

BISHOP LOUGHLIN'S JUBILEE.

THE VENERABLE PRIMATE SAYS A FORTUITOUS HIGH MASS.

At the conclusion of the mass the Rev. Synodical Convention, in behalf of the clergy, delivered an address to the bishop... Bishop Loughlin's health was not bad, but there was no formal speech making.

The inside of the church was hung along the balcony with wreaths of green entwined with red and white roses. There were rare flowers on the altar, which also glittered with the light of three-score candles.

The Rev. Father York of St. Agnes's Church presided at the altar, while Cardinal Gibbons occupied a throne of dark plush on the left. A double row of Bishops and Archbishops, with enough Monsignors to fill the fourteen seats, sat near Bishop Loughlin.

Now, what was the occasion of religion in Long Island when your chief pastor was consecrated to the Directory for that year, the whole of Long Island reverently followed the bishop.

Take a single illustration of his sound financial judgment. Do you ever reflect, my brethren on the subject of the obligations that has been resting all these years on the shoulders of your bishop?

Although Bishop Loughlin laid no claim to miraculous powers, such as were exercised by the savior, he had, said the Cardinal, wherever he went, the power of doing good.

At the end of his sermon the Cardinal, addressing Bishop Loughlin directly, said: "I have never seen a man who has done more for his people than you have done."

At the end of his sermon the Cardinal, addressing Bishop Loughlin directly, said: "I have never seen a man who has done more for his people than you have done."

NO MERCY FOR ASSASSINS.

PUBLIC SENTIMENT ROUSED TO A HIGH PITCH IN NEW ORLEANS.

Major Shakespeare Appoints a Committee of Safety to Assist the Authorities in Breaking Up the Italian Mob Vengeance Society and to Prevent Its Mob Vengeance.

New Orleans, Oct. 18.—The action of the Mayor and City Council today in appointing a Committee of Safety of fifty citizens to investigate the assassination of Chief of Police Hennessy and to take steps to suppress the Mafia and the vendetta, means that the matter is to be followed up until the murderers are brought to justice and New Orleans is freed from its dangerous Italian criminals.

Steps had already been taken to organize a vigilance committee, and a number of citizens had been privately asked to join it. The action of the Mayor is believed, put an end to this plan. There is to be no vigilance committee.

There is but one witness for the State, Mr. Peeler, who identified three of the prisoners, Scalfitti, Bannitti, and Incertoris, as the men who were seen at the scene of the murder.

There would be no difficulty, however, in convicting the three men. Indeed, in the present excited condition of the public mind, an Italian charged with murder would probably be convicted on any evidence. But it is not the men who killed Hennessy that the authorities and the public are bent on punishing.

It is a good thing your husband is dead, for if he were alive he would have to live with a drunken scoundrel who had killed his wife. Mrs. Meyer told the justice that she had no more children, but she had a name for her son which she would call him an assassin.

Assistant District Attorney Grassie presented the commitment with the endorsement of the judge, and the man was taken to the jail. However, in an Italian murder trial such as this, the jury is not to be taken into consideration.

Julius Dreher keeps a small tailoring establishment at 695 West Newark avenue, Jersey City. He has a wife and two children. Frequently he goes down stairs to his workshop after midnight to finish some work.

At 2 o'clock yesterday morning he decided to go down stairs and finish a coat which he had prepared for a customer who was to be ready for the day. He went down stairs and found the coat hanging on a line. He was startled to find the coat hanging on a line.

THE DAY FOR LONG SHOTS.

FIVE FAVORITE DRIVERS AT THE NEW JERSEY JOCKEY CLUB'S PARK.

A regular holiday turnout of about 8,000 flocked to the New Jersey Jockey Club's track at Elizabeth yesterday. There was plenty of room for the crowd in all parts of the ground except the betting ring.

The opening dash was won by Mabel Glenn, a 70 lb. mare, owned by J. J. Lacey, who was the only one going to the post with 6 to 1 against her. Folson, at 10 to 1, entered the fourth race of the event of the day—at a mile and a furlong, in which Cassius and Eurus, after Riley had been scratched, carried the bulk of the large amount of money bet on the race.

The field of fourteen moved away in a struggle for the lead, the favorite leading Mabel Glenn, Crackman, Kitty Van, Kolo, and G. W. Cook in the front bunch. Clayton sent the favorite to the post, but before the start he was hit by the half-mile post, and taking the lead, Mabel held it to the finish, winning by a length. Kolo second, and half in front of Nellie Bly third.

The Rev. Father Joseph Fransoli, the pastor and founder of St. Peter's Church in Hicks and Warren streets, Brooklyn, died yesterday morning, a few minutes after 10 o'clock, at the rectory, 117 Warren street. At his bedside were the Rev. Father John Barry, William J. Hamilton, and M. J. Flaherty; his brother, A. C. Fransoli; his nephews, Arnold and Augustus Fransoli; his two nieces, Caroline and Alexandra; and his nurses, the Sisters Mary and Sister St. Peter's Hospital and of the Home for Working Girls. Just before his death he drew a heavy sigh and slightly elevated his hands. The bells of the church were tolled to apprise the parishioners of their pastor's death, and soon crowds were in front of the house.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

Lotus K. Hunt died last Thursday at his residence, 101 Lexington avenue, after a protracted illness. He was a well-known real estate dealer, and for twenty years had been in business at 104 Park Twenty-eighth street. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

Mrs. Clara Hornbeck Niven died at the home of her son, William B. Niven, at Monticello, N. Y., on Sunday, aged 77 years. She was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

THE DAY FOR LONG SHOTS.

FIVE FAVORITE DRIVERS AT THE NEW JERSEY JOCKEY CLUB'S PARK.

A regular holiday turnout of about 8,000 flocked to the New Jersey Jockey Club's track at Elizabeth yesterday. There was plenty of room for the crowd in all parts of the ground except the betting ring.

The opening dash was won by Mabel Glenn, a 70 lb. mare, owned by J. J. Lacey, who was the only one going to the post with 6 to 1 against her. Folson, at 10 to 1, entered the fourth race of the event of the day—at a mile and a furlong, in which Cassius and Eurus, after Riley had been scratched, carried the bulk of the large amount of money bet on the race.

The field of fourteen moved away in a struggle for the lead, the favorite leading Mabel Glenn, Crackman, Kitty Van, Kolo, and G. W. Cook in the front bunch. Clayton sent the favorite to the post, but before the start he was hit by the half-mile post, and taking the lead, Mabel held it to the finish, winning by a length. Kolo second, and half in front of Nellie Bly third.

The Rev. Father Joseph Fransoli, the pastor and founder of St. Peter's Church in Hicks and Warren streets, Brooklyn, died yesterday morning, a few minutes after 10 o'clock, at the rectory, 117 Warren street. At his bedside were the Rev. Father John Barry, William J. Hamilton, and M. J. Flaherty; his brother, A. C. Fransoli; his nephews, Arnold and Augustus Fransoli; his two nieces, Caroline and Alexandra; and his nurses, the Sisters Mary and Sister St. Peter's Hospital and of the Home for Working Girls. Just before his death he drew a heavy sigh and slightly elevated his hands. The bells of the church were tolled to apprise the parishioners of their pastor's death, and soon crowds were in front of the house.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

Lotus K. Hunt died last Thursday at his residence, 101 Lexington avenue, after a protracted illness. He was a well-known real estate dealer, and for twenty years had been in business at 104 Park Twenty-eighth street. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

Mrs. Clara Hornbeck Niven died at the home of her son, William B. Niven, at Monticello, N. Y., on Sunday, aged 77 years. She was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

THE DAY FOR LONG SHOTS.

FIVE FAVORITE DRIVERS AT THE NEW JERSEY JOCKEY CLUB'S PARK.

A regular holiday turnout of about 8,000 flocked to the New Jersey Jockey Club's track at Elizabeth yesterday. There was plenty of room for the crowd in all parts of the ground except the betting ring.

The opening dash was won by Mabel Glenn, a 70 lb. mare, owned by J. J. Lacey, who was the only one going to the post with 6 to 1 against her. Folson, at 10 to 1, entered the fourth race of the event of the day—at a mile and a furlong, in which Cassius and Eurus, after Riley had been scratched, carried the bulk of the large amount of money bet on the race.

The field of fourteen moved away in a struggle for the lead, the favorite leading Mabel Glenn, Crackman, Kitty Van, Kolo, and G. W. Cook in the front bunch. Clayton sent the favorite to the post, but before the start he was hit by the half-mile post, and taking the lead, Mabel held it to the finish, winning by a length. Kolo second, and half in front of Nellie Bly third.

The Rev. Father Joseph Fransoli, the pastor and founder of St. Peter's Church in Hicks and Warren streets, Brooklyn, died yesterday morning, a few minutes after 10 o'clock, at the rectory, 117 Warren street. At his bedside were the Rev. Father John Barry, William J. Hamilton, and M. J. Flaherty; his brother, A. C. Fransoli; his nephews, Arnold and Augustus Fransoli; his two nieces, Caroline and Alexandra; and his nurses, the Sisters Mary and Sister St. Peter's Hospital and of the Home for Working Girls. Just before his death he drew a heavy sigh and slightly elevated his hands. The bells of the church were tolled to apprise the parishioners of their pastor's death, and soon crowds were in front of the house.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

Lotus K. Hunt died last Thursday at his residence, 101 Lexington avenue, after a protracted illness. He was a well-known real estate dealer, and for twenty years had been in business at 104 Park Twenty-eighth street. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

Mrs. Clara Hornbeck Niven died at the home of her son, William B. Niven, at Monticello, N. Y., on Sunday, aged 77 years. She was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

THE DAY FOR LONG SHOTS.

FIVE FAVORITE DRIVERS AT THE NEW JERSEY JOCKEY CLUB'S PARK.

A regular holiday turnout of about 8,000 flocked to the New Jersey Jockey Club's track at Elizabeth yesterday. There was plenty of room for the crowd in all parts of the ground except the betting ring.

The opening dash was won by Mabel Glenn, a 70 lb. mare, owned by J. J. Lacey, who was the only one going to the post with 6 to 1 against her. Folson, at 10 to 1, entered the fourth race of the event of the day—at a mile and a furlong, in which Cassius and Eurus, after Riley had been scratched, carried the bulk of the large amount of money bet on the race.

The field of fourteen moved away in a struggle for the lead, the favorite leading Mabel Glenn, Crackman, Kitty Van, Kolo, and G. W. Cook in the front bunch. Clayton sent the favorite to the post, but before the start he was hit by the half-mile post, and taking the lead, Mabel held it to the finish, winning by a length. Kolo second, and half in front of Nellie Bly third.

The Rev. Father Joseph Fransoli, the pastor and founder of St. Peter's Church in Hicks and Warren streets, Brooklyn, died yesterday morning, a few minutes after 10 o'clock, at the rectory, 117 Warren street. At his bedside were the Rev. Father John Barry, William J. Hamilton, and M. J. Flaherty; his brother, A. C. Fransoli; his nephews, Arnold and Augustus Fransoli; his two nieces, Caroline and Alexandra; and his nurses, the Sisters Mary and Sister St. Peter's Hospital and of the Home for Working Girls. Just before his death he drew a heavy sigh and slightly elevated his hands. The bells of the church were tolled to apprise the parishioners of their pastor's death, and soon crowds were in front of the house.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

Lotus K. Hunt died last Thursday at his residence, 101 Lexington avenue, after a protracted illness. He was a well-known real estate dealer, and for twenty years had been in business at 104 Park Twenty-eighth street. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

Mrs. Clara Hornbeck Niven died at the home of her son, William B. Niven, at Monticello, N. Y., on Sunday, aged 77 years. She was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

THE DAY FOR LONG SHOTS.

FIVE FAVORITE DRIVERS AT THE NEW JERSEY JOCKEY CLUB'S PARK.

A regular holiday turnout of about 8,000 flocked to the New Jersey Jockey Club's track at Elizabeth yesterday. There was plenty of room for the crowd in all parts of the ground except the betting ring.

The opening dash was won by Mabel Glenn, a 70 lb. mare, owned by J. J. Lacey, who was the only one going to the post with 6 to 1 against her. Folson, at 10 to 1, entered the fourth race of the event of the day—at a mile and a furlong, in which Cassius and Eurus, after Riley had been scratched, carried the bulk of the large amount of money bet on the race.

The field of fourteen moved away in a struggle for the lead, the favorite leading Mabel Glenn, Crackman, Kitty Van, Kolo, and G. W. Cook in the front bunch. Clayton sent the favorite to the post, but before the start he was hit by the half-mile post, and taking the lead, Mabel held it to the finish, winning by a length. Kolo second, and half in front of Nellie Bly third.

The Rev. Father Joseph Fransoli, the pastor and founder of St. Peter's Church in Hicks and Warren streets, Brooklyn, died yesterday morning, a few minutes after 10 o'clock, at the rectory, 117 Warren street. At his bedside were the Rev. Father John Barry, William J. Hamilton, and M. J. Flaherty; his brother, A. C. Fransoli; his nephews, Arnold and Augustus Fransoli; his two nieces, Caroline and Alexandra; and his nurses, the Sisters Mary and Sister St. Peter's Hospital and of the Home for Working Girls. Just before his death he drew a heavy sigh and slightly elevated his hands. The bells of the church were tolled to apprise the parishioners of their pastor's death, and soon crowds were in front of the house.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

Lotus K. Hunt died last Thursday at his residence, 101 Lexington avenue, after a protracted illness. He was a well-known real estate dealer, and for twenty years had been in business at 104 Park Twenty-eighth street. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

Mrs. Clara Hornbeck Niven died at the home of her son, William B. Niven, at Monticello, N. Y., on Sunday, aged 77 years. She was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

ONE ENJOYS

Both the method and results when Syrup of Figs is taken; it is pleasant and refreshing to the taste, and acts gently yet promptly on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels, cleanses the system effectually, dispels colds, headaches and fevers and cures habitual constipation. Syrup of Figs is the only remedy of its kind ever produced, pleasing to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, prompt in its action and truly beneficial in its effects, prepared only from the most healthful and agreeable substances, its many excellent qualities commend it to all and have made it the most popular remedy known.

Syrup of Figs is for sale in 50c and 10c bottles by all leading druggists. Any reliable druggist who may not have it on hand will procure it promptly for any one who wishes to try it. Do not accept any substitute.

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. SAN FRANCISCO, CAL. LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N. Y.

OBITUARY.

The Rev. Father Joseph Fransoli, the pastor and founder of St. Peter's Church in Hicks and Warren streets, Brooklyn, died yesterday morning, a few minutes after 10 o'clock, at the rectory, 117 Warren street. At his bedside were the Rev. Father John Barry, William J. Hamilton, and M. J. Flaherty; his brother, A. C. Fransoli; his nephews, Arnold and Augustus Fransoli; his two nieces, Caroline and Alexandra; and his nurses, the Sisters Mary and Sister St. Peter's Hospital and of the Home for Working Girls. Just before his death he drew a heavy sigh and slightly elevated his hands. The bells of the church were tolled to apprise the parishioners of their pastor's death, and soon crowds were in front of the house.

THE REV. FATHER JOSEPH FRANSOLO.

The funeral will take place in St. Peter's Church on Tuesday morning. Undertaker F. J. Dougherty, who has charge of the arrangements, intimated yesterday that the body would probably be taken to the funeral home of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

Lotus K. Hunt died last Thursday at his residence, 101 Lexington avenue, after a protracted illness. He was a well-known real estate dealer, and for twenty years had been in business at 104 Park Twenty-eighth street. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

Mrs. Clara Hornbeck Niven died at the home of her son, William B. Niven, at Monticello, N. Y., on Sunday, aged 77 years. She was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

THE DAY FOR LONG SHOTS.

A regular holiday turnout of about 8,000 flocked to the New Jersey Jockey Club's track at Elizabeth yesterday. There was plenty of room for the crowd in all parts of the ground except the betting ring.

The opening dash was won by Mabel Glenn, a 70 lb. mare, owned by J. J. Lacey, who was the only one going to the post with 6 to 1 against her. Folson, at 10 to 1, entered the fourth race of the event of the day—at a mile and a furlong, in which Cassius and Eurus, after Riley had been scratched, carried the bulk of the large amount of money bet on the race.

The field of fourteen moved away in a struggle for the lead, the favorite leading Mabel Glenn, Crackman, Kitty Van, Kolo, and G. W. Cook in the front bunch. Clayton sent the favorite to the post, but before the start he was hit by the half-mile post, and taking the lead, Mabel held it to the finish, winning by a length. Kolo second, and half in front of Nellie Bly third.

The Rev. Father Joseph Fransoli, the pastor and founder of St. Peter's Church in Hicks and Warren streets, Brooklyn, died yesterday morning, a few minutes after 10 o'clock, at the rectory, 117 Warren street. At his bedside were the Rev. Father John Barry, William J. Hamilton, and M. J. Flaherty; his brother, A. C. Fransoli; his nephews, Arnold and Augustus Fransoli; his two nieces, Caroline and Alexandra; and his nurses, the Sisters Mary and Sister St. Peter's Hospital and of the Home for Working Girls. Just before his death he drew a heavy sigh and slightly elevated his hands. The bells of the church were tolled to apprise the parishioners of their pastor's death, and soon crowds were in front of the house.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

Lotus K. Hunt died last Thursday at his residence, 101 Lexington avenue, after a protracted illness. He was a well-known real estate dealer, and for twenty years had been in business at 104 Park Twenty-eighth street. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

Mrs. Clara Hornbeck Niven died at the home of her son, William B. Niven, at Monticello, N. Y., on Sunday, aged 77 years. She was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

John J. Cotte died on Thursday night of Bright's disease at his home, 100 West 11th street, Brooklyn, at the age of 77 years. He was the only settler of the Mining Park, and was a prominent citizen of that part of the city. He was a member of the Hudson River Club, and was a director of the Howery Fire Insurance Company and of the Howery Fire Club. He was buried in the Howery cemetery on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The interment will be at Greenwood, a wife, two sons, and two daughters.

THE DAY FOR LONG SHOTS.

A regular holiday turnout of about 8,00