Dr. Angell Asks Sound Finances For Education

New President of Yale Tells the Women of the National Civic Federation More Money Is Needed

Better Teachers Urged Ogden L. Mills Declares That Schools and Politics Must Be Divorced

Dr. James R. Angell, the new president of Yale University, delivered his first public address in New York City before the Women's Branch of the National Civic Federation at Delmonico's yesterday.

He suggested to the women that they use their influence in obtaining a scientific survey of the financial needs of the American public schools and in establishing taxation measures necessary to put the schools on a sound financial basis.

"Our education bill in the United States has about doubled in the last five years," he said, "but even so it has not begun to meet the needs of the school systems. Some cities, as you well know here in New York, are going toward bankruptcy because they cannot pay their school bills. The reason for this is that we have never made a real study of their needs or of the provisions for meeting these requirements. We do not know how much our schools cost or how to get the money to meet that cost."

Better Teachers Needed Better teachers and better training for teachers is the second great need of the educational system of the country, Dr. Angell said.

"You can't go out and buy good teachers," he said. "Unless a public opinion is created that will recognize adequately the economic, social and professional position of teachers, those that we need most will not be brought into the profession. Ninety per cent of the young women who do go into teaching use it as a sort of lunch station half way between adolescence and matrimony."

Representative Ogden L. Mills outlined the objects of the National Civic Federation, with particular emphasis on its educational program.

"Politics and schools must be divorced," he said. "To make school boards elective would seem necessary to thrust them into politics, while our experience here in New York City demonstrates that with a bad mayor the appointive system likewise is a failure."

Proceeding the luncheon the annual meeting and election of officers was held at the home of Mrs. Francis McNeil Bacon. All the officers were re-elected.

The Officers Mrs. Francis McNeil Bacon, chairman; Mrs. Coffin Van Rensselaer, first vice-chairman; Mrs. Cass Gilbert, second vice-chairman; Mrs. Simon Guggenheim, third vice-chairman; Mrs. Charles F. Meyer, fourth vice-chairman; Mrs. William Rand, treasurer; Mrs. Edward Richmond Tinker, secretary; Miss Olive Wade, executive secretary.

Among the guests at the luncheon were Mrs. H. D. Auchincloss, Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. Cleveland Dodge, Mrs. Commissioner of Correction Dr. Katharine B. Davis, Mrs. Marcus M. Marks, Mrs. Anne Morgan, Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., Mrs. John D. Stetson, Mrs. Leopold Stern, Mrs. E. R. Stebbins, Mrs. Henry A. Stimson and Mrs. Beekman Winthrop.

Contest Foreseen Over New Director of Mint Harding's Choice Said To Be Sobey, His Texas Host, Baker Would Retain Post

WASHINGTON, March 16.—A controversy over who is to be Director of the Mint was forecast here to-day when it was reported that President Harding had selected Fred E. Sobey, of San Antonio, Tex., for the post. With this report came a statement from Raymond T. Baker, present director, that he had not resigned and did not intend to resign for a term continuing to March 22, 1922. Mr. Sobey was Mr. Harding's host at Point Isabel, Tex., last winter.

Edward C. Finney, of Kansas, a member of the Board of Appeals of the Department of the Interior, was recommended by Senator Fall, of New Mexico, to President Harding to-day for First Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

The appointment of Guy D. Goff, of Milwaukee, as Assistant Attorney General was urged on the President by Attorney General Daugherty.

President Harding is believed to have settled definitely on former Governor William S. Spry of Utah to be Commissioner of the General Land Office at Washington. It is authoritatively stated also that R. C. Taylor, of Idaho, will be assistant commissioner.

Prominent among those mentioned for the post of Commissioner of Pensions is Colonel Washington Gardner, of Albion, Mich., who served six terms in the House of Representatives. He is a former commander of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Colonel Gardner's appointment as head of the Pension Bureau would be especially pleasing to Dr. Harding, the President's father. They are old comrades and intimate friends.

New Bud on White Amaryllis Named For Mrs. Harding

Bloom on Famous Plant Is Event of Flower Exhibit; Thousands of Carnations Are in Special Showing

A new bud appeared on the famous and only white amaryllis in existence, which has been named in honor of Mrs. Warren G. Harding. Experts at the Flower Show were being employed yesterday to force it to bloom before the show closes on Saturday night.

The cool temperature and the dry air of the Grand Central Palace are said to have been too exhausting for the frail constitution of the original blossom, and they have withered, so that the plant has been withdrawn from its conspicuous position. It is now taking a rest cure in a bed of white hyacinths, but can be seen by peering at the side.

Another novelty for the third day of the show was a Belgian orchid, which was cut on February 5 and shipped in moss. It was as fresh and dainty as any of its rivals which came from the Netherlands. The drive will continue until March 28.

Women Teachers Protest Against Duggan Bills Interborough Association Opposes Proposals to Create Trial and Appeal Boards

The Interborough Association of Women Teachers, at its monthly meeting in the rooms of the County Lawyers' Association, 165 Broadway, yesterday, went on record against the passage of the three educational bills introduced by Senator William Duggan.

The bills also provide that the salaries of the teachers should be increased automatically until the maximum is reached, and that an "examiner appeal board" to which teachers could appeal from the decisions of the Board of Examiners be created. This appeal board would be composed of teachers and supervisory officials.

The association also adopted a motion expressing approval of the Bill introduced by Assemblyman Benjamin Antin giving the State Commissioner of Education power to deprive any teacher of his or her license who is believed to be teaching radical principles. The motion, however, suggests that the bill be amended to provide a hearing for an accused teacher before dismissal.

450 Oriental Rugs Offered Soultanoff Specimens of Varying Sizes and Many Types

The American Art Association will place on sale this afternoon the large collection of Oriental rugs and carpets 450 in number, owned by Ali Ashraf Soultanoff, of Constantinople. The rugs to be sold are of many sizes and many types, representing a collection from more than two thousand specimens comprising the Soultanoff collection. All the examples were shown the last week at the Twenty-third Street galleries for the first time in this country. They are in sizes varying from the small prayer rug to carpets many feet in proportion.

The following types are found in the collection: Shiraz, Kazak, Buzurg, Royal Bokhara, Dagestan, Sarkak, Geughis, Peraghan, Karabagh, Senna, Cabisan, Kermanshah, Kurdistan, Khossan, Suraband and others.
