

Missing Co-ed Found Working As Hired Cook

Edna Taylor, Daughter of N. Y. Architect, Returns to Chicago U. After 3 Days of Sociological Research

Roommates 'Peach' on Her

Student Known for Radical Views Took Part in War of University on Morons

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

CHICAGO, March 20.—Miss Edna Taylor, of New Canaan, Conn., University of Chicago student, who has been mysteriously missing since last Thursday, was found here today. She returned this afternoon to the home of her mother, Mrs. Taylor, at 4219 Berkeley Avenue, where she had been rooming. She is the daughter of Alfred H. Taylor, a New York architect, with offices at 138 West Sixty-fifth Street.

Miss Taylor, who is twenty-one years old and a student of psychology at the University of Chicago since last September, had been working as a cook in the home of Milton E. Robinson, coal merchant, 4610 Drexel Boulevard, from the time of her disappearance until Saturday night. It was through her roommates, Phyllis Kerr, of New York, and Eleanor Kern, of Chicago, that Miss Taylor's parents were informed of her disappearance. They wired to her on Thursday, leaving a note saying she was going to visit friends in Pittsburgh and from there would proceed to New Canaan. Mr. Taylor asked the university officials to notify the police of her disappearance. He retained the services of Jesse Lowenhaupt, an attorney, and a detective to work on the case.

Girl Explains to Roommates

"I didn't expect that I would cause so much excitement," Miss Taylor said, when found. "I gave all the explanation I thought was necessary to my roommates."

She been staying here at nights and going out during the day answering advertisements for work.

The pretty blond co-ed, who has been sought frantically by the police of three cities and private detectives, said she had voluntarily. She had read articles in newspapers to-day indicating the furor which her disappearance caused.

"I told me she was from the country and was not in good health," the Seymour told the police. "She said she wanted to rest up here a few weeks before attending the university. I answered an ad Thursday morning and she was here Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Friday and Saturday night she was gone for a few hours around dinner time."

While investigators were diving into the bohemian manner of living of the girl who bobbed her hair, wore "barefoot" sandals in coldest weather and asked embarrassing questions of her instructors, Captain McFarland of the Hyde Park station, called for further questioning of Miss Taylor's roommates, Miss Kerr and Miss Kern.

Miss Kerr admitted that Miss Taylor had applied last Tuesday to the University of Chicago employment bureau for a job. She was sent to Mrs. Robinson, where she worked Friday and Saturday night, giving her real name and in no way trying to shroud her identity.

New Employer Helped Her

"We knew from her cooking and from her appearance that she was not a regular cook," said Mrs. Robinson, but we wanted to help her. We took her home each night to the place she said was home. She gave her address as 4716 Drexel Boulevard."

Investigation disclosed that Miss Taylor had never stayed at the latter address.

Miss Taylor, in applying for the job and absenting herself from her rooming house, is believed to have been pursuing her investigations of sociological conditions, in which she is ardently interested.

Mystery as to her whereabouts at night and in the day when she was not at the Robinson home, however, still is puzzling the police.

The discovery that Miss Taylor was working at the Robinson home came after a cross-examination of Miss Kerr.

Miss Kerr also identified two men she believes can throw light on the girl's acts. One, she said, was known as "Billie" and the other was "George Hager, of New Canaan." She was out with them frequently, Miss Kerr said.

A letter written to her mother by Miss Taylor was turned over to Mr. Lowenhaupt. It was a letter "such an any girl would write to her mother."

That Miss Taylor was not in need of funds is evidenced by the fact that she had about $100 in her purse, having received her remittance from her father only a few days before.

Mr. Robinson is a prominent coal dealer and a graduate of the University of Chicago. Immediately it was learned the new servant knew nothing was working her way through school. Mr. Robinson permitted her to remain to straighten up the kitchen and do the dishes.

College acquaintances were inclined to explain Miss Taylor's disappearance by the fact that quarterly examinations began to-day. She also is said to be disappointed by failure to make a place for herself in the contest of the Woman's Athletic Council's annual play.

According to her companions, she would remain out late at night in search of material for her sociological studies. She told them that she was the University of Chicago as a result of learning because it gave her a greater opportunity for "social expansion." Her father is decidedly advanced and had caused a disagreement, she confided to girl companions, with her mother.

Hold Divorced Wife of Abe Attell as Gang Head

Corrupted Burglar Alarm Men to Help Fur Robbers, Philadelphia Police Declare

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

PHILADELPHIA, March 20.—Called "brains of a band of crooks who have been busy robbing wholesale groceries of big fur stores in this city through the corruption of employees of burglar alarm and protective companies, Mrs. Ethel Goodwin, described by the police as the divorced wife of Abe Attell, former pugilist, was arrested in the Hotel Majestic this afternoon.

The police charge that Mrs. Goodwin struck up acquaintance with burglar protective employees and obtained wiring plans of buildings which enabled the gang to work without setting off the alarms.

Three men also were arrested following an investigation by Lieutenant Carlin and Detectives Gay and Kane after the capture of William Carroll and Morris Williams, who, it is charged, attempted to do a wholesale furrier's establishment in Arch Street Sunday.

Mrs. Goodwin was held in $3,000 bail for a hearing on March 25. The others were held without bail.

Irish Fund Prize Plan Scrutinized as Lottery

Trip to Ireland and Other Inducements Attract Federal Attention

BOSTON, March 20.—Postoffice inspectors and representatives of the United States District Attorney's office to-day discussed the offering of gifts in a circular letter alleged to have been sent through the mails by John F. Harrigan, of Worcester, president of the State Council, American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic. The letter was an appeal for funds for the support of Eamon de Valera.

Portions of the circular enumerated various gifts, including a round trip to Ireland, to be distributed to fortunate subscribers to the fund, and added:

"Keep the number of your subscription envelope. It may mean that you will secure one of the above gifts."

It was said no decision had been reached as to whether the offering of gifts constituted a lottery. One of the officials present, however, asserted that "somebody would be prosecuted" if the prizes should be distributed.

No Seats in Film Show, He Arrests 2 Attaches

Elmer L'Hommedieu, manager of the New Bay picture theater at Broadway and Eighty-third Street, and Harry Meek, doorman at the theater, were held in $500 each for examination Monday by Magistrate Renaud in Municipal Court last night on charges of disorderly conduct. The complainant was Sergeant William Delaney, attached to the Rockaway Beach police station.

Delaney says that when the theater last night in civilian clothing, accompanied by his young son. He bought balcony tickets, he said, but found there were no seats. He saw the manager about it. He told the court that he was pushed out of the theater by the doorman and thought the doorman should be arrested. L'Hommedieu had a charge preferred against him by Delaney in Night Court when he appeared for the arraignment of Meek.

L'Hommedieu did not testify, but is said to have declared that Delaney became boisterous in the theater. The manager said that when he called a policeman with a view to having Delaney arrested, Delaney suddenly revealed himself to be a policeman and said that he didn't intend to be arrested, but was going to wrest somebody. He then departed with Meek.

Bandit Caught After Shooting Cafe Cashier, 75

(Continued from page one)

who broke in between Saturday night and Monday morning vented their rage by destroying or carrying away original and irreplaceable manuscripts of musical compositions by Beethoven, Bach, Schubert, Strakosky and others belonging to the music firm, and by mutilating a quantity of lace and silk in the office of the wholesale silk concern.

Securities in the Breitkopf & Hartel safe, including Liberty bonds worth $20,000, were taken. The burglar then tore into fragments a large number of priceless manuscripts and autograph letters of prominent musicians, which the firm had collected since its establishment in 1719. Other records of inestimable artistic and historic importance they looted and destroyed and a few they removed.

Cut Hole, Use Rope Ladder

On their excursion into the silk firm's quarters the thieves got hoity the exact amount of which has not yet been determined, but it is probable that the loss will be only about half as much as that of the first victims. Here the cracksmen tore up all of McGinniss' Thomas's records and ruined a quantity of merchandise which they could not carry away. They gained access to the office, which is directed below that of the music publishers, by cutting a hole through the floor by five in the floor and using a rope ladder. Through this hole they hauled up as much merchandise as they conveniently could take, and left the building as they had entered it.

The robbery was capably planned and executed with much mechanical ingenuity. An electric torch was used to cut into the two strong boxes, as well as an outfit of burglar's tools, which was left behind and was said by the thieves to be of the latest model, and also seventy-five feet of wire and dozens of small electric storage batteries.

Made a "Police Alarm"

To safeguard themselves from interruption in each case they connected a large bell with the lighting system and wired it to the outer door, enabling them to get away promptly.

Entrance was first made by forcing Breitkopf & Hartel's door from the main hallway, in spite of a watchman's being on duty in the building, and when the robbers left they replaced a pane of heavy glass they had removed from the door frame. No clues were found except some indistinct fingerprints on some of the tools of the burglar's kit.

Three well dressed men entered the candy store of Jacob Werth, at 336 East 130th Street, late yesterday afternoon and waited politely until Werth had finished a conversation with a man named Popkin, salesman for the Metropolitan Tobacco Company, after which the storekeeper inquired what he could do for them. They promptly drew revolvers and compelled him to hold up his hands, while Popkin, who apparently was being ignored, held his up also to be on the safe side.

One of the bandits searched Popkin and Werth, holding a cocked revolver in one hand while abstracting $200 from Popkin's pockets and $37 from those of Werth with the other. From the cash register $13 was taken.

Werth and Popkin were then backed into a rear room of the store and locked in. They were unable to get out for some time after the men had escaped. Boys entering the shop to make purchases heard Werth's shouts for aid and called neighbors, who released the two men. Werth lives on the second floor of a five-story tenement next door to his store and when word of the holdup reached tenants they swarmed to the street. Detectives arrived from the East 126th station to find several thousand men and women massed in front of the candy store.

Miles Boucher, the youthful burglar whose industry kept a burlesque company on the road, made a tour of the city yesterday with Detective Ditch and aided in the recovery of about $1,000 worth of stolen jewelry he had pawned. That is only a small portion of his loot, but the rest probably will not be found, as he was thrifty habit to sell his pawn tickets soon after pawning jewelry.

He was able also to point out to Ditch three more places he had robbed which he had not been able to recall offhand when he was arrested on Sunday night at 470 Park Avenue. The new places on the list are the apartments of W. T. White and Carl Fischer, at 251 West Seventy-ninth Street, and that of a Mrs. Clark at Central Park West and Ninetieth Street.

The house where he was arrested has been an ill omened one for him. He paid a felonious visit to the apartment of Mrs. James Caldwell there several weeks ago, but was frightened away before he had done more than break open the baby's bank, which contained $10.

In his safe deposit box was found a blank check on the Colonial Bank drawn to the order of his brother, who also is under arrest. Albert Hicks, manager of the bank, said that Miles Boucher had converted $600 in francs and pounds into American money three weeks ago and started an account with it. His balance is $10.

Weather Man Frowns as Sprngnig Makes Her Debut

Officially Balmly Season Is Here, but the Forecast Says Cloudy and Colder

This is the first day of spring. Seekers after signs that the sprouting season is really at hand found them yesterday in wooded wilds of the Bronx and sylvan dells along the Boston and Albany post roads, where skunk cabbage and wild violets from beneath sodden leaves of a dead and gone season. In the lowlands of Van Cortlandt Park Sunday visitors found patches of little white blossoms known by a score of names, according to the nativity of the picker.

In Fifth Avenue signs of spring are in the hats of its feminine throngs, and the signs are mostly yellow.

Officially spring began this morning at 4:49. The last day of winter was a mixture of rain with a threat of snow that did not arrive. The weather man says there may be cold snaps and that immediate signs are for chilly temperature, but gardeners in the parks laugh at all such prognostications. They have acres of crocuses nodding through the early sunlight. These crocuses have to be in bloom by Easter Sunday, so that's that.

Oles Will Put Children Of His Town to Bed at 8

'Keep Kids Off Street' at Night, Youngstown Mayor Warns Parents

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, March 20.—"Keep the kids off the streets after 8 o'clock," Mayor George L. Oles advised parents to-day. "I don't believe in arresting the kids for violating the curfew, but the parents."

"The time to nip outcroppings of criminalism and bad citizenship is in the short-pants stage. I was going to say the short-skirt stage, too, but I remember now that some ladies of advanced years wear skirts as short as the ten-year-olds. The way parents allow their children to roam around at night is nothing short of scandalous."

"The parents have become a training ground for jazz, drunkenness, immorality of all kinds and disregard of the domestic virtues. If the parents won't do it the city will put the boys and girls to bed at the proper time. If one patrol isn't enough, we will have the Council buy us several more."

"We were wrong.

"During my enforcement incarceration in the Detroit House of Correction for a period of five days I have been greatly impressed by one thing and that is that prison officials are extremely human and that inmates are decidedly human.

"The affairs of the inmates are

Ohio Man, 72, Uses Ax On Mother-in-Law, 88

Anger at Being Called Too Early for Breakfast Blamed for Attack

CUYAHUOGA FALLS, Ohio, March 20.—Mrs. Theresa Augler, eighty-eight years old, is in a critical condition in an Akron hospital to-night, the result, police say, of being attacked with a hatchet by her seventy-two-year-old son-in-law, Aljos Boeglin. Mrs. Augler is suffering from two deep cuts on her head.

According to Mrs. Augler and Boeglin's wife, Mrs. Mary Boeglin, sixty-five, Boeglin became angered when he was called too early for breakfast to-day. Mrs. Boeglin, who police said also was attacked by her husband, is suffering from cuts about her face.

Neighbors went to the rescue of the two women and held Boeglin until police arrived. He is charged with assault with intent to kill.

Dodge Finishes Prison 'Stretch'; Praises Jailers

Detroit Millionaire Pens Article for Jail Paper in Which He Calls Convicts and Officials All Human

Makes Secret Get-Away

Engages 8 Hotel Rooms in Kalamazoo, Where He Will Answer New Charge To-day

Special Dispatch to The Tribune

DETROIT, March 20.—The five-day prison term of John Duval Dodge, millionaire son of the late John F. Dodge, automobile manufacturer, on a charge of speeding in Detroit, ended to-day. The House of Correction authorities granted his request that he be permitted to leave through a rear door to escape reporters and photographers who were waiting for him.

Dodge improved the shining hours Sunday by writing a contribution to "Progress," a periodical published by the prisoners with the co-operation of the prison authorities.

Here is his story:

"Your conception and my conception of prison have been decidedly erroneous. We both were of the opinion that prison officials were cruel, burly bruisers, with absolutely no humanitarian motives. Again, we both thought that inmates were, on the whole, coarse, illiterate ruffians, beaten and cowed until there was no manhood left in them.

"During my enforcement incarceration in the Detroit House of Correction for a period of five days I have been greatly impressed by one thing and that is that prison officials are extremely human and that inmates are decidedly human.

"The affairs of the inmates are handled through an elective body of inmates known as the central council, which acts as the legislative and judicial branch of the government, and the administrative officials as the executive.

"A decidedly efficacious system—and my well wishes and congratulations are extended to both the administration and the members of the central council."

Dodge made a reservation by telegraph to-day for eight rooms at the New Burtick Hotel, Kalamazoo. He is due there to-morrow, where he will face charges in municipal court.

One warrant charges Dodge with driving an automobile while intoxicated. The other charges him with possessing, furnishing and transporting liquor.

Lucile Ltd. in Receivers' Hands; Dry Era Blamed

Noted Modiste Shop Founded and Controlled by Lady Duff-Gordon Affected as Male Pursestrings Tighten

Receivers were appointed in the Federal court yesterday for Lucile Ltd., the modiste shop at 19 East Fifty-fourth Street, made famous by the creations of Lady Duff-Gordon, its founder and principal stockholder.

Among the causes assigned by G. H. Tolman, for many years manager of the store, for the failure are the decreased liberality of men since the enactment of prohibition and the falling off in social activity, due to the general business depression.

The tangible assets of the corporation are estimated in the receivership petition at $75,000, while the liabilities are placed at $175,000. Counsel for the creditors explained that sales in 1921 fell $350,000 behind those in 1920, when the total business amounted to $1,300,000. The company's lawyers said, however, that orders have been coming in so fast since the spring opening on March 9, that the concern is expecting the largest spring turnover in its history.

In the receivership petition two reasons for invoking court aid are set forth: the desirability of continuing the business in order to preserve intact the good will attached to the Lucile name, and the fact that B. Altman & Co. and other creditors are seeking judgments whose execution would impair the credit of the corporation.

The decision to ask for a receivership was reached at a meeting of about forty creditors with claims for more than $250, held Saturday after Lucile's New York office had received word from Lady Duff-Gordon's son-in-law in London that a reorganization is contemplated. The founder of the store has been abroad for the last seven months.

Judge John C. Knox appointed James K. Cuddy and G. H. Tolman, the general manager, receivers, fixing their joint bond at $20,000.

Stick to Shorthand— But Dictate to the Ediphone—

At SAKS A Special Offering of Men's Silk-Striped Madras Shirts at 2.00

—which is very much below the usual price for shirts of this character

TODAY, silk-striped Madras shirts are by far the most in demand. No other shirts are shown in so many variations of color schemes. In this collection a man's choice is very easily satisfied, for there are hundreds of patterns, from the tiniest pinstripe effects to the smart triple stripings — from alternate silk stripings to the newest of jacquards designs. Every coloring of the Spring season, and sizes 13½ to 17.

Men's Town and Country Shirts, 1.85

For golf, tennis, motoring, and street wear. Made of mercerized chevots with collar attached.

Street Floor

Saks & Company

BROADWAY at 34th STREET

HERE are places in New York where excellent lunches can be bought for several dollars, more or less. But you must indeed be hungry if you intend spending much at one time for the home-cooked delicacies served at Schrafft's. Princely lunches: a lovely tea menu: dinners in harmony. And your kind of prices!

SCHRAFFT'S

Superb Confections at Amiable Prices

The petition was filed by Harry Angelo, whose name also appears, with those of Irving Pless and Faber and Hein, on the bankruptcy papers filed at the same time. Their claims, all of which are for merchandise, total $9,167.

The decision to ask for a receivership was reached at a meeting of about forty creditors with claims for more than $250, held Saturday after Lucile's New York office had received word from Lady Duff-Gordon's son-in-law in London that a reorganization is contemplated. The founder of the store has been abroad for the last seven months.

Judge John C. Knox appointed James K. Cuddy and G. H. Tolman, the general manager, receivers, fixing their joint bond at $20,000.

At SAKS A Special Offering of Men's Silk-Striped Madras Shirts at 2.00

—which is very much below the usual price for shirts of this character

TODAY, silk-striped Madras shirts are by far the most in demand. No other shirts are shown in so many variations of color schemes. In this collection a man's choice is very easily satisfied, for there are hundreds of patterns, from the tiniest pinstripe effects to the smart triple stripings — from alternate silk stripings to the newest of jacquards designs. Every coloring of the Spring season, and sizes 13½ to 17.

Men's Town and Country Shirts, 1.85

For golf, tennis, motoring, and street wear. Made of mercerized chevots with collar attached.

Street Floor

Saks & Company

BROADWAY at 34th STREET

B. Altman & Co.

Enchanting Hats

that are brimful of the audacity of Youth, weave their spell of allure for everyone who enters the French Millinery Salon on the Third Floor.

Here are adorable hats that have the cachet of Paris fresh upon them; and here are other adorable hats that first saw the light in B. Altman & Co.'s own ateliers (in the establishment). And it would be difficult, if not impossible, to determine which among them possesses the more distinction, the greater charm.

And in another section of the same interesting Salon one may find a new and exclusive importation of

Paris Mourning Hats

Madison Avenue - Fifth Avenue

34th and 35th Streets New York

Take 10 minutes of our time and find out what this is all about. We will call but once unless you ask us to return.

Telephone Canal 5670

Edwin C. Barnes & Bros. 412 Broadway

THE NEW Ediphone with Electric Control

DUNCAN A LITTLE ROLL FRONT

ARROW COLLAR FOR YOUNG MEN

Cluett, Peabody & Co. Inc. Troy, N.Y.

The Quality

-back of Borden's Grade A milk is the result of constant care. It does not just happen.

BORDEN'S Farm Products Co., Inc

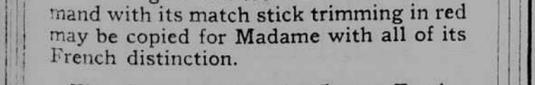

Cortlandt 7961

GIDDING tailors and dressmakers are busy reproducing Rolande's frocks of crepe with long panels, knife plaits and bead motifs.

The crepe Romain frocks of Premet which find their trimmings in dancing figures appliqued about the hem, collar and cuffs.

The beige frock from Martial and Armand with its match stick trimming in red may be copied for Madame with all of its French distinction.

The Callot models in Street Frocks, Afternoon Dresses, Dinner and Evening Gowns which have just come through the customs are now on display in our French Salon, thus making our large collection of Imports complete.

Gidding

Paris 56th Street - 57th Street London

New York