

DRAMATIC PERFORMANCES.

ONE OF BJORNSTJERNE BJORNSTROM'S PLAYS GIVEN IN ENGLISH.

Just the kind of a piece for a hopeless and interesting matinee—Notes on the Earliest and the Latest of the New York Productions of a Comic Opera and a Comedy.

It is especially easy to say that "A Fallure" was an appropriate title for a play performed yesterday afternoon, and it is in a sense true, because the piece was hopelessly impossible as a theatrical entertainment. But it was a good thing for an unbusinesslike matinee, and its performance added more to the matinee's reputation than it had been written by the Norwegian dramatist, Bjornstjerne Bjornson, and translated into plain and clear English by Augustus Brown.

In an Ibsenian spirit, taken a subject out of everyday life and put it into a drama without a touch of idealism or imagination. The commercial leader of the matinee, a control of vulgar, mercantile and materializing enterprises, had for years kept an appearance of prosperity while really a bankrupt. At a crisis of monetary stringency, a lawyer was sent by some banks to investigate the concern. The action of the play showed the fatal defects of the bankrupt to sustain his credit, his desperate attempts to raise money, and his agonies of wounded pride when the exposure came.

Bjornson was like Ibsen in striving after Ibsenism, but he indulged in no depiction of mental or physical illness, except that there was a slight ailment of the nervous system. His characters, too, were rather average in human nature. The bad traits in the fraudulent bankrupt, his younger daughter, who was frivolous, and her lover, who was innocent, were balanced by the good traits in his devoted wife, his elder daughter, whose sense of duty gave way to humility in poverty, and her lover, who at the end of the play, in the face of the bankruptcy, was able to give up his position of wealth and marry the girl who had been the daughter of a bankrupt.

"I hope," says another to her daughter, "you took a four-wheeler." "No, I took a cab," she replies. "You mean it's faster," rejoins the woman. "I suppose the driver looked in through the top." "Oh, no," says the younger, "he looked in through the wheels there are two inside. I was alone." That is the way they gabble on in "Sweet Lavender," which is being used at the Murray Hill for the first time in many years.

There is a scene in "Sweet Lavender," which is being used at the Murray Hill for the first time in many years. There is very little plot in the comedy and hardly any dramatic situations, but the talk flows along in a stream of cleverness. There are no whorls in a stream of wit. The Danmeyer company has undertaken a difficult task, but it has acquitted itself admirably. Of all the styles of modern dramatic entertainment, comedy requires the most deftness in acting and the most careful rehearsal. The Danmeyer company, working out of it may make a serious piece interesting anyway. The fun of a farce may be in the acting, but the comedy is in the dialogue, no matter how clever the composition, it is only as brightly spoken. "Sweet Lavender" is a farce in the best sense of the word, because it has less story than most comedies. It is not a comedy of the kind that is produced about ten years ago at the Metropolitan. It is a comedy of the kind that is produced about ten years ago at the Metropolitan.

La Touraine carried away yesterday. Maurice Grau, a large and good-looking man, was the star of the evening. He was in a regular, but more comely, and took no particular interest in her. After the production of "The Black Hussar," however, she was introduced to the audience as the Spanish belle, who, in the play, is the daughter of a nobleman, and who is the lover of the hero. She was introduced to the audience as the Spanish belle, who, in the play, is the daughter of a nobleman, and who is the lover of the hero.

JUDGE HAYFORD'S CHECKS.

THEY HAVE LANDED THE PRISON REFORMER IN PRISON BEFORE.

It Was After a Term in Salem Penitentiary Jailed from a Court in Trying to Escape in Ludlow Street Jail for Examination. George Hayford, who was arrested at his home, 421 Lenox avenue, on Wednesday night by Central Office Detectives Woodbridge and Arken at the request of the police of Washington, D. C., was arraigned before United States Commissioner Shields yesterday morning on the charge of obtaining $20 from Edward W. Sullivan, of 150 West 11th street, Washington, by means of a worthless draft drawn on the Douglas County Bank of Waterville, State of Washington. The draft was dated, March 21, 1900, and Spaulding alleges, was returned to him with a statement from an official of the bank, to the effect that the bank had never heard of Hayford until a short time before he was drafted by him some time ago.

Hayford is a lawyer and sometimes calls himself "Judge" Hayford, acted as his own attorney when arraigned before United States Commissioner Shields yesterday. The complainant Spaulding, who is a Washington attorney, was in court with Detective Wheeler of the District of Columbia police. When the Commissioner asked Hayford what he had to say, the charge is preposterous. I am not guilty and I desire an examination at the earliest possible date.

He was held in $1,000 bail for examination next Tuesday afternoon. He complained that the bail was excessive. "I understand," he said, "that another similar charge will be preferred against me on Monday and Tuesday and that I will be called upon to furnish another bond on that charge. It would be rather difficult for me, a comparative stranger in New York, to furnish two bonds for $1,000 each. Therefore, I ask that you fix the bail in this case at $500 and I think I am able to furnish that amount."

Hayford is an easy, graceful speaker, but he couldn't talk down his bail, and he was committed to Ludlow Street Jail. Before he was taken away he was asked if he had ever been in trouble before? "Never in my life," was the answer, "and I don't call this trouble. There is some mistake about this which will be righted at the proper time. The statement that I am not known at the Douglas County Bank is absolutely false. Within a short distance that bank, and partly within the corporate limits of Waterville, I have a large number of accounts. I have been before the bank of Waterville, I made the Douglas County Bank my agent to collect rents from the property. Since I left Waterville, I have drawn drafts on the bank to the amount of $150. There should be, therefore, in my account, at least $150. I have a few dollars now, but I certainly wouldn't have disclosed my whereabouts to him."

The other charge to which Hayford referred in his remarks to the Commissioner is made by the Washington branch of the Columbia Photographic Company. The company alleges that Hayford bought a camera and gave in payment a draft for $100 on the Douglas County Bank. The draft was returned with the statement that Hayford was unknown to the bank.

MRS. CLARKE DECLARED INNOCENT.

Physicians Testify in Her Favor in Her Husband's Divorce Suit.

PITTSBURGH, April 26.—The testimony in the Clarke divorce suit was continued today, and it is expected that by to-morrow afternoon the case will be given to the jury. Nearly the whole session was devoted to the testimony of physicians. When court convened this morning, Mrs. Clarke was seated at the counsel's table. She and her father were to remain away during the medical testimony. Yesterday Dr. R. S. Sutton was not permitted to testify to Mrs. Clarke's innocence until the court had decided the point raised by the plaintiff's lawyer that either the plaintiff should have a physician of his own at the examination, or Mrs. Clarke or their experts should be appointed by the court. To-day Judge Kennedy decided that Dr. Sutton might testify. The examination took place last Wednesday. Dr. Sutton said, and proved Mrs. Clarke's innocence. "How strong, doctor, is your conclusion that the patient is innocent?" asked Col. Worthington. Mrs. Clarke has had an excellent case, and I cannot be contra-convicted," was the reply.

No questions were asked by the prosecution, and Col. Worthington then called Dr. Francis P. Morgan of Washington, D. C., the family physician of the Bartletts, Mrs. Clarke's family, who examined her at the time she was hospitalized at Dr. Sutton's residence, and was not cross-examined. Then the defense rested. Judge Kennedy, for the court, said that Dr. Sutton's testimony was not absolutely conclusive. Judge Kennedy said that Dr. Sutton's testimony was not absolutely conclusive. QUEEN'S IRISH VISIT COVER.

GRACIOUS FAREWELL VISIT IN HER NAME.

The Queen's very anxious before leaving Ireland, where she has spent a most agreeable time, to express through the Lord-Lieutenant to her Irish people how very much gratified and how deeply touched she has been by her reception. During the three weeks the Queen has spent in the charming place she has been received by all ranks and all classes with a cordialness and affection which cannot be surpassed. Each time the Queen came here before with her dear husband they were always kindly and warmly welcomed. On this occasion, after the lapse of thirty-nine years, her reception equalled that of previous visits, and she carries away a most affectionate memory of the time she has spent in Ireland. The Queen expressed a prayer that good will and harmony will prevail among all her people, and that they may be happy and prosperous.

Her Majesty has placed £1,000 at Earl Cadogan's disposal for the poor of Dublin, and he has decided to distribute the money among the hospitals. The Queen has conferred baronets upon the Lord Mayors of Dublin and Belfast and the Lord Mayors of the Mayors of Cork and Londonderry. She has also conferred a Lord Mayorcy. Several Vice-Royal and other officials have received decorations from her Majesty. She will present to the Dublin Corporation a piece of plate as a memento of her visit.

The Queen, accompanied by Princess Christian and Princess Henry of Battenberg, left the Vice-Royal Lodge at noon and drove to the Kingsbridge station. The crowds along the line cheered the royal party enthusiastically. The train arrived at Kingstown at 11:10 P.M. The engine was a mass of flowers. Her Majesty was wheeled from the pavilion across the gangway and along the passage to the afterdeck of the Imperial yacht Victoria and Albert, where she remained sitting for some time. The yacht left the Victoria and Albert when she sailed at 2 P.M.

LONDON, April 26.—The royal yacht Victoria and Albert, with the Queen and her suite aboard, arrived at Holyhead this evening. Her Majesty will land in the morning. The Queen's visit to Ireland was a most successful one, and she carries away a most affectionate memory of the time she has spent in Ireland. The Queen expressed a prayer that good will and harmony will prevail among all her people, and that they may be happy and prosperous.

THAT ABANDONED BABY.

The Mystery May Be Solved by Central Office Detectives.

The mystery of the blue-eyed baby left at Bellevue Hospital by J. L. Wilbur was still unsolved yesterday, but there were indications that the inquiry which has been set on foot by Superintendent of Outdoor Poor Board John H. Linn, and which was started by the Police Department, will be successful. It has been learned that there is a Miss Brown in Greenport whose description tallies closely with that given by Cabman McDonald of the woman who accompanied Hammond in the cab to the New York Foundling Hospital. This Miss Brown was a pupil of Hammond's, studying telegraphy with him a year ago. She left home some months ago to do a return visit to her father, who lives in the town of Greenport, and she returned some time in March and then only for a day. She returned to Greenport again recently, and her friends declare that she could not have been Hammond's companion on Tuesday, because she was seen in Greenport on that day.

The mystery may be cleared up by a visit to Greenport which Detective Sergeant Reidy and Armstrong will make in the next few days. The detectives had a consultation with Supt. Blair at his office, at which Cabman McDonald was present. The cabman was with the detectives at 11 o'clock in the afternoon. It is thought he accompanied the detectives to the Bellevue Hospital, where they were looking for the baby. The baby was found in a basket on the steps of the hospital, and it was taken to the Bellevue Hospital. REFORMERS DENOUNCE W.

Think Our Government Should Do Something About the Chinese Minister.

VANCOUVER, B. C., April 26. WA CUNYOW, Foreign Secretary of the Chinese Reform Association of Canada, said to-day that the Chinese reformers in this country are denouncing the Chinese Minister of Washington, who is reported in mail advices just received from the Orient to be wiring Li Hung Chang the names of Chinese in America who are in sympathy with the reform movement in order that their names might be placed on a list of Chinese to be deported. Mr. W. calls the Chinese Minister a creature of the Dowager Empress and says that he is a man of no ability and no character. He says the Minister is out of favor with Chinese reformers the world over and he thinks the Chinese Government should do something to get rid of him. He says that the Chinese Minister is a man of no ability and no character. He says the Minister is out of favor with Chinese reformers the world over and he thinks the Chinese Government should do something to get rid of him.

SOUTH AMERICA'S RELIGION.

The Rev. Mr. Ewbank Says Most of It Should Be Marked as Heathendom.

At the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church yesterday afternoon the Rev. Allen Ewbank of the Church of England in South America said among other things: "I have seen the people of South America, except a fringe around the edge, worshipping the sun, the moon, the stars, the elements of the earth, and the powers of the air. Are some of these people Roman Catholics? They do not even worship the Virgin Mary."
