

Cox Declares His Party Poor As Job's Turkey

Compares Democratic Fund With 15 Millions Which He Says Opponents Have Fixed As Their Low Mark

League Arguments Given

Wants Reason to Replace Force in the Adjustment of Industrial Disputes

CANTON, Ohio, Aug. 21.—Labor problems, the League of Nations and Republican campaign contributions were discussed by Governor Cox in an address here to-night, and also at an afternoon meeting at Orrville, Ohio.

Settlement of industrial controversies by force of public opinion, instead of the bayonet, while order is maintained and neither side to a controversy aided by the government, was urged by the candidate here. The labor issue was emphasized in this industrial community in which Governor Cox figured during the steel strike last fall for refusing to send troops, and also by removing a Democratic Mayor.

"Large interests are contributing to the Republican campaign fund," Governor Cox declared, "because they want to buy an administration under which soldiers and the bayonet will be used to settle difficulties."

That $15,000,000 will be the "low mark" of the Republican campaign fund, while the Democrats will be as "poor as Job's turkey," was asserted by Governor Cox, who said that his campaign fund charge had not been denied. He challenged denial and promised to present evidence of his charges.

Denounces Separate Peace
On the league issue Governor Cox declared that "there cannot be an economical readjustment in America until things are tied together in other parts of the world." He reiterated arguments that America should enter the league to "keep faith with American soldiers and the Allies. He denounced a separate peace with Germany as "bad faith, base dishonor and desertion of the Allies."

Reply also was made by Governor Cox in his Orrville speech to a street crowd from an automobile truck, to the address of Senator Harding, in which Mr. Harding defended the Senate. Governor Cox said Mr. Harding failed to distinguish between the Senate as an institution and the group of Republican Senators, who, the Democratic nominee said, had "formed a domineering, arrogant oligarchy" which was trying "to annex the Presidency."

In discussing the labor question the Governor declared that the government "must preserve persons and protect property."

"It must maintain law and order," he said, "being careful that neither the force of government, nor the advantage of its favor."

Wants Reason to Replace Force
"Both labor and capital should understand that force must surrender its place in calm reason. The future of the country depends on it, in fact, and the future of the world as well."

Industrial controversies are merely human affairs. Experience tells us that the bitterness which ordinarily is engendered grows out of two circumstances. First, the belief that a sharp bargain is being sought either through attempted oppression or the favoring conditions of financial strength. Second, is the attempt, which is too often successful, to bring into the dispute the force of government, not for the purpose of maintaining order, but to bring an end to the strike.

"There is no symptom of present tendencies more dangerous than the eagerness of some industrial captains to entrench themselves in the favor and gratitude of public officers, with the very definite idea that force can be invoked if occasion arises, to compel settlements. Such a policy is the mere manufacturing plan of Bolshevism."

Governor Cox emphasized the fact that during his six years as Governor no soldier's bullet had been fired in an industrial dispute.

Turning to the Republican campaign fund, the nominee said that it "apparently" that those who believe in force are represented in the list of contributors.

"Camp followers are gathering by hundreds," the Governor declared. "Whole armies of them are being massed in pivotal states, where the slush fund will make the Mark Hanna days suffer by comparison. Many organizations are being formed, the war, doubtless, certainly allegedly, for patriotic purposes, are being taken over, in so far as the officers are able to do so."

Promise on Sending Troops Abroad
The Governor made a definite pledge that if elected he would not send American soldiers overseas "unless directed by your representatives in Congress."

The Governor added that the question of good faith in observing the treaty might be raised. He said he would meet this argument by declaring: "It matters not in what good faith a treaty is made. No treaty can change the Constitution."

Decries Charges of Cox

BOSTON, Aug. 21.—William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Company, issued a statement to-day regarding the announcement that Governor Cox of Ohio was to investigate the laying off of workmen by various large corporations, including the American Woolen Company. Mr. Wood said: "For Governor Cox or anyone else to say that the mills of the American Woolen Company were shut down for any other reason than for want of orders is too ridiculous to pay any attention to."

A dispatch from Columbus, Ohio, yesterday said the proposed investigation by the Governor was based on alleged information that Republican leaders were planning to use unemployment as an argument in persuading workmen to vote against the Democratic ticket.

Cox Charges Amplified

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 21.—Whether for serious reasons or merely to hold the first position in the news, the Democratic State Committee launched two charges against the Republicans to-day in the Presidential campaign. The first is a repetition of the accusations of Governor James M. Cox, that the Republicans are collecting an enormous campaign fund in the state.

The newest evidence at hand is the admissions of Republican candidates for Governor that they spent upward of $100,000 to gain the nomination. It is alleged that the nomination was "placed on the auction block."

The second charge is that the Republicans are importing large numbers of negroes from the South and that many are being colonized here.

The accusation is treated with derision by the Republicans, who say that it is like the campaign of 1916, when similar charges by the Democrats were given wide publicity.

Traveling Men Will Organize To Oppose Cox

Salesmen of Country Resent Attacks by Democratic Candidate; Plan to Form Harding-Coolidge Clubs

600,000 Eligible in U. S.

Newspapers Owned by Ohio's Governor Called Them Parasites and Nuisances

The Republican National Committee yesterday announced plans for the organization of Harding and Coolidge clubs among the country's 600,000 traveling men. Simultaneously the traveling men made public an excerpt from Governor Cox's newspapers, The Dayton Daily News and The Springfield Daily News, in which traveling men and salesmen were attacked as nuisances.

Governor Cox, who is scheduled to speak at the Police Field Day celebration here next Saturday, will be asked what he meant, or what his papers meant, when they attacked the traveling salesmen. The Cox papers attack appeared on August 15, 1914, in both papers, and was as follows:

"The art of salesmanship is a good deal of a nuisance to the public. It has come to the point where every business of any magnitude must employ a purchasing agent. If there is no purchasing agent somebody else must submit to innumerable interruptions of salesmen, who are unmitigated bores. If a man would exercise the first impulse of his heart he would kick them out of his office if they did not take the hint first. That the salesman escapes with a whole skin in every instance speaks volumes for the good nature of the long suffering business man."

The Traveling Men's Bureau of the Republican National Committee has been completely organized. The active management of the bureau will be under the direction of George W. Bean and Walter J. Fahy. General Coleman du Pont is the chairman of the bureau, but Messrs. Bean and Fahy will carry on the work under his direction and will organize Traveling Men's Harding and Coolidge clubs all over the United States.

"There are about 600,000 traveling men in this country," said Mr. Bean, "and all of them, regardless of party affiliation, resent the editorial by Governor Cox in which he referred to traveling men as 'parasites, public nuisances and unmitigated bores.'"

Senator Harding in one of his front porch speeches referred to traveling men as the ambassadors of business.

Mr. Bean, who is the Republican national committeeman from Florida, and himself a traveling man for a number of years, believes that the traveling men will line up almost solidly for Harding and Coolidge.

Mr. Fahy, who will be associated with Mr. Bean, is also one of the clan. He also has had wide experience in newspaper work and political organizations.

Mr. Bean said that through the organization of traveling men in the various states this bureau would be working in full blast within two weeks. Headquarters will be with the Republican National Committee, at 19 West Forty-fourth Street, New York, but representatives of the bureau will be located at Chicago and other centers.

James G. Blaine, Jr., Eastern treasurer of the Republican Campaign Committee, announced to-day that means of raising campaign funds would be considered at a meeting here next Wednesday of the chairman and vice-chairmen of ways and means committees of the states in the Eastern campaign division. He said that Mrs. John T. Pratt, vice-chairman of the National Ways and Means Committee, will direct the collection of the quota to be raised from contributions of women.

The Republican National Committee yesterday formally took notice of published intimations that "multi-millionaire captains of finance and business" thought they were contributing to the Harding-Coolidge campaign fund when they gave $1,000 or more to aid publication of a book entitled "Republicanism of 1920." This book, written by William Barnes, former chairman of the Republican State Committee, is being prepared for publication by the Albany Journal Company.

The National Committee issued a statement declaring it "has no connection with the book under preparation by the Albany Journal Company or any other similar book."

"Inquiries," the statement continued, "have been made from time to time of the National Committee by persons asked to subscribe to the book as to whether or not the National Committee was financially interested in it. The answer to them has been 'No.'"

Roosevelt Makes Appeal to 'Head and Heart, Not Stomach'
ABERDEEN, Wash., Aug. 21.—"Time is past when Americans are more concerned with the stomach than with the head and heart," said Franklin D. Roosevelt in declaring here to-day that the Democrats never would revert to such a slogan as served the Republicans so faithfully—"the full dinner pail."

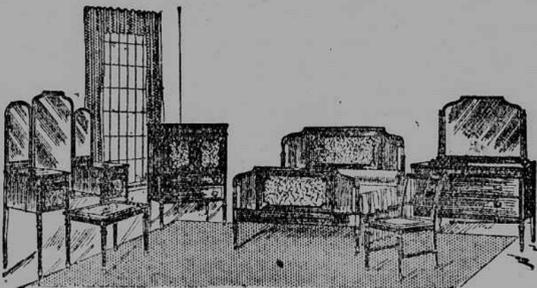

Mr. Roosevelt delivered four addresses in this county before noon today and had eight more on his program.
