

CABLE ROAD COLLISIONS.

THREE WOMEN HURT IN A LEXINGTON AVENUE CAR.

The shaft of a Milk Wagon Penetrates the Car's Front—Collision Due to the Front-Track Driver Injured—Sister of the Victim Killed—Car Horses in Collision with a Lexington Avenue Cable Car and a Milk Wagon, near Forty-fifth street...

The shaft of a milk wagon penetrated the front of the car, and the horses were killed. The car was thrown into the air and fell on its side. The driver of the car was injured and the sister of the victim was killed.

The passengers in the car were panic-stricken when the collision occurred. The car was jammed full of people, as all the cars of the Lexington avenue road have been since it opened.

The first person to go to their assistance was Dr. C. E. Bruce, who lives at the corner of Lexington avenue and Fifty-fifth street. He crossed to the opposite corner to post a telegraph and had started toward Third Avenue when he heard the commotion behind him.

When Mrs. Quint was being attended to, two other women were struck by the shaft of the milk wagon. One of them, Mrs. Johanna Lowery, of 245 East Fifty-first street, was injured.

REVOLUTION IN TURKEY.

It Is Generally Expected in London.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—It is the almost universal belief of intelligent men here that a revolution is imminent in Turkey, and that it may break forth with violence at any moment.

MISSIONARIES IN ARMENIA. It Is Believed Their Safety Is Now Assured—The Americans There.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 4.—United States Minister Terrell has obtained from the Porte a repetition of the instructions given to the Government in Armenia, to protect the American missionaries at that place, and regards their going south as now assured.

An official report that has been made to the Porte says that twenty Armenians attacked the gendarmes at Silvecek, in the province of Diarbekir, yesterday. In the fight that ensued several Armenians were killed.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—In regard to the report that the United States and England intended to take joint action in Turkey looking to the protection of American and British missionaries, United States Ambassador Bayard said today that he had been asked to visit the American Embassy, but he was hopeful that something would be done upon the lines suggested.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—Ambassador Pauncefote's telegram, dated yesterday, in which he reported that the United States had decided to intervene in Armenia, has been received here.

HANNIGAN INQUESTAILED.

Witnesses in the Murder Trial Blame the Coroner.

The Justice Tries to Show that Hooper's Antics Disturbed the Mental Equilibrium of David Hannigan—An Attempted Justification of the Prisoner's Crime Is Very Promptly Excluded by Justice Ingraham.

The trial of David F. Hannigan for the murder of Solomon H. Mann was continued before Justice Ingraham in the Oyer and Terminer yesterday. The defense introduced witnesses to prove that the inquest conducted by Coroner Hooper in the case of Loretta V. Hannigan was of a farcical nature, and the claim will be made that the peculiar antics of the coroner had much to do with aggravating the condition of the defendant.

Former District Attorney De Lancey Nicolli was called as a witness by Lawyer Brooke yesterday. Mr. Nicolli appeared as counsel for Dr. Pettinelli at the Hannigan inquest. He testified yesterday that there was a natural hilarity at the inquest. Policeman William W. O'Connell, who testified at the inquest, testified that he had known the defendant for four years. He said that Hannigan acted strangely after his sister's illness, and he had seen him riding a bicycle at the house of the defendant.

The defense introduced many witnesses to prove that Hannigan was mentally unbalanced after his sister's illness. Henry Weller, a real estate speculator of 1708 Columbus avenue, said he had known Hannigan for eight or nine years. Some time previous to his sister's death Hannigan talked to him about buying some lots in Second avenue. There was a will contest which had to be settled before the lots could be secured with a perfect title.

Assistant District Attorney Vernon M. Davis, who appeared for Mann, acted in a boisterous manner during the trial. He called the coroner a fool and a scoundrel. He called the coroner a fool and a scoundrel. He called the coroner a fool and a scoundrel.

There is no justification, either technically, morally, or in any broader sense of the law, Mr. Justice said. You must not imagine anything of the sort. I subscribe to everything your Honor says, and I agree myself over and over again that if it was possible, but I propose to show how this defendant's mind was affected by the fact of the indictment of his sister.

NAVAL NEWS AND NOTES.

The Contracts for the Composite Gunboats—Fewer Marines Aboard Ship.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The award of the six new composite gunboats has been made with a degree of distribution which must be satisfactory to the admiralty. The new vessels are to be given to one firm, The Union Iron Works and the Bath Iron Works, which have two gunboats each, are familiar contributors to the navy, and Elizabethport, which gets one, is the place where the Hancock was built.

The decision which cut out the lowest bidder of all, the Bath Iron Works, is undoubtedly wise, even if judged only on the broad ground of national expediency. The careful language of the treaty of 1817 is that, after the reduction in war vessels which it calls for, no other shall be "built or armed" on the lakes.

It is true that the Government did build at Erie, but the new vessels are to be given to one firm, The Union Iron Works and the Bath Iron Works, which have two gunboats each, are familiar contributors to the navy, and Elizabethport, which gets one, is the place where the Hancock was built.

MURDERED A LITTLE GIRL.

IDA GASKILL MEETS A CRUEL FATE IN A FACULTY HOUSE AT OMAHA.

Enticed to the Place, Assaulted, and Choked to Death—Her Mother Had Sent Her to Call a Boarder to Supper—Arrest of the Supposed Murderer—He Is Taken to the State Prison at Lincoln for Safe Keeping.

OMAHA, Nov. 4.—Ida Gaskill, the eleven-year-old daughter of a poor widow living at 1,814 Half Howard street, was assaulted and murdered last evening in an old vacant house in the rear of 1,807 of the same street. The body was found at 1:45 o'clock this morning by a detective.

Immediately after the discovery Martin Booker, a coal hauler; George Morgan, a collar maker, and Ed Sanford, a machinist, were arrested on suspicion of the crime, but the burden of suspicion rests upon Morgan, who was found with blood upon his clothing.

At 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon the little girl went to call Martin Booker to his supper. He boarded with the Gaskills. Mrs. Gaskill became excited when she found that her daughter was missing during the evening, and reported the matter to the police. When discovered the body was lying in a small closet in the vacant house with clothing torn and swollen throat and features.

Martin Booker was immediately arrested at his residence on North 16th street, and taken to the city jail. He disclaimed all knowledge of the girl after 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, although he was the last man reported as having been seen with her alive.

On the first floor of the Gaskill cottage George Morgan and Ed Sanford were found asleep in the rear room. The night attendant who was made were the bloody garments of Morgan. His trousers were smeared with blood, his shirt front was spotted, and there were traces of blood on his left hand. Morgan and Sanford were taken to jail, where the former was stripped and searched with other clothing, while his own apparel will be held as evidence against him.

When the body of the little girl was taken to the morgue, it was found that death was caused by choking. Indentations made by finger nails were on either side of the throat.

Morgan was placed in the sweet box this morning. He said he had been drinking on Sunday and asserted that he saw Ida Gaskill only once during the afternoon, and that only for a moment, when she asked him to tell Booker to come to the house. He said that he worked for a short time in the morning, and carried from a delivery wagon a quarter of a ton of coal. This is the way he accounts for the blood. Morgan admitted that he was an convict, having served eighteen months in the Nebraska penitentiary for burglary and grand larceny. He also admitted that he had been arrested and held in jail for a year for an attempted assault upon a little girl named Novee at Blair, about four years ago.

A complaint was sworn out charging Morgan with murder. Upon being arraigned he pleaded not guilty. The preliminary examination was set for Wednesday afternoon at 10 o'clock.

The police said that they had no fear of a lynching, but were glad to have Morgan relieved from their charge and placed in the custody of the Sheriff. Morgan was taken to the county jail this afternoon, and later to the State prison at Lincoln.

A group gathered around the county jail this afternoon, but when assured that the prisoner had been taken to Lincoln it dispersed.

ROGERS' NEXT TRIAL.

It Is Expected the Minnie Williams Case Will Come to Trial Next Month.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4.—Just when the Minnie Williams case will be tried has not been settled, but it will not be before December. Judge Murphy, who missed his summer vacation owing to the Lamont case, will now take a rest.

He will try the Williams case, unless there should be a change of venue. Durrant's counsel will ask for a change, and it is thought it will be granted. Eugene Depreux said this morning he thought the case would go to trial about the middle of December. He would then be ready to take part in it.

When Durrant is brought into court on next Friday his sentence his counsel will move for a postponement to give them time to prepare for the case. Judge Durrant's sentence this morning he denied Durrant will be sentenced to be hanged.

The execution for the execution will not probably be set further away than January, but the appeal to the Supreme Court will stay the execution of judgment.

The Weather. Clear weather, with haze, prevailed over the Atlantic coast States yesterday. In the central States it was cloudy and threatening, with a light fall of rain, over Minnesota and Iowa from a storm passing eastward over Minnesota and the upper lakes. The temperature over all the country east of the Mississippi was 10° to 20° higher than the normal for the season, except that along the valleys of the Allegheny system, from Tennessee northward, it was usually only a few degrees above the normal. At Knoxville, Tenn., was 50°; and at Lynchburg, Va., which was 22° lower than at St. Paul.

The only business he ever conducted in the city of New York was the large estates which he inherited from his grandfather, Robert R. Livingston, whom Sir Henry Moore, Governor of New York, described as "the greatest [richest] landholder, without any exception, in New York."

While here John Henry Livingston and his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Livingston, resided with him. He was a member of the New York bar, and was a member of the New York State Bar Association. He was a member of the New York State Bar Association. He was a member of the New York State Bar Association.
