

The Only American Cyclopædia Now Published

The product of the most mature and modern American Scholarship; prepared and edited for Americans and in perfect conformity with THE NEW Education; published by the oldest Cyclopædia publishing house in America . . . . .

This monumental reference work was produced by Charles Kendall Adams, LL. D., and Rossiter Johnson, Ph. D., as Editors; assisted by Forty Distinguished American Scholars in charge of special departments, and 3,000 Contributors, including more than 400 College Presidents, Ex-Presidents, and Professors—all eminent specialists in our own country and in Europe.

The SUN Cyclopædia Distributing Bureau

has arranged with D. APPLETON & COMPANY for the control of the entire first edition of 3,000 sets of this new Cyclopædia for this territory.

A CARD

The spontaneous response of the public to this educational enterprise has exceeded our most sanguine expectations, and we regret that we have been unable to deliver books to subscribers as promptly as is our custom, and beg the indulgence of both subscribers for the Cyclopædia and applicants for specimen pages, etc. Within a few days we hope to catch up with the volume of business that this offer has produced.

D. APPLETON & COMPANY
