Peter C. Hewitt, N. Y. Inventor, Dead in Paris

Major Gen. J. F. Wade Dies in Ohio, Aged 78

Was in Command With Taft in Philippines; Retired 14 Years Ago

General James F. Wade, seventy-eight years old, retired, died at his home in Jefferson near here to-day after a long illness. He entered the army during the Civil War and was in continuous service for forty-six years.

General Wade retired fourteen years ago. When William H. Taft was Governor General of the Philippines, General Wade was in command of the islands.

General Wade was a son of Benjamin F. Wade, United States Senator from Ohio. His mother was Caroline M. Rosencrans. He married Clara Lyon, of Connecticut, Ohio, in 1886. He was appointed to the 6th United States Cavalry as first lieutenant in 1861, and promoted through various grades until his retirement as major general in 1907.

The general was head of the Cuban Education Commission in 1898, and served in the Philippines from 1901 to 1904. He commanded the Atlantic Division from 1904 to 1907.

ROGER K. WALSH

Roger K. Walsh, sixty-two years old, chief clerk of the New York Police Department, died yesterday at his home, 613 Walton Avenue, the Bronx. He had been ill since May.

Mr. Walsh was formerly associated with the old "New York Star." He was appointed a stenographer in the Police Department in 1895, when the late Chief of Police, Commissioner James J. McLaughlin, was Commissioner of Police. In 1908 he was appointed deputy chief clerk, and ten years later became chief clerk, succeeding William H. Kipp, who had held the post for fifty years.

Mr. Walsh is survived by two sons.

GENERAL MANUEL HERNANDEZ

General Manuel Hernandez, sixty-eight years old, at one time commander in chief of the army of Venezuela, died yesterday at the Memorial Hospital. He arrived in New York on the steamship Esperanza from Cuba last Monday. The body was taken to the Campbell Funeral Church, Broadway, yesterday afternoon, and will be buried at six o'clock Tuesday. Interment will be in Calvary Cemetery.

General Hernandez is survived by one son, Nicholas Hernandez, Dr. J. H. Lopez, of 241 West 111th Street, with the general when he died.

BISHOP W. S. LEWIS

St. Louis, Iowa, Aug. 25.—Bishop W. S. Lewis, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, St. Louis, died yesterday after a long illness. He had been resident Bishop of South China at Foo Chow since 1918. He was a native of New York State and a graduate of Cornell College, Iowa. He was a member of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Missouri.

PUTNAM BOOKS AND AUTHORS

The Bubble Reputation

Consider the automobile fire—a noble thing to contemplate when it has been voluntarily inflated and apparently stands ready to roll you to the uttermost ends of the earth. But a deflated, depressing, sinister object immediately after meeting up with the business end of a young, ambitious tacker! Fame is like that. Especially in political life. Statesmen become famous and pompous and all inflated like the automobile tire; then just as they figure it is time to roll along to dizzy heights—along comes the man with a tack, or perhaps a pin, or an ice pick, or a pen, or something with a point to it, and there is a loud report and a sound of rushing air—and then silence and a shriveled void.

THE MIRRORS OF WASHINGTON

As like that. Fourteen famous American patriots attacked by a man with a tack. Terrific resulting slaughter! The Hall of Fame a veritable shambles! A perfect rout of reputations and titles! About half of the country speaks with rage over this book; the other half is emitting "how, rumbling noises that sound suspiciously like chuckles of glee. For the whole country is reading it. And you can lay to that!

The Mirrors of Washington

Cesare's fourteen cartoons in The Mirrors of Washington are no small part of the book's appeal. They are "mirrors" themselves. Also, there are fourteen half-tone portraits. Can't think of any way to ring in something about the fourteen points. Maybe you can. We might—if you send us something specially brilliant—give you a copy of the Mirrors with our compliments.

It's Her Own Fault

Margot Aquish is quite perturbed because that "Gentleman with a Dagger" has started to pick on her. In The Mirrors of Downing Street, the Gentleman directed his fire chiefly upon the male stars of the British firmament. But in his new book, which he calls

Davis Cup Finals Draw Out Society Throng at Newport

Neighboring Resorts Send Big Delegations; Keynote of Simplicity Marked in Handsome Gown Display

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 25.—Nothing seems to be more effective in bringing society and its varied fashions out than a tennis match, and that the attractions of the Davis Cup Finals were not at all overrated was testified at the opening round this morning, when summer residents not only of Newport, but from practically all of the vacation resorts within striking distance, came to witness the play from the stands.

The grandstand was not filled, but there was a gratifying attendance in the gallery, both for the morning and afternoon matches, and parking space about the Casino on Bellevue Avenue and adjoining thoroughfares was at a premium. Although much better tennis has been seen here the play was exciting enough at times to call for bursts of applause, and it was evident that the future games also will be popular.

There was a congenial note in the atmosphere of the gathering and friendliness seemed to pervade the minds of the spectators as well as the contestants.
