The profit that ordinarily would go to the retailer goes back to your own pocket—or with this saving you can purchase a suit or another overcoat.

FINKELSTEIN & MAISEL are really clothing manufacturers, offering high class 100% pure wool suits and coats at a saving of 30% to 60%—genuine wholesale prices!

At least we ask consideration of this fair proposition, particularly if you are fastidious as to style, character of fabrics and used to paying big prices for your suits or overcoats.

If, for any reason whatever, you may feel dissatisfied with any purchase, or believe you are not getting absolutely the greatest values in all New York, simply ask for your money and we'll return it instantly, in full, without a word.

And remember, our new and very sensational prices are $18.75, $24.50, $29.50 and $33, less a 7% discount, for the handsomest line of suits, top-coats and overcoats—all 100% pure wool—that we have yet manufactured—values, in fact, that friends tell us are nowhere to be had for at least double our prices. If you are extra hard to fit we will cut your suit or overcoat to measure at slight extra cost.

Foch Exhausted By Ovations, but Will "Carry On"

St. Louis, En Fete, Buffets Him With Hospitality Until Fatigue, Due to Emotion, Almost Conquers Marshal Impressed by Children Visits Schools, Sees Troops, Talks to 1,500 at Luncheon; at Indianapolis Today

From a Staff Correspondent
ST. LOUIS, Nov. 3.—Marshal Foch was the guest of the city of St. Louis to-day. Honored with a military parade, a degree from one university and a reception at another, a luncheon given by 1,500 members of the Chamber of Commerce and the American Legion posts here and a dinner to-night, the idol of France found himself buffeted by hospitality. Along with him were General John J. Pershing and Hanford MacNider, newly elected national commander of the American Legion.

The Marshal's reception on his arrival this morning from Kansas City, where he attended the American Legion convention, began with an enthusiastic welcome from a crowd that swarmed about the union railroad station. School children had been dismissed, and the city was en fete for the arrival of the distinguished Frenchman. Several times Marshal Foch was called on for speeches, and on each occasion his remarks were a tribute to America. To-night he seemed so weary that he was asked whether he thought he could go ahead with the tour through the United States that has been arranged for him.

Insists He Will "Carry On"
"There is no question but that I shall continue my tour of this beautiful America," he said. "Even if I were spent to the point of exhaustion, I would insist upon visiting all those wonderful towns and cities of this great country."
"But I am not tired. It may seem to those who watch me closely that I grow tired. That is a fatigue superinduced by the emotion which stirs me the further I go into your wonderful United States."
Early to-morrow Marshal Foch leaves this city for Indianapolis, where he will spend the day as the guest of the American Legion. Indianapolis is the national headquarters of the Legion, and Mr. MacNider, the French warrior will visit Legion quarters and make a sightseeing tour of the town as the guest of the residents of that city.

There will be a motor race on the Speedway and a great parade in the afternoon, with the dedication by the Marshal of a war memorial. From Indianapolis the French hero will move to Chicago and then to Cleveland.

Reviews Hiking Regulars
Possibly the most picturesque of the ceremonies attended to-day by the distinguished visitor was the parade of the 6th Infantry of the regular army. This outfit has just completed a hike of nearly 1,000 miles from South Carolina to Jefferson Barracks. As the soldiers passed in review before the idol of the Allied armies they marched with a vim and snap worthy of a show regiment in war time, and the Marshal voiced his approval in rapid conversation with General Pershing and the members of his staff.

When Colonel Hunter B. Nelson, commander of the regiment, left the head of the column and entered the reviewing stand, the Marshal greeted him cordially, saying:
"The fine, fresh appearance of your men after so long a march is characteristic of the American army. It is an honor to review such a splendid regiment."

Gets Doctor of Laws Degree
In the forenoon the Marshal and his party had breakfast at the St. Louis Club, and then visited St. Louis University and Washington University, and the former institution. Marshal Foch received the degree of Doctor of Laws. At Washington University he was addressed by the president.
After the review of the 6th Infantry the Marshal and his guests were driven to the Planters' Hotel, where they were the guests of the Chamber of Commerce and the American Legion. Both General Pershing and Marshal Foch spoke, repeating their gratification at the cordial reception they had received in this country.
One of the things that struck the Marshal in this city was the children. "I have a deep affection for the grown-up American," he said to-night, "because I have fought side by side with him, but it was not until I came to this great country that I realized how great its institutions are."
"It seems to me that every child in America knows of the trials and victories of the fighters of America. I see children scarcely able to walk wave their colors and salute me. That is a tribute."
MacNider this morning visited disabled veterans at the Public Health Service Hospital. It was his first official inspection tour. He refused to discuss what he learned from the men. General Pershing left to-night for Nashville to begin an inspection trip in Southern army camps.

Salutes City as Frenchman
ST. LOUIS, Nov. 3 (By The Associated Press).—In a message preceding his arrival here to-day, Marshal Foch recalled that the City of St. Louis was originally a French settlement and that "the name of St. Louis means much to every person in whose veins French blood flows."
"The fact that your City of St. Louis was founded by French youth," his message said, "and that it was colonized by French pioneers with deep religious convictions and a resulting high sense of honor and justice, has had much to do with the present respect which that city has won for itself in business and other pursuits. As a Frenchman, I salute St. Louis, the city of honor and progress."

Diaz Will Attend Italian Unknown Heroes Mass To-day

Ambassador Ricci Also To Be in Cathedral for Services in Which Archbishop Hayes Will Have Leading Part

The Committee for the Commemoration of Unknown Italian Heroes of the World War, 231 East Fourteenth Street, announced yesterday that General Armando Diaz will attend a solemn high requiem mass in St. Patrick's Cathedral at 10 o'clock this morning for the unidentified of the Italian army killed in battle.

The Most Rev. Archbishop Patrick J. Hayes will celebrate the mass, and the sermon will be delivered by the Right Rev. Monsignor M. J. Lavelle. There will be a choir of 200 voices, and at the foot of the altar will be an exact reproduction of the catafalque of Leo XIII, draped with the Italian flag.

Mounted police and the Police Band will escort General Diaz to the cathedral, and his guard of honor will be a group of wounded Italian soldiers. General Robert Lee Bullard will send a battalion of soldiers and a military band, while the navy is to be represented by sailors. Marines also will be present.

Among those expected to attend the services are Rolando Ricci, the Italian Ambassador; Senator C. Scanzler, president of the Italian arms limitation delegation; representatives of the Order of Sons of Italy, Mayor Hylan and others.

After mass General Diaz will be escorted to Washington Square, where he will place a wreath on the Washington Arch and one on Garibaldi's statue. In the evening the hero of the Piave will be tendered a reception at the 69th Regiment Armory.

Bert Acosta Wins Pulitzer Air Race; H. E. Hartney Hurt

New Yorker Covers Omaha Course of 150 Miles in 52 Minutes; Coombs, Second; Macready, Third

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 3.—Bert Acosta, of New York, won the annual Pulitzer silver trophy race for heavier-than-air craft here to-day, defeating a field of five other contestants, one of whom, H. E. Hartney, of New York, was injured when his plane crashed near Loveland, Iowa.

Circling the race course from Omaha to Loveland, Iowa, to Calhoun, Neb., and return five times Acosta covered the route of about 150 miles in fifty-two minutes nine and two-tenths seconds, or at the rate of 176.7 miles an hour. Last year's record was 178 miles an hour, made by Captain C. C. Moseley, representing the Aero Club of Southern California, on a Long Island field.

C. B. Coombs, of New York, flying for S. E. J. Cox, of Houston, Tex., was second, making the course in 54:07.6. Lieutenant John A. Macready, of McCook Field, Dayton, holder of the world's altitude record, was third. His time was 57:20.6. Lloyd W. Bertaud, of New York, was fourth, his time being 1 hour, 1 minute and 31.6 seconds. Trouble with his machine forced James Curran, of Chicago, to abandon the race.

Hartney, who is executive secretary of the Aero Club of America, was injured when his plane was wrecked in a forced landing in a field. His right hip was broken and he suffered internal injury, the seriousness of which could not be learned early to-night.

Trouble with the gasoline pump of his machine forced him down from an altitude of about 600 feet, the plane making a nose dive. He was thrown thirty feet clear of the machine, which afterward was burned when a souvenir hunter accidentally threw a match into the wreckage. Hartney cried when he learned of his machine's fate.

Hartney was taken to Loveland given medical attention there and later was brought to an Omaha hospital.

Acosta will go the Pulitzer trophy and $3,000 in cash, while second and third place won $2,000 and $1,000, respectively.
