Text of the American Note Accepting Seat in Council

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Following is the text of the American government's note, as handed to the British Ambassador, accepting the Allied invitation to name representatives to the Supreme Council, Council of Ambassadors and Reparations Commission:

"The government of the United States has received through the British Ambassador the courteous communication in which you state that, with the unanimous concurrence of the powers represented at the Allied conference in London, you are to inquire whether this government is disposed to be represented in the future, as it was in the past, at the Allied conferences, at the conferences of ambassadors in Paris and on the Reparations Commission.

"The government of the United States, while maintaining the traditional policy of abstention from participation in matters of distinctly European concern, is deeply interested in the proper economic adjustments and in the just settlement of the matters of world wide importance which are under discussion in the conferences and desires helpfully to cooperate in the deliberation upon these questions.

"Mr. George Harvey, appointed Ambassador to Great Britain, will be instructed on his arrival in England, to take part as the representative of the President of the United States in the deliberations of the Supreme Council. The American Ambassador to France will be instructed to resume his place as unofficial observer on the conference of ambassadors, and Mr. Roland W. Boyden will be instructed to sit again in an unofficial capacity on the Reparations Commission.

"The government of the United States notes with pleasure your expression of the belief of the representatives of the Allied governments assembled in London that American cooperation in the settlement of the great international questions growing out of the World War will be of material assistance."

Adler Named Vice-Chairman

Assemblyman Adler was elected vice-chairman of the Graft Board yesterday. The committee named Charles R. Hoiting as its sergeant-at-arms, with Harry W. Haines, the Assembly sergeant-at-arms, as assistant. The Senate and Assembly members named John Marshall and George Munson, were named stenographers to the committee. Senator Meyer was authorized to engage offices for the use of the committee and hire clerical help that will enable the committee to get its work under way without appreciable delay. In his statement to the committee Senator Brown said:

"Every committee that comes to the City of New York comes here with a feeling of the people of the city as to the motives that control the committee. That arises from a variety of causes. Sometimes committees come to the City of New York that have not commended themselves to the city or the Legislature. Not very often, but once in a while. And when anything of that kind happens it sticks in the memory of the people.

"At the next place New York City is intensely political, and there is always a feeling on the part of the people who desire to make new items and on the part of newspapers that it is a party of ambitious politicians and directed to the accomplishment of temporary political ends.

"So far as my work is concerned I shall strive to do an impartial and direct as to the activities of this committee for the purpose of accomplishing the highest good.

"It is a great cause and a great interest and a great emergency in many ways and if there is anything that is a failure in American government it is a municipal government on a large scale. These unsatisfactory results in New York City are constantly recurring. There is no man on this committee so young but knows it has happened time and again in his experience that conditions have reached a point in New York City where it was unsatisfactory to the city itself.

Place Hope in Future

"No one in Germany can admit that the new demands of the Entente are history's last word. The issue is to find a way to a reasonable understanding in the future.

George Bernhart, writing along similar lines in the Vossische Zeitung, says:

"It is a foregone conclusion that the present coalition can do nothing except agree to the Entente's demands. They are essential. The new Cabinet must realize that the Allied demands are not negotiable and must perform their duty in the circumstances of the program. The realization of the necessity of accepting the Allied demands does not, however, exclude the advisability of making an effort to obtain mitigation of the conditions before the expiration of the ultimatum's time limit."

After a day of conferences between President Ebert and leaders of the different political parties the indications to-night are that the Chancellor and the Foreign Minister in the new Cabinet will be drawn from the German People's and the Centrist parties. Although the assumption of the Chancellorship of the Foreign portfolio by Dr. Gustav Stresemann, therefore, would be regarded as fantastic in other circumstances, his appointment is not excluded now in view of his recent most conciliatory speech in the Reichstag, in which he urged the olive branch to the French in the name of the foremost industrial and financial circles in Germany. Stresemann's appointment, therefore, would be regarded as the first move on the part of Germany to reach an understanding between the interests represented in France by the Premier and in Germany by Hugo Stinnes.

Bald Heads to Have Hair Planted on 'Em at Dinner

Tendrils Taken From Tresses of Beautiful Girls To Be Sown in Arid Field

If the hairs of the head are numbered, as is set forth in Scripture and also in the motto of the Bald-Headed Club, there will have to be a hasty resort following the club's annual banquet on Monday night in the Conkey Inn, at Torrington, Conn. The sensation of the function will be hair-planting by Dr. J. H. Paragon, of 629 West 15th Street, upon the arid domes of a few members.

With a patented device which works like a sewing machine, Dr. Paragon purposes to sow eight hairs in eight minutes, in ten minutes, the time allotted him on the program. To add a sentimental interest to the operation, he promises that all of the hairs he will have planted from the heads of beautiful young girls.

The men who have agreed to be subjects for Dr. Paragon are W. J. Rodenberger, of Greenwich, Conn., founder of the club; W. A. Warner, the president; W. W. Norton, of Lakeville, Conn., the secretary; Philip Troup, a postmaster; R. L. Chamberlain, president of the Putnam Trust Company, at Greenwich; Walter Wakeman, of Waterbury; Charles L. McNeil, banquet chairman, and Lyman P. Case, a druggist, of Winsted, Conn.

Caruso Saved by Italian Envoy, Says Physician

"You Must Not Die," Appeal of Ricci in Crisis, and Tenor at Once Began to Mend

From The Tribune's Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, May 6.—That the Italian Ambassador, Signor Ricci, deserves credit for saving the life of Enrico Caruso was the statement of Dr. Stella, the White House physician, at the White House today. Dr. Stella headed a delegation to call upon the President, and incidentally discussed the great tenor's illness with Mr. Harding. According to the physician, Caruso will sing better than ever after a complete rest in Italy.

How near death Caruso was at one time is hardly realized by the public, his medical attendant said. The arrival in this country of Ambassador Ricci prompted the doctor to ask him to call upon Caruso and endeavor to cheer him. Dr. Stella took into consideration the psychology of his famous patient, who had long been accustomed to the plaudits of the multitude. Signor Ricci was glad to call upon Caruso and to tell him with what anxiety the King and his courtiers were awaiting news from his bedside.

"You must not die," said the ambassador, and Caruso from that moment fought with added vigor. His convalescence from that date was rapid, Dr. Stella added.

Elevator Fall Kills 2, Hurts 1; Grip on Cable Saves Another

A projecting bale of cloth became jammed against the ceiling of the fourth floor as a freight elevator in the ten-story building at 648 Broadway started up unexpectedly yesterday. The floor was bristling with the sides of the car and went clattering to the bottom of the shaft, carrying three men, one of whom was killed outright and another injured so severely that he died. A fourth passenger seized the cable when the floor dropped from beneath his feet and clung to it until rescued.

Arthur Smith, of 104 Cooper Street, Brooklyn, driver for the United States Trucking Corporation, was the man who was killed. Reuben Morse, of 276 South Fourth Street, Brooklyn, suffered compound fractures of both legs and internal injuries, from which he died in Bellevue Hospital. Meyer Getzel, seventeen years old, of 133 South Third Street, Brooklyn, has a fracture of the skull and internal injuries. He is in Bellevue Hospital and may die.

Widow Kills Self After Bringing Children to U. S.

Realizes Ambition for Her Son and Daughter Following Privation in Hungary

The ambition of three years of toil and privation in Hungary was satisfied when Mrs. Catherine Idjevic, a widow, arrived in this port with her children, Anna, thirteen years old, and Peter, eleven, on the Red Star liner Finland. Her fellow steerage passengers remarked upon the happiness that shone in her eyes as she sent Anna and Peter off to breakfast yesterday. She did not join them at the meal, and when the children returned to her quarters they found her hanging, dead, from a compartment partition, to which she had fastened a trunk rope.

As aliens under the age of sixteen years, unaccompanied by parent or guardian, the orphaned Anna and Peter may be excluded by the immigration law.

Penrose Discusses Move

Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania, Republican, said that anything that approached getting the United States mixed up in any international political affairs would be unpopular with the American people.

"It is difficult to express definite opinion without knowing the purposes and extent of the proposed participation."

"If any participation by the United States in such foreign matters were at all reasonable it would seem to me to begin with a relationship with international reparations and financial matters."

Senator McCumber of North Dakota, Republican, said that as this country had failed to enter the League "at the front door" he was uncertain of the wisdom of entering "at the back door."

Ex-Ruler's Daughter Kills Self

GUATEMALA CITY, May 6.—Senorita Guadalupe Estrada Chinchilla, daughter of former President Manuel Estrada Cabrera, committed suicide here to-day by shooting.

Highes Tenders Reply

The American reply accepting the invitation to a government, as sent by Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain through Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador here:

"As president of the Allied Conference, which is just completing its sittings in London, I am authorized with the unanimous concurrence of all the powers here represented, to accept the United States government's cooperation of the League of Nations, which the world is still involved with the international difficulties in which the world is still involved would be materially assisted by the cooperation of the United States; and I am therefore to inquire whether that government is disposed to be represented in the future, as it was in the past, at Allied conferences, at the conferences of ambassadors, which sits at Paris, and on the Reparations Commission.

"We are united in feeling that American cognizance of the present situation, and where possible, American participation in them, will be best facilitated by this."

Even in the note approved by President Harding and signed by Secretary Hughes the line "while maintaining the traditional policy of abstention from participation in matters of distinctly European concern" was injected with no apparent object save to save the feelings of those adherents of the Administration who were last-ditchers in their fight for American isolation.

This is more evident by the last part of the same sentence, which goes on to say that America "is deeply interested in the proper economic adjustments and in the just settlement of the matters of world-wide importance which are under discussion, and also desires helpfully to cooperate in
