

WILSON BEATEN IN CAUCUS.

THE INCOME TAX BILL TO BE ATTACHED TO THE TARIFF BILL.

Democrats of the House Debat... The income tax bill to be attached to the tariff bill.

Washington, Jan. 25.—By a vote of 80 to 71 the Democrats of the House of Representatives, in caucus this evening, decided that the bill recently reported to the House by Representative McMillin to the Committee on Ways and Means, providing for an amendment to the tariff bill, should be attached to the tariff bill.

The action of the caucus makes it practically certain that the income tax proposition will be added to the already overcrowded tariff bill. There was a loud and angry quarrel in the floor of the House between the members of the caucus and the members of the administration, who were working desperately to defeat the income tax proposition.

The members of the administration, who were working desperately to defeat the income tax proposition, were opposed, fought, and ridiculed both in the House and in the caucus. The administration, however, almost tearfully with the Democrats to save his bill the further humiliation of being added with an income tax amendment.

He promised to offer the bill as a separate measure and to throw no obstacle in the way of its passage. He also promised to support the income tax proposition, and within the next few days the McMillin bill, providing for a tax of two per cent upon incomes in excess of $4,000, will be attached to Prof. Wilson's tariff bill.

The administration found little or no support in the recent fight against free sugar, and, while seventy-one Democrats voted today against further loading down the Wilson bill, very few members outside of the New York delegation made an earnest, vigorous fight against the proposition.

These seventy-one Democrats, moreover, were not all votes against the income tax proposition, for some were, as a question by itself. Mr. McMillin's fight was brief, but his victory complete. He represents what is known as the Populist element of the Ways and Means Committee, but he probably chuckles with glee when he remembers that at the opening of the caucus he was elected to the membership of the Committee on Rules because his presence was not desired by the entire of leaders, who arranged to carry out the administration programme in its own way and among its own friends.

The action of the caucus will make it necessary to postpone the fight for the final vote on the Wilson bill. Under the present order the vote would have been taken on the 26th inst., after closing speeches by Speaker Crisp, Prof. Wilson, and ex-Speaker Reed. Three days will be added for debate on the income tax proposition, so that the final vote will be taken on the 29th inst.

The important features of the Wilson bill were now practically settled and agreed upon. Coal, iron, and raw materials generally, together with sugars of all kinds, are to be put upon the free list, the sugar bounty is to be paid to the producer, and the tariff on the duties of the McKinley act, under which indirectly treaties were negotiated with various countries, are to be specifically eliminated from the law; an income tax is to be provided for, and a general scheme of all valorem duties substituted for specific taxes. This is the plan for the income tax, and the tariff bill will be reported to the Senate for its approval.

The Administration is already preparing for its tariff campaign in the Senate. Senator Jones of Texas, a radical free trader, has been elected to the Finance Committee, in place of Mr. McPherson, who is reported to be a conservative tariff reformer, and this adds strength to the Administration forces in the committee. There seems to be little doubt that the Senate will maintain a duty on coal, iron, and sugar, and that the tariff on the duties of the McKinley act, under which indirectly treaties were negotiated with various countries, are to be specifically eliminated from the law; an income tax is to be provided for, and a general scheme of all valorem duties substituted for specific taxes.

What the Congressmen and the newspaper reporters who got so excited over Mr. Croker's visit did not know was that after he left the Senate chamber he went to the White House and had a chat with President Cleveland. It is believed that Mr. Croker, who is a member of the Finance Committee, is to be a conservative tariff reformer, and this adds strength to the Administration forces in the committee.

Each member of the New York delegation, when questioned by THE SUN reporter, said that so far as he knew Mr. Croker's visit to Washington was without political significance.

REGULAR IN THE BOX OFFICE. The Cash Left in the Standard Theatre Over Night in the Morning. Manager J. M. Hill of the Standard Theatre ordered a large box of cigars very suddenly yesterday for the use of Treasurer Edgewood Rice. The order was given because somebody who had evidently been making a careful study of the method of handling the daily receipts from advance sales made felonious use of his acquired knowledge yesterday morning.

The tickets for three weeks' performances are stored in rows above the other in a large box just back of the Treasurer's seat at the box office window. At the bottom of this box are three cash drawers that hold the money received for each week's advance sales. The money each, but rarely the other, always been over $100 left over in the cash drawers after the box office has closed for the night.

When Assistant Treasurer Percy Matthews got to the box office at 10 o'clock yesterday night he found the drawers empty. He looked for the money in the drawers, but it was not there. He looked for the money in the drawers, but it was not there. He looked for the money in the drawers, but it was not there.

Night watchman Jack Bain was informed of the loss of the money in the drawers. He looked for the money in the drawers, but it was not there. He looked for the money in the drawers, but it was not there. He looked for the money in the drawers, but it was not there.

Miss Porter Froze to Death. Her Body Found in the Woods Near Norfolk, Conn.—Missing Since Jan. 6. The body of Miss Mary Langdon Porter, daughter of the late Lucius Porter of New Brunswick, N. J., founder of the New York Rubber Company, was found by a woodchopper under a tree in the woods near Norfolk, Conn., on Wednesday night. It was supposed that she had died of exposure.

Ever since her disappearance, parties have been searching for her, and a circular was sent out on Wednesday night. It was supposed that she had died of exposure.

Mr. McMillin, a member of the Committee on Ways and Means, has introduced a bill which he made the point that it would be necessary for the Government as quickly as possible to realize receipts from the various sources of revenue. It is estimated that as soon as the Internal Revenue bill becomes a law, a portion of at least the increased tax on avocados, which are now taxed at 10 per cent, and also on the increased tax on the importation of the internal revenue features into the law.

The proposition of Mr. Fithian was combated by Mr. Guthrie of Ohio, a member of the committee on the bill. Mr. Fithian's resolution was amended so as to provide for three days of debate upon the Internal Revenue part of the bill, and then to take a vote upon the pending measure. The committee on Rules is requested to bring in the necessary order to give effect to the amendment.

As the members separated Representative Croker shouted to the chairman: "I wish you would give the vote on the income tax bill to the members of the caucus, according to high Democratic authority, does not bind any one, and what portion of the bill will be attached to the tariff bill. The effect of this action is to postpone the vote on the income tax bill until the final passage of the bill in the House." The committee on Rules is requested to bring in the necessary order to give effect to the amendment.

Mr. Croker's Warning. He Tells Congressmen the Income Tax May Be Attached to the Tariff Bill. Washington, Jan. 25.—Mr. Richard Croker visited Washington to-day, and his presence in Speaker Crisp's room at the Capitol gave rise to the report that he was there for the purpose of personally directing the fight of a portion of the Democrats against the Wilson bill, and especially against the proposition for an income tax. The most sensational rumors flow about with regard to the Tammany chief's movements and his motives. It was even telegraphed broadcast, first, that he had come to "out-bourke Croker's comb" by ordering him to cease his opposition to the income tax, and then that he had come to "out-bourke Croker's comb" by ordering him to cease his opposition to the income tax.

SHOT THE CIVIL GOVERNOR.

ANOTHER ANARCHIST OUTRAGE. ALARMS THE PEOPLE OF BARCELONA.

To Avenge the Death of Pallas a Workingman Attempts to Kill Gov. Larroca.—The Wound Will Not Prove Fatal—Arrest of the Assassin—He Is an Anarchist. BARCELONA, Jan. 25.—An anarchist workingman named Macon tried this afternoon to assassinate B. Larroca, the civil Governor of Barcelona. Señor Larroca left the Prefecture at 4 1/2 this afternoon, as his carriage passed through a street which is little frequented, a second bullet was fired at him, and he drew a revolver, and fired two shots at the Governor. The second bullet lodged in the Governor's left leg.

The few pedestrians in the street hurried to assist the Governor, but before they reached the carriage the coachman had jumped from the box and, with the aid of a policeman, had seized and disarmed his master's assailant. Other policemen who had been attracted by the shooting took charge of the prisoner, and hurried him off to the Central Police Office. There he gave his name as Macon, and confessed that he was an Anarchist.

It is reported that the Governor was shot for having tried to kill Gen. Martinez de Campos. The Governor was taken back to the Prefecture and the bullet was extracted from his leg. Although he suffered much pain, his physicians say that his wound is not dangerous.

The explosion was, however, purely accidental. A large quantity of dynamite which was to be used in blasting for the new harbor works had been set off through the carelessness of a workman. Two workmen were killed and great damage was done to property near the scene of the explosion.

The man who shot Larroca later admitted that his name was Ramon Marrull. He drew a revolver a few hours in jail, and protested that he had intended only to frighten Larroca. Marrull was wounded in the face while he was being taken to the hospital, but he recovered in a few days.

ROME, Jan. 25.—In consequence of the arrests of Anarchist leaders in Carrara, the Anarchist groups throughout the Carrara districts have been virtually dissolved. Although many of the members of the Carrara group have been arrested, their organization has been completely broken.

BUFFALO, Jan. 25.—Prof. Denis, rector of the Buffalo Normal School, has refused to let Miss Keene, the Anarchist and geographer, lecture at the university's auditors.

DOUGHERTY ATTEMPS TO ESCAPE. He Is the Lunatic Who Shot Dr. Lord at the Flatbush Asylum. NEWBURGH, Jan. 25.—Sixty-seven patients are kept in "Court Nolan's Hall," Matteawan asylum. William E. Nolan is head attendant there. In this hall James Dougherty, better known as "Mary Anderson's lover," who shot Dr. Lord at the Flatbush asylum, was kept in the hall. Nolan declared insanity and to Auburn, and thence to Matteawan. Yesterday when Nolan opened the hall door which leads to the corridor, Dougherty and Frederick Bennett forced their way outside. Dougherty placed a handkerchief over Nolan's mouth to prevent him from shouting an alarm, and then wrenched the key from his hand, opened the door of his private room, and forced him inside.

As soon as they had him safe in his room, Dougherty asked in a low tone, "Billy, where is your revolver?" Nolan replied that he had none. Dougherty then asked Nolan where he kept his keys, and Nolan told him in his private room. Dougherty inquired which key opened the door to the corridor, and Nolan told him the key to the corridor was in his pocket. Dougherty then took the key and unlocked the door, and he and Bennett fled.

The wife has displayed symptoms of insanity for some months past, but she has never been considered dangerous. A few weeks ago she was taken to the City Hospital, and less than a week later she was discharged. This evening her husband returned from his work and found his wife in bed. He went to her and found her in bed, and he found her in bed, and he found her in bed.

His name was Emil Keller, a native of Switzerland, who removed to this country about five years ago and came to this city within the past two years. Since his arrival he has been a member of the Knights of Labor, and he has always led a sober, industrious life.

THE ADMINISTRATION USING PATRONAGE TO COERCE SENATORS. They Are Told that It Might Facilitate Action Upon Their Recommendations for Appointments if They Pledge Themselves to Vote for Peckham's Confirmation. WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Much indignation was expressed by Senators to-day, when it became known, on the authority of a Senator, that the President has instructed the members of his Cabinet to withhold all appointments in which Senators are interested until it can be ascertained how they propose to cast their votes on the Peckham nomination. Several Senators, in making the rounds of the departments in search of patronage for their constituents, were questioned by the officials as to how they stand on the Peckham nomination. In one particular instance the Senator to whom inquiry was addressed replied that he had no objection to the Peckham nomination. At first it did not occur to the Senator that there was any particular significance in the inquiry, but he was subsequently informed that if he would pledge himself to vote for the confirmation of Mr. Peckham it might facilitate the action upon their recommendations as he had submitted to the Secretary of State. The Senator became quite indignant, and withdrew without pressing his requests further. It is said that several other Senators have had similar experiences at the departments within the past few days, and the result has greatly strengthened the opposition to Mr. Peckham. Senator Hill has not yet received any communication from the President, and he is more confident than ever that Mr. Peckham will be rejected by a larger majority than was cast against the nomination of Mr. Hornblower.

SEVERAL SENATORS RECEIVED THROUGH THE mails yesterday a green pamphlet of the National League for the Protection of American Institutions. The objects of the association are "to secure constitutional and legislative safeguards for the protection of the common school system and other American institutions, and to promote public instruction in harmony with such institutions, and to prevent all sectarian and denominational appropriation of public funds." Just at present the association is—or at any rate recently was—apprehensive lest public money should be appropriated in the State of New York to Catholic schools, and its publications on this subject have led certain newspapers to condemn it with the A. P. A. and Western know-nothing confraternity. In the list of members of the Law Committee of the association appears the name of Wheeler H. Peckham. In the copy of the pamphlet shown at the Capital, Mr. Peckham's name appears in the list of members of the Law Committee of the association, and it differs from the remainder in respect to the color of the ink used in printing it.

"I authorized the use of my name," Mr. Peckham said yesterday, "I fall to see any connection with an anti-Catholic movement in the publication of the pamphlet. I am a Catholic, but I have not the slightest ill feeling against Catholics, and, in fact, I think that the Catholic Church has done more for the education of the American people than any other denomination. I am in favor of public instruction in harmony with such institutions, and to prevent all sectarian and denominational appropriation of public funds." THE KHEDIVÉ MUST APOLOGIZE. His Utterly Remarkable About British Military Deed. LONDON, Jan. 25.—Most English and French dailies agree that the Khedive's recent criticism of British military deed in Egypt have no deep international import. The Khedive's Journal, published in Cairo, says that the matter was not of a serious nature and has been satisfactorily arranged. The Khedive apologized to Gen. Kitchener of the Egyptian War Department, and besought him to retain his post. Kitchener consented to remain in office.

Lord Rosebery, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, deems this apology insufficient, and has written Lord Cromer, the British diplomat in Cairo, to demand that the Khedive publish a formal retraction of his strictures on the army and issue an order praising its condition; also, that he remove Major Fasha, the assistant Minister of War, who is charged with inciting the Khedive to make his hostile criticisms.

The Marquis de Beteraux, the French representative in Cairo, supports Lord Cromer. Sir Fasha, the Egyptian Premier, will meet the Khedive at Luxor, and there will draw up the apology which is to be published. The general expectation is that the Khedive will sign at once the apology to be submitted to the British Government. The Khedive has been informed from day to day of the vain attempts of Gov. Mitchell to prevent the contest of the duplicity of the Duval Club, and of the presence in Jacksonville of the militia. The granting of the injunction to the Duval Club on Wednesday, restraining Sheriff Broward from interfering with their property, which Gov. Mitchell's last gun, and although a motion to dissolve the injunction was formally entered in Judge Call's court to-day at 10 o'clock, it came to naught, and the State authorities were powerless.

The light itself was peculiarly interesting, because it was interfering with their property, which Gov. Mitchell's last gun, and although a motion to dissolve the injunction was formally entered in Judge Call's court to-day at 10 o'clock, it came to naught, and the State authorities were powerless.

SHOT THE SPECTATORS. The Boy Was Trying to Kill a Pigeon That Had Lived Through a Shooting Match. At the conclusion of a live pigeon match between Stephen W. Hendrickson of Sea Cliff and Dr. D. B. Dougherty of Cold Spring at Sea Cliff on Wednesday afternoon, a dirty-faced boy with an old-fashioned shotgun got after a second bird. The bird was driving back toward the crowd of spectators, when the boy raised his gun and blazed away directly at the crowd around the trap about sixty feet distant. A dozen men were wounded more or less, and many were injured. The boy was shot in the head, and he fell to the ground. In the confusion the boy was captured.

Graham of Sea Cliff was about the worst injured of the lot. He caught a couple of the shot in the throat. A brother of Dr. Dougherty, who was also present, was shot in the leg. Henry Dreyfus's nose was broken, and James Martin was shot in the side of the head. The first pistol shot was a feint shot in the air and another in the forehead. Frank McNeill, William Theurer, and William O'Connell also received slight wounds.

A SCORE FOR CHORUS GIRLS. Fairly Dressed Into Society by the Antra of the First Pictorial Horse. In the fourth act of "Carmen" yesterday afternoon, when just before the bull fight the big stage of the Metropolitan Opera House was crowded with the chorus awaiting the entrance of Escamillo, M. Lassalle and Carmen Meme, Calvé, the first tenor, mounted on a frisky little bay horse, appeared on the scene from the left. The frisky bay cavorted around the open space made for it, and then halted right in among the gaily attired assemblage. The world of the ladies in the boxes and the chorus girls became so frightened that they fled to the wings. The tenor, who was endeavoring to get out of reach of the horse, finally, after the little bay had advanced to the center of the stage, turned whinny and endeavored to exit. The chorus girls were helped back on the stage and order was restored in two minutes.

Another Crack at the White House. WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Another harmless crack made his way to the White House this evening and insisted upon seeing the President. He declined to have anything to do with the attendants of the house, and declined to see the President. He was immediately taken to the President's study, and the President himself came out to see him. The President was very much amused by the performance of the opera.
