

WHAT THE NEW NAVY NEEDS.

SECRETARY HERBERT'S FULL REPORT TO THE PRESIDENT MADE PUBLIC.

He Favours the Continuance of the Speed Program... Secretary Herbert's full report to the president...

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The Sun on Saturday last gave a résumé of the recommendations Secretary Herbert would make in his report to the president. He favored the construction of a new-gauge battleship and half a dozen torpedo boats. The secretary's full report was made public today.

The report begins with a statement of the progress made since the last report, and says that nine vessels have been launched and six new vessels have been completed, accepted, and commissioned. The speeds attained on trials were in most cases in excess of the requirements.

The secretary gives a long account of the designs experienced in building ships as a result of the failure of the steel companies to furnish the necessary armor. He says that of 12,300 tons covered by two principal contracts, only 1,940 tons had been delivered on the first day of the contract.

The secretary says that the steel companies have, however, all been overcome, and deliveries of armor are now being made with satisfactory rapidity. Surveying the whole field, the secretary finds much to be proud of in the knowledge that we can furnish the material for and build modern ships of war as quickly and without any doubt, as well as any country in the world.

The statement shows that the vessels completed since March 4, 1933, cost $25,000,432, and the amount expended for the year. Secretary Herbert devotes much space to the discussion of naval armor and armor. He says that the weight of foreign opinion is in favor of limiting the size of guns to twelve-inch caliber and the weight to 15 tons.

He says that the new eight-inch nickel-steel gun, now being assembled, combining the employment of a material never before used for gun construction with an entirely new process of assembling, will give increased efficiency of resistance to the armor of the gun.

Reference is made to the remarkable success of the steel makers in producing armor plates of the required thickness, and he says that they are equal to any superior to any other in the world.

Touching the stability of certain vessels of the navy, the secretary says that the boards appointed to look into the subject recommended a number of changes in the design of the hulls, which are being made.

When purchased under the act of July 1924, the average price of silver was $1.07, and the average price of gold was $1.07. The average price of silver today is $1.07, and the average price of gold today is $1.07.

The stock of metals in the United States on July 1, 1933, is estimated to be $1,213,500,000. The amount of gold in the United States is estimated to be $1,213,500,000.

The cause of depreciation, according to the director of the mint, is the suspension of the gold standard in Germany and the Scandinavian States, and the suspension of the gold standard in the Latin Union.
