TRAIN WRECKERS FOILED.

Their Pal Revealed the Plot and They Were Caught.

Officials Watch Them as They Flee Ties on the Track—One of Them Shot in the Kneeling Semirag—They Meant to Wreck the Past Mail on the B. and O. Southwestern.

SALEM, Ill., June 17.—An attempt to wreck and rob the fast mail train on the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern Railroad last night was frustrated by Sheriff Barnes and a number of local officials. Their presence was due to the betrayal of the would-be train robbers by a pal and resulted in the capture of both of the culprits after one had been shot and probably mortally wounded.

The demand was not immediately complied with, and Garner, with a shotgun, fired at one of the men, who fell severely wounded. The men offered no further resistance and were promptly taken into custody.

The would-be wreckers asserted that it was not their intention to wreck the train, but to rob it. The railroad company for their timely discovery.

The place where the ties were placed on the track is two miles west of Salem, near a high bridge. The men were found by Sheriff Barnes and a number of local officials.

CORNELL PLEASES THE CRITICS.

His Race Said to Compare Favorably with That of Harvard Rivals at Poughkeepsie.

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 17.—If Harvard wins the race on June 25 she will have to pull a harder, snappier stroke than she did to-day. The talk of Harvard's form is not so much in evidence as it was before Cornell's crews made their appearance on the river. Neither is the stock of confidence at Red Top so full of overflowing. Cornell's fine showing on the water this afternoon brought joy to the hearts of all who were watching. At the same time nobody hints that Harvard will not make Cornell row a hard race to win.

The tactics adopted by the English coach are in fact causing a good deal of speculation. He gave very little work to the crew to-day, which looks as if they were trained down as fine as the best of them. Things were so quiet at Red Top this morning and afternoon that a stranger never would have suspected that one of the leading colleges of America had a crew there preparing for one of the greatest aquatic contests in the history of amateur sport in this country.

Cornell took the Cornell varsity and freshman crews out for a pull up the river on the 17th inst. The Cornell varsity crew pulled a stroke longer than Harvard. The Cornell varsity crew pulled a stroke longer than Harvard. The Cornell varsity crew pulled a stroke longer than Harvard.

CONDEMNED DYNAMITE EXPLODES.

Set on Fire at the City Dump in Decatur, Ill., by an Experimenting Keoper.

DECATUR, Ill., June 17.—The explosion of 300 pounds of condemned dynamite sticks at the city dump and burying grounds on the Sangamon River bank, two miles from the center of the city, at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, shook the town like an earthquake and caused buildings in the city to rock and windows to rattle in a startling manner. It was the result of an experiment by a man who had been allowed to be the explosion of one of the powder magazines near the river.

Several months ago sixty-two boxes of dynamite were condemned, and it was given to Joseph Foster, in charge of the city burying ground for dead animals, to put in the ground. He failed to do so, and to-day he took the boxes out of the boxes and piled them on the heap of refuse which he wanted to burn. Then he set the boxes on fire and the dynamite exploded. Foster had been told that the dynamite would be safe, but he was mistaken. There was a terrific explosion and the ground at the fire was completely shattered. The home of Circuit Clerk Foster was badly damaged and many houses had window panes blown out by the concussion.

A man in a well, forty feet deep, two miles from the city, arrived in New London harbor this morning. He thought there was an earthquake.

TWO LIGHTSHIPS LAUNCHED.

Sent Into the Kennebec at Bath, Me., from the Same Yards.

BATH, Me., June 17.—There was a twin launching from the same yards to-day at the Bath Iron Works, when the composite steel lightships known as Nos. 68 and 69 took their final dip in the Kennebec. The two vessels were constructed on slips of the yard, and the yards necessary to send them overboard had a length of nearly 400 feet. To reach the water they were first hauled up the slip, and then lowered. The second had to slide more than twice the distance of the first one. The first ship was sent overboard at 1:30, and the second at 2:30. Both ships were launched in twenty-seven minutes later.

TRIED TO BURN A MEETING HOUSE.

An Attempt at Arson While Services Were Being Held.

PORTLAND, Me., June 17.—An attempt was made last night to burn the First Methodist meeting house on Oak street. The services were in progress. About 8 o'clock, while the Rev. Mr. Samson was preaching a sermon, Mrs. Waterhouse, a young woman living a few feet north from the church, discovered sparks flying up from one of the corners of the building. She rushed to the vestry and called one of the men in the rear seat outside. The man took the fire and threw it back into the church. The speaker and the congregation were alerted, and the fire was quickly extinguished. The congregation walked out of the burning building. The fire was quickly extinguished by her brothers, Dietrich Beckner, the missing woman's brother, and Mrs. Wilhelm Miller, her sister.

FIFTEEN YEARS FOR AN ASSAULT.
