

Greenwich Horse Show Brings Out Brilliant Throng

Farmers' Luncheon Given by Association in Appreciation of Courtesies Extended Hunters and Riders

Special Dispatch to The Tribune
GREENWICH, Conn., Sept. 16.—With a larger entry and attendance than ever before, the ninth annual horse show of the Greenwich Riding Association and Fairfield and Westchester County Hounds held at Nutbourne Farm, the estate of Mr. James McClenahan, this afternoon was a brilliant event. More than three thousand persons prominent in society in Fairfield and Westchester counties witnessed the events from the ringside, where space had been reserved for the parking of automobiles.

Among those noted to-day were Miss Ruth Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh J. Chisholm, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Lincoln, Mrs. William V. C. Ruxton, Mrs. George Lauder, Mr. and Mrs. J. Rich Stearns, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Lanier, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Arthur Moore jr., Mrs. L. L. Cammann, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Lockwood, Mrs. William Lodge, Mr. and Mrs. E. Allan Wood, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Rothschild, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sutro, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Vandell, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Edson, Mr. and Mrs. L. Storm, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Proser, Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Close, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Maxwell Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Roger S. Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Percy A. Rockefeller, Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Mertz, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Rockefeller, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Gray and Mr. and Mrs. George Wallen.

One of the features of the day was a farmers' luncheon given by the association to the farmers and their families under a large tent on the show grounds in appreciation of the privilege accorded the association in riding and hunting over farmers' estates during the year. All arrangements were made for the luncheon by Mr. John McE. Bowman, who furnished the chef and waiters from the Westchester Baltimore Club.

Judges of the show were: Farm teams, Messrs. William Billington, William Clark, Thomas Finley, Thomas Brodell; saddle horses, General Charles I. Debevoise, Mr. James G. Marshall; hunters, Mr. Frank A. Bond; polo ponies, Mr. Robert Bacon jr.; veterinary inspectors, Dr. J. J. Wood. The horse show committee consisted of Mr. John McSnee, Bowman, Mr. Archer H. Brown, Mr. Roy Jackson, Mr. Charles D. Lanier, Mr. Robert Law Jr., Mr. Louis W. Mertz, Mr. Emerson P. Newell, Mr. James H. Perkins, Mr. P. A. Rockefeller and Mr. S. Allan Wood.

Among the features were the hunters' trials over both inside and outside the ring, the four polo classes, polo being extremely popular in both Fairfield and Westchester counties this year.

The Corinthian class for the Greenwich cup, presented by Mr. E. E. Smothers, Miss Becky Lanier, riding Belling, won the third leg on the coveted trophy and is now the owner. She also won the open jumping class, taking three blues besides a number of seconds and thirds. Her younger sister, Miss Sally Lanier and Miss Betty Berry also won the handsets of the gallery for their expert horsemanship, and received many ribbons.

Sleeping Sickness Cure Is Reported By Germans

Scientist Believes "205" Will Wipe Out the Mysterious Plague in Africa

LONDON, Aug. 25 (By Mail). — A cure for sleeping sickness has been discovered according to a report of the Berlin correspondent of "The Times." Dr. Zache, former District Governor in German East Africa, in an article in the Hamburg Colonial Institute, claims that the discovery of "Beyer 205" will be the key of Africa in German hands. "Beyer 205," the discovery of the Bayerische Farbwerke, is a cure for sleeping sickness, both for human beings and animals. The discovery kills the microbe causing sleeping sickness in man and animals without injuring the patient. Dr. Zache suggests that large stretches of country in the tropics that are now only sparsely inhabited can, owing to this discovery, become suitable for immigration. The Bayerische Farbwerke has supplied the Belgian Colonial Minister, on his request, with a quantity of "205" for research purposes to be used in the laboratories at Leopoldville, in the Congo, and the Belgian technical schools for tropical diseases. German scientists expect, owing to the latest development, that this discovery will point the way to a cure for malaria and also cure it in animals. At the meeting of the Association of Tropical Medicine at Hamburg, attended by scientists from Holland, Ava, Turkey, South America and Germany, the origin was expressed that Germany had made a discovery of tremendous importance. "Beyer 205," said one of the speakers, "is the key to tropical Africa, and consequently the key to all the colonies. The German Government must, therefore, be required to safeguard this discovery for Germany."

Rats Used as Currency in Lone Easter Island Inaccessible Bit of Land Contains No Birds or Native Animals

LONDON, Sept. 1 (By Mail).—Prof. Macmillan Brown, the noted Polynesian authority, has returned from Easter Island, which he describes as the most inaccessible place in the world, though it is visited annually by a Chilean schooner, according to the Sydney correspondent of "The Daily Telegraph." It contains no land birds or native animals, but once small grey rats were used as currency and ultimately served up as titbits for the "aristocracy." Professor Brown examined the famous stone figures in human form, some seventy feet in height, crowned with huge stone hats. Below the platforms upon which the images stand there are chambers wherein are placed the bleached bones of the dead. The professor says there is unmistakable evidence of a sudden abandonment of the work, and believes that the tens of thousands of workmen who erected the monuments were the people of a bygone Pacific empire inhabiting the ring of archipelagoes of which Easter Island is the center. The theory is that food was supplied to the workers by canoes sent from neighboring islands by the masters, who came to bury the great men of the race. A cataclysm submerged the islands, cutting off the supplies, and the workmen then abandoned their duties and pressed by hunger, became cannibals, almost exterminating the population of the islands.

Many Society Leaders See the Futurity Run Visitors to Belmont Park Give Luncheon at the Turf and Field Club

The running of the Futurity, which brought out nearly all of the leading two-year-olds of the season, caused many members of society to visit Belmont Park yesterday afternoon. Many luncheons were given at the Turf and Field Club. Among those who entertained at luncheon were Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Alexandre, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Cowdin, Captain and Mrs. Cyril P. Dugmore, Mrs. Sydney Fish, Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Sinclair, Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Townsend, Mrs. R. T. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Wiegner, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Willets and Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Wing.

Others who were noted at the races were Mr. P. A. B. Widener, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Widener, Mrs. Payne Whitney, Mrs. Samuel Wagstaff, Mrs. A. G. Wellman, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Rutten, Mr. and Mrs. August Belmont, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, Mrs. E. H. Harriman, Mrs. R. Penn Smith, Mrs. C. C. Rumsey, Mrs. Alexander Brown, Miss Suzanne Fish Dresser, Mrs. Oliver Iselin, Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Aldrich, Mrs. Lydie Hoyt, Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Townsend, Mr. and Mrs. William Goodby Loew, Mrs. Pierce Butler and her fiancé, Mr. Gerald Dempsey, Miss Gertrude Graham, Mrs. Francis McAdoo, Mrs. John N. Willis, Mrs. R. L. Wood and Mrs. Robert L. Gerry.

Hylan Lauds Enright Before 75,000 at Police Field Games

Says Police Department Is in Better Shape Than in Forty Years and Will Not Fail; Aviator Hurt in Fall

Mayor John F. Hylan delivered a speech in praise of Richard E. Enright, Police Commissioner, before an audience of 75,000 yesterday at the police field games at the Jamaica racetrack. The crowd was so large that the police were called to restrain it from breaking down barriers and surging on to the field.

"I do not want you to believe all you read in the papers about the police department," said the Mayor. "It is in better shape than it has been in the last forty years. The main trouble has been that no police commissioner has ever stayed long enough to know the department."

The commissioner to-day has been in the department longer than any of his predecessors. Consequently, he is in a better position to handle it. You may rest assured that your police department, the finest in the world, is ready to perform its duty at all times and to act properly in all emergencies. The department never has failed and it never will fail. That you may depend upon."

The only accident that occurred during the day was when an airplane driven by Captain Frank Brady, U. S. A., stuck its nose into the sod and turned a somersault as the pilot was making a landing. Captain Brady was not hurt, but his assistant, Sergeant W. J. Thompson, suffered a fracture of the left wrist.

Captain Ira C. Eaker, U. S. A., and First Lieutenant John Blaney successfully bombed from the air a dummy warship labeled "Enemies of the People." One thousand visiting police chiefs will attend the final games to-day. They are attending the police convention, and will be taken to Jamaica from Police Headquarters in automobiles as the guests of Commissioner Enright. Special trains will be run on the Long Island Railroad for the accommodation of the crowds expected to attend.

Aged Recluse Finds Rest Farm Means Nothing But Work

Bill Standmiller and His Dog Had to Care for 16 Horses, 60 Chickens, and Goats and Cats Besides

Old Bill Standmiller and his dog Snap are back in Jersey City and are satisfied that the rest farm of the Horse Aid Society at Millwood, near Ossining, N. Y., is improperly named.

Old Bill and his dog came into the limelight last May when the aged Jersey City recluse refused to go to the Poor Farm and thus be separated from his dog, his sole companion for many years. Letters offering aid to the old man and the dog came from everywhere in the country to Judge Leo Sullivan. But finally Mrs. Jacob M. Ehrlich, head of the Horse Aid Society, took Old Bill and his dog away in a cushioned limousine to the society's rest farm, where, until yesterday, it was believed the old fellow and his shaggy haired pal were enjoying their old age together.

But it recently came to the attention of officials of the Jersey City Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals that the Rest Farm had become a place of hard work for those depending upon it for food, and Arthur H. McDonald, one of the society's agents, investigated, with the result that Bill and Snap are now comfortably housed in the Shelter House of the S. P. C. A. in Jersey City.

"Standmiller and his dog were living a hard life there," said Mr. McDonald. "They were both in a weak condition. Mr. Standmiller was the only one there to do the work and he was kept busy caring for sixteen horses, fourteen dogs, sixty chickens, ten goats, a cow, a calf and a number of cats. "Those in charge at the place tried to keep him there, but while I was talking with them Mr. Standmiller, feeble as he is, climbed over the fence and got into my automobile which brought him and the dog back to Jersey City. "We will make things pleasant for him. There are odd bits of light work to be done around the shelter and I guess he will be happy."

Mr. Standmiller, who is past the sixty mark, was at one time a well-to-do farmer in Jersey City, but met with business reverses more than twenty years ago. For the last eight years until last May he lived in an abandoned barn on the banks of the Hackensack River in Jersey City with his dog.

day, it was believed the old fellow and his shaggy haired pal were enjoying their old age together. But it recently came to the attention of officials of the Jersey City Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals that the Rest Farm had become a place of hard work for those depending upon it for food, and Arthur H. McDonald, one of the society's agents, investigated, with the result that Bill and Snap are now comfortably housed in the Shelter House of the S. P. C. A. in Jersey City.

"Standmiller and his dog were living a hard life there," said Mr. McDonald. "They were both in a weak condition. Mr. Standmiller was the only one there to do the work and he was kept busy caring for sixteen horses, fourteen dogs, sixty chickens, ten goats, a cow, a calf and a number of cats. "Those in charge at the place tried to keep him there, but while I was talking with them Mr. Standmiller, feeble as he is, climbed over the fence and got into my automobile which brought him and the dog back to Jersey City. "We will make things pleasant for him. There are odd bits of light work to be done around the shelter and I guess he will be happy."

Mr. Standmiller, who is past the sixty mark, was at one time a well-to-do farmer in Jersey City, but met with business reverses more than twenty years ago. For the last eight years until last May he lived in an abandoned barn on the banks of the Hackensack River in Jersey City with his dog.

day, it was believed the old fellow and his shaggy haired pal were enjoying their old age together. But it recently came to the attention of officials of the Jersey City Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals that the Rest Farm had become a place of hard work for those depending upon it for food, and Arthur H. McDonald, one of the society's agents, investigated, with the result that Bill and Snap are now comfortably housed in the Shelter House of the S. P. C. A. in Jersey City.

"Standmiller and his dog were living a hard life there," said Mr. McDonald. "They were both in a weak condition. Mr. Standmiller was the only one there to do the work and he was kept busy caring for sixteen horses, fourteen dogs, sixty chickens, ten goats, a cow, a calf and a number of cats. "Those in charge at the place tried to keep him there, but while I was talking with them Mr. Standmiller, feeble as he is, climbed over the fence and got into my automobile which brought him and the dog back to Jersey City. "We will make things pleasant for him. There are odd bits of light work to be done around the shelter and I guess he will be happy."

Mr. Standmiller, who is past the sixty mark, was at one time a well-to-do farmer in Jersey City, but met with business reverses more than twenty years ago. For the last eight years until last May he lived in an abandoned barn on the banks of the Hackensack River in Jersey City with his dog.

day, it was believed the old fellow and his shaggy haired pal were enjoying their old age together. But it recently came to the attention of officials of the Jersey City Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals that the Rest Farm had become a place of hard work for those depending upon it for food, and Arthur H. McDonald, one of the society's agents, investigated, with the result that Bill and Snap are now comfortably housed in the Shelter House of the S. P. C. A. in Jersey City.

"Standmiller and his dog were living a hard life there," said Mr. McDonald. "They were both in a weak condition. Mr. Standmiller was the only one there to do the work and he was kept busy caring for sixteen horses, fourteen dogs, sixty chickens, ten goats, a cow, a calf and a number of cats. "Those in charge at the place tried to keep him there, but while I was talking with them Mr. Standmiller, feeble as he is, climbed over the fence and got into my automobile which brought him and the dog back to Jersey City. "We will make things pleasant for him. There are odd bits of light work to be done around the shelter and I guess he will be happy."

Mr. Standmiller, who is past the sixty mark, was at one time a well-to-do farmer in Jersey City, but met with business reverses more than twenty years ago. For the last eight years until last May he lived in an abandoned barn on the banks of the Hackensack River in Jersey City with his dog.

day, it was believed the old fellow and his shaggy haired pal were enjoying their old age together. But it recently came to the attention of officials of the Jersey City Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals that the Rest Farm had become a place of hard work for those depending upon it for food, and Arthur H. McDonald, one of the society's agents, investigated, with the result that Bill and Snap are now comfortably housed in the Shelter House of the S. P. C. A. in Jersey City.

BERGDORF GOODMAN

316 FIFTH AVENUE

Tailors Dressmakers Furriers

Paris Models

Mr. Goodman's personal selections from all the foremost Paris houses, over 150 beautiful Evening Gowns, Afternoon Dresses and Three Piece Costumes.

Furs

A marvelous collection of models made in the kind of caracul skins that haven't been shown for seven years. Mink coats as soft as sables. The new smart French short coats in many varieties of furs.

Ready-to-be-Worn

For those who can wear model size gowns, smart simple styles are shown on our first floor at extremely moderate prices.

French Novelties

All the charming unusual things in which Paris excels—belts, head dresses, bags and purses, earrings, atomizers. New Blouses.

B. Altman & Co.

The Autumn Importations of Paris Gowns, Wraps and Tailleurs

expressing in terms of beauty and splendor Fashion's latest authoritative ideas on the subject of feminine costume, as visualized by the great French couturières, are now displayed in their respective Salons

On the Third Floor

Copies or Adaptations of the New Paris Gowns

comprising many choice creations imported exclusively by B. Altman & Co. and now displayed on the Third Floor, will be made to individual requirements at reasonably short notice

at prices ranging from $150.00 upward

The Department for Imported and Special Costumes

Women's Silk Undergarments

although destined to lead a secluded life, are too important an item in feminine appareling to be passed by without mention. Certainly, such a fate is not to be thought of for the many dainty and beautiful garments newly arrived in the Department on the Second Floor.

The exquisite quality and workmanship of these new models will especially appeal to women of refined taste; so, too, will the graceful designs. Duo-tone effects are cleverly achieved in some instances; in others, exquisite laces contribute to the general loveliness. The Autumn bride will choose wisely who includes some of these in her trousseau.

Special for Monday Guaranteed "Sun-Fast" Light-weight Drapery Fabrics

in the latest weaves and colorings very specially priced at $1.15, 1.45, 1.95, 2.25 per yard (Fourth Floor)

Women's Imported Capes & Wraps

lately arrived from Paris, and representing every new fabric and style feature of the opening season, are shown in the Department on the Third Floor at prices ranging from

$190.00 to 575.00

English Top Coats made in London, are priced at $42.50 & 58.00

The Autumn Showing of Women's Fine Shoes

presents, for madame's selection, everything that is newest and most chic in feminine footwear fashions. As usual, Baita Shoes (manufactured exclusively for B. Altman & Co.) are in the lead for style, grace of line and excellence of workmanship. The narrow, close-fitting heel that goes so far toward securing a perfect fit is an important feature of these shoes.

In addition to several new models in strap pumps, an attractive and extremely smart innovation is seen in the new Colonial effects, so becoming to a well-shaped foot.

(Second Floor)

Special for Monday Reversible Velour Portières

at the exceptionally low price of $29.00 per pair

These Portières (from the workrooms of B. Altman & Co.) are made of high-lustre velour, in a choice quality, and may be obtained in the new shades and color combinations to harmonize with Autumn furnishings.

(Fourth Floor)

Madison Avenue-Fifth Avenue, New York
Thirty-fourth Street TELEPHONE 7000 MURRAY HILL Thirty-fifth Street

Good value means high quality at reasonable cost

Flint's Fine Furniture

The best values in furniture come from specializing

If our collection of furniture is a little wider and a little more carefully chosen, it is because we are specialists in furniture.

If our charges for this good furniture are lower than you would expect, that is because our whole attention is centered upon making them so. Our business is built upon low prices to the many, rather than high prices to the few. And today those who love good furniture are many indeed.

The heads of this business know furniture and furniture values. Our first-hand knowledge means money saved to you, and not money alone, but a better type of furniture.

We offer you these benefits of long experience and specialization. They assure your getting the best furniture and the best values.

FLINT & HORNER CO., INC.
20-26 WEST 36TH STREET
A few yards from Fifth Avenue