

course. The course to the first mark, the whistling buoy off Point Judith, was south-west one-half west, from there to the second mark, east by south, and from there to the third mark, north by north, north-west, west, making it a beat, a reach, and a run.

The prizes were bounded at 11 o'clock and at 11:10 the smaller boats, headed by the Queen, started. The larger boats, which were close hauled on the port tack, were also started as follows: Queen, 11:11:07; Grosvenor, 11:12:00; Emerald, 11:12:30; Loyal, 11:13:07; Noron, 11:13:40; The schooners went over in two divisions, one on the port tack near the buoy, and the other on the starboard tack near the buoy. The American and English boats crossed in the distance, and the American boat was the first to cross the line.

The English boat, the Vigilant, was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald.

They followed the repetition of what led to the Vigilant's protest in the second race off Sandy Hook. The English boat, the Vigilant, was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald.

The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald.

The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald.

The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald.

The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald.

The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald.

The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald.

The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald.

The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald.

three-sided course of ten miles each, in a light west-south-west wind. On the first side the Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald. The Vigilant was the first to cross the line, and she was followed by the American boat, the Emerald.

AN ECCENTRIC BALL OF FIRE. It Wandered About a House in a Thunder Storm. The most extraordinary lightning ball in all the records of Nantuxet was seen at Point Pleasant, near South Creek, on the Sound, last week. It was about the middle of the afternoon when a big, billowing black cloud sailed above the house and began to volley the earth with forked thunderbolts. Some of the electric projectiles appeared to explode just above the roof trees of the hamlet in a myriad dancing, dazzling bright balls of fire, that drifted about the place like clusters of jacinths.

A thunderbolt came down near Mrs. Ward's house and instantly was smashed in a thousand fragments. The largest fragment, looking like a vast, parti-colored, glittering bubble, struck the ground, rebounded, and floated gracefully into the house. It made the entire circuit of the dwelling, visiting one room after another, while the landlady and her guests moved not, soazed were they with awe and fright. The ball moved along so slowly that one could have easily overtaken and gone along with it, said Mrs. Ward, speaking of the occurrence.

It was just about as big as a toy balloon, and it had a very peculiar appearance. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright.

It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright.

It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright.

It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright.

It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright.

It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright.

It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright.

It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright.

It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright.

MORE OUTRAGES IN CHINA.

AMERICAN MISSION PROPERTY AT YUNGSHU BURNED.

The Shanghai Mercury says the American Mission House at Fung-Pook has been destroyed and gunboats have been called for to protect the foreign settlement. Horrible cruelty at the Kuehng Massacre—China Grants England's Demand for Punishment of the Rioters.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The State Department this afternoon received a despatch from Consul-General Jenning reporting further missionary outrages in China. The despatch follows: "Hsiao (Consul) writes the American mission property at Yungshu burned. Details of Kuehng massacre horrible. Houses stealthily surrounded and sleeping ladies and children spared to death. Situation unsettled."

It was just about as big as a toy balloon, and it had a very peculiar appearance. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright.

It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright.

It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright.

It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright.

It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright.

It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright.

It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright.

It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright.

It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright. It was a ball of fire, and it was very bright.

GLADSTONE FOR ARMENIA.

HIS VOICE RAISED ONCE MORE AGAINST THE TURK.

No Promise of the Turkish Authorities Should Be Accepted, He Says, and the Powers Must Not Fear the Word Cooperation—Resolutions in Harmony with His Address Passed by the Meeting that Was Held Yesterday in Chester, England.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—A despatch was sent yesterday from the Foreign Office to Mr. O'Connor, British Minister at Peking, instructing him to demand that the Government of China secure the safety of British subjects residing in that country. Mr. O'Connor was instructed also to demand full inquiry into the recent massacre at Kuehng and the punishment of those found guilty of the crimes. Her Majesty's Consul at Kuehng was ordered to make an independent inquiry into the massacre.

Intelligence was received here this afternoon from China that the Emperor and the Government had agreed to the demands made by Lord Salisbury, through Mr. O'Connor, and that an imperial proclamation had been issued ordering the capital punishment of the murderers. A mill, the charred bodies of some of the victims were found in the ruins of their burned houses.

A rumor was current in the city last night that further riots had occurred at a place near Foo-Chow in Kuehng. The foreign colony at Foo-Chow will hold an indignation meeting this evening to protest against the commission of outrages upon foreigners and to demand protection from the authorities. A similar meeting will be held tomorrow in Hong Kong.

The resolution was passed by the meeting, and the Turkish authorities should be warned that the powers in the Levant were almost null, had given evidence of the atrocities through her agents. The treaty of 1830, he said, gave the powers the right to march into Armenia and take the government of the country out of the hands of Turkey, and under the treaty of 1878 the Sultan was bound to carry out reforms. The ex-Premier made three proposals: First, that the demands of the powers should be moderate; second, that no promises of the Turkish authorities should be accepted; and third, that the powers should not fear the word cooperation.

"We have reached a critical position," said Mr. Gladstone in conclusion, "and the honor of the powers is pledged to the institution of reforms in Armenia." A resolution was proposed expressing the conviction that the Government would in the support of the entire nation in any measures which might adopt to secure in Armenia reforms guaranteeing to the inhabitants safety of life, honor, religion, and property, and that no reforms could be effected which are not placed under the continuous control of the great powers of Europe.

The resolution was passed by the meeting, and the Turkish authorities should be warned that the powers in the Levant were almost null, had given evidence of the atrocities through her agents. The treaty of 1830, he said, gave the powers the right to march into Armenia and take the government of the country out of the hands of Turkey, and under the treaty of 1878 the Sultan was bound to carry out reforms.

The resolution was passed by the meeting, and the Turkish authorities should be warned that the powers in the Levant were almost null, had given evidence of the atrocities through her agents. The treaty of 1830, he said, gave the powers the right to march into Armenia and take the government of the country out of the hands of Turkey, and under the treaty of 1878 the Sultan was bound to carry out reforms.

The resolution was passed by the meeting, and the Turkish authorities should be warned that the powers in the Levant were almost null, had given evidence of the atrocities through her agents. The treaty of 1830, he said, gave the powers the right to march into Armenia and take the government of the country out of the hands of Turkey, and under the treaty of 1878 the Sultan was bound to carry out reforms.

The resolution was passed by the meeting, and the Turkish authorities should be warned that the powers in the Levant were almost null, had given evidence of the atrocities through her agents. The treaty of 1830, he said, gave the powers the right to march into Armenia and take the government of the country out of the hands of Turkey, and under the treaty of 1878 the Sultan was bound to carry out reforms.

The resolution was passed by the meeting, and the Turkish authorities should be warned that the powers in the Levant were almost null, had given evidence of the atrocities through her agents. The treaty of 1830, he said, gave the powers the right to march into Armenia and take the government of the country out of the hands of Turkey, and under the treaty of 1878 the Sultan was bound to carry out reforms.

BRIDEGROOM IN DISGUISE.

HE FAILS TO ELUDE OBSERVATION.

Miss Morris Sued Louis Laski First for Breach of Promise, and Then for the Same After His Body—A Midnight Wedding.

Louis Laski is a good-looking man of 20 years, who lives at 65 Norfolk street. Several years ago he met and courted his cousin, Minnie Morris, who is now 18 years old, of 13 Orchard street, who is a daughter of the late A. D. Orchard street, 31 Market street. They became engaged to be married last November, and the betrothal was duly celebrated. It was then announced that Minnie and Louis would be married on Jan. 1, 1900.

Minnie says that to pay for the hall in which the wedding was to be held she gave Louis $100. Then she began getting her trousseau ready. On the day fixed for the wedding, Louis said that he had changed his mind, and couldn't marry her, adding, she says, that he would return along for some time, and that the betrothal was not forthcoming, she, through her attorney, Robert Greenhalgh of 51 Chambers street, brought suit in the Superior Court for breach of promise of marriage, claiming $10,000 as the amount of damage her character had sustained by reason of his refusal to marry her.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

BRIDEGROOM IN DISGUISE.

HE FAILS TO ELUDE OBSERVATION.

Miss Morris Sued Louis Laski First for Breach of Promise, and Then for the Same After His Body—A Midnight Wedding.

Louis Laski is a good-looking man of 20 years, who lives at 65 Norfolk street. Several years ago he met and courted his cousin, Minnie Morris, who is now 18 years old, of 13 Orchard street, who is a daughter of the late A. D. Orchard street, 31 Market street. They became engaged to be married last November, and the betrothal was duly celebrated. It was then announced that Minnie and Louis would be married on Jan. 1, 1900.

Minnie says that to pay for the hall in which the wedding was to be held she gave Louis $100. Then she began getting her trousseau ready. On the day fixed for the wedding, Louis said that he had changed his mind, and couldn't marry her, adding, she says, that he would return along for some time, and that the betrothal was not forthcoming, she, through her attorney, Robert Greenhalgh of 51 Chambers street, brought suit in the Superior Court for breach of promise of marriage, claiming $10,000 as the amount of damage her character had sustained by reason of his refusal to marry her.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

SCENE OF THE KUEHNG MASSACRE. The crosses indicate Christian mission stations.

several missions from Consul-General Jenning have contained enough facts to warrant the State Department in sending directions by cable to Mr. Denby, United States Minister at Peking, to secure protection from the Chinese government for the American missionaries and their property in the places where trouble has occurred or is imminent.

The United States naval force in China can do nothing to protect American citizens because they have no direct news from China. Kuehng and the other mission towns, where outrages have occurred are far from a naval base. The United States Minister at Peking, Mr. Denby, has been instructed to secure protection from the Chinese government for the American missionaries and their property in the places where trouble has occurred or is imminent.

The Rev. Dr. Leonard of the Methodist Episcopal Church in London, England, has been elected to the position of Moderator of the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in London, England. He will succeed the late Rev. Dr. Leonard, who died last year.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 6.—The Foo-Chow correspondent of the Shanghai Mercury writes that the position of the Europeans there is critical, owing to the hostile feeling of the natives toward them. The Chinese officials declare that in the event of an outbreak directed against foreigners they will not be able to cope with the mob. The Province of Fo-Kien, in which Kuehng and Foo-Chow are situated, is in a state of rebellion. The American mission house at Fung-Pook has been burned, and gunboats have been telegraphed for to protect the foreign settlement there.

SPANISH STEAMERS SHIPPED OFF TO CUBA ON THE ARDANORE. The steamship Ardandore of the Munson line, which sails from this port for Havana today, will carry three steam launches, purchased by the Spanish Government, to be used in Cuban waters. The launches were built at the Shrewsbury, and the Navesink, and they were used by the Shrewsbury Transportation Company in its trade between Red Bank and Highland Beach.

Gen. Rafael de Quesada in Venezuela. A letter received in this city yesterday by a Cuban, from Venezuela, says that Gen. Rafael de Quesada is living on his coffee plantation at Monte Cordero. The guards were forced to be expected to pass through were decorated with flowers and were illuminated. A number of men were stationed in the plaza before the Governor's palace.

Wanted to Die Where Lily Laid. Parnach Maraslian, 32 years old, a Turk, living at 308 West 119th street, was arraigned at the Harlem Police Court yesterday on a charge of threatening to shoot himself, and he was committed to Bellevue Hospital for five days for examination as to his mental condition. Maraslian's brother, Isaac P. Maraslian, 38 years old, was arraigned yesterday on a charge of threatening to shoot himself, and he was committed to Bellevue Hospital for five days for examination as to his mental condition.

BRIDEGROOM IN DISGUISE.

HE FAILS TO ELUDE OBSERVATION.

Miss Morris Sued Louis Laski First for Breach of Promise, and Then for the Same After His Body—A Midnight Wedding.

Louis Laski is a good-looking man of 20 years, who lives at 65 Norfolk street. Several years ago he met and courted his cousin, Minnie Morris, who is now 18 years old, of 13 Orchard street, who is a daughter of the late A. D. Orchard street, 31 Market street. They became engaged to be married last November, and the betrothal was duly celebrated. It was then announced that Minnie and Louis would be married on Jan. 1, 1900.

Minnie says that to pay for the hall in which the wedding was to be held she gave Louis $100. Then she began getting her trousseau ready. On the day fixed for the wedding, Louis said that he had changed his mind, and couldn't marry her, adding, she says, that he would return along for some time, and that the betrothal was not forthcoming, she, through her attorney, Robert Greenhalgh of 51 Chambers street, brought suit in the Superior Court for breach of promise of marriage, claiming $10,000 as the amount of damage her character had sustained by reason of his refusal to marry her.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

BRIDEGROOM IN DISGUISE.

HE FAILS TO ELUDE OBSERVATION.

Miss Morris Sued Louis Laski First for Breach of Promise, and Then for the Same After His Body—A Midnight Wedding.

Louis Laski is a good-looking man of 20 years, who lives at 65 Norfolk street. Several years ago he met and courted his cousin, Minnie Morris, who is now 18 years old, of 13 Orchard street, who is a daughter of the late A. D. Orchard street, 31 Market street. They became engaged to be married last November, and the betrothal was duly celebrated. It was then announced that Minnie and Louis would be married on Jan. 1, 1900.

Minnie says that to pay for the hall in which the wedding was to be held she gave Louis $100. Then she began getting her trousseau ready. On the day fixed for the wedding, Louis said that he had changed his mind, and couldn't marry her, adding, she says, that he would return along for some time, and that the betrothal was not forthcoming, she, through her attorney, Robert Greenhalgh of 51 Chambers street, brought suit in the Superior Court for breach of promise of marriage, claiming $10,000 as the amount of damage her character had sustained by reason of his refusal to marry her.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

BRIDEGROOM IN DISGUISE.

HE FAILS TO ELUDE OBSERVATION.

Miss Morris Sued Louis Laski First for Breach of Promise, and Then for the Same After His Body—A Midnight Wedding.

Louis Laski is a good-looking man of 20 years, who lives at 65 Norfolk street. Several years ago he met and courted his cousin, Minnie Morris, who is now 18 years old, of 13 Orchard street, who is a daughter of the late A. D. Orchard street, 31 Market street. They became engaged to be married last November, and the betrothal was duly celebrated. It was then announced that Minnie and Louis would be married on Jan. 1, 1900.

Minnie says that to pay for the hall in which the wedding was to be held she gave Louis $100. Then she began getting her trousseau ready. On the day fixed for the wedding, Louis said that he had changed his mind, and couldn't marry her, adding, she says, that he would return along for some time, and that the betrothal was not forthcoming, she, through her attorney, Robert Greenhalgh of 51 Chambers street, brought suit in the Superior Court for breach of promise of marriage, claiming $10,000 as the amount of damage her character had sustained by reason of his refusal to marry her.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100. He also said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that he had never given her the $100.

Louis promptly furnished the $1,500 bail required, and was released from custody pending a trial. In his answer to the complaint Louis said that he had never intended to marry Minnie, and that