

IN THE FOOTBALL WORLD.

"BIG FOUR" HAVE IMPORTANT MATCHES ON THEIR HANDS TO-DAY.

Harvard Takes Columbia at Cambridge in the First Game of the Season. Brown Meets Pennsylvania, Yale Will Try Out Dartmouth and Tigers Face Middle.

Four football games of particular interest to college men will be played to-day. Columbia lines up against Harvard at Cambridge, Brown meets Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, Yale tackles Dartmouth at New Haven, Mass., and Princeton will try out the Naval Academy at Annapolis. These encounters should produce a very fair line on the actual strength of the "Big Four" this year.

The Columbia-Harvard match is by far the most important of the season. It has been decided to play eleven games in all, and in games with Bowdoin, Williams and Amherst the team has shown some alarming weak points. In view of this fact Harvard men are wondering what can be done against Sanford's players, who are recognized as the strongest combination in the East. The Princeton game is of great importance, because of longer coaching and a firmly established system of coaching, ought to win. The critics have figured out that if Harvard beat Williams 12 to 9 in two-minute halves and Williams with Columbia in fifteen-minute halves, the Princeton should have a walk-over with Sanford's eleven, which will probably be stronger than it was on Wednesday. In order to keep Harvard down in the score, however, Columbia will have to play a more effective defense.

Harvard's backs are fast and they know how to make ground where other men fail. Sevin, Kendall and Ellis, if they line up behind the quarterback, ought to make Columbia fight hard to stop their advances. In putting Harvard it is sure to have a big advantage. As Columbia is a second-rate team in that respect as far as the two rush lines are concerned it will be practically a new one, its chief fault being slowness and a lack of aggressiveness. It is expected to win, but it is not expected to win by a large margin. The game will be a hard one to play, but if the men become rattled and the interference does not keep up a signal defeat for Sanford is not far off. Sanford's impressive score can be looked for. Sanford has trained his team so that every member of the eleven should be a first-class player. It is expected that the eleven would play the hardest and fiercest kind of football the moment the whistle blows. The game will be a hard one to score right of the reel, but in view of Harvard's defense so far the odds are very much against such an occurrence.

To date the University of Pennsylvania has not won a game since its defeat by Princeton. It is expected that the Quakers, by reason of their big scores, have come to the attention of the other colleges. It is expected that the Quakers will be a very strong team. The game will be a hard one to play, but if the men become rattled and the interference does not keep up a signal defeat for Sanford is not far off. Sanford's impressive score can be looked for. There is a wide difference of opinion among leading athletes as to the advisability of playing up big scores. Some of the instructors in charge of the football team are of the opinion that the Quakers will be a very strong team. WAGERS ARE DECLARED OFF.

BET THE HOLDERS OF PRINCE A TICKETS RECEIVE THEIR MONEY.

A Flatly Argument Involuntarily at the Parkway Driving Club Track—Red Lawn and Amelia Pedlar the Winners—Only Two Heads of the Racing Race Finished.

Good racing, bets declared off, after they had passed a heated argument, which came on during a flat bet between Billy Snyder and Dave Laman, were the features of the afternoon's sport at the Parkway Driving Club track yesterday. In the first heat of the 2:14 pace, which was unfinished, Amokim, driven by Maxfield, was run into by Merritt Wilcox, driven by Moore, at the first turn and Amokim made a costly break. Prince A, which will be the position of the horses, the finish had been announced when the judges remembered that something had occurred at the start of the heat. They fined Maxfield $25, thinking he could have won the heat, and declared all bets off, but those who held Prince A tickets had already received their money.

Argo Director was a warm favorite in the 2:35 pace at $100 to $20 for the field. She won the first heat and the second heat, but in the box they could get. Then Matt Dwyer won the heat with the 2:37 trot. Miss Shaw and Amelia Pedlar sold in the auctions at $10 each for the field. The latter won the money after finishing in eighth place in the first heat.

RACING.

Three Special Features on the Morris Park Card for To-day.

Three of the most important stakes on the autumn calendar furnish the attractions on the racing card at Morris Park this afternoon. These are the October Steeplechase, the Champagne and the Municipal. The first named is a handicap over the two-mile-and-a-half course with seven well-tried jumpers engaged.

Nine of the best two-year-olds in training decided over the last seven furlongs of the Withers mile. The red letter event, however, is the Municipal, a handicap which brings out the best of the two-mile-and-a-half course with seven well-tried jumpers engaged. Nine of the best two-year-olds in training decided over the last seven furlongs of the Withers mile. The red letter event, however, is the Municipal, a handicap which brings out the best of the two-mile-and-a-half course with seven well-tried jumpers engaged.

First Race—October steeplechase handicap about two miles and a half. The race will be run on the two-mile-and-a-half course with seven well-tried jumpers engaged. Nine of the best two-year-olds in training decided over the last seven furlongs of the Withers mile. The red letter event, however, is the Municipal, a handicap which brings out the best of the two-mile-and-a-half course with seven well-tried jumpers engaged.

Second Race—Municipal, two years old, last five and a half furlongs of the course. The race will be run on the two-mile-and-a-half course with seven well-tried jumpers engaged. Nine of the best two-year-olds in training decided over the last seven furlongs of the Withers mile. The red letter event, however, is the Municipal, a handicap which brings out the best of the two-mile-and-a-half course with seven well-tried jumpers engaged.

Third Race—Handicap for all ages, Eclipse Course. The race will be run on the two-mile-and-a-half course with seven well-tried jumpers engaged. Nine of the best two-year-olds in training decided over the last seven furlongs of the Withers mile. The red letter event, however, is the Municipal, a handicap which brings out the best of the two-mile-and-a-half course with seven well-tried jumpers engaged.

Fourth Race—Champagne Stakes for two-year-olds. The race will be run on the two-mile-and-a-half course with seven well-tried jumpers engaged. Nine of the best two-year-olds in training decided over the last seven furlongs of the Withers mile. The red letter event, however, is the Municipal, a handicap which brings out the best of the two-mile-and-a-half course with seven well-tried jumpers engaged.

Fifth Race—Municipal Handicap for three-year-olds and over, one mile and three-quarters over the hill. The race will be run on the two-mile-and-a-half course with seven well-tried jumpers engaged. Nine of the best two-year-olds in training decided over the last seven furlongs of the Withers mile. The red letter event, however, is the Municipal, a handicap which brings out the best of the two-mile-and-a-half course with seven well-tried jumpers engaged.

Sixth Race—Selling, one mile and a furlong over the hill. The race will be run on the two-mile-and-a-half course with seven well-tried jumpers engaged. Nine of the best two-year-olds in training decided over the last seven furlongs of the Withers mile. The red letter event, however, is the Municipal, a handicap which brings out the best of the two-mile-and-a-half course with seven well-tried jumpers engaged.

Seventh Race—Selling, one mile and a furlong over the hill. The race will be run on the two-mile-and-a-half course with seven well-tried jumpers engaged. Nine of the best two-year-olds in training decided over the last seven furlongs of the Withers mile. The red letter event, however, is the Municipal, a handicap which brings out the best of the two-mile-and-a-half course with seven well-tried jumpers engaged.

Eighth Race—Selling, one mile and a furlong over the hill. The race will be run on the two-mile-and-a-half course with seven well-tried jumpers engaged. Nine of the best two-year-olds in training decided over the last seven furlongs of the Withers mile. NEWS OF THE WHEELMEN.

PLUCKY MISS GAST CONTINUES HER HARD RIDING FOR CENTURY RECORDS.

Four Hundred Miles of the Two Thousand Completed Last Night—Far Ahead of the Best Women's Time, She Struggles Gaily to Beat Miss Brown's Record.

Though exhausted almost to the limit of human endurance Miss Margaret Gast, the cyclist who is travelling almost incessantly over the roads in the vicinity of Valley Stream, continued her quest for records yesterday with unabated determination. At 6 o'clock last night she had ridden 1400 miles and fought off two tired spoils so severe that to the uninitiated they appeared each time as a case of collapse.

The adverse conditions which prevailed at the beginning of her great task, and the severe efforts which the plucky rider was called upon to make to overcome the muddy roads and cross-country weather are now telling the inevitable tale, and it is only by the sheer force of her undomitable will that Miss Gast is able to keep in the saddle and continue the monotonous pedalling. The ultimate object of her trial is to ride 2,000 miles and set up a new mark for the twenty centuries for some both men and women. For some time past she has been well ahead of Mrs. Jane Lindsay's figures, which were the best previously credited to a woman, and yesterday set out in earnest to surpass the record made by Will H. Brown, who is acting as her trainer in the arduous task.

On Thursday night she was more than five hours behind Brown's time, but her consistent pedalling yesterday brought her within measurable distance of his figure and in spite of the weariness with which she is troubled she is now confident of taking the lead in her struggle against fatigue. The most trying trial she has yet had occurred late on Thursday night and in the morning she was so tired that she was awakened to find her feet numb. Her condition was very similar to that which she experienced on Friday night, when she was so tired that she was awakened to find her feet numb. Her condition was very similar to that which she experienced on Friday night, when she was so tired that she was awakened to find her feet numb.

Miss Gast rested until 8 o'clock and then rode several hours, resuming riding at 3:15 o'clock. She made only one mile in the interval, but at 4:45 o'clock she was again attacked with sleep.
