the Alien Property Custodian on March 20, 1918, as enemy owned. They were placed in the possession of Wallace and the other defendants constituting the two corporations.

Scandal Disrupts School

SPRINGFIELD, N. J., April 21.—Fifteen of the sixteen members of the teaching staff of the Springfield Township school to-day tendered their resignations, on the ground that the township Board of Education apparently is indifferent to, and had taken no action in, regard to stories of a "scandalous nature."

Two of these are Roy A. Jackson, the supervising principal, and Charles Messler, commercial instructor. Jackson said the stories, some of which were against him, were ridiculous and false. He said he was credited with entertaining women teachers in his office. Messler said stories that he had hugged girl members of his commercial classes were untrue.

W. R. O'Donovan, Noted as Sculptor, And Painter, Dies

Entirely Self-Taught, He Designed Numerous Statues for Soldiers and Sailors' Monuments

William Rudolph O'Donovan, the noted sculptor, died Tuesday at the Flower Hospital.

He was born in Preston County, Va., in 1844, and was entirely self-taught in art. He served in the Staunton Artillery, C. S. A., from 1861 to the surrender at Appomattox. In 1893 he married Miss Mary Corcoran, of this city.

Shortly after the war he established a studio in this city and devoted his energy to the execution of many important busts and bas-reliefs, including William Page, N. A., which was presented to the National Academy of Design; Arthur Quilty, N. A.; R. Swain Gifford, N. A.; Thomas Elkins, N. A., and Colonel Clarence Steadman. He also made busts of Walt Whitman and General Joseph Wheeler, and a relief of Mme. Blavatsky from life.

After devoting himself to ten years of painting he resumed sculpting and executed busts of General Daniel Sickles and James Grant Wilson; statues of Washington for Caracas, Venezuela; for the monument commemorating the battle of Newburgh, and for the Trenton battle monument; equestrian statues of Lincoln and Grant for the Soldiers and Sailors' Arch, Prospect Park, Brooklyn; a statue of Archbishop Hughes for St. John's College, Fordham University; a memorial tablet to Bayard Taylor at Cornell University; a statue to the captors of Major André at Tarrytown, N. Y.; a bust of the late Charles F. Daly, a statue of General Morgan for the Saratoga battle monument; a statue of General Wagner, C. S. A., at Clarksburg, S. C., and a bust of General Stryker for the Trenton battle monument. He had designed statues for soldiers and sailors' monuments in all parts of the country.

O'Donovan was one of the founders of the famous Tile Club; a member of the Hudson-Fulton Commemorative, the National Committee for the Celebration of the Trenton battle monument, the National Monument Committee, A. N. A., 1878; a member of the Society of American Sculptors, and the Architectural League.

Justice, Not Mercy, Is Demand of Caillaux

Trial of Former French Premier Finished; Senate to Vote in Secret on Verdict

PARIS, April 21.—Joseph Caillaux, former Premier, on trial before the Senate, sitting as a High Court, charged with having had treasonable dealings with the enemy, spoke in his own defense today.

"I am a victim of the vanity, mediocrity and red tape of French officialdom, which I have always sought to defeat. I have always sought to do so with an impassioned appeal for justice, but said he asked no mercy.

The trial was finished to-night and will go to the judges to-morrow for decision, which will be taken in secret session.

Attorney Demange, summing up for the defense from the legal viewpoint, argued that the High Court was incompetent to try the case if it was one of intelligence with the enemy. He declared a court martial must decide it, the High Court being competent only if the case were one of an attempt against the security of the state. Mr. Demange asked for unconditional acquittal or trial by a court martial.

Senators to Recommend Big Navy Base in Haiti

Port-au-Prince Station Proposed to Give United States Command in Caribbean

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The Naval Affairs Committee of the Senate is preparing to recommend that the United States establish a great naval station at Port-au-Prince, Haiti, to replace the present station at Guantanamo, Cuba.

Senator King, of Utah, at the direction of members of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, has just completed an investigation of the question of increasing American naval facilities in the West Indies. He said to-day he will submit the plan for establishing a new base at Port-au-Prince to the committee within a few days.

The harbor at Port-au-Prince, Senator King pointed out, would give the United States a strong strategic advantage in the Caribbean. Any naval warfare in which the United States would become engaged, he said, would center in the Caribbean Sea. Port-au-Prince would be the best spot from which the Panama Canal could be protected, the Senator also said.

Senator King will recommend to the Naval Affairs Committee that it initiate steps without delay to have a treaty promulgated with Haiti, under which the United States maintains a virtual protectorate, giving the United States the right to establish the proposed base.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—An investigation into the causes of friction between whites and blacks in the United States and of the "increasing discontent" among the negroes would be authorized under a bill introduced today by Senator Spencer, Republican, Missouri.

A committee of nine members, three of whom would be negroes, and an annual appropriation of $50,000 is proposed.

Rate Raise Called Need For Upkeep of Railways

Problem of Obtaining Equipment Almost as Grave as That of Getting Funds

Samuel O. Dunn, editor of the "Railway Age," said yesterday at the convention of the National Metal Trades Association in the Hotel Astor that considerable advance in railroad rates would be necessary to make the road self-supporting. The problem of obtaining equipment and materials, he said, was scarcely less grave than that of obtaining funds, as manufacturers were booked up with orders from automobile and other concerns, the equipment of which, he thought, was of less importance than that of the railroads.

Philip C. Molter, superintendent of the committee on industrial education, spoke of the value of training departments in every industrial concern.

Dr. Richard H. Wido, of the New York Inter-racial Council, said that the only way to meet the labor shortage was through immigration.
