

Senate to Pass Tax Bill and End Session To-day

Will Vote at 5 o'Clock on Conference Report, Which Is Assured of Adoption in Face of Much Opposition

Penrose Defends Measure

'Makeshift' Lightens Public Burden Without Juggling or Manipulation, He Says

From The Tribune's Washington Bureau. WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The Senate to-day agreed to vote on the conference report on the tax bill at 5 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. Though there is much opposition to the bill, it is certain to pass. With that measure disposed of, Congress will adjourn to-morrow night and end the extra session.

The agreement to vote on the tax measure was reached after Senator Simmons had denounced many features of the conference report. To-morrow, attacks on the measure will be made by Democrats, by Senator La Follette and perhaps by other Republicans.

When Senator Penrose called on the conference report to-day it was evident that the Senate, in its desire to end the extra session, would not block the adoption of the report, despite dissatisfaction with it.

Senator Simmons, ranking Democratic member of the Finance Committee, though ill, spoke for nearly two hours in severe criticism of the report. He charged that Senate amendments put into the bill to improve it had been deliberately "slaughtered" in the conference committee, that the bill as it now stands favors the corporations and that the wrath of the public would descend upon it when it is put into operation.

Senator Penrose, as chairman of the Finance Committee, made a report from conference on the bill. He held that the new measure is better than the law which it will supersede, and said it would raise $2,216,100,000 in the current fiscal year and $2,611,100,000 in the next fiscal year.

Senator Penrose admitted the bill was a "temporary makeshift," but said that nothing else was possible until the people gave to Federal taxation a study which it has not yet received, and became convinced of the contention that the proposal to reduce excessive tax rates is not designed to relieve the rich and the profligate, but to avert the breakdown of the income tax, unshakable business and increase the tax revenue.

Senator Penrose predicted reduction of expenditures as a result of the arms conference. He expressed the view that the revenue produced by the bill would meet the nation's expenditures, though Senator Simmons believes it will result in a large deficit. Senator Penrose said:

"The revenue act of 1921 is properly denominated an act to reduce taxation." The act as agreed to in conference will produce, it is estimated, $728,900,000 less than the present law for the first fiscal year, and thereafter, when collections from the excess profits tax wholly cease, the annual reduction of the tax burden will be even greater.

"The net change effected by the conference recommendations, however, is not great. The act as passed by the Senate would produce, it is estimated, $2,242,730,000 in the fiscal year 1922 and $2,717,280,000 in the fiscal year 1923. As agreed to in conference, it will, if adopted, yield $3,216,100,000 in the fiscal year 1922 and $2,611,100,000 in the fiscal year 1923.

"This is no time to impose, beyond the amount required to meet current expenses and maintain the sinking funds, new or additional taxes. It is fitting time to halt expenditures by refusing to vote taxes."

Shipping Board Begins Movement of 100 Ships

Vessels to Have Safe Anchorage Near Caldwell on the Jersey Shore

The movement of approximately one hundred vessels from Jamaica Bay to Caldwell, N. J., for winter quarters is now well under way. A. F. Mack, director of the eastern district for the Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, said yesterday. The ships are being moved at the rate of five to eight a day.

Mr. Mack said that at Caldwell the boats will have shore anchorage, and also will be conveniently situated for supplies by rail. It was found that at Jamaica Bay the bottom was too shallow and the location was too exposed to rough weather during the winter.

Landru's Alleged "Furnace of Death" Is Shown in Court

One Fiancee of 'Bluebeard' Tells How He Praised His Stove; Another Also Describes Visit to Villa

Special Cable to The Tribune. VERSAILLES, Nov. 22.—Henri Landru, the "Bluebeard of Gambais," enthusiastically praised the stove in his Gambais villa when he showed it to one of his fiancees on her first visit to his home, according to the testimony of Mme. Falque, which was read in court to-day at the trial of the man who is accused of the murder of ten women by cutting them to pieces and burning their bodies in the stove.

Mme. Falque was unable to present and her deposition was read. Mme. Fernande, another one of the fiancees of "Bluebeard," also testified to-day, and, so far as known, these are the only two who accompanied the prisoner to his villa and returned.

Mme. Falque said that Landru showed her the stove and declared it worked marvelously. He said one could burn anything he wished in it, and he showed her the various parts of it.

Landru shouted strenuous objections to this testimony and declared it was not true.

Later the stove was brought into court as an exhibit and attracted much attention from the crowd which packed the place.

Mlle. Segret, a pale young girl, was a better witness for Landru than for the state. She was very nervous and collapsed while she was on the stand, forcing an adjournment of court until she recovered. She said she had accompanied Landru to the Gambais villa seven times. She said she noticed nothing abnormal about Landru or his villa. She said she saw a shotgun and some revolve cartridges at the villa.

Debs Is Likely To Be Released For Christmas

Harding, However, Declares Against Sweeping Proclamation of Amnesty; Each Case on Its Merits

Issue Raised in House

Resolution Offered by Meyer London to Liberate All Causes a Sharp Debate

From The Tribune's Washington Bureau. WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Administration officials said to-day it was practically certain that Eugene V. Debs, Socialist leader, serving a term in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta for violation of war-time laws, would be free before Christmas. The President and Cabinet to-day discussed the subject of general amnesty for such offenders, but arrived at no decision, although the President indicated that there would be no sweeping amnesty proclamation. Each case will be considered on its merits.

There are about 175 of these so-called "political prisoners," including fourteen held for military offenses. Attorney General Daugherty said that undoubtedly the case of Debs would be considered first.

The Department of Justice is at work on a digest of all cases, which will be presented to the President for action.

Debs Not Eligible for Parole. Debs is under a ten-year sentence and has served two years and seven months. No prisoner is eligible for parole until he has served a third of the prescribed sentence and Debs will not be eligible for parole until next August 22. It is possible that the President would order commutation of Debs's sentence, and in turn the Department of Justice could order that he be paroled. It is understood, however, that Attorney General Daugherty is opposed to this procedure, holding that if Debs is released it should be unconditionally. The chief problem officials are considering is whether or not if Debs were freed he would pose as a martyr and give vent to further seditious utterances.

Sharp Debate in House. WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (By The Associated Press).—Brief but bitter debate on the subject of amnesty for prisoners convicted under war-time laws developed in the House to-day when Meyer London, Socialist, of New York, read resolutions urging general amnesty for such persons.

Court Calls Detectives' Charges "Tissue of Lies"

Discharges Trio Held for Disorderly Conduct and Condemns Police Action

Magistrate Jesse Silberman, in Morristown court, yesterday discharged three men, charged with disorderly conduct, who were arrested by five detectives attached to Inspector Dominick Henry's staff. The magistrate told the detectives he didn't believe a word of their story. He characterized it as "a tissue of lies."

Robert Moorhead, thirty-five years old, of 2450 Second Avenue; George Heinken, thirty-eight, of 2267 Turnbull Avenue; and Thomas Morris, forty-eight, of 461 East 144th Street, were taken into custody by the detectives, who alleged they were driving a Ford car in Washington Avenue and their way was obstructed by the defendants, who, they said, had resisted arrest.

Moorhead, one of the prisoners, told Magistrate Silberman the detectives had been traveling without tail lights, and he yelled to them to light the lamps, not realizing that they were police officers. One of the detectives pointed a revolver at him, Moorhead declared, and told him he was under arrest.

"This is a case where you detectives tried to be smart," said the magistrate. "To my mind there isn't a word of truth in your charges. I regard the statement you made as a tissue of lies. You are the sort of men who bring the police into disrepute."

Opium Raid Made Where Limousines Used to Park

Chinese Linger After Police Descend Upon Place and Five Go to Prison

Well-dressed women who rode in limousines are reported to have been patrons of a luxuriously appointed opium parlor raided yesterday by detectives of Special Deputy Police Commissioner Carleton Simon's narcotic division. Five Chinese were arrested. Others fled through a sliding panel.

The "parlor," located on lower Canal Street, was raided after a search warrant had been obtained. The doors were forced. Persons who were inside are said to have dived through "escapes" and to have used fire exits in fleeing from arrest. Chinese who were attempting to salvage expensive opium layouts by hurrying pipes and other paraphernalia from upper windows were captured. They gave these names: Ah Deo, Chong Wah, Chong Pook, Ah Sing and Ah Sue. All declared the "parlor" was their residence at this port, explaining they were sailors.

Federal agents acting under Director Ralph Oyster arrested Joseph Cantor, Harry Davisberg and Samuel Greenberg yesterday. The three are charged with using mail boxes for delivery of prohibited drugs. The agents say they purchased $18 worth of cocaine and heroin, using marked bills. Cantor had $114 when arrested.

"I have been going to try that for a long time"

CLERKS in stores where trademarked goods are sold are very familiar with the remark, "I have been going to try that for a long time."

One customer after another comes in, sees an article on display, picks it up, makes the remark quoted above, and buys.

Perhaps you think you never did such a thing.

Just when do you make up your mind to do something or to buy something? It is not at the moment of buying. The impulse to buy comes because the mind has been quietly getting made up for some time past. Something, unknown to you, has been making up your mind.

When you buy or do the thing you have been "going to do for a long time," you experience a feeling of actual relief. It is as though a coiled spring had released itself.

That is the way advertising operates. If the advertisement is interesting enough, so that you will read it, its effect is not lost, though you are unconscious of any change in your feeling or opinions.

If it is frequent enough so that it is not forgotten, you get other impulses that affect you, whether you know it or not.

And one day you act. A definite opinion about a certain thing has been formed in your mind, and you proceed to confirm it.

At least that's what we think.

What do you think?

Do This

Then see if your friends notice prettier teeth

Make this pleasant ten-day test. See what it does for your teeth. Then judge for yourself—by the clear results—how much this method means.

Millions of people have thus found a way to whiter, cleaner, safer teeth. And you will also find it.

It fights film

This method combats the film on teeth—that viscous coat you feel. Film is the teeth's great enemy. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays.

Brushing in the old ways does not end this film. And most tooth troubles are caused by what is left.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Very few people have escaped these troubles caused by film.

Two new methods

Dental science has now found two methods to fight film. Many careful tests have proved their efficiency. Leading dentists everywhere now advise their daily use.

The methods are embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. Other factors, now considered essential, are included with it.

Pepsodent combats the film with every application. It keeps teeth highly polished, so film less easily adheres.

It also stimulates the salivary flow. That is Nature's great tooth-protecting agent. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits which so often cling and form acid. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Thus every use brings five desired effects which old methods failed to bring.

The modern way

Pepsodent is based on modern research. It does what authorities now regard as essential. Half the world over it is displacing old methods, largely by dental advice.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

Watch all the good effects. The book we send will tell the reason for them. Then decide if this method, in your family, should supersede the old. Cut out the coupon now.
