

Payne Whitney Home Is Opened To Help Babies

Fete at Greentree Attracts Long Island Colony and Adds Materially to Milk Funds of 2 Institutions Society Weddings To-day

De Kay-Craven Ceremony at Newport to Draw Many Guests From Other Cities

The fair given at the home of Mrs. Payne Whitney, at Manhasset, L. I., yesterday for the babies' milk funds of the Nassau County Association and the Long Island soccer colony, augmented by residents of the nearby village.

Greenlee, the Whitney estate, was fully decorated for the fete. On the lawn were sheep, rabbits, dogs, kittens and other pedigreed stock were shown.

The fancy tables, filled with dainty delicacies contributed for the sale, found ready customers, and a feature of the fair was that it was eagerly patronized by the swimming pool. Mrs. Whitney was assisted in superintending the affair by her daughter, Miss Joan Whitney.

The wedding of Miss Cornelia Sage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Sage, to Mr. Henry Hutton Landon Jr., will take place this afternoon at St. Bernard's Church, Bernardsville, N. J. The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, which will be attended only by relatives and intimate friends.

Wallace-Seymour Wedding To-day The marriage of Miss Sylvia Lord Seymour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orogen Seymour, to Mr. Darnell Wallace, son of Mrs. Arthur Sinclair Jr., will take place at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon at the home of the bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Daniel Lord, at Lawrence, L. I.

The wedding of Miss Ann Wickes Craven, daughter of Captain and Mrs. Thomas T. Craven, to Lieutenant Rodman de Kay, U. S. N., will be a brilliant event at Newport to-day. All of the ceremony attendant upon a naval wedding will be observed.

The bride and groom, and the army and navy officers, among the guests, will wear full dress uniforms. The bride's party is unusually large and the guests of the bride's attendants have been placed with the bride's mother, Mrs. J. M. McCook, at a large reception, which will be attended by distinguished guests from New York, Washington and Boston, will follow the ceremony.

At Akah, the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Emer John Snow, at Mahwah, N. J., the wedding of their daughter, Miss Olive Louise Snow, and Mr. Preston Darby Ash will take place this afternoon. A special train has been chartered for the wedding from New York. The ceremony will be held out of doors and a large reception will follow.

Among those sailing for Europe to-day on the Homeric, most of whom will be the entire summer abroad, will be Mr. Frederic S. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Brewster, Miss Sylvia Brewster, Mrs. Sherman Flint, Mrs. J. H. Henshaw, Mrs. Laura Henshaw, Miss Edith McCook, Miss Carolyn Frances McCook, Mrs. B. Aymer Sande, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram W. Sibley, Mrs. E. H. G. Slater and Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo T. Woodhouse.

Mrs. Joseph P. Hogue gave a luncheon yesterday in the summer garden at Pierre's. Her guests included Mrs. S. Bryce Wynn, Mrs. William S. Post, Mrs. Louis J. de Milhau and Miss Janet Gourd.

Mrs. John W. Grant entertained at dinner last night at Pierre's. Her guests included Miss Lucille Baldwin, Miss Edna M. Grant, Mr. Harold W. Rose and Mr. J. A. Beach.

Mr. Adrian Iselin 2d has arrived in the city from East Williston, Long Island, and is at the Hotel Lorraine.

Miss Mae Andrews gave a birthday luncheon party yesterday in the Japanese Garden at the Ritz-Carlton. Her guests included Miss Edith McCook, Miss Frances McCook, Miss Katherine Adams, Miss Lawrence Dolan and Miss Margaret Henshaw.

Mrs. John W. Grant entertained at a luncheon at Sherry's yesterday for Mrs. Frank K. Sturgis.

Among those who entertained at dinner at Sherry's last night were Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Harkness.

Among those who entertained at luncheon in the Japanese Garden at the Ritz-Carlton yesterday were Mrs. Ormond C. Smith, who had as a guest, among others, Mrs. William Disston.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bradley Cumings, whose wedding took place Thursday, are at Brattleford Lodge for a few days before sailing for Bermuda.

Guests at Capital for Waddell-Hughes Wedding Ceremony Will Be Performed This Afternoon; Bride's Parents Entertain at Dinner

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Guests arrived in Washington to-day for the wedding of Miss Katherine Hughes to Mr. Charles Lockhart Waddell, of New York, at the Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, of New York, have opened their Prides Neck cottage. Mrs. Whitman arrived to-day for the summer.

Admiral Hilary P. Jones, commander in chief of the Atlantic Fleet, will be given a banquet Saturday evening at the Muenchinger King by the Navy Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce. Twenty-five guests are expected.

Mr. R. Livingston Beekman, who recently announced his candidacy for the United States Senate, returned to-night to his home.

Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice are expected at Miramar next Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Turner and family arrived to-day from New York and have taken the Bookstaver Cottage for the summer.

2 Clubwomen Die in Crash BETHEL, Vt., June 9.—Miss Marjorie Hubbard, daughter of former Lieutenant Governor Hubbard, of Vermont, and Mrs. Arthur Mercer, both of Hyde Park, were killed when an automobile went over an embankment.

The naval attaché of the French Embassy, Captain Rigal, was host at dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria last evening, when he entertained a small company in honor of Commander and Mrs. Galbraith.

Mrs. Thomas J. Galbraith entertained a large party of guests at a moonlight party on the Potomac this evening aboard the steamship Majestic.

The Ambassador of Peru and Senora de Pezet returned this evening from New York, where the Ambassador joined Senora de Pezet yesterday.

Annual Fair at Mrs. Payne Whitney's

On the left is Miss Adele Ryan, and right, Miss Joan Whitney, daughter of Mrs. Whitney. They were two of the most active of the young saleswomen at the fair, which attracted society from all over Long Island.

Zoologist Says He Changed Sex Of Unborn Fruit Flies by X-Ray

Professor Mavor, of Union College, Declares Other Characteristics, Such as Color of Eyes, Can Be Altered by Rays Treatment of Mother Insect

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., June 9 (By The Associated Press).—Announcement that he had succeeded in changing the sex of unborn fruit flies and otherwise altering their hereditary characteristics by use of the X-ray, was made by James W. Mavor, professor of zoology at Union College, in a commencement week address to-day before alumni of the school.

While he did not predict any practical application of his discoveries in the direction of efforts to alter the transmission of hereditary characteristics in animals or plants, Professor Mavor said he did anticipate that they would be of great help in making "a sound foundation for the therapeutic use of X-rays."

"It is of more than academic interest to me to prove that the mechanism of heredity can be modified by an external agent such as X-rays," he said. "Although the whole animal was exposed to the rays while the eggs were in the mother, this striking and far-reaching effect on the inheritance of the offspring was produced without apparently affecting the body of the mother herself in any way."

Banana Fly Is Good Subject The banana fly was selected for the experiment, he explained, because of the great mass of data concerning its hereditary characteristics already collected made it possible to check accurately any alterations effected by the X-rays.

"Among the hundreds of mutations which have been found by those experimenting with the fruit fly," he continued, "there are some, the inheritance of which is related to sex. For example, if a white-eyed female fruit fly (white-eye is a mutation) is mated with an ordinary red-eyed male of the same species, all the sons will be white-eyed like their mother and all the daughters will be red-eyed like their father. On the other hand, if a red-eyed female be mated with a white-eyed male, all the sons and daughters will be red-eyed."

Theory Acts in Reverse Cases "Now, if a red-eyed female be treated with a certain dose of X-rays and mated to a white-eyed male, some of her sons will be white-eyed like their father. In a similar way if a white-eyed female be treated with X-rays and mated with a red-eyed male, some of her daughters will be red-eyed and some of her sons will be white-eyed."

Prof. Mavor explained the action of X-rays in altering the minute cells, the chromosomes, whereby hereditary qualities are passed on from one generation to the next. This action of the X-ray on the immature egg cells of the fly brought about the alterations in sex, he said.

Mrs. Frank Taylor Evans Prince of Monaco to Go Gives Dinner at Newport Under Knife; Is Very Ill

Guests Include Craven Bridal Party; Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont Returns to New York

PARIS, June 9 (By The Associated Press).—The Prince of Monaco was taken to a hospital this morning in a serious condition, and it was announced that he would be operated on to-morrow. The prince is seventy-three years old.

News of his illness aroused much interest in political circles. His heir, Prince Louis, is a French citizen and a lieutenant-colonel in the French cavalry. An adopted daughter, Charlotte, Polignac, was also a citizen of Monaco.

Yale Changes Law Credits NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 9.—Changes in the courses in the Yale Law School were made public by Dean W. Swan to-day, which credits thirteen hours of first year law work toward full work for senior year, either for the B. A. or Ph. D. degree, in place of the recent allowance to college seniors of ten out of fifteen hours credit toward the senior year in law.

Many college undergraduates have desired to cover the academic and financial requirements in six years by adding law courses in the latter to academic studies. The new plan, which accords with that in use in universities having law schools, will be in effect in 1923.

Going On To-day American Museum of Natural History; admission free. Metropolitan Museum of Art; admission free. Aquarium; admission free. New York Historical Society; admission free. Van Cortlandt Park Museum; admission free.

Geological Park; admission free. Competitive exhibition of photographs. American Museum of Natural History. Exhibition of Whistler lithographs and prints. Brooklyn Museum, Eastern Parkway. Meeting of Women's Press Club, Waldorf-Astoria, 2 o'clock.

Dinner of University of Wisconsin Alumni, Hotel Commodore, 7 o'clock. School, Hotel Commodore, 7 o'clock. Closing exercises, Shields' Hall, Schermerhorn and Smith streets, Brooklyn, 8 o'clock.

2 Clubwomen Die in Crash BETHEL, Vt., June 9.—Miss Marjorie Hubbard, daughter of former Lieutenant Governor Hubbard, of Vermont, and Mrs. Arthur Mercer, both of Hyde Park, were killed when an automobile went over an embankment.

The naval attaché of the French Embassy, Captain Rigal, was host at dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria last evening, when he entertained a small company in honor of Commander and Mrs. Galbraith.

Mrs. Thomas J. Galbraith entertained a large party of guests at a moonlight party on the Potomac this evening aboard the steamship Majestic.

The Ambassador of Peru and Senora de Pezet returned this evening from New York, where the Ambassador joined Senora de Pezet yesterday.

Guests at Capital for Waddell-Hughes Wedding Ceremony Will Be Performed This Afternoon; Bride's Parents Entertain at Dinner

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Guests arrived in Washington to-day for the wedding of Miss Katherine Hughes to Mr. Charles Lockhart Waddell, of New York, at the Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, of New York, have opened their Prides Neck cottage. Mrs. Whitman arrived to-day for the summer.

Admiral Hilary P. Jones, commander in chief of the Atlantic Fleet, will be given a banquet Saturday evening at the Muenchinger King by the Navy Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce. Twenty-five guests are expected.

Mr. R. Livingston Beekman, who recently announced his candidacy for the United States Senate, returned to-night to his home.

Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Rice are expected at Miramar next Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Turner and family arrived to-day from New York and have taken the Bookstaver Cottage for the summer.

2 Clubwomen Die in Crash BETHEL, Vt., June 9.—Miss Marjorie Hubbard, daughter of former Lieutenant Governor Hubbard, of Vermont, and Mrs. Arthur Mercer, both of Hyde Park, were killed when an automobile went over an embankment.

The naval attaché of the French Embassy, Captain Rigal, was host at dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria last evening, when he entertained a small company in honor of Commander and Mrs. Galbraith.

Mrs. Thomas J. Galbraith entertained a large party of guests at a moonlight party on the Potomac this evening aboard the steamship Majestic.

The Ambassador of Peru and Senora de Pezet returned this evening from New York, where the Ambassador joined Senora de Pezet yesterday.

Guests at Capital for Waddell-Hughes Wedding Ceremony Will Be Performed This Afternoon; Bride's Parents Entertain at Dinner

WASHINGTON, June 9.—Guests arrived in Washington to-day for the wedding of Miss Katherine Hughes to Mr. Charles Lockhart Waddell, of New York, at the Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Crane Doesn't Know If He Got 20 Years

Former American Minister to China, Home on Aquitania, Gives Possible Reason for Prison Report Friend Was Convicted

Dr. Shahabender, Missionary Who Conferred With Him, Is Given 15 Years

If a French military court, sitting in Damascus convicted him of inciting riot and sentenced him to a term of twenty years' imprisonment early in May, Charles R. Crane, former American Minister to China, is not aware of the findings. He returned last night on the Cunard liner Aquitania from Southampton, after four months in the land of the Moslems, and had tarried for several weeks in France, but throughout his leisurely journey home nothing official has come to him, he said, that would indicate conviction by the military officials of the French mandate in Syria.

"The reports coming from Damascus to this country," he said, "probably emanated from the trial, conviction and the sentence to fifteen years' imprisonment imposed upon Dr. Shahabender, a worthy missionary and graduate of Beirut College, who had a talk with me several times in Damascus. The fact that he conferred with me apparently has been sufficiently criminal to merit for him a sentence of fifteen years."

Conditions Serious in Syria "While in Syria I had no unpleasant experiences with the French authorities, and I encountered no difficulties with the French government while in Paris. Conditions are serious in Syria and I haven't any idea just now what I shall do about it, if anything at all. After a few days at my home in this city I will go to my summer place at Wood's Hole, Mass., and attend to some work for the Marine Biological Laboratory, of which I am president."

Mr. Crane was accompanied by his young granddaughter, Miss Bruce Crane, and several servants. Dr. Arthur Curtis James, who with Mrs. James and a party of friends made a tour of the world in his auxiliary yacht Aloha returned on the Aquitania accompanied by his wife, A. P. Alvord and W. J. Matheson.

The yacht, which took the party on its journey of 30,000 miles, left New York early in September of last year and returned to Newport last week. Mr. Crane and his party had disembarked at Marseilles. Mr. James said that he had encountered ideal weather throughout the trip with the exception of six days of violent weather on the Pacific coast.

Alma Gluck Is Back Miss Alma Gluck, the soprano, wife of Edward Zimbalist, the violinist, returned after a short visit to Leipzig, Germany, whither she had gone to buy a home for the parents of her husband, who are now living in Constantinople.

She is reported to be in good health, and she said she was not bound by the German laws, she said, "that I did not get the home I had planned on. The law requires that I should build a home in which to house the owners. I did not want to compromise, however, by building a roof apartment on a house already constructed and at the end of ten years this will revert to the German government."

She said she received cable messages from her husband who is touring through China and that the cables replied she sent him while she was in Vienna cost her 10,000 kronen a word.

T. Spedding, pursuer of the Aquitania, was the guest of Viscount and Lady Astor at the Derby Stakes on May 31. Mr. Spedding said that at 1:30 p. m., just before the first race, an air plane, 1,000 feet in the air, invisible to the multitude below, wrote with a trail of smoke across the sky the words "Daily Mail," the letters being a mile in height. The two words, Mr. Spedding said, remained in the sky for the rest of the race, but were already fading as the plane took twenty-two minutes to perform its feat.

LOS ANGELES, June 9.—Guy Brinton Barham, broker, one time the banking commissioner and publisher of the "Evening Herald" newspaper, since its inception eleven years ago.

He was born in The Dalles, Ore., in 1863, and was brought to California three years later.

His two brothers, who are associated in the newspaper enterprise, and a wife, Mrs. Mary B. Barham, and daughter, Millicent, who were in London with him at the time of his death, planned to meet with his family in Los Angeles in the near future.

Mr. Barham was operated on two days ago for throat trouble and apparently had recovered from the operation, but he died suddenly from what his doctors described as pulmonary embolism.

The body will be shipped to America next Wednesday. Mrs. Barham is now in London.

PUBLISHER DIES ABROAD Augustus C. Studer Was Owner of "The Montclair Times"

Augustus C. Studer, publisher of "The Montclair Times," died yesterday at Thun, Switzerland, according to a cablegram received by his son, Augustus C. Studer Jr. Mr. Studer, who lived in Montclair, went abroad with his wife and daughter on May 13, and had intended to remain abroad until October. He was sixty-seven years old.

Forty-five years ago he founded "The Montclair Times." He was a Republican and a member of the New Jersey Assembly in 1882 and 1883. He was at one time president of the New Jersey Press Association and was a member of the Masons and Elks.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. William T. West, of Haverford, Pa. The body will be brought back to America.

Mrs. Clara J. Morrow Dies Succumbs at Riverside Drive Home in 83d Year

Mrs. Clara J. Morrow, mother of Dwight W. Morrow, of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., and of J. J. Morrow, Governor of the Panama Canal Zone, died last night at her home, 448 Riverside Drive.

One Is Apt to Rub Elbows With Most Any Old Soul in Spirit Art

One Exhibitor of Automatic Drawings Says Three Squaws, Dead Italian and Spaniard Guided Her Pencil; She Never Took a Lesson in Her Life

The wildest fancies of the vorticists and dadaists pale before the exhibition of pictures opened in the Anderson Galleries yesterday for "scientific discussion" and to give the public an opportunity to view samples of "automatic drawing."

The spirits themselves, according to their jovial, weird or whimsical moods, are said by the five exhibitors to do all the work. Protean figures form rapidly and conceivably under the pencil or brush, and neither mental effort nor physical propulsion contributes to the result, they contend.

The exhibitors are well known to psychic researchers. The late Dr. Hypnot and Dr. Walter Franklin Prince, head of the Psychical Research Society, have commented favorably on some of their work. They are Mrs. Helen Wells, Mrs. Julia Forrest, Miss F. Marion Spore, Miss Emily Talmadge and Frederick L. Thompson. It is the first time an attempt has been made to group the work of persons in this country who claim to be gifted with the power of automatic drawing, and to put it on public view. A similar exhibition in London recently created intense interest and discussion.

Sir Arthur Interest Miss Spore, who is expert in three phases of so-called automatic drawing—pencil, water colors and oils—supplies the Oriental touch with gilded temples and purple minarets. A number of her vivid, diversified oil paintings hang on the walls. Her water colors are delicately executed. She is a woman of twenty-three, who said she never had an art lesson in her life. She became interested in spiritualism upon the death of her mother. Turning to the ouija board she got a message from it that she was to draw, Miss Spore explained. She took a pencil and almost imperceptibly her hand began to move. In common with all the others who do this work she said that she did not go into a trance, but that her hand appeared to be automatically guided and that her thoughts were not anywhere. She does not have to concentrate. The auto-suggestion simply projects itself on the canvas before her.

Thompson, who mentioned by the late Dr. Hyslop in his book on automatic drawing, does wind-swept landscapes and isolated scenes—a ship in full sail, a clump of ferns, a barren moor. There is more subtlety in the work that comes from his brush. It moves and almost imperceptibly the other paintings and is hazy and vague. Miss Talmadge works with crayon. A single flower in a solid background is her usual theme. It is beautifully executed and shows a delicate touch of color and line. The uninitiated could hardly believe, according to the art critics who have viewed her work.

The drawings done by Mrs. Julia Forrest suggest the book of Euclid. Her controlling spirit must have been a mathematical fiend, for her designs are one geometrical problem after another. Rows and rows without compass; dozens and dozens of squares and triangles; every bit of her work capable of being reduced, in the final analysis, to area and angles.

Guy Barham, Coast Publisher, Dies in London Member of Hearst Party Succumbs After an Operation for Throat Trouble

LONDON, June 9.—Guy Barham, publisher of the "Los Angeles Herald," who has been traveling in Europe with William Randolph Hearst and Mrs. Hearst, died in a London hospital this morning.

Mr. Barham was operated on two days ago for throat trouble and apparently had recovered from the operation, but he died suddenly from what his doctors described as pulmonary embolism.

The body will be shipped to America next Wednesday. Mrs. Barham is now in London.

LOS ANGELES, June 9.—Guy Brinton Barham, broker, one time the banking commissioner and publisher of the "Evening Herald" newspaper, since its inception eleven years ago.

He was born in The Dalles, Ore., in 1863, and was brought to California three years later.

His two brothers, who are associated in the newspaper enterprise, and a wife, Mrs. Mary B. Barham, and daughter, Millicent, who were in London with him at the time of his death, planned to meet with his family in Los Angeles in the near future.

Mr. Barham was operated on two days ago for throat trouble and apparently had recovered from the operation, but he died suddenly from what his doctors described as pulmonary embolism.

The body will be shipped to America next Wednesday. Mrs. Barham is now in London.

PUBLISHER DIES ABROAD Augustus C. Studer Was Owner of "The Montclair Times"

Augustus C. Studer, publisher of "The Montclair Times," died yesterday at Thun, Switzerland, according to a cablegram received by his son, Augustus C. Studer Jr. Mr. Studer, who lived in Montclair, went abroad with his wife and daughter on May 13, and had intended to remain abroad until October. He was sixty-seven years old.

Forty-five years ago he founded "The Montclair Times." He was a Republican and a member of the New Jersey Assembly in 1882 and 1883. He was at one time president of the New Jersey Press Association and was a member of the Masons and Elks.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. William T. West, of Haverford, Pa. The body will be brought back to America.

Mrs. Clara J. Morrow Dies Succumbs at Riverside Drive Home in 83d Year

Mrs. Clara J. Morrow, mother of Dwight W. Morrow, of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., and of J. J. Morrow, Governor of the Panama Canal Zone, died last night at her home, 448 Riverside Drive.

One Exhibitor of Automatic Drawings Says Three Squaws, Dead Italian and Spaniard Guided Her Pencil; She Never Took a Lesson in Her Life

The wildest fancies of the vorticists and dadaists pale before the exhibition of pictures opened in the Anderson Galleries yesterday for "scientific discussion" and to give the public an opportunity to view samples of "automatic drawing."

The spirits themselves, according to their jovial, weird or whimsical moods, are said by the five exhibitors to do all the work. Protean figures form rapidly and conceivably under the pencil or brush, and neither mental effort nor physical propulsion contributes to the result, they contend.

The exhibitors are well known to psychic researchers. The late Dr. Hypnot and Dr. Walter Franklin Prince, head of the Psychical Research Society, have commented favorably on some of their work. They are Mrs. Helen Wells, Mrs. Julia Forrest, Miss F. Marion Spore, Miss Emily Talmadge and Frederick L. Thompson. It is the first time an attempt has been made to group the work of persons in this country who claim to be gifted with the power of automatic drawing, and to put it on public view. A similar exhibition in London recently created intense interest and discussion.

Sir Arthur Interest Miss Spore, who is expert in three phases of so-called automatic drawing—pencil, water colors and oils—supplies the Oriental touch with gilded temples and purple minarets. A number of her vivid, diversified oil paintings hang on the walls. Her water colors are delicately executed. She is a woman of twenty-three, who said she never had an art lesson in her life. She became interested in spiritualism upon the death of her mother. Turning to the ouija board she got a message from it that she was to draw, Miss Spore explained. She took a pencil and almost imperceptibly her hand began to move. In common with all the others who do this work she said that she did not go into a trance, but that her hand appeared to be automatically guided and that her thoughts were not anywhere. She does not have to concentrate. The auto-suggestion simply projects itself on the canvas before her.

Thompson, who mentioned by the late Dr. Hyslop in his book on automatic drawing, does wind-swept landscapes and isolated scenes—a ship in full sail, a clump of ferns, a barren moor. There is more subtlety in the work that comes from his brush. It moves and almost imperceptibly the other paintings and is hazy and vague. Miss Talmadge works with crayon. A single flower in a solid background is her usual theme. It is beautifully executed and shows a delicate touch of color and line. The uninitiated could hardly believe, according to the art critics who have viewed her work.

The drawings done by Mrs. Julia Forrest suggest the book of Euclid. Her controlling spirit must have been a mathematical fiend, for her designs are one geometrical problem after another. Rows and rows without compass; dozens and dozens of squares and triangles; every bit of her work capable of being reduced, in the final analysis, to area and angles.

Guy Barham, Coast Publisher, Dies in London Member of Hearst Party Succumbs After an Operation for Throat Trouble

LONDON, June 9.—Guy Barham, publisher of the "Los Angeles Herald," who has been traveling in Europe with William Randolph Hearst and Mrs. Hearst, died in a London hospital this morning.

Mr. Barham was operated on two days ago for throat trouble and apparently had recovered from the operation, but he died suddenly from what his doctors described as pulmonary embolism.

The body will be shipped to America next Wednesday. Mrs. Barham is now in London.

LOS ANGELES, June 9.—Guy Brinton Barham, broker, one time the banking commissioner and publisher of the "Evening Herald" newspaper, since its inception eleven years ago.

He was born in The Dalles, Ore., in 1863, and was brought to California three years later.

His two brothers, who are associated in the newspaper enterprise, and a wife, Mrs. Mary B. Barham, and daughter, Millicent, who were in London with him at the time of his death, planned to meet with his family in Los Angeles in the near future.

Mr. Barham was operated on two days ago for throat trouble and apparently had recovered from the operation, but he died suddenly from what his doctors described as pulmonary embolism.

The body will be shipped to America next Wednesday. Mrs. Barham is now in London.

PUBLISHER DIES ABROAD Augustus C. Studer Was Owner of "The Montclair Times"

Augustus C. Studer, publisher of "The Montclair Times," died yesterday at Thun, Switzerland, according to a cablegram received by his son, Augustus C. Studer Jr. Mr. Studer, who lived in Montclair, went abroad with his wife and daughter on May 13, and had intended to remain abroad until October. He was sixty-seven years old.

Forty-five years ago he founded "The Montclair Times." He was a Republican and a member of the New Jersey Assembly in 1882 and 1883. He was at one time president of the New Jersey Press Association and was a member of the Masons and Elks.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. William T. West, of Haverford, Pa. The body will be brought back to America.

Mrs. Clara J. Morrow Dies Succumbs at Riverside Drive Home in 83d Year

Mrs. Clara J. Morrow, mother of Dwight W. Morrow, of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., and of J. J. Morrow, Governor of the Panama Canal Zone, died last night at her home, 448 Riverside Drive.

DEATHS

LEARY—On June 9, 1922, Arthur P. Leary, aged 67 years, died at 2 p. m. from his late residence, 1237 74th St., Brooklyn. Interment St. John's Church, Astoria, N. J., on Sunday, June 11, 1922.

LEFFERTS—Edith C. widow of the late William H. Lefferts, on May 24, in Paris, France, aged 70 years, at her late residence, 104 Lexington av., Monday morning, June 12, 1922.

LIECHT—Kathryn Graham, CAMPBELL FUNERAL CHURCH, Sunday, June 11, 1922, at 2 p. m. Interment at St. John's Church, Astoria, N. J., on Sunday, June 11, 1922.

MAY—On Friday, June 9, 1922, Alice May, widow of Alfred Lewis May, funeral services will be held at the Brooklyn Home of the Poor, 125th St. and Avenue C, on Sunday, June 11, at 2 p. m. Interment at St. John's Church, Astoria, N. J., on Sunday, June 11, 1922.

MCCABRELL—On Friday, June 9, 1922, of pneumonia, William Alexander, youngest son of James H. T. and Helen P. McCabrell, aged 27 years, died at his late residence at the Lotters Place Chapel, 86 Lotters Place, near Grand av., Brooklyn, on Saturday, June 10, at 1:30 p. m. Interment Greenwood Cemetery.

MCGILVER—On June 8, 1922, Margaret McGilver, beloved wife of Mary McGilver, died at her late residence, 11 East 84th St., on Saturday, June 10, at 10 a. m., from a stroke of the heart. Interment Calvary Cemetery.

MEPHAM—On Thursday, June 8, 1922, Gertrude M. Meppham, widow of Captain William Meppham, died at her late residence, 121 West 14th St., on Saturday, June 10, at 10 a. m., from a stroke of the heart. Interment Calvary Cemetery.

MORROW—In New York, on June 9, Mrs. Clara J. Morrow, in