The charges are based on a financial arrangement between the Anglo-South American Bank, Ltd., of New York, and the Great Western Hide Company, which has since become involved in bankruptcy proceedings.

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 13.—Thomas E. Wilson, of Chicago, president of the Institute of American Meat Packers, made public the record of sales and profits of eighty-one of the principal American corporations to-day at the convention of the institute here.

The annual sales recorded aggregated about $925,000,000 and their annual net profits nearly $600,000,000, of which Mr. Wilson says the packers' share was a little more than $34,000,000.

None of the members of the "Big Five" in the packing industry got as much as a cent and a half profit on each dollar of its sales in 1919, he declared.

"For purposes of comparison the institute has recently compiled figures from the eighty-one of the leading corporations of the country, both on each dollar of sales and on invested capital.

The combined business of the five packers, which received nearly $1,000,000,000 in sales in 1919, handled about three and one-half billion dollars' worth of business during the year, which netted nearly six hundred millions of dollars in profits.

"Of the other seventy-six corporations that received 30 cents or more on each dollar of goods sold, we received 20 cents or more; eighteen received 15 cents, thirty-seven received 10 cents, only twelve received less than 10 cents, and at least 100 received less than 3 cents, and at least 100 received less than 1 cent."

Returns on Capital Low "The five packers had about $575,000,000 in capital. The average profit of the packers was 5.65 cents per dollar.

Witnesses Testify That Prisoner and Wife Who Lost Life While Canoeing With Him Lived Unpleasantly

She Threatened Divorce Ex-Husband of Heiress Tells of Identifying Body; New Inquiry On To-day

From THE TRIBUNE'S Washington Bureau WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—A coroner's jury to-day exonerated Roy Harper Kuehling of blame in the drowning of his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Viger Kuehling, heiress of a million dollar estate in Detroit, who lost her life last Wednesday night when a canoe paddled by her husband capsized in the Potomac River.

Kuehling will be taken before the grand jury to-morrow morning. A number of witnesses have been summoned and detectives who have been working on the case will present testimony purporting to show the unpleasant relations that existed between the Kuehlings a short time before the river tragedy.

Victim's Sister Testifies The principal witnesses at the inquest were Mrs. Felicia Ryan, of 110 Holbrook Avenue, sister-in-law of Mrs. Kuehling; Howard B. Osgood, also of Detroit, and Mrs. Kuehling's divorced husband, Miss Lulu K. Cameron, of New York.

Mr. Ryan testified that shortly after Kuehling's marriage to her sister she was called on the telephone by Mrs. Kuehling, who said she had run away from her husband and had sought refuge in a downtown hotel in Detroit.

Campbell Carrington, Kuehling's attorney, objected to all testimony purporting to show that the married life of Mrs. Kuehling was unhappy. His objections, however, were overruled by Deputy Coroner Carr and much of the inquiry was into the affairs of Mr. and Mrs. Kuehling.

Howard Osgood, first husband of Mrs. Kuehling, testified that he had identified the body of Mrs. Kuehling, which was recovered yesterday by a riverman.
