

THE MACE AND BALDWIN.

Mace and O'Baldwin in the Ring in West Virginia.

THE RING PITCHED AT 6:25 P. M.

Whittling Down O'Baldwin's Spikes with Whetstones.

TROUBLE ABOUT THE REFEREE.

The Men in the Ring at 6:30, New York Time.

DETAILS OF THE TRIP.

A Long and Tedium Journey to Evade the Authorities.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 21.—The pugilistic excursion succeeded last evening in leaving New York and reaching this city quietly that many passengers on the train are not aware of the presence of the distinguished pugilist.

THE MEN IN PRIME CONDITION. Both men seem to be in first-rate condition. Mace rather the brighter of the two. Mace's weight is about 167, and O'Baldwin's about 200.

THE DEPARTURE FROM PITTSBURGH. Sprague left at 10:30. The special car provided by the excursionists was crowded. There was, however, no loud talk, and but very few oaths.

O'BALDWIN'S START. At 11 o'clock a few friends of O'Baldwin left Philadelphia for the Pennsylvania Central depot. Principal among them were Phil Kelly, who brought up a long box containing the ropes and stakes.

O'BALDWIN LIVING IN STATE. O'Baldwin is living in state. He wore his fur cap and plush velvet coat. To his friends he gave a kind word, but to strangers he was surly.

BEHIND TIME. A freight train attempted to run down upon the single track from Steubenville, and the consequence was that it was compelled to back to a switch, and the right of way.

COLLIER'S STATION. It was a little shaky standing in front of a small white house flanked by a hoop and a pig pen. As the party alighted from the cars they stood by the side of a little brook fringed with fragrant wild peppermints.

THE PROSPECTIVE BATTLE GROUND. The remonstrances were effective, and it was finally decided that the party should remain in a car in the train on arriving at Pittsburgh, and should proceed to some point in West Virginia.

THE RING PITCHED AT 6:25 P. M. Whittling Down O'Baldwin's Spikes with Whetstones.

TROUBLE ABOUT THE REFEREE. The Men in the Ring at 6:30, New York Time.

DETAILS OF THE TRIP. A Long and Tedium Journey to Evade the Authorities.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 21.—The pugilistic excursion succeeded last evening in leaving New York and reaching this city quietly that many passengers on the train are not aware of the presence of the distinguished pugilist.

THE MEN IN PRIME CONDITION. Both men seem to be in first-rate condition. Mace rather the brighter of the two. Mace's weight is about 167, and O'Baldwin's about 200.

THE DEPARTURE FROM PITTSBURGH. Sprague left at 10:30. The special car provided by the excursionists was crowded. There was, however, no loud talk, and but very few oaths.

O'BALDWIN'S START. At 11 o'clock a few friends of O'Baldwin left Philadelphia for the Pennsylvania Central depot. Principal among them were Phil Kelly, who brought up a long box containing the ropes and stakes.

the fact. Mace's friends inferred from this that they were selecting the ground and making general arrangements for safety. They were surprised at this, however, because they had supposed that McMullen was still suffering from his wound and was unable to travel.

O'Baldwin formerly lived in Pittsburgh, and it is believed by Mace's friends that this fact influenced him in his selection of the ground. It is rumored that O'Baldwin has informed his friends in Pittsburgh when he will arrive, and that a large crowd of well-meaning and coal men will be at the fight.

Mace's colors, lights, and stockings were bought by Dooney Harris just before the departure from New York. They are of excellent material, and are said to have cost a high price.

Two o'clock P. M.—A conversation just had with some of O'Baldwin's friends leads to the belief that they are disinclined to have the fight proceed before to-morrow morning. They say that the spot cannot be reached and the preliminaries arranged in time to insure the conclusion of the contest before nightfall.

Both men seem to be in first-rate condition. Mace rather the brighter of the two. Mace's weight is about 167, and O'Baldwin's about 200.

THE MEN IN PRIME CONDITION. Both men seem to be in first-rate condition. Mace rather the brighter of the two. Mace's weight is about 167, and O'Baldwin's about 200.

THE DEPARTURE FROM PITTSBURGH. Sprague left at 10:30. The special car provided by the excursionists was crowded. There was, however, no loud talk, and but very few oaths.

O'BALDWIN'S START. At 11 o'clock a few friends of O'Baldwin left Philadelphia for the Pennsylvania Central depot. Principal among them were Phil Kelly, who brought up a long box containing the ropes and stakes.

O'BALDWIN LIVING IN STATE. O'Baldwin is living in state. He wore his fur cap and plush velvet coat. To his friends he gave a kind word, but to strangers he was surly.

BEHIND TIME. A freight train attempted to run down upon the single track from Steubenville, and the consequence was that it was compelled to back to a switch, and the right of way.

COLLIER'S STATION. It was a little shaky standing in front of a small white house flanked by a hoop and a pig pen. As the party alighted from the cars they stood by the side of a little brook fringed with fragrant wild peppermints.

THE PROSPECTIVE BATTLE GROUND. The remonstrances were effective, and it was finally decided that the party should remain in a car in the train on arriving at Pittsburgh, and should proceed to some point in West Virginia.

THE RING PITCHED AT 6:25 P. M. Whittling Down O'Baldwin's Spikes with Whetstones.

TROUBLE ABOUT THE REFEREE. The Men in the Ring at 6:30, New York Time.

DETAILS OF THE TRIP. A Long and Tedium Journey to Evade the Authorities.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 21.—The pugilistic excursion succeeded last evening in leaving New York and reaching this city quietly that many passengers on the train are not aware of the presence of the distinguished pugilist.

THE MEN IN PRIME CONDITION. Both men seem to be in first-rate condition. Mace rather the brighter of the two. Mace's weight is about 167, and O'Baldwin's about 200.

THE DEPARTURE FROM PITTSBURGH. Sprague left at 10:30. The special car provided by the excursionists was crowded. There was, however, no loud talk, and but very few oaths.

O'BALDWIN'S START. At 11 o'clock a few friends of O'Baldwin left Philadelphia for the Pennsylvania Central depot. Principal among them were Phil Kelly, who brought up a long box containing the ropes and stakes.

and fell to the earth. Barney cried "Heads," and stooping down shouted in a gleeful voice, "Heads; it is by the holy poker." Dwyer assented. Then Barney turned to Mace, saying, "Which corner will you have, old man?" Mace answered, "Well, this suits me as well as any."

AN EXHIBITION OF STICKS. Dooney Harris handed Mace his shoes. He laced them on his lap, and then showed to O'Baldwin: "I want to see your shoes. Hold them up." O'Baldwin raised one of his big feet, replying, "There they are. Look at them."

THE NAILS WERE FOUND TO BE TOO LONG AND TOO SHARP. Thereupon Barney Aaron shouted, "Who's got a file?" A guerd-looking genius responded in the affirmative, and O'Baldwin's shoes were laced him with orders to shorten the nails to the size of the nails in Mace's shoes.

THE SCENE AT THE RING. Meantime the crowd gathered about the ropes. There were not over one hundred and fifty present, and of these not one twenty-five ever saw a prize-fight.

THE MEN IN PRIME CONDITION. Both men seem to be in first-rate condition. Mace rather the brighter of the two. Mace's weight is about 167, and O'Baldwin's about 200.

THE DEPARTURE FROM PITTSBURGH. Sprague left at 10:30. The special car provided by the excursionists was crowded. There was, however, no loud talk, and but very few oaths.

O'BALDWIN'S START. At 11 o'clock a few friends of O'Baldwin left Philadelphia for the Pennsylvania Central depot. Principal among them were Phil Kelly, who brought up a long box containing the ropes and stakes.

O'BALDWIN LIVING IN STATE. O'Baldwin is living in state. He wore his fur cap and plush velvet coat. To his friends he gave a kind word, but to strangers he was surly.

BEHIND TIME. A freight train attempted to run down upon the single track from Steubenville, and the consequence was that it was compelled to back to a switch, and the right of way.

COLLIER'S STATION. It was a little shaky standing in front of a small white house flanked by a hoop and a pig pen. As the party alighted from the cars they stood by the side of a little brook fringed with fragrant wild peppermints.

THE PROSPECTIVE BATTLE GROUND. The remonstrances were effective, and it was finally decided that the party should remain in a car in the train on arriving at Pittsburgh, and should proceed to some point in West Virginia.

THE RING PITCHED AT 6:25 P. M. Whittling Down O'Baldwin's Spikes with Whetstones.

TROUBLE ABOUT THE REFEREE. The Men in the Ring at 6:30, New York Time.

DETAILS OF THE TRIP. A Long and Tedium Journey to Evade the Authorities.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 21.—The pugilistic excursion succeeded last evening in leaving New York and reaching this city quietly that many passengers on the train are not aware of the presence of the distinguished pugilist.

THE MEN IN PRIME CONDITION. Both men seem to be in first-rate condition. Mace rather the brighter of the two. Mace's weight is about 167, and O'Baldwin's about 200.

THE DEPARTURE FROM PITTSBURGH. Sprague left at 10:30. The special car provided by the excursionists was crowded. There was, however, no loud talk, and but very few oaths.

O'BALDWIN'S START. At 11 o'clock a few friends of O'Baldwin left Philadelphia for the Pennsylvania Central depot. Principal among them were Phil Kelly, who brought up a long box containing the ropes and stakes.

O'BALDWIN LIVING IN STATE. O'Baldwin is living in state. He wore his fur cap and plush velvet coat. To his friends he gave a kind word, but to strangers he was surly.

BEHIND TIME. A freight train attempted to run down upon the single track from Steubenville, and the consequence was that it was compelled to back to a switch, and the right of way.

Dooney Harris—Do you know anything about the rules of the ring? The handsome Alderman Mermon—No, sir. Dooney Harris—Then get out of the ring. The Handsome Alderman—Oh, you don't want to fight. You wanted me to act and I declined, and now I offer to act in order that the fight may proceed. I know when a foul blow is given.

A voice—Let the two men themselves try and select a referee. O'Brien—Taking his seat and stepping forward—I will fight Mr. Mace without any referee. [Loud cheers and applause.]

A voice—That's a—d—nice ring business, fighting without a referee, ain't it? Dwyer—Well, it shows he wants to fight, any way, and he's got the pluck to do it. [Cheers and applause.]

THE SCENE AT THE RING. Meantime the crowd gathered about the ropes. There were not over one hundred and fifty present, and of these not one twenty-five ever saw a prize-fight.

THE MEN IN PRIME CONDITION. Both men seem to be in first-rate condition. Mace rather the brighter of the two. Mace's weight is about 167, and O'Baldwin's about 200.

THE DEPARTURE FROM PITTSBURGH. Sprague left at 10:30. The special car provided by the excursionists was crowded. There was, however, no loud talk, and but very few oaths.

O'BALDWIN'S START. At 11 o'clock a few friends of O'Baldwin left Philadelphia for the Pennsylvania Central depot. Principal among them were Phil Kelly, who brought up a long box containing the ropes and stakes.

O'BALDWIN LIVING IN STATE. O'Baldwin is living in state. He wore his fur cap and plush velvet coat. To his friends he gave a kind word, but to strangers he was surly.

BEHIND TIME. A freight train attempted to run down upon the single track from Steubenville, and the consequence was that it was compelled to back to a switch, and the right of way.

COLLIER'S STATION. It was a little shaky standing in front of a small white house flanked by a hoop and a pig pen. As the party alighted from the cars they stood by the side of a little brook fringed with fragrant wild peppermints.

THE PROSPECTIVE BATTLE GROUND. The remonstrances were effective, and it was finally decided that the party should remain in a car in the train on arriving at Pittsburgh, and should proceed to some point in West Virginia.

THE RING PITCHED AT 6:25 P. M. Whittling Down O'Baldwin's Spikes with Whetstones.

TROUBLE ABOUT THE REFEREE. The Men in the Ring at 6:30, New York Time.

DETAILS OF THE TRIP. A Long and Tedium Journey to Evade the Authorities.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 21.—The pugilistic excursion succeeded last evening in leaving New York and reaching this city quietly that many passengers on the train are not aware of the presence of the distinguished pugilist.

THE MEN IN PRIME CONDITION. Both men seem to be in first-rate condition. Mace rather the brighter of the two. Mace's weight is about 167, and O'Baldwin's about 200.

THE DEPARTURE FROM PITTSBURGH. Sprague left at 10:30. The special car provided by the excursionists was crowded. There was, however, no loud talk, and but very few oaths.

O'BALDWIN'S START. At 11 o'clock a few friends of O'Baldwin left Philadelphia for the Pennsylvania Central depot. Principal among them were Phil Kelly, who brought up a long box containing the ropes and stakes.

O'BALDWIN LIVING IN STATE. O'Baldwin is living in state. He wore his fur cap and plush velvet coat. To his friends he gave a kind word, but to strangers he was surly.

BEHIND TIME. A freight train attempted to run down upon the single track from Steubenville, and the consequence was that it was compelled to back to a switch, and the right of way.

THE CHOICE OF THE PEOPLE

THE DAILY INCREASING STRENGTH OF THE LIBERAL HOSTS.

Intelligent Speakers Going into the South to Refute Grant's Lies to the Colored Men of that section.

Col. Ethan Allen, Judge Jasper W. Johnson, David Cummins, Major Staples, Mr. Mosenthal, Mr. Phillips, and their corps of clerks were unusually busy at the rooms of the National Liberal Republican Committee yesterday.

THE SCENE AT THE RING. Meantime the crowd gathered about the ropes. There were not over one hundred and fifty present, and of these not one twenty-five ever saw a prize-fight.

THE MEN IN PRIME CONDITION. Both men seem to be in first-rate condition. Mace rather the brighter of the two. Mace's weight is about 167, and O'Baldwin's about 200.

THE DEPARTURE FROM PITTSBURGH. Sprague left at 10:30. The special car provided by the excursionists was crowded. There was, however, no loud talk, and but very few oaths.

O'BALDWIN'S START. At 11 o'clock a few friends of O'Baldwin left Philadelphia for the Pennsylvania Central depot. Principal among them were Phil Kelly, who brought up a long box containing the ropes and stakes.

O'BALDWIN LIVING IN STATE. O'Baldwin is living in state. He wore his fur cap and plush velvet coat. To his friends he gave a kind word, but to strangers he was surly.

BEHIND TIME. A freight train attempted to run down upon the single track from Steubenville, and the consequence was that it was compelled to back to a switch, and the right of way.

COLLIER'S STATION. It was a little shaky standing in front of a small white house flanked by a hoop and a pig pen. As the party alighted from the cars they stood by the side of a little brook fringed with fragrant wild peppermints.

THE PROSPECTIVE BATTLE GROUND. The remonstrances were effective, and it was finally decided that the party should remain in a car in the train on arriving at Pittsburgh, and should proceed to some point in West Virginia.

THE RING PITCHED AT 6:25 P. M. Whittling Down O'Baldwin's Spikes with Whetstones.

TROUBLE ABOUT THE REFEREE. The Men in the Ring at 6:30, New York Time.

DETAILS OF THE TRIP. A Long and Tedium Journey to Evade the Authorities.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 21.—The pugilistic excursion succeeded last evening in leaving New York and reaching this city quietly that many passengers on the train are not aware of the presence of the distinguished pugilist.

THE MEN IN PRIME CONDITION. Both men seem to be in first-rate condition. Mace rather the brighter of the two. Mace's weight is about 167, and O'Baldwin's about 200.

THE DEPARTURE FROM PITTSBURGH. Sprague left at 10:30. The special car provided by the excursionists was crowded. There was, however, no loud talk, and but very few oaths.

O'BALDWIN'S START. At 11 o'clock a few friends of O'Baldwin left Philadelphia for the Pennsylvania Central depot. Principal among them were Phil Kelly, who brought up a long box containing the ropes and stakes.

O'BALDWIN LIVING IN STATE. O'Baldwin is living in state. He wore his fur cap and plush velvet coat. To his friends he gave a kind word, but to strangers he was surly.

BEHIND TIME. A freight train attempted to run down upon the single track from Steubenville, and the consequence was that it was compelled to back to a switch, and the right of way.

THE RIOTING IN BELFAST

THE STREETS STILL PATROLLED BY ARMED CAVALRY.

Nine Magistrates on Duty—Thirty Plovers Led in Procession—Conflicts between Rioters and Police—School Houses Destroyed—The Authorities Powerless.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—A despatch sent from Belfast last evening says the city was quieter than it had been during the day, though the rioting was not ended. The prisoners captured by the civil and military authorities were conveyed to jail under a strong escort of troops.

A despatch from Belfast last evening says that during the rising yesterday a policeman named Moore was shot and killed. There were also a number of other casualties. The mob when not engaged wrecking houses assaulted individuals. Many respectable persons were most shamefully treated, including Mr. Benin, the editor of the Northern Star, a Catholic journal.

Nine magistrates are now on duty. Although the streets were patrolled last evening by the military, crowds of rioters were collected and rioting was continued. Thirty of the rioters were arrested yesterday and lodged in prison. It is believed that the rioting will continue, though occasional shots were heard. It is reported that there are not a half dozen straight voters among the Democrats in the whole town.

THE RIOTING IN BELFAST. The streets were patrolled last evening by the military, crowds of rioters were collected and rioting was continued. Thirty of the rioters were arrested yesterday and lodged in prison.

A despatch from Belfast last evening says that during the rising yesterday a policeman named Moore was shot and killed. There were also a number of other casualties.

The mob when not engaged wrecking houses assaulted individuals. Many respectable persons were most shamefully treated, including Mr. Benin, the editor of the Northern Star, a Catholic journal.

Nine magistrates are now on duty. Although the streets were patrolled last evening by the military, crowds of rioters were collected and rioting was continued.

Thirty of the rioters were arrested yesterday and lodged in prison. It is believed that the rioting will continue, though occasional shots were heard.

It is reported that there are not a half dozen straight voters among the Democrats in the whole town.

THE RIOTING IN BELFAST. The streets were patrolled last evening by the military, crowds of rioters were collected and rioting was continued.

Thirty of the rioters were arrested yesterday and lodged in prison. It is believed that the rioting will continue, though occasional shots were heard.

It is reported that there are not a half dozen straight voters among the Democrats in the whole town.

THE RIOTING IN BELFAST. The streets were patrolled last evening by the military, crowds of rioters were collected and rioting was continued.

Thirty of the rioters were arrested yesterday and lodged in prison. It is believed that the rioting will continue, though occasional shots were heard.

It is reported that there are not a half dozen straight voters among the Democrats in the whole town.

THE RIOTING IN BELFAST. The streets were patrolled last evening by the military, crowds of rioters were collected and rioting was continued.

Thirty of the rioters were arrested yesterday and lodged in prison. It is believed that the rioting will continue, though occasional shots were heard.

It is reported that there are not a half dozen straight voters among the Democrats in the whole town.

THE RIOTING IN BELFAST. The streets were patrolled last evening by the military, crowds of rioters were collected and rioting was continued.

THE RIOTING IN BELFAST

THE STREETS STILL PATROLLED BY ARMED CAVALRY.

Nine Magistrates on Duty—Thirty Plovers Led in Procession—Conflicts between Rioters and Police—School Houses Destroyed—The Authorities Powerless.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—A despatch sent from Belfast last evening says the city was quieter than it had been during the day, though the rioting was not ended. The prisoners captured by the civil and military authorities were conveyed to jail under a strong escort of troops.

A despatch from Belfast last evening says that during the rising yesterday a policeman named Moore was shot and killed. There were also a number of other casualties. The mob when not engaged wrecking houses assaulted individuals.

Many respectable persons were most shamefully treated, including Mr. Benin, the editor of the Northern Star, a Catholic journal. Nine magistrates are now on duty.

Although the streets were patrolled last evening by the military, crowds of rioters were collected and rioting was continued. Thirty of the rioters were arrested yesterday and lodged in prison.

It is believed that the rioting will continue, though occasional shots were heard. It is reported that there are not a half dozen straight voters among the Democrats in the whole town.

THE RIOTING IN BELFAST. The streets were patrolled last evening by the military, crowds of rioters were collected and rioting was continued.

Thirty of the rioters were arrested yesterday and lodged in prison. It is believed that the rioting will continue, though occasional shots were heard.

It is reported that there are not a half dozen straight voters among the Democrats in the whole town.

THE RIOTING IN BELFAST. The streets were patrolled last evening by the military, crowds of rioters were collected and rioting was continued.

Thirty of the rioters were arrested yesterday and lodged in prison. It is believed that the rioting will continue, though occasional shots were heard.

It is reported that there are not a half dozen straight voters among the Democrats in the whole town.

THE RIOTING IN BELFAST. The streets were patrolled last evening by the military, crowds of rioters were collected and rioting was continued.

Thirty of the rioters were arrested yesterday and lodged in prison. It is believed that the rioting will continue, though occasional shots were heard.

It is reported that there are not a half dozen straight voters among the Democrats in the whole town.

THE RIOTING IN BELFAST. The streets were patrolled last evening by the military, crowds of rioters were collected and rioting was continued.

Thirty of the rioters were arrested yesterday and lodged in prison. It is believed that the rioting will continue, though occasional shots were heard.

It is reported that there are not a half dozen straight voters among the Democrats in the whole town.

THE RIOTING IN BELFAST. The streets were patrolled last evening by the military, crowds of rioters were collected and rioting was continued.

Thirty of the rioters were arrested yesterday and lodged in prison. It is believed that the rioting will continue, though occasional shots were heard.