Citizens Union Fails to Indorse Miss Smith

Charges She Was Not Actively Interested in City Legislation; Commends Anti-Traction Bill Vote

Miss Marguerite L. Smith, the only woman member of the Legislature, and who is a candidate for re-election after having served two terms, has failed to receive the indorsement of the Citizens Union, who indorsed her Democratic opponent, James M. Mac.

The organization, which explains that all candidates for re-election are judged on the basis of their recent records in public office and a reply to a questionnaire sent out by the union, had this to say concerning Miss Smith, who represents the 19th Assembly District, which embraces most of Harlem:

"Made an average record of votes, should be credited for her vote against the traction bill, was active and conscientious, but was not actively interested in city legislation."

Miss Smith is a teacher of physical culture. Her opponent is a newspaper in politics. Mr. Mac is a lawyer, twenty-five years old, and of him the report of the Citizens Union said:

"Possesses an intelligent conception of public affairs; a candidate of distinct promise."

The dean of the New York City Assembly, Joseph Steinberg, Republican and representative of the 17th Assembly District was indorsed in the following language:

"Independent and useful legislator, who has made a record of 400,000 and deserves credit for courage in opposing the traction bill despite heavy pressure and for his vote against primary reform. He is again indorsed as a valuable member, who unquestionably deserves re-election."

The report issued yesterday covered only Manhattan and the Bronx. The list follows:

NEW YORK COUNTY.
First District
Jacob M. Schiff (Rep.) indorsed. A prominent candidate who should make a useful legislator.

Peter J. Hennell (Dem.) C. U. report (1921) said that he was an experienced member with a record of 400,000 and improved record of votes over previous years, but that the character of his legislation continued poor.

Second District
No indorsement. Frank Galran (Dem.) Deserves credit for courage in opposing the traction bill, his failure to be re-elected an important roll in the indicated neglect of legislative duties.

Third District
No indorsement. Thomas E. Burchfield (Dem.) C. U. report (1921) said he was a member of no measure capacity who showed improvement in his record of 400,000.

Fourth District
Samuel D. Donohue (Dem.) indorsed. Deserves credit for courage in opposing the traction bill, his failure to be re-elected an important roll in the indicated neglect of legislative duties.

Fifth District
Charles D. Donohue (Dem.) indorsed. Deserves credit for courage in opposing the traction bill, his failure to be re-elected an important roll in the indicated neglect of legislative duties.

Sixth District
Sol Ullman (Rep.) indorsed. In third year has been an excellent legislator. Deserves credit for courage in opposing the traction bill, his failure to be re-elected an important roll in the indicated neglect of legislative duties.

Seventh District
Victor B. Eastman (Rep.) indorsed. A man of intelligence. Clearly the best candidate in this district.

Poster Shows Hylan Record

The coalition campaign committee yesterday put out a new poster reading as follows:

"Will John F. Hylan dare deny '1917—that he guaranteed a seat for every child?"
"Will John F. Hylan dare deny '1921—that these figures are correct: (a) Children on part-time—two children for one seat, 122,305 (b) Children on double sessions—two children for one seat 195,072 (c) Children in oversized classes—over 300,000
"Vote for men who will keep their word."
"Curran-Lockwood-Gilroy."

Katherine A. Lange (Soc.) First candidacy.
Twenty-third District
George N. Jones (Soc.) indorsed. A member of increasing influence who should be re-elected.

Samuel E. Dribben (Dem.) First candidacy.
Bertha Howell Mally (Soc.) Active Socialist speaker.
BRONX COUNTY
First District
No indorsement. Nicholas J. Eberhard (Dem.) First candidacy.

Second District
Lester W. Patrick (Rep.) indorsed. First candidacy; capable and promising.

Third District
Benjamin A. Berman (Rep.) indorsed. Intelligently active in behalf of housing reform bills. Deserves re-election.

Fourth District
No indorsement. Louis A. Scherel (Rep-Dem.) active in Hebrew association.

Fifth District
William L. Murphy (Soc.) indorsed. Deserves re-election.

Sixth District
No indorsement. Louis A. Scherel (Rep-Dem.) active in Hebrew association.

Seventh District
No indorsement. Louis A. Scherel (Rep-Dem.) active in Hebrew association.

Eighth District
Edward J. Walsh (Dem.) indorsed. This year of his record.

Ninth District
No indorsement. Louis A. Scherel (Rep-Dem.) active in Hebrew association.

Tenth District
Bernard Aronson (Rep.) indorsed. Opposed traction bill and primary law repeal. Merits re-election on his record.

Eleventh District
Frederick H. Nichols (Rep.) indorsed. C. U. report said that he made a record of votes above the average and deserved credit for opposing traction bill.

Twelfth District
John J. O'Connor (Dem.) indorsed. His legislation of a high character.

Thirteenth District
No indorsement. John P. Nugent (Dem.) Active in local politics. First candidacy.

Fourteenth District
Frederick H. Nichols (Rep.) indorsed. Intelligent and alert legislator who made good record of votes.

Fifteenth District
Joseph Steinberg (Rep.) indorsed. He is again indorsed as a valuable member who unquestionably deserves re-election.

Sixteenth District
Maurice Bloch (Dem.) indorsed. Again indorsed as an experienced member who deserves re-election on his record.

Curran Charges Hylan Neglect in Fire Department

Henry H. Curran, Republican coalition candidate for Mayor, speaks at the following places to-day:

12:30 p. m.—Kiwans Club, luncheon, Hotel McAlpin.
3:30 p. m.—Society of New York Hospital, Trinity Church.
8 p. m.—League of Women Voters, Public School 165, 108th Street, between Amsterdam Avenue and Broadway.

9 p. m.—5th Assembly District Club house, 202 Patchen Avenue, Brooklyn.
9:30 p. m.—17th Assembly District Club house, 78 Herkimer Street, Brooklyn.

10 p. m.—Harding Italian American Republican Club, 84 Utica Avenue, Brooklyn.
10:30 p. m.—23d Assembly District Club house, 1108 Herkimer Street, Brooklyn.
11 p. m.—10th Assembly District Club house, 175 South Oxford Street, Brooklyn.
League of women Voters, 1090 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn.

M. Banta Dr. Herman L. Reis and Dr. William J. Tierney all gave corroborative testimony.

Dr. E. Benjamin Ramsdell was a Fire Department physician for twenty-five years. He retired a year ago. He testified that he and other physicians tried not to operate in the medical offices because things there were not quite as nice as I would like to have them in my own office.

Dr. Ramsdell further testified that the lack of sterilization of instruments in the medical offices reached a point where he refused to use the medical instruments provided by the city. Instead of doing that he carried his own private instruments from his home, after sterilizing them there.

These doctors were reluctant witnesses. But despite that they could not and did not withhold the fact that sterilization is not practiced in the Fire Department's medical offices, and that so far as the use of antiseptics is concerned, these offices caring for the health of 5,000 men, are back in the dark ages.

Curran Says Hylan and Hearst Want 7c Fare
Henry H. Curran told Columbia University students yesterday in an address in Earl Hall at the university that if Mayor Hylan were given the privilege of remaining in City Hall four more years the Mayor and William Randolph Hearst could be denounced as the worst enemies of the city.

About 350 students heard Mr. Curran's speech. The speaker was introduced by Professor Howard McBain, of the School of Political Science, who referred to Mayor Hylan as incompetent and characterized him as the "rebellious Mayor."

Mr. Curran repeated his charges concerning the alleged 7-cent fare agreement. "Hylan was discovered in a deal with Hearst trying to put over a 7-cent fare," he said. "He was trying to fool us, but we caught him with the goods. It seems that Mr. Hylan is greatly disturbed over this matter. I am not surprised, for the guilty are always disturbed by the truth, and I told the truth."

"A nickel is enough in New York and I am going to continue my fight for it. I am going to keep right on at Mayor Hylan. If he is elected for another four years you may be sure that he and Hearst will put over the 7-cent fare. What I want to know is just this: Who is Mayor of the City of New York? Hylan or Hearst? Do you want a Mayor to live in New York or in California? It's a great puzzle trying to find who is actually Mayor of this city. See if you can find out. I am not going to make any promises as to what I shall do when elected two weeks hence. No man can be on the level with himself or with the people if he makes promises. All he can do is to do his best."

The Columbia Curran Club will launch an intensive drive this week in support of the candidacy of the Borough President.

Candidates' Views On Issues Women Raise Distributed

The League of Women voters yesterday began the distribution of 400,000 leaflets containing the answers of candidates of both parties to questions propounded by the women.

The leaflets have been mailed to every registered woman voter, and all women are urged to share the information with their husbands and brothers.

The questions asked of the candidates for Mayor concerned enforcement of the prohibition law, funds for new schools, five-cent fare, home rule, garbage disposal and terminal markets.

Candidates for the Assembly were asked about the Lusk bills, direct primaries, women on juries and the woman's labor bill.

Henry Curran, Republican candidate for Mayor, gave the following answer to the first question:

"I shall enforce the prohibition law the same as any other law. It is the duty of the Mayor to enforce the laws and the oath of office carries that pledge. I shall not go beyond the law nor shall I enforce one law beyond another. I believe it at the right of the people to be secure in their homes against unreasonable searches and seizures is being violated and should be stopped."

He answered that he was in favor of appropriations for the immediate erection of school buildings and repair of old ones.

He said he was in favor of home rule, and always had been; that he was "opposed to the power vested in the new Transit Commission to change the city's contracts with the companies."

He favored amending the law so as to restore to the city government power to approve or reject any change in the transit contracts recommended by the Transit Commission. He said he was in favor of a five-cent fare and would "fight for it."

Tammany Slips Hylan Men Pay Raise in Budget

$3,000,000 Salary Increases Hidden by Lumping Them; Part Inserted in Week at Campaign Headquarters

Realty Men Charge Fraud Over $4,000,000 for Police, Fire and Teachers' Pensions Left Out Altogether

Practically every safeguard against loose practices by department heads has been thrown aside in the making up of the Hylan administration's final budget, it was revealed yesterday at the first public hearing before the Board of Estimate.

The proposed final budget totals $351,970,000 as it stands now. This exceeds by more than $2,000,000 the estimate which Comptroller Craig has declared can be legally voted on and kept within the tax limit.

The final budget contains more than $3,000,000 for increases in salaries of Tammany office-holders who did not appear in the tentative budget when it was submitted to the taxpayers and rent payers.

The increases cannot be traced now because the Tammany budget makers have discarded the fundamental of scientific budget making, the itemizing of salaries, and instead have resorted to the lump sum system, which can cover a multitude of sins.

Given for Campaign Aid
The Tribune is in possession of information showing that some of these salary increases were decided upon last week at the campaign headquarters of Mayor Hylan and that the increases were granted in consideration of support of the Tammany ticket by city employees.

Some of these meetings were held in the rooms occupied by the Hylan League, at 50 East Forty-second Street. The conferences at which these salary increases were decided were not presided over by members of the Board of Estimate, as required by law, but by campaign managers of Mayor Hylan and his Tammany running mates.

More than $1,000,000 in pension items was omitted from the budget. These, if included, would make the budget as it stands more than $355,000,000.

The item for teachers' pensions, some $1,550,000, has been left out of the budget. So, too, has the $1,499,000 for police pensions, and the $1,159,000 for the pensions of firemen and other city employees.

Last year $27,000,000 for teachers' salaries was deliberately omitted from the 1921 budget.

Even the friends of Mayor Hylan admitted yesterday that the salary increases were clearly contrary to the evidence upon which the budget examiners and the Finance Committee, who have been working all summer, used in fixing the tentative budget.

An example of the manner in which the salary increases were made in the final budget was the single item in the Department of Plants and Structures for ferryboat captains. Heretofore the salaries were itemized. Yesterday the final budget contained the line, "Thirty captains of ferryboats for 728 months at $132,000."

This is $42,000 more than the thirty captains are getting now. Under the terms of the budget, the $42,000 additional can be given to one captain.

Plants and Structures is a lump sum of $522,000 for 1921. The salaries of workers is not specified. Last year this item was spread over twenty-two different heads, each containing several employees and their salaries.

The United Real Estate Board last night issued statement characterizing the budget as a fraud upon the taxpayers. The statement said, in part:

"It is claimed that the city administration have reduced the budget by some $3,000,000. There is no truth in this statement. There has been manipulation in the debt service and tax deficiency. The debt service and the tax deficiency items should be investigated by an independent firm of public accountants. There will be another public hearing to-day."
