

LATEST NEWS FROM EUROPE.

GLADSTONE INVITES HIS DEAREST KNIGHTS TO DINNER.

London, May 29.—It is learned that Spies, Schwaner, Fischer, Engel, Longe, Baliger, Schnabel, and Neube were indicted on six charges. The first two are contained in two voluminous indictments, in which the defendants are named collectively. One of these is the "bomb" indictment, which charges them with willful murder in igniting the fuse and setting the bomb in the train of the explosion. The other is the same except that "revolver and bullet" is used in the place of bomb. Besides these, there is an indictment against each of the men named charging them as individuals with the crime of murder by bombthrowing, and also another set of indictments charging them with murder by pistol shots. In addition to the two series of indictments charging the defendants with murder, there is a series charging the ten persons named with the crime of conspiracy.

What your correspondent cabled weeks ago has been confirmed and made manifest to everybody by the unusual meeting in the Foreign Office on Thursday at which two-thirds of the party were present, and the other third declined to participate. Take any list of the members of the party, and you will find that the majority are in favor of the bill, and that the minority are in favor of the bill. The bill is in favor of the bill, and the bill is in favor of the bill.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

THE INDICTED ANARCHISTS.

Chicago, May 29.—It is learned that Spies, Schwaner, Fischer, Engel, Longe, Baliger, Schnabel, and Neube were indicted on six charges. The first two are contained in two voluminous indictments, in which the defendants are named collectively. One of these is the "bomb" indictment, which charges them with willful murder in igniting the fuse and setting the bomb in the train of the explosion. The other is the same except that "revolver and bullet" is used in the place of bomb. Besides these, there is an indictment against each of the men named charging them as individuals with the crime of murder by bombthrowing, and also another set of indictments charging them with murder by pistol shots.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

THE WHITE HOUSE WEDDING.

NO SECRET MADE NOW OVER THE JOYFUL PREPARATIONS.

Mr. Cleveland Receives Congratulations and Talks Frankly of the Event—Insists on Secrecy. Mrs. Folsom Will Go Directly to the White House when she Gets to Washington. Washington, May 29.—The President's marriage is the talk of the city. It is the one topic in doors and out. On the streets and in shops pedestrians and purchasers walk and talk by dry goods and discuss it. The seal of secrecy is lifted from the White House, and an air of unalloyed interest pervades the mansion from cellar to garret. There is a buoyancy in the steps of the employees, and their faces wear an expression of relief. Now that all are privileged to speak of the great event, there is much talk and pleasant anticipation, and a looking forward to the White House, where the bride and groom will be married.

When a lady extended her hand to-day and said, "Colonel, I congratulate you," he answered: "Do I look like getting married?" "No; but the weight of such a secret must have been heavy. I congratulate you on that," she said. "Well, I think I deserve it. It was a long strain," he replied, laughing. Miss Cleveland arrived here last evening from New York. She was accompanied by Miss Nelson, an old friend, who has been here before to visit at the White House. The ladies were met at the depot by the President's coach. Miss Cleveland is looking weary and tired, and a gentleman who observed her on the train thought her decidedly ill. She will be followed by Mrs. Hoy, who is expected to arrive to-day. These are the only sisters of the President who can attend the wedding, and for some reason the Rev. William Cleveland will not be present. Mrs. D. R. Bacon of Toledo (the wife of a prosperous architect in that city) is one of the sisters who will not be present.

The wedding party are expected to arrive on Wednesday morning. They will go on to the White House, where they will remain until the time making preparations to receive them. The wedding, as already stated, will take place in the blue parlor, which will, of course, be decorated with flowers, but there will be no wedding bill or elaborate floral designs. After the ceremony at 10 o'clock on Wednesday evening, the bride and groom will go to the White House, where they will remain until the time making preparations to receive them.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

AT THE SOLDIERS' GRAVES.

GEN. GRANT'S TOMB TO BE ALMOST HIDDEN IN FLOWERS.

President Cleveland and Gen. Hill to Review the Parade Tomorrow in Madison Square. The parade to-morrow of the National Guard and the Grand Army of the Republic will form in and near Fifth avenue and Fifty-third street, and the order to march will be given about 9 A. M. The line of march will be down Fifth avenue to Forty-second street to Madison avenue to Thirty-sixth street to Fifth avenue to Seventeenth street to Fourth avenue to Fourteenth street to Fifth avenue and to Washington square, where the parade will be dismissed. The circuitous route from back to Fifth avenue was arranged to avoid passing over obstructions caused by the repaving of the avenue.

President Grover Cleveland, if he gets here on Monday morning, as is expected, will be driven to the Windsor Hotel, where Grand Marshal C. J. Lutjens and staff will receive him. Attended by the old Guard, Major Geo. W. McLean commanding, and by a guard of honor consisting of two members of the Grand Army of the Republic, the President will be escorted to the review of the National Guard and the Grand Army of the Republic. The review will be held in Madison square, and the President will be seated in the grandstand. The review will be held in Madison square, and the President will be seated in the grandstand.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

REVIEW OF THE E. M. DUGHRYS.

The Captain's Account of His Experiences at East-Straw, N. H.

Portland, Me., May 29.—Capt. Doughty and the members of his crew arrived home this morning. They were in the vessel of Sergeant Lord & Skillins, the owners of the vessel, and talked freely of their recent experiences. Everything they said went to show that when they went into East-Straw they had no intention of violating the Canadian laws. Capt. Doughty says that he was driven into East-Straw by the Canadian customs officers, and that he was treated with great respect. He says that he was treated with great respect, and that he was treated with great respect.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

MAXWELL CHEERFUL AGAIN.

HE LAUGHED AND JOKED IN COURT, BUT HIS COUNSEL LOOK NERVOUS.

St. Louis, May 29.—The only place in and about the Four Courts building that was not packed with people this morning was the courtroom. Maxwell was cheerful, and his counsel were nervous. Maxwell was cheerful, and his counsel were nervous. Maxwell was cheerful, and his counsel were nervous. Maxwell was cheerful, and his counsel were nervous.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

LAUNCHING A PILOT BOAT.

A Compromise Between an English Cutter and a Yankee Sloop.

A big crowd of boating men with their families went over to Totterville, S. I., yesterday, to see the launch of the new pilot boat William H. Starbuck, from J. B. Ellis's slipyard. Dozens of pretty New York and Brooklyn girls were seen on the neighboring shore. At 5:15 o'clock started the handsome craft slid smoothly down the ways. Captain Henry Devere's daughter, Emma, stood in the bow and as the boat moved she broke a bottle of champagne and loud cheers. The boat was expected to be launched in the water as was expected and her cabin sank in the mud. Those on board were disappointed.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

Mr. Gladstone's admission will secure the votes of Lord Hartington and his strong Liberal following. Will it secure the votes of Chamberlain and his followers? It is not clear. Chamberlain has a narrow majority in the House of Commons, and it is not clear whether he will be able to secure the votes of the Conservatives. Analyze the composition of the Liberal minority, and you will find that Mr. Chamberlain's followers control the position.

THE SUNDAY SUN

This issue of the SUN will be read in Cleveland this afternoon, twenty-four hours earlier than heretofore. PRICE THREE CENTS.