

Anti-Dumping Bill Approved By Harding

President Also Favors Immediate Legislation Fixing U. S. Price of Imports as Ad Valorem Basis

Question of Precedence in Tariff or Tax Revision Open to Later Conferences

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Approval was given by President Harding to-day of the proposal to make anti-dumping and American valuation of imports measures the first fiscal legislation to be enacted at the special session of Congress, called to meet April 11.

The President, meeting with Chairman Denrose and Fordney of the Senate Finance Committee and the House Ways and Means Committee respectively, agreed to the decisions reached at yesterday's conferences of Republican members of the two committees and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

The question of whether priority should be given tariff revision or internal tax revision measures was still undecided. Senator Denrose and Representative Fordney said, after their call on the President, Mr. Harding discussed the matter with them, they said.

Further Conferences Planned

Other members of the two committees, the chairman said, probably will be called into conference with the President, with the idea of reaching an agreement acceptable to all.

The agreement with the President, reached at yesterday's conference that the anti-dumping and the American valuation of imports legislation be passed through as soon as possible after Congress convenes, the two chairmen said.

Anti-dumping legislation, as proposed at yesterday's conference, would be designed through a special tax to protect American manufacturers from competition with imports selling below the cost of American production.

Harding Hears Both Sides

The committee chairman in discussing priority of tax or tariff revision were understood to have laid before the President the views of the majority of the two committees that tariff legislation should have precedence, with tax revision closely following. The views of those who believe that tax revision should precede any changes in the tariff also were understood to have been presented.

The President hurried back to the White House from a game of golf to meet the two chairmen and immediately went on to confer with them, wearing his golf clothes. The conference lasted about three-quarters of an hour.

Zayas Leads in Cuban Vote

Incomplete Returns Indicate His Election as President

HAVANA, March 15.—Incomplete official returns received up to 11 o'clock to-night seemed to indicate that Dr. Alfredo Zayas had been elected President of the Republic of Cuba.

The returns tended to show that Dr. Zayas had made a clean sweep of Santa Clara, Matanzas, Pinar del Rio and supporting provinces, where the Liberals supporting General Jose Miguel Gomez had obeyed the resolution passed by the executive committee of the Liberal Democratic party and abstained from voting.

Wife Says C. D. Sire Tucked a Woman Guest Into Bed

Club Member and Worker in Politics, Charges Husband Interfered With Career

Mrs. Lillian R. Sire, president of the Women's Democratic Political League and president of the Society for the Aid of Mental Defectives, filed suit yesterday against Clarence D. Sire. She asked for alimony of $4,800 a year.

Mrs. Sire complained that her husband, who was married in 1910, was a great obstacle to her in her political activities, and that since 1912 he "has attempted not only to say where the plaintiff should go during the daytime, but also as to where she might go at night, how long she might stay and what she might do while out."

Mrs. Sire added that, although Mr. Sire "has harassed and annoyed her so as to impair the state of plaintiff's health and shatter her nervous system," he would not permit her to discontinue her club and society connections, which she offered to do.

"This plaintiff," said Mrs. Sire, "not only has the usual social life of women of her standing in the community, but for some years has been actively interested in politics and also for many years has been greatly interested in mental defectives. Naturally, these two branches of activity have made some demands upon the time of the plaintiff."

Britain to Sign England Sees Russian Trade Treaty To-day

Months of Stormy Negotiation Said to Have Culminated in Agreement on Conditions of Resumption

Propaganda Is Prohibited

England Agrees Not to Aid Pretenders to Control of Muscovite Government

From The Tribune's European Bureau. Copyright, 1921, New York Tribune Inc. LONDON, March 15.—After many months of complicated negotiations the Anglo-Russian trade agreement probably will be signed to-morrow. Several times heretofore the agreement has been at the point of consummation, but last-minute stipulations by one side or the other always have held up matters.

The essential points of this document were summarized in a public announcement several months ago. Briefly it provides for an interchange of commodities through official trade agents stationed in both Great Britain and Russia. The most recent discussions of its terms have centered on financial trade, and, particularly, mutual guarantees to abstain from propaganda.

The whole process of evolution in the agreement has been marked by recriminations on both sides. Leo Krasin, one of the Russian envoys who had a part in the preliminary work on it, was compelled to leave Great Britain because he engaged in propaganda for the Red government, and the Red officials also were accused of misfortune of the Moscow administration apparently affected the negotiations.

When the Moscow government on December 30 last year recalled Leonid Krassin, the Soviet trade emissary here, the breakdown of all discussions looking toward an agreement was generally reported to have been involved. However, a London dispatch to The Tribune on that date said, and that Krassin was going home merely for consultation on certain points in the preamble.

The amendments which Krassin has been pressing since he returned to London a few weeks ago fall into three classes: First, a list of border states around both countries in which there is said to be no hostile propaganda; second, the demand that Great Britain withhold support from pretenders to the government of Russia; and, third, a reservation by which the agreement is rendered void if Russian gold is attached by a third party, under British law.

Whitney Urges Transit Bill

Asks Why Hyman Is Silent on Ryan's Traction Interests

Travis H. Whitney, formerly Public Service Commissioner, who spoke for Governor Miller's traction bill at the Broadway Tabernacle Forum, Fifty-sixth Street and Broadway, last night, suggested that the reason Mayor Hyman had never mentioned the name of Thomas F. Ryan when speaking about traction manipulation was that Ryan's son was one of the millionaire police deputies.

Harding's Thanksgiving Turkey Is Picked Out

WASHINGTON, March 15.—President Harding's Thanksgiving turkey has been selected and is being nurtured to grace the White House table next November. H. W. Mason, a planter, of Crystal Springs, Miss., informed Mr. Harding in a letter received to-day. It is his ambition, Mr. Mason wrote, to furnish for the occasion a gobble scientifically raised and thereby prove that Mississippi can produce as good turkeys as can be grown anywhere.

Newton to Hold Port Job Until Term Expires

Appointment of Aldridge as Collector To Be Held Up Until September; Harding Opposes Spoils Politics

By Carter Field. WASHINGTON, March 15.—President Harding has decided not to remove Byron R. Newton, Collector of the Port of New York, until the expiration of his term next September. At that time the President will send to the Senate the nomination of George W. Aldridge, of Rochester, Mr. Aldridge has signified his willingness to accept the place. Indorsement for the appointment was offered jointly to the Rochester leader by Senators Calder and Wadsworth and by National Committeeman Charles D. Hillis.

Hint Given President Will Not Be Hasty in Shaking the New York Plum Tree

Mr. Harding is understood to believe that Collector Newton has been an efficient and generally excellent official, and that there is no good excuse, save politics, for removing him prior to the expiration of his term. There is no doubt, however, that the decision in the Newton case, which came as a surprise to the politicians here to-day, is typical, and that the rule of refusing to remove men from office before their terms expire will be adhered to by Mr. Harding on virtually all appointments which have definite terms.

THE COLOR SCHEME

A member of the staff of the New York Teachers College has said, in effect:

"Cooks should be culinary colorists, for harmonious colors contribute character to a meal."

If this be so, what a perfect repast are CHILDS griddle cakes with syrup and coffee!

For theirs is a color effect that Whistler might have called a symphony in brown.
