

"I pity the man who is too poor and mean to buy books for his children. He might as well refuse them bread and meat."

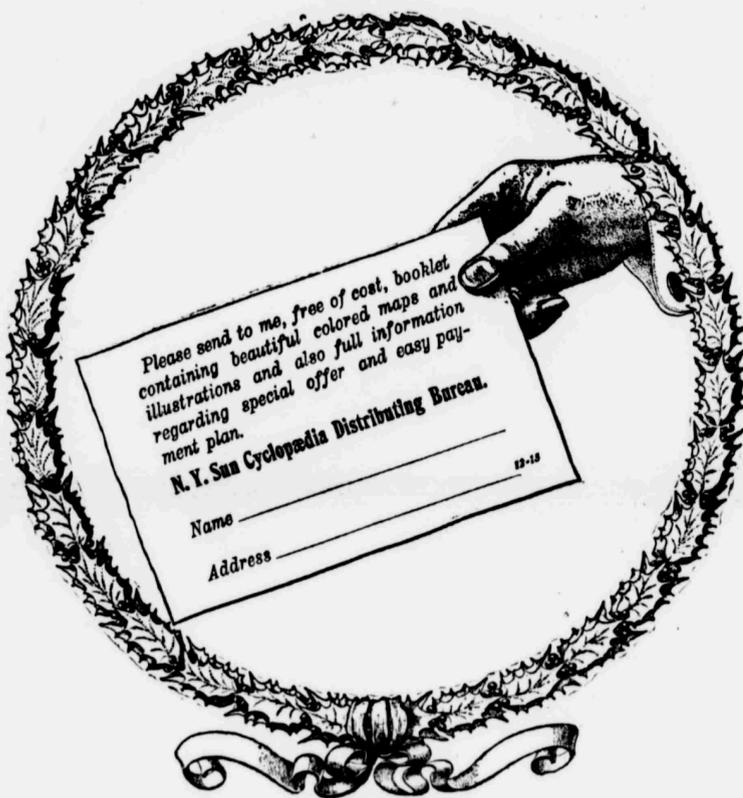

—JOHN C. CALHOUN.

We request every girl or boy whose parents can afford ten cents a day for their education to sign inquiry blank and mail same to the NEW YORK SUN. We believe every parent in our country will buy APPLETONS' UNIVERSAL CYCLOPÆDIA AND ATLAS after examining booklet and comprehending the great educational advantages to be derived by each member of a family that owns this—
