Last of Auctioned Vacation Parties Able to Leave for Summer Trips To-day; Still 200 Boys to Have Outings This Week With Your Help

Good morning! This is the happiest day of the summer—did you know that? Well, there are three good reasons. First and foremost it's the happiest day because it's the day on which the boys, who all but missed their opportunity, will board a train and steam away for vacation.

They are the last of the 600 in the special parties the Fund auctioned off last week. How close they came to a miss is indicated by the fact that not until yesterday morning was the Fund able to telegraph its acceptance of the last of the lists of invitations for the parties.

The kiddie thought their chance had gone aglimmering. Then their hopes faded began to wake up. They were to go to wonderful beautiful places too—to Delhi, to Umatilla, to Gilbertville and other places in the same glorious summer region.

It's the happiest day for them, you'll agree to that.

Largest Single Contributor

In the second place, this is the happiest day because you will find in the list of contributions acknowledged the largest single contribution ever received by the Fund.

This finest of all contributions is from one of the Fund's oldest friends, a collective "friends-and-family" made up of a number of kind folks in Pittsfield, Mass., and surrounding towns, who every summer put the shoulder to the Fresh Air wheel and help which is their goal.

That's a cause for happiness, is it not? And again the kiddies are the ones who gather the good times.

At this time, the total of the contributions to date is the largest for a single day so far this season. Altogether the Friends of Children poured into the Fund's treasury yesterday $3,926.33. This one day's receipts pay for two weeks of fun and frolic for 628 boys and girls.

Three good reasons for calling this the happiest day of the summer—at least of the Fresh Air summer.

The Fund started this summer with an appeal for $100,000, with which to carry through the work it had planned, i. e., the giving of 18,000 vacations to needy boys and girls of the tenements.

At most, then, only 1,500 of the 18,000 children remain to be sent. With two weeks in which children can still be sent out, the money necessary is made available.

Especially the Fund is anxious to care for some more. More than half of all the children given vacations this summer have been entertained in private homes. For some reason the boys getting less than their share of this sort of vacation, and the Fund has to care for them largely in camps.

It will be possible on Friday of this week to put an extra 200 boys in camp at the South Shore Holiday House, at Amity Street, Flushing Meadows, and so. This place is usually reserved for girls, but in view of the shortage of places for boys, it will be filled up with boys of five to ten years on Friday if it is filled at all.

Park Benjamin, Patent Lawyer, Is Dead at 73

Heart Disease Fatal to Naval Expert, Scientist, Editor at His Home in Stamford; 5 Children Survive Him

Mrs. Caruso His Daughter

Miss Dorothy Married the Tenor Against His Wishes; Adoption Spilt His Family

Park Benjamin, long eminent as a patent lawyer, naval expert and scientist, and in recent years conspicuous for two noteworthy domestic occurrences, died of heart disease yesterday morning at his country home at Shippin Point, near Stamford, Conn.

He was born in this city on May 11, 1849, the son of Park and Mary Weston Benjamin, and was educated at the Trinity School and at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, being graduated at the latter in 1867.

He served as an ensign for two years, then was graduated at the Albany Law School in 1870 and from the graduate department of Union College in 1871. He practiced patent law in this city, was editor of "The Scientific American" for a number of years, and from 1875 to 1892 was editor in chief of "Appleton's Encyclopedia of Applied Mechanics."

Author of Books

Mr. Benjamin was the author of "The Early History of Electricity," "History of the United States Naval Academy," and other works, and of numerous articles in magazines and reviews. He always maintained an earnest interest in the navy and the Schenck Academy, since the days when he was an ensign under Farragut, and he was one of the givers of a valuable library to the academy.

Mr. Benjamin was twice married and had five children, who survive him. Park Benjamin Jr., Romeyn Benjamin, Mrs. Dorothy Caruso, Mrs. Gladys Goddard and Mrs. Marjorie Gienny.

His second wife, who was Miss Ida E. Crane, of Yonkers, and whom he married in 1891, became an inmate of a sanatorium at Goshen, N. Y., many years ago. In the fall of 1919, Mr. Benjamin legally adopted as a daughter Miss Anna M. Bolch, a young lady of Italian parentage, who had been a member of his household for seven years, an act which aroused much comment at the time, and was at first resented by his children, but was later acquiesced in by them.

Daughter Wed to Caruso

More than a year before, in the summer of 1918, a still greater sensation had been caused by the marriage of his eldest daughter, Miss Dorothy Benjamin, to Enrico Caruso, the opera singer. Various rumors were current at the time concerning his attitude and that of his family toward this match, but in the end cordial relations prevailed between the singer and his brothers and sisters-in-law.

A certain coolness always existed between Mr. Benjamin and Caruso, however, and in 1916 Caruso operated children in their protest and threatened legal action against their father's adoption of Miss Bolch.
