PUTNAM BOOKS AND AUTHORS

Why will mortals—and particularly progressive Americans—spend so much pains and time at the garage, with the tailor, and yet so little on the proper habiliments of the mind?

Diverse are the fish that come to the publisher's net and the reviewer's eye. On Friday, this itchy sacred day, we reeled in two of varying species and weight. The first was by an essayist of quaint name, Bernard Muddiman—but the name doesn't matter, for he is distinctly his style, and has vividly resurrected that strange, disturbing but brilliant school of writers, artists, and aesthetes who ruled the art world at the end of the Victorian period.

The Second Is a Useful Catch

Putnam's Minute-a-Day English Edwin H. Carr, its editor, has arranged his captions thus: "Choose new words for your vocabulary."

"Words relating to the appearance of persons." "Words relating to demeanor." "Words relating to appearance of things." "The quality of things."

A bit optimistic, perhaps, is the title, but nevertheless this amazing little book is a survivor's instrument with a thousand slants. It would profit the average man to look through it.

ARE YOU INTELLIGENT?

Margaret Santer says: "Radiant Motherhood should be read by every intelligent American woman—and man."

Radiant Motherhood is a stimulating, vastly valuable book for mothers and fathers, dealing wholesomely with the fundamental facts of marriage and maternity. ($2.50.)

Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch, J. D. Beresford and Mrs. Belloc Lowndes are excellent novelists and critics. They have awarded the famous Collins prize, after puzzling over myriads of manuscripts, to C. Vehegne for her novel,

"THE JOURNAL OF HENRY BULVER"

Bulver, the hero, has enough of the villain in his make-up to make him the more engaging. In some ways he is built on the lines of the hero of "The Moon and Sixpence."

The brilliant John Farrar, who has used a razor less than any other editor of the day, not from lack of fastidiousness but for reasons of youth, is the newly appointed editor of "The Bookman."

"THE BIG YEAR," that attractive story of youth and that by Meade Miningerode, on his "Summer Five-Foot Book Shelf."

Appropriate is the dedication of AMERICAN BUSINESS METHODS by Floyd W. Parsons, "to My Friend, George Horace Lorimer." It contains much that is of practical, workable value to the American business man, particularly in these none too prosperous times.

Do YOU Like Routine Book Advertising Better? Among F. P. A.'s outstanding characteristics is his frankness. "My column," he told us the other day, "is rotten."

Does it? "Of course we're rotten," our contributors! Our humble publisher is interested folk in books. He was, frankly, to sell 'em. Is he? Does it?

Mr. Farmer has donated two antique Chinese lamps, which will be given as the first and second prizes for the best Chinese costume at the ball.

One of the features of the supper entertainment will be the reproduction of a Chinese wedding, with prominent members of society taking part. Imperial Honors To Mark Funeral Of Former Kaiserin

Potsdam Flies Flags of Old Regime; Interment Will Be in Tomb Frederick the Great Built for Himself

POTSDAM, Germany, April 15 (By The Associated Press).—Flags of the old empire are flying at half-mast along the streets of Potsdam to-day and mourning bands are evident on all sides. The shop windows are displaying portraits of former Emperor Augustus Victoria draped in black, and flowers pieces bearing her insignia.

Hundreds of individuals and societies are honoring the memory of the former Empress, who will be buried on Tuesday next with imperial honors in the Antique Temple adjoining the New Palace in Sans Souci Park, where she died virtually all her married life.

Hundreds of persons formerly prominent already are arriving in Potsdam, which stands as an imperial oasis in republican Germany. The former Lord Chamberlain of the Court, Count August von Eulenburg, has requisitioned all the hotels for the funeral process.

The funeral arrangements are progressing under virtually the same machinery as would have functioned were the empire still intact.

Station Transformed Into Chapel. Hundreds of workmen are converting the old imperial station at Wildpark into an embowered chapel, in which the family and immediate friends of the late Empress will receive the body and attend private services before the procession starts through the tree-lined lane leading immediately past the New Palace to the Temple, which will be flanked by the former royal aide-de-camp and followed by Knights of the Order of the Black Eagle, who will act as pallbearers, the princes and princesses and other members of the former Empress's suite.

Choir to Sing in Temple. On arriving at the temple the famous choir from the Cathedral in Dom will sing "I Know My Saviour Lives." Then Dr. Ernst von Dryander, the former chaplain, will offer prayer after which the choir will sing "Jesus Is My Trust" and "A Day of Rest Has Come."

As soon as the services have been finished former Crown Princess Cecily will receive those attending the funeral in her castle, Cecilienhof.

DOORN, Holland, April 15.—Many friends of former Emperor William and additional members of his family arrived in Doorn to-day to accompany the body of the former German Empress to Potsdam.

PARIS, April 15.—Elizabeth, daughter of Mrs. C. Henry Ridgway, of this city, and Count Jacques de Breteuil, son of the Marquis de Breteuil, who was formerly Miss Lita Garner, were married at the Church of St. Pierre Chaillot yesterday. The witnesses for the bride were her uncles, Marquis Ganay and George Munroe, of New York City. Those for the groom were his brother and Count Leon de Moltke-Hvitfeldt, his uncle.

The engagement of Miss Ridgway and the Count de Breteuil was announced February 27. The bride's mother was Miss Ellen Munroe, sister of John Munroe, New York banker. Mr. Ridgway married her in Paris in 1891. Among the guests at the wedding were the father and mother of Count de Breteuil.

The count's mother was one of three young daughters orphaned in 1876, when their parents, Commodore Gardner of the New York Yacht Club and Mrs. Gardner were drowned off Staten Island when their 150-foot sloop Mohawk overturned in a storm.
