

BOOMS HIS WHISKERS.

CAN MCKINLEY BEAT AGAIN A HOODOO SO YEARS ESTABLISHED.

Edward Condit, of Erie, Pa., has been elected President of the National Association of Whiskers...

I don't know whether I hoodooed Mr. Seward or he hoodooed me. We both had smooth faces, and perhaps...

It has been well known for twenty years that Mr. Evans had in his heart an ambition to be President.

Coming along to Mr. Tilden, everybody concludes now that he was elected President in 1876.

Mr. Russell has been Governor of Massachusetts, and he has been put forward by the Democrats of that State as their candidate for President.

How can I get over that awful superstition about the fate of Presidential candidates with smooth-shaven faces?

The Hon. Mr. Bissell's friends in Buffalo do not believe that he will ever reach the Presidential nomination.

The Hon. Mr. McKimley, of Ohio, is the next President of the United States.

Senator Gorman, in the estimation of many Democrats, could have captured the nomination for President at Chicago in 1892.

Representative Hoke Smith has a face as smooth as a baby's, and so has ex-Postmaster-General Bissell.

The Georgia Democrats have whispered in the ear of Mr. Smith that he should be the candidate for President at Chicago.

LIVE WASHINGTON TOPICS.

Quigg Abandons All Hopes of Getting His Bill for a New Custom House Through.

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Representative Quigg has abandoned all hopes of getting his bill for a new Custom House in New York City through the House this session.

Although the present session there has been a general feeling of indignation and resentment against the Speaker by members interested in public building legislation, but that feeling is subsiding gradually.

One of the most amusing features of the closing hours of the present session is the opening scene in the House each morning.

The Speaker will recognize a limited number of members each day for the purpose of reading the Journal, to ask unanimous consent to pass a certain class of bills.

When the Speaker completely ignores him for the time being, and recognizes gentlemen all around him, Mr. Reed looks disgraced and flustered.

The gentleman from New York is recognized, talking at his companions, Mr. Odell rises, presents his little bill, and it is passed.

A pension bill which gives $12 a month to an old soldier whose disability was "caused by overheating himself at the battle of Bull Run."

The warm water which spent about one week in the general State was drawn outward yesterday by the passage of the bill.

MCKINLEY ROOM TRUSTEES.

DON'T FORGET HERRICK, WHO FURNISHES THE IMAGINATION.

They Still Get to Cleveland When They Tell You of Herrick's Plan to Buy the McKinley Room, Unless You Remember to Buy the Imagination.

In the wild scramble for delegates that the McKinley people have been carrying on, Mark Hanna has been the dominant figure.

This man is Col. Myron T. Herrick, President of the Society for Savings of Cleveland, one of the wealthiest institutions of its kind in this country.

Charles's signature is attached to a letter which was written in the shop of William in reference to the affairs of the University of Oxford.

French Kings are in the collection with a number of signed letters and documents. One from Charles IX. appears on a document which concerns the payment of the French troops.

When they arrived there they found Col. Herrick in a private office with his eyes closed and his hands clasped in prayer.

The Colonel, in telling the story, said he felt that he did not know at first just what to do, but he decided to do it.

But toward evening, second thought came and then people began to smile. They began to laugh and to talk.

THE TRIUMPH OF ZELAYA.

HE PUTS DOWN THE ABRUVO REVOLT IN NICARAGUA.

The Trouble Began in February. Filled March and April with Fighting, and the Insurgents Have Just Surrendered—The National Army in the City of Leon.

It can now be said with a fair amount of assurance that with President Zelaya's capture of the city of Leon last week the fierce and sanguinary civil war which has raged in the republic of Nicaragua for the greater part of the past three months has been brought to an end.

It was because President Zelaya had assumed dictatorial powers in the Government of Nicaragua that the insurrection against his authority broke out. The Vice-President, Gen. Baco, declared against him, took his departure from the capital, Managua, and went to Leon, where the spirit of insurrection was rampant.

By Feb. 24 the situation was serious. The regular army of the country, numbering 2,000 men, was under arms, and the insurgent force, consisting of about the same number of men, held a strong position at Leon, about fifty miles from the capital.

In the first two weeks of the month of March there had been a great deal of action, in which a few shots were exchanged. The first battle was fought on the morning of the 10th.

By March 17 Zelaya's army was again on the march toward the insurgent stronghold at Leon, and by the 23rd had captured several towns, and driven the enemy still further north.

On that day fighting was resumed at various points in the way of tracks for wheels and wheels, which have been made in the field.
