Quiet Affairs Mark Summer At White House

Mrs. Harding Entertains Many Friends as President Finds Relief in Antoining in Washington

Diplomats Leave City

Departure of the Secretary and Mrs. Hughes Brings Loneliness Into Cabinet

SPECIAL Dispatch to The Tribune
WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Washington cannot be termed deserted with the President in the White House and Congress in session, and yet, comparatively speaking, Washington, Irving might find food for another Sorrowful story.

Life in the White House is always interesting, if not exciting, and though the outer world is generally regarded as "nothing is being done," there is yet much intimate life going on there, the President entertaining his political friends and Mrs. Harding having in quite intimate her intimate friends.

Sometimes it is to luncheon; again they are there for dinner, and quite frequently for tea. Mrs. Harry Newcomb, wife of Senator New, of Indiana, is a frequent visitor, as are other women of the Senate, and occasionally she catches a glimpse of the White House limousine traveling through the park and speeding its way in and about the capital. Sometimes it is the White House family taking a ride, and again it is some friend of the family.

Mrs. Harding had none of her women friends with her in the house for a week ago to hear the President's speech, but instead a White House aide and a few other men. She looked exceedingly handsome in a misty costume of white frouded silk with a dainty but large design in dark blue trailing over it, and the whole complemented with dainty accessories that tone of the pattern of the white silk foundation.

Mrs. Harding finds sport hats becoming, and certainly she was mistaken in selecting the one to be worn with her gown. Her hat was a dead fitting. The gracefully upturned brim, like the crown of the hat, was of blue taffeta, and instead of a white lining, she had a white one. The white on the edge of the brim, the same edging being given the smart-looking cockade at one side.

The day after her leaving, Mrs. Harding, whose gloves have become a feature of her toilet, were of spotted white-finished kid, elbow length and fitted to the hand and fastened with a simple white cord. Her shoes were Mrs. Harding wore the broad black velvet band or collar which is also an other distinguishing mark of her toilet.

and Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, Phyllis Thompson, Miss and Jane Mellon, children of Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Mellon, Constancy Torney, Doris Torney, Bianca Duncan, Tom and Angier B. Duke Jr., Rosanne Wigham, Josephine and Louise Du Pont and Ruth Tuckerman.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Mellon has the plans for the villa to be built for Mr. Duncan Stewart Ellsworth on the Dunes in grounds adjoining that of Mr. Mellon. Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth are this season living in Meadowbrook, a villa on the Dunes, and next year they are hoping to have their own villa ready for their occupancy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth returned this week from two weeks with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McFadden, in Haverford, Pa., where they went after their marriage here in St. Andrew's Dun Church the last of June.

A delightful children's party was given Monday afternoon on the grounds of Villa Millie West by Mrs. Henry James and Mrs. Duncan Stuart Preston for their children and their little friends. The little hosts and hostesses included Esmece O'Brien, the young winner of the Dun Golf Club, Mrs. Edmund O'Brien, Henry, Morgan, Beverly and Willis James, the four small sons of Mr. and Mrs. James; Duncan Stuart Preston, Jr., and Morgan Preston, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Stuart Preston, and all grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan J. O'Brien.

In the mixed foursomes handicap golf tournament which is being played every Sunday afternoon on the links of the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club Miss Joan Potter and her partner, K. Solid, were the winners, taking a place by a score of 88. For second place, there was a tie between Miss Estelle O'Brien and Mr. Anderson Valentin and Mrs. Harry Curtis and Mrs. Henry T. Chickering. Mrs. W. A. Barstow, Mrs. Charles E. Mitchell, Miss Margaret Thaw, Miss Juliana Cutting, Miss Ethel Carhart, Miss Mary Lee, Miss Lucy Brown and Miss Rosalie Goodenough.

Mrs. J. Clifton Edgar has gone to Oyster Bay, where she is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Blackstone Taylor after their summer stay at Camp. Edgar will return in time for the opening of September 3, when she will entertain a party of friends at the performance of "Chauve-Souris" on the grounds of the Fenwick Art Museum for the benefit of the Rogers Memorial Library.

For the benefit of the William Carey Club for members of the Boys' Club of New York will be presented at the Garden Theater, in Hill Street, Tuesday evening, August 29, George Arlis in the photoplay "The Man Who Plays Gory."

The benefit is to be given under the chairmanship of Mrs. Charles H. Sabin and Mr. J. Mackay, director of the club, who is managing the affair. On the program will be given in addition to the photoplay, the film taken on the grounds of the Henry H. Rogers place in Gin Lane at the young college men who are leaders in the work to brighten the lives of the four hundred boys of the camp. Some of the college men will play at the theater and a number of the young boys will sing.

Mrs. Robert Waller, of 45 East Sixty-second Street, who is at her villa, Vyne-Croft, in First Neck Lane, for the summer, departed yesterday for Morristown, N. J., where she will be present at the celebration of the one hundredth birthday of her father, Mr. John A. Stewart, oldest banker in the world, and still active in business. After a few days with her father, Mrs. Waller will return here.
