

LATEST NEWS FROM EUROPE.

PLENTY OF CHRISTMAS CHEER FOR THE POOR IN MERRY ENGLAND.

Ireland's Holiday Murred by the Tyranny that has Thrown Many Patriots into Jail for their patriotic activities. Tomorrow—Bismarck and the War Scare—A Rothschild Put her Husband on an Allowance—Futuro-see English Lords in earnest for specie charity.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—London cabmen have suddenly grown awfully and ominously polite. They bow and curtsy to the ladies. The barber whippers delightfully into every ear of every face he shaves. "I hope you'll enjoy your blessed holiday season," is the usual salutation. The poor and humble miller marks every member of England's huge serving class from the footman whose calves lend gladness and warmth down to the shivering barefooted crossing sweep. These things, of course, are due to the arrival of Christmas and to the desire to be good. It is proper now to wish more than frat and fume and bull's bladders. His Majesty has in his service a German General rejoicing in the name of Von der Goltz Pasha, who has very large ideas and sublime indifference to ways and means. He has just reported upon the urgent necessity of spending $25,000,000 on fortifications. The Sultan passed the report to the Minister of War, and it nearly drove that unhappy functionary out of his remaining wits. He ventured to hint to his Imperial Majesty that the treasury was empty and Turkey's credit gone. The Sultan stormed, but even he cannot coin money out of nothing, and so Von der Goltz's many thousands of iron hoops at the department of finance.

Bulgaria, too, isaping her big neighbors in their military. Prince Ferdinand has been presiding at councils of Generals and ordering war material with a degree of prodigality which leads to the suspicion that it would be paid for some other money. Ferdinand, it is reported early in the week to be contemplating resignation, but the report has since been contradicted, and it seems reasonably certain that he will remain at Sofia until kicked out by his own subjects or by the Russian troops.

Here in London there have been a good many mysterious goings to and fro at the residence of the late Lord Salisbury. A long interview between M. de Staal, the Russian Ambassador, and Lord Salisbury. The Lordship is said to have informed the Ambassador that England, in the event of trouble, would preserve a free hand to guard her own interests, and would join with the other powers against Russia. The latest report is that the Ambassador may be taken off to a platform of resignation, but the report has since been contradicted, and it seems reasonably certain that he will remain at Sofia until kicked out by his own subjects or by the Russian troops.

The heavy sky and stinging north wind promise the snow that is so necessary to make up a genuine Christmas, and there would be scarcely an unpleasant feature in all the holiday aspect of England but for the state of affairs in the East. The latest news from the East is that the British army is being recalled to the Balfour camp. The Full Mail in an excellent leader this afternoon calls attention to the disgraceful state of affairs, and reminds the British people that they are not to be deceived that things may one day get turned around, and that Mr. Balfour and Mr. Goschen can be accommodated as conveniently in Millbank as William O'Brien and T. D. Sullivan in Tullamore. It is sincerely to be hoped that the changes may soon come. The latest news from the East is that the British army is being recalled to the Balfour camp.

Mr. Gladstone, the grand old support of the Irish fight, will start on Monday for a holiday on the Continent to build up his health on what is the next great electoral fight. Mr. Gladstone's departure comes on Thursday, and for the first time in twenty years he will be absent on that festive occasion from Hawarden. Telegrams of congratulation anticipating the event are beginning to come in, and Mr. Gladstone before leaving will doubtless have something to say in reply which will do credit to his long career.

Little Randolph Churchill has already started his travels, as you know, and most comical incidents have already taken place for Russia. His friends circulate the story that he has gone on a most solemn diplomatic mission. His enemies declare he is going to talk sympathy for Russia and hatred of Austria to stir up trouble and bother the Ministry. Every one argues about it, and one would think from it that a very great deal of mischief has been done. The story of a diplomatic mission is rubbish. Even Salisbury is not fool enough to send a diplomatic agent to Russia a man who, like Churchill, has recently called the Russians bankrupt swindlers. As to Randolph Churchill will do probably know as little as any one. He understood that it would be a saying display of conceit for him to go into the robbing north when every one else was going south, and so north he went. He has dined with Bismarck's son, he will probably talk to the Czar, and he will make the newspapers wonder about and discuss him so much that perhaps the Tories, who he has treated so savagely, will be really impressed and not dare to treat him as he deserves. The war scare goes, and material is not lacking for it to feed upon. The latest theory accorded by those who are easily im-entitled to some sympathy. He succeeded to his title and to estates in England and Ireland in 1877, but the rental of the English lands proved to be insufficient to pay family and other charges, and the receipts from the Irish estates, which ten years ago amounted to $3,000,000, have dwindled down to practically nothing. His Lordship could not accommodate himself to circumstances or do without champagne and other necessities of life. Lord Headley had a pension like Lord Augustus Loftus, but his wife has a small income which he will in future manage for her.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 24.—The Ladies' Decorative Art Club of Philadelphia occupies the house 1512 Pine street. The club numbers about 100 ladies, and they take lessons in metal chasing and wood carving. Next door, at 1514, lives George M. Dallas, a well-known and wealthy lawyer. He has been greatly disturbed by the pounding and hammering of the ladies, and the other day he went into court and applied for an injunction. He complained that he and his family were annoyed by the noise of brass. He has been annoyed at times to abandon a room in his house used as a reading room, on account of these noises, and sometimes he has quit the house to seek relief in the open air from headache and annoyance caused by the noise of brass.

THE BIG RAFT.

Four Weeks Passed at Sea Make it Likely that the Raft is Breaking Up.

BOSTON, Dec. 24.—The floating raft that threatens navigation along the coast has created a great deal of alarm in maritime circles in this city. Capt. Matthews of the British schooner Miletos, which arrived here yesterday from the Rio Grande, reports that on Sunday last in latitude 39° 55' east, longitude 68° 50', he passed four large rafts, the timber of which he estimated to be worth $1,000,000. He has no doubt that they had broken away from the great raft which was abandoned on its way from Nova Scotia to New York.

WHAT SHALL BE DONE WITH M'KANE?

McKane and Cornelius Ferguson, the undisputed Democratic managers in the towns of Gravesend and New Utrecht, respectively, who worked with all their might, and great success, for the cause of the Republican candidate for Assembly in the Twelfth district. WAR COMING IN THE SPRING.

RELIEF IN BERLIN THAT A FIGHT WITH RUSSIA CANNOT BE AVERTED.

The breach between Austria and Russia growing—Russia advancing her troops to the Danube—Austria's position in the Balkans—The return of Gen. von Schellwitz, the German Ambassador to St. Petersburg, was hoped would be signified by a declaration of the tide peace-war. The conference between Gen. von Schellwitz and M. de Giers, the Russian Prime Minister, on Thursday last, had a contrary result. Whatever passed during the interview has deepened the distrust of Berlin, and increased the irritation of the Austrian Government.
