Let Harding Arbitrate, U.S. Poles Cable Briand

PARIS, May 19.—Premier Briand has received a cablegram from 16,000 Americanized Poles, represented at a recent meeting in Jersey City, declaring they, as good Americans, have faith to leave the just settlement of the Silesian dispute in the hands of President Harding.

"Precisely as your Ambassador went to Washington as an unalloyed Briton, I come to London as an unalloyed American."

The King has warm feelings of friendship for the United States, and he regards the world as a whole as a welcome extension of the friendly feeling which I believe exists now and which really never ceased to exist between the United States and Poland into another war."

"Not a few remain convinced that we sent our young soldiers across to save the kingdom, France and Italy. That is not the fact. We sent them solely to save the United States of America, and most reluctantly and sagaciously at that."

The United States has honored us greatly by sending us a succession of distinguished ambassadors who had already won great fame before they reached our shores. The fame of our guest has traveled long ago to this country. His championship of the cause of the Allies was well known and fully recognized. He is a man of our race.

"The war has taught us in this country many lessons. One of these lessons is that the immense population of the United States is not a Saxon origin, nor even of Anglo-Celtic origin, in the United States there are men of every race under the sun. Nevertheless, it is a source of pride in this country that in the great events which have determined the life and history of America the directing minds have been Anglo-Celtic. The great literature of America is theirs, the great literature of Britain is theirs. We speak the same tongue; we worship the same great men; that produces a sympathy and community that nothing can break."

Wirth Displays Ability The new Chancellor, who has not yet reached the middle forties, is astonishing his Cabinet colleagues with the political acumen and industry he has displayed since becoming the head of the government. It is declared by observers of current government activities that it is forecast that Wirth probably will retain nominal control of Germany's foreign affairs, in addition to the Chancellorship, reinstating the old method of making the chief representative of the Foreign Office a routine diplomatic post, its holder not having a seat in the Cabinet, but being directly accountable to the Chancellor.

"We will get nowhere until we abandon our academic discussion of theoretical proposals and manfully face, without mincing or wincing, the actual realities. We must realize that the only way to win is by preaching and demonstrating our fidelity by our acts."

Wirth Dismisses the idea of a separate peace for Germany, stating that the Versailles Treaty would probably involve protracted debates over reservations, which would be eliminated through congressional action. With the United States in the Supreme Council and the Reparations Commission, official quarters here believe America would have as great an influence in the Allied Council as the United States ratified the Versailles Treaty, and that under these conditions an early peace with the United States would promptly assert itself in an economic stimulus of which Germany is in need.

"Such, I am happy to report faithfully in the teeth of all the mischief and the darkest and darkest days of our nations, has become the settled conviction of our people and, I hope and doubt not, of yours."

"The following day the ambassador of the United States, Mr. Lloyd George, arrived in Paris. He was warmly welcomed by the French government and the press. He is expected to remain in Paris for some time, and will be seen by the President and the Premier."

"The Duke of Connaught, in proposing the Ambassador's health, said that Mr. Harvey was a man who believed in the closest friendship between his country and Great Britain, and the benefit and peace of the world."

Berlin Speeds Up Finances To Pay Allies

BERLIN, May 19. (By The Associated Press).—To keep right up to date with its reparations obligations, or even a good bit ahead, is declared, in creditable quarters, to be the ambition of the Cabinet of Chancellor Wirth, which is now speeding up activities in the various ministries in a general effort to get them familiarized with the ramifications and technical features of the Allied ultimatum and reparations terms which Germany has accepted.

French Won't Agree Not to Occupy Ruhr

PARIS, May 19. (By The Associated Press).—The French government has refused to agree to a proposal that it should not occupy the Ruhr region of Germany. The French government has stated that it is necessary to occupy the Ruhr to ensure the payment of reparations by Germany.

British Press Fears End of French Alliance

PARIS, Not England, Must Make Concessions, Is Opinion as Views of Premier Are Upheld Will Abide by Treaty Meeting of Allied Supreme Council Will Be Held Within Next Few Days

By Arthur S. Draper From The Tribune's European Bureau Copyright 1921, New York Tribune Inc. LONDON, May 19.—The French critics of Lloyd George who profess to believe that he doesn't represent the true state of feeling in Great Britain are due to have a rude awakening. With hardly an exception to-day the press upholds the Premier in his most recent attack on the Franco-Polish policy in Upper Silesia, and there are not a few newspapers which interpret recent developments as the beginning of the end of the Anglo-French alliance in the form it has had during recent years.

France has many arm friends here, but they refuse to follow her in her present lead. Similarly, some of the most bitter opponents of Germany applaud the Premier's championship of the rights of the erstwhile enemy in the Silesian controversy. Lloyd George's appeal for fair play has struck a responsive chord in all political factions. It would be a mistake to accept the view that Anglo-French relations have reached the breaking point. All depends upon the future attitude of Mr. O'Connor, who will return to decide whether they will British support enough to abandon their present course. Concessions must come from France and not from England.

The Council will be held within a few days, but probably not this week end, as had been expected. Both Briand of France and Count Sforza, Italian Foreign Minister, undoubtedly will find it more convenient to meet Lloyd George's object seeking an early meeting of the Council is to see whether France is willing to abide by the terms of the Treaty of Versailles. It is up to the French to decide whether they will British support enough to abandon their present course. Concessions must come from France and not from England.
