CALVARY FARRAR CHANGES.

Chapel to Revert to Mission Work Under the Rector—The Ten-Year Club Disbanded. Some of the members of the congregation of Calvary P. E. Chapel in East Twenty-third street are a good deal dissatisfied over a change of rite which is about to be made there by the Rev. J. Lewis Farrar, rector of Calvary parish, and it is said that probably 900 of the 750 communicants will go elsewhere. Another source of regret to them is the retirement of the Rev. W. S. Emery, vicar of the chapel, and the Rev. U. S. Henkel, its curate. They have had a long and tenacious struggle with Farrar, under Dr. Satterlee, who was in almost exclusive control of it. His congregation have come to regard it as almost a separate church.

It has been rumored for some time that Dr. Parks, who succeeded Dr. Satterlee, intended to restrict this independence on the part of the chapel. But Dr. Parks's policy was known regarding his intentions until last Sunday, when he published a statement in the Calvary Evangelist to the effect that the chapel would hereafter be more of a missionary center than it had in the past, and emphasizing the need of more missionary work among the poor of the parish. It is understood that Dr. Parks's plan is to exercise a more direct supervision over the chapel, possibly abolishing the office of vicar and conducting the missionary work through a number of laymen who are to be appointed.

NOT ANNIE BOCK'S MURDERER.

But Pauline Barnett's Assault is Suspected of a Murder in Philadelphia. Jacobs Tolker, who was arrested on Tuesday in Central Park on complaint of Pauline Barnett that he was born to her on June 28, 1871, and became known as a musician while very young in his native town, conducting ultimately the orchestra in the local theatre. At this time he began his career as a composer with an opera based on "Hamlet" and called by that name. It was subsequently sung more than twenty times, but his health failed him in the winter of 1871, and he was very much ashamed of it. From Britain he went to Paris, where he spent most of his time writing ballet music. From Paris he

The committee decided to report favorably on only these three items: For connecting the New Utrecht and Gravesend lines at the Mount Prospect station, $100,000; for a laboratory, $100,000; and for the installation of a water system on its own account before giving Mr. Willis any more funds.

CORNELL'S CREW OF CO-EDS.

ATTEMPT AWAY AT DAYBREAK AND ROW BEFORE BREAKFAST. President Schurman Has Not Fully Approved of the Idea and the Girls Were Long Shown to Harassment with the "Eternal Womanly" —Members of the Faculty Coming Around. ITHACA, May 14.—It is said in Ithaca that the co-ed crew is not such an established fact as the school believes it to be. There is the handsome six-oared boat, and plenty of money in the treasury, and ten muscular young women in training, but one thing is lacking. It is the full approval of President Schurman to go ahead and have a crew.

When the Girls' Sports and Pastimes Association was formed and a crew was talked of a big question was asked, and Cornell's president declared his views. His speech contained a quotation from Goethe—the one about the "eternal womanly"—and then he beseeched the young women not to disgrace their alma mater by boarding the cars in bloomers and shrieking like wild something-or-others.

In the main the contributors were people well known as patrons of Cornell athletics. It took some time during the fall and winter to get into work on the rowing machines. But when the spring opened the co-eds were ready to launch their boat on Lake Cayuga. They moved with great caution, avoiding any form of dress that would suggest ease or comfort, and making their excursions to the lake at daybreak. No crew was starting until after 7 A. M. They walked two miles, or rather, stole stealthily away from the shore away from a suspicious glance of the alma mater watching.

The beginnings of the co-ed crew were therefore of a most tentative character. But they were not attributed to the general Cornell spirit, and so the pioneers had hearts full of hope. Aroused almost at daybreak the word came to get into the water, and in a week or two the young crew was almost ready to start. They had been organized under the title of boating club. Of the six-oared boat, which was built by the six-seated barge, looked to use an aquatic term—"fishy." P. D. Colson, '97, who knows as much about boating as any one in the college volunteered to coach the girls. They proved apt pupils, and were admirably fitted for this kind of work. The regular crew could be picked for ten ambitious co-eds entered upon their course. They were all chosen for their excellence in gymnastic and athletic work, as directed by Miss Ellen B. Canfield, instructor in the physical department. The regular crew might enjoy the young women their biceps. Two or three times a week the girls take a spin at daybreak, and the regular crew could be picked for ten ambitious co-eds entered upon their course. FIREMAN PUT ON THE MERIT ROLL.

Stephenson Medal Awarded to Foreman Charles Purdy of Easton Co. At the meeting of the Board of Fire Commissioners yesterday, Chief Hugh Bonner made a report in regard to the death of Fireman John G. Rhinehardt at the fire at 163 Chambers street, and his rescue while still alive by other firemen. Mr. Bonner said he found it hard to make any discrimination as to whom real credit should be awarded for the rescue, and recommended that the following men be placed on the merit roll: Foreman Burns of Truck 1 and Firemen Murphy and O'Connell of the same company; Fireman Foreman Lucia of Truck 2; Firemen Foreman Cunningham of Engine 7, Fireman Walker, Higgins, and Mooney of Engine 1; Fireman Horak of Engine 7, and Fireman Purdy of Truck 10. The report was adopted.

MR. SCROGG'S BODY CLAIMED.

It Will Be Forwarded to His Widow, Who Sailed for England Without Him. The body of Arthur Scroggs, the young Englishman who was drowned on the British Columbia, was claimed at the Morgue yesterday by the American Steamship Company, which had it removed to an undertaking shop in Sixth avenue. It was said for England on Wednesday at the St. Louis, and her husband's body, which through an error had been left unclaimed in the morgue room of the Grand Central Station, and finally sent to the Morgue, was left behind. She doubtless supposed it to be her husband's, and was forwarded to England by the American line.

TOOLING WORKINGWOMEN.

False Promise of Employment Sent Out to Ann by the Alexanders. Somebody is playing a stupid practical joke upon numbers of workingwomen and upon J. A. Alexander, rector yesterday that the company had no work for them, and that they were to be sent to the Alexanders. The links were in ideal condition, and in the next of playing over such spring turf the competitors enjoyed the tramp until the other side of the street. Two or three only, Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., who is about again little the worse for his recent "cropper" at polo, and H. B. Hollins, President of the Metropolitan Golf Association.

"DRAGGED AWAY" TO A HOSPITAL.

Miss Liebmann's Complaining Lawyer Told That the Mad Scientist Feared. An east side lawyer called at the Bureau of Contagious Diseases yesterday to ask by whose authority Miss Bertha Liebmann had been dragged from her home at 90 Livingston street to the Willard Park Hospital. "Who was removed on my authority," said Chief Inspector Kemp, "was a young girl who had disobeyed instructions to keep her room. She was taken to the hospital, and she was dragged away, as you call it."

POLICEMAN PREVENTS A SUICIDE.

Rescues a Woman Who Was Drowning in a Central Park Lake. Sophia Plate, of 977 East 134th street, who has been more or less mentally irresponsible since she was a child, was yesterday rescued from a suicidal attempt to drown herself in the water of the Central Park lake. She was rescued by a policeman who was on duty at the time. She was taken to the hospital, and she was dragged away, as you call it."

CHIEF CONLIN MOVED.

Yesterday to Make Room for Inspector McLaughlin's Chosen Staff. Sergeant Kemp and Roundman Gilhooley were sent up to their former chief, Inspector Thompson, now of the First Inspection district. Sergeant Henry Halpin came down to the Harbor squad, and Roundman Edward Skelly from the West Forty-seventh street station to take their places. Sergeant Handy Halpin was promoted to the Harbor squad, and Roundman Edward Skelly from the West Forty-seventh street station to take their places. GOLF HONORS FOR YALE.

WINS THE INTERCOLLEGIATE TEAM CHAMPIONSHIP FROM HARVARD. The Defeated Outgoing Club Makes a New Competitive Record for Amateurs for the Ardley Club Course—Choate is the Only Winner for the Wearers of the Crimson—Good Links. Yale won the team championship of the Intercollegiate Golf Association on the Ardley Club links yesterday by defeating Harvard in the final round. The victory was a well-deserved one, as Yale had succeeded the rain and mist of the first two days' play, and the turf was dry enough to burn, like Irish peat. Dunn, the greenskeeper, had heavy rollers on the putting greens from daybreak until the opening drives of the match, and the balls shot over them and with accuracy. The players pronounced the links to be perfect, although there were times when some of them would have liked to move a bunker. Terry gained further glory for Yale by making a new amateur record for the course, reducing the competitive record of eighty-six, held by W. H. Sassa, to eighty-three. President Schurman congratulated Choate so well that Terry had to break records or suffer defeat, and he was equal to the task. The championship cup presented to Yale must be won three times to be owned outright. Miniature silver reproductions of the cup were the individual prizes for the winning team.

Cutting drove short from the first tee, but a long approach enabled him to halve it in four. He was bunkered from the brassy on the Alps hole, each costing him a seven. He was four down on ending the first round. Thereafter he only broke once, but he was on the putting greens, the nearly perfect golf giving only forty-two to him for the round. Terry made seven holes in bogie figures, and beat bogie a stroke on the seventh and eighteenth holes. Strokes tell for Yale, and the only hole that was not to be denied. A put or two missed for a half were his only mistakes. The cards: Cutting..... 4 5 4 6 5 5 5 4-41 Terry..... 4 5 6 3 6 5 4 5 5-48

GOOD GOLF AT MEADOWBROOK.

Hird and Tappin to Meet in the Final Match To-Day. Many surprises marked the second day of the open amateur golf tournament at the Meadowbrook Club. The losers could not blame the weather, for while the wind was blowing and the sun was shining, yesterday was one to stimulate a golfer, clear and cold, and more like a day in October than in May.
