

Hoover Chiefs Claim Oregon And California

Club Issues Statement Predicting Astonishing Demonstration in Both States at the Primaries

Taft's Opinion Quoted

Food Administrator Not in Yesterday's Contests at His Personal Request

The Hoover National Republican Club, in a formal statement last night said that the friends of Herbert Hoover had refrained from participating in any of the primary contests yesterday in accordance with Mr. Hoover's expressed wish. Concerning the primaries in California and Oregon, in which Mr. Hoover's name was regularly entered as a candidate, the statement says that from reports received by the club the results there will furnish "an astonishing demonstration" of Mr. Hoover's strength. Arrangements had been made, the statement says, for these contests without consulting Mr. Hoover. The statement in part is as follows:

"Ralph Merritt, who is managing the California campaign from San Francisco, reports that the growth of the Hoover sentiment in that state since the campaign began has far exceeded his most sanguine expectations and that the prospects of a heavy vote for Hoover are excellent. The primary election is to be held next Tuesday, May 4, and so great has been the growth of the Hoover sentiment and others that the opposition is showing signs of alarm.

Taft's Opinion
"A clear indication of this is the argument now being advanced by the many wealthy newspapers which are opposing the Hoover candidacy. They now assert that the whole purpose of the Hoover candidacy is the defeat of one other candidate for the nomination, that those active in behalf of Mr. Hoover know there is no chance of his being nominated. It may be stated emphatically that those who are managing the Hoover campaign confidently expect that he will be nominated, regardless of the outcome of the California primaries and have very good reasons for their expectations.

The reports received by the Hoover National Republican Club regarding California are not based merely on optimism, is clearly shown by the reports of the work of Mr. Hoover and disinterested sources. Former President William Howard Taft is one of those who is informed as to the real situation in California. Writing in "The Philadelphia Public Ledger" on Monday, he said in part:

"The news that comes from California from men familiar with the situation and of political experience there is that Mr. Johnson may be beaten, that indeed the indications favor this, although it is hard for one outside the state to credit."

"And then, after comparing Mr. Hoover's Republicanism with that of his opponent, much to the advantage of Mr. Hoover, Mr. Taft added: 'This is not to say that Mr. Hoover will be nominated, but it is only to say that events are pushing him forward as a serious candidate much more than could have been anticipated.'

"The Portland Oregonian," which has favored the cause of another candidate than Mr. Hoover, made a special trip to California to ascertain exactly what the situation there is. His report, which carries as one headline 'Hoover Now Real Contender in Southern States,' indicates his surprise at what he found. His article disclosed, too, that the Hoover sentiment is not confined to the southern part of California, but that the former Food Administrator is a strong favorite over his opponent in the central part of the state. He also wrote: 'If all the Hoover women turn out and vote on primary day they are going to take Hoover far toward the election of his twenty-four delegates to the Chicago convention.'

The Oregon Outlook
"In Oregon the situation is quite different as to the character of the contest, but very similar as to the tremendous sentiment for the nomination of Mr. Hoover. Remarkable work has been done there in behalf of Mr.

Hoover's candidacy by Chester F. Murphy, who has thoroughly organized the state and who is sanguine as to the outcome of the primaries on May 21. Mr. Murphy went by airplane from Portland to Salem to file the Hoover petition, on which there were three times the number of signatures required.

"Polls taken by 'The Portland Oregonian,' which, it must be remembered, has been supporting another candidate, show the remarkable strength that Hoover has throughout Oregon. The very first of these polls gave Hoover a lead over all other candidates. In the Wilcox Building, in Portland, for instance, Mr. Hoover headed the list, polling more votes than another candidate whose Oregon headquarters are in the building.

"Oregon is a Hoover stronghold, and this will be clearly demonstrated on May 21 when the primaries are held in that state. The strength he will show in California will also demonstrate that the people of that state cannot be misled by silly campaign arguments. But, wholly apart from the situation in these states and the primaries generally, the sentiment throughout the country is such that there can be no question of the Chicago convention dis regarding it."

Jewelers Offer Prizes For Republican Slogans

Awards of $60, $30 and $10 To Be Made by Club for Best Limericks Submitted

In an effort to arouse the interest of the jewelry trade in the coming Presidential election the Jewelers' Republican Club is launching a slogan or limerick contest. Prizes of $60, $30 and $10 will be offered for the three best slogans or limericks submitted. A. K. Sloan, president of the Jewelers' Republican Club, C. D. Hilles, president of the National Republican Club, and T. White, political editor of The New York Tribune, will act as judges in the contest. H. P. Dickinson, associated with the firm of J. F. Newman, is chairman of the slogan committee and will receive all suggestions.

The five rules that govern the contest follow: 1. Only voters may enter and they must send their names and addresses. 2. They must state what party they vote for in the coming Presidential election or what party they will vote for in November, if that will be their first vote. 3. If two suggestions are judged to be equally good the shorter will be given the preference. 4. The committee reserves the right to use any suggestion received, either for publication or otherwise, whether or not a prize has been awarded. 5. The contest will close at midnight May 15, 1920, and only those suggestions which are received or post-marked before or at that time will be considered.

All Trades on Strike At Saragossa, Spain

Labor Unions Act When Radicals Responsible for Bomb Outrages Are Arrested

SARAGOSSA, Spain, April 27.—A general strike has been declared here following the arrest of fifteen members of the local radical committee, who are said to be responsible for recent bomb outrages. Severe precautionary measures have been taken and the streets are being patrolled. The tramways and public vehicles have ceased running, and all the shops are closed. No newspapers are appearing.

The bakers have joined the strike movement and the authorities have called a meeting of the master bakers. Food supplies have been assured by the city officials, but the situation is considered grave. The arrest of some of the trades union delegates is anticipated.

MARSEILLES, April 27.—A general strike of metal workers was called Friday. The employees in the naval buildings are affected.

Poles Capture Two Towns Capital of Podolia Falls; Bolshevik Retreat in Confusion

WARSAW, April 27 (By The Associated Press).—Newspaper dispatches report that the Poles, advancing in Podolia, already have captured Zmerynka, an important railroad point, and Winnica, capital of Podolia. The Bolsheviks are crossing the Bug River at various points, retreating in confusion, the dispatches say.

Women Rebuked For Hissing Name Of Senator Johnson

Sister of the Late President Roosevelt Deplores Division of "Good Vote" Between Wood and Hoover

Women who started to hiss the name of Senator Hiram Johnson were rebuked by Mrs. Douglas Robinson, sister of the late President Roosevelt, at a Leonard Wood meeting at the Hotel Commodore yesterday afternoon. "Do not hiss Hiram Johnson. He was my brother's friend," cried Mrs. Robinson, as the hisses interrupted her speech. "He was very pleasantly known to me, too, once, but I fear that since those days Johnson has gone far on the road toward radicalism.

"The greatest danger facing the Republican party today is that the split in the 'good vote' between Wood and Hoover will result in the nomination of Johnson. I wish that the honest, thoughtful people who are friendly to Mr. Hoover, realizing that this year is not the time for him, and that their insistence on him may put the party in peril, would throw their support to Wood."

"Mr. Hoover is a splendid man, but he is a very young man, and if he will stay in this country long enough now to get re-Americanized, he may be of incalculable service to us later. The present crisis requires a man who has seen America and American problems from the inside for the last fourteen years, not one who has looked upon America from the outside.

"I don't mean that Mr. Hoover is not a true American, but he is like the diplomats my brother used to talk about. It was my brother's hope to reform the diplomatic service so that every young diplomat, after four years' service in a foreign country, would be transferred back to this country for service in a department at Washington before he was again sent to represent us in a foreign land. After four years any man takes on the color of the land in which he resides," my brother used to say, "and any man who represents America must have the color of an American."

"As between Hoover and Johnson the odds are on Johnson, because he has been eight months in the fight for delegates, and he has known all that time that he was a Republican. Mrs. Robinson said a story of General Wood's popularity with the children of an army post where he was once stationed, as she had it from a young woman member of the general's baseball team.

"The general used to tell the little girls to play ball just as hard as their brothers did," she said. "He would say to them: 'Now you girls must play baseball like a boy. If you play it at all, and you must be ready to take a knock in the eye, but after the game is over I want you to go up to the house and take a cup of tea with Mrs. Wood and have her teach you to do plain sewing.'"

Professor John McElroy, of Princeton University; Ward McAllister, and Gilda Yenni were the other speakers. Mrs. John Henry Hammond presided, and many prominent Republican women, as well as the actresses and writers for whom the meeting was called, were in the audience.

Germany Said to Face A Financial Collapse

BERLIN, April 27.—Germany's financial collapse is near, according to a statement made by the National Assembly yesterday by Dr. Wirth, Minister of the Treasury, while presenting the budget for the coming year. The Minister attacked war profiteers, who he declared, "are turning the nation's economic plight to their own advantage."

Pointing to empty benches in the chamber, Dr. Wirth said the real truth of the situation was not adequately realized. He declared the army and navy budgets reached their present dimensions because Germany was maintaining a paid defense force, which former enemies should take into account in demobilizing the old army. This force has cost 20,000,000,000 marks, he asserted, while the government has already expended 3,000,000,000 marks on the maintenance of the occupational armies in the Rhineland and elsewhere. The postal deficit was given as 1,000,000,000 marks, and the shortage required by the administration of state railways was 12,000,000,000.

Sister Unable to Give Evidence to Save Teiper

Can't Remember Circumstances of Murder of Mother and Brother

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 27.—The defense in the second trial of John Edward Teiper, alleged murderer of his mother and brother, closed today with the testimony of his wife, Mrs. Laura Teiper, and his sister Grace J. Teiper. Miss Teiper was severely beaten at the time the other members of the family were murdered, January 30, 1916. At the first trial she said the events of the night of the murder were a blank to her. Surgeons testified that because of injuries to her brain, memory of the hours preceding and following the attack never would return. Teiper once convicted of the crime, maintained if his sister could remember she would confirm his claim a number of the hours preceding and following the attack never would return. "I've tried, but I cannot remember," Miss Teiper said on the stand today.

Mexico Causes Suspicion By Holding Dutch Ship

German Treaty Violation May Be Revealed; Ten Damaged Airplanes Aboard

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Accounts in Mexican newspapers received here of the detention at Vera Cruz of the Dutch steamer Zuiderdyk, while investigation was made of the damage to ten airplanes in her cargo brought from Europe for the Mexican authorities, was noted by officials today in connection with recent suspicion that German war gear might be finding its way into Mexico in defiance of treaty and armistice provisions.

No definite information as to the origin of the shipment was available, however, although it was understood that the inter-Allied military commission of control had taken notice of the Mexican shipments some time ago. The commission has charge of German war material and is supposed to would take prompt steps to prevent any illicit trading in war equipment from that country, it was said.

Detectives Watch for De Valera at Irish Port

Ship's Passengers and Papers Examined at Moville and Londonderry

BELFAST, April 27.—A special force of detectives boarded the Anchor Line steamer Columbia on her arrival at Moville today and minutely inspected the passengers and their passports. It is reported they were searching for Eamon de Valera, "president of the Irish Republic," whom the authorities suspected was on board.

A similar investigation took place at Londonderry. CHICAGO, April 27.—Eamon de Valera, "president of the Irish Republic," left Chicago at 11:30 Monday night for Atlanta.

The report that British authorities were searching Atlantic steamships in Irish ports for Eamon de Valera, "president of the Irish Republic," caused amusement among Irish circles yesterday.

At the offices of the "Irish World," 27 Barclay Street, the following telegram was received from Chicago last night: "Dinner honor of De Valera Congress Hotel, Chicago, Monday, April 26. Five hundred representative Chicago business men, Speakers, Kinneid, Robert Morse Lovette, dean of University of Chicago; Mayor of Chicago.

"Resolutions demanding President United States recognize McCarty as ambassador of Irish Republic adopted unanimously. Graphic report of proceedings and speeches will reach you by mail."

Union Votes to Boycott Overall Move Backers

MARYSVILLE, Cal., April 27.—Members of the Marysville Carpenters' Union, it was announced today, voted to boycott businessmen who urge or permit their employees to participate in the movement to wear overalls as a means of reducing clothing costs. The action was taken, it was said, because the "movement tends to increase prices of overalls and makes their purchase prohibitive for mechanics and artisans."

Hyphen Vote Organized to Turn Election

Country in the Interests of the New Organization

Mr. Yiereck is here given in part: "Without one exception the men (German-American voters) interviewed demand a revision of the dishonorable Versailles treaty. They believe, however, that this will follow as the natural consequence of a reestablished America. No double-tongued orator or laudator could get their individual votes, however Wilsonian, and alluring his promises might be. There is much sympathy with the Irish people and belief that a reestablished America will use its good offices in the interest of that oppressed people.

United Vote Advocated
"The urge to unite with all the other men and women of German blood in one great political organization for concerted action is so universal that local rivalries, personal dislikes and political indifference which heretofore have prevented such organizations, will melt like snow before the sun as soon as organization under proper leadership appears. By proper leadership I mean one which will have one aim; viz, the crystallization of the wishes of the men and women of German blood to the end that they may become fulfilled by the casting of a united vote."

After declaring it "vain to deny the existence of a German element in America conscious of its German blood and determined to proclaim its pride at whatever cost, Mr. Von Mach declares that the consensus of German opinion is that though Anglo-Americans have slandered and hounded United States citizens of German birth, they now, facing economic problems which they alone cannot solve, are ready to put us on the back and praise us as law abiding."

The German-Americans are not ready to fall into that trap, Von Mach declares. At the New York headquarters it was said yesterday that the German-American vote holds the balance of power in the coming November elections, being at least 20 per cent of the total registered vote. One appeal for this support is the holding of the balance of power in the May number of "The American Monthly," as follows:

"Americans of German Extraction: You are urged to hold the balance of power in the coming November elections, being at least 20 per cent of the total registered vote. One appeal for this support is the holding of the balance of power in the May number of "The American Monthly," as follows:

Only 7 Yale Seniors Back Wilson's Rule

Class Favors Dickens, Browning, John Barrymore, Elsie Ferguson and The Tribune

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 27.—There is a record scarcity of Democrats at Yale, according to the annual all-round ballot of the senior class, as announced today by "The Yale Daily News."

The political affiliation column shows only seven supporters of the Administration against 131 avowed Republicans. The rest voted for independence. Charles Dickens was voted the most popular novelist, Browning the favorite poet and Tennessee Crossin the "Bar" favorite poem.

Elsie Ferguson polled the biggest vote as the popular actress and John Barrymore as the most popular man.

Allen Urges U. S. to Try Industrial Court

Kansas Governor Suggests Federal Government Adopt His Plan of Settling Labor Disputes

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Adoption by the Federal government of some plan similar to that in use in Kansas for the adjustment of labor disputes was urged to-night by Governor Henry J. Allen of that state, a candidate for the Presidency, in an address at the National Press Club. He described the court as the result of the public awakening to a realization that it need not be made the victim of disputes between labor and capital.

Referring to a prediction of Samuel Gompers that the labor element of Kansas might not strike but would filter gradually out of the State, Governor Allen declared that a similar measure had been presented to eleven State legislatures and had been written already into the constitution of Nebraska.
