

WHITE'S GOOD-BY TO GERMANY

THE KAISER PRESENTS TO HIM A MEDAL OF SCIENCE AND ART. The retiring Ambassador explains significance of Thanksgiving Day—He will spend the winter in Italy and sail for United States in June of next year.

Berlin, Nov. 27.—Mr. Andrew D. White, the retiring American Ambassador, presented the Kaiser's letter accepting his resignation to the Kaiser at the Palace today. The Ambassador and his wife were conveyed to and from the Kaiserhof in a special imperial carriage with outriders.

After greeting the retiring Ambassador in a cordial manner and inquiring as to President Roosevelt's health and his success in his recent hunting expedition, the Kaiser placed in Mr. White's hands a gold medal of the Academy of Science and Art, which, he said, he did at the request of the leading men of those departments in Germany and on the representations of Count von Bulow, the Imperial Chancellor, and the Minister of Instruction. He told Mr. White that he was having a large porcelain vase prepared for him as a personal gift.

Emperor William talked with Mr. White about the German museum at Harvard University, particularly in regard to Prof. Kuno Francke's work there. The Kaiser and the Ambassador also discussed the archaeological researches of Germany and the last new American church to be proposed in Berlin, which Emperor William will probably dedicate. Finally Emperor William asked the retiring Ambassador the meaning and importance of Thanksgiving Day. Mr. White explained this to the Kaiser's satisfaction.

After this conversation there was a luncheon. Among those present besides the Kaiser and Mr. White were the Grand Duke of Oldenburg, the Prince and Princess of Prussia and the new German naval and military attaché.

Mr. White presided at the Thanksgiving dinner of the American colony at the Kaiserhof to-night, when he bade farewell to the members of the colony.

He will go to Anzio, Italy, for the winter. He will stop at Florence and will sail for the United States in June of next year.

HARTOPP DIVORCE SCANDAL.

Lady Hartopp's Maid Testifies to Misconduct on Her Mistress' Part. Special Cable Dispatch to THE SUN.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The hearing in the divorce suit of Sir Charles Hartopp against his wife, in which the Earl of Cowley is named as co-defendant, was resumed this morning.

The court room was crowded with fashionable people. The Earl of Cowley was conspicuous by his attire. He wore a black and white waistcoat and a tie of the same hue and a vivid pink shirt. The women present wore brilliant dresses, ranging to a degree from the court room was lighted by electricity and the display of handsome costumes by the women there was an appearance of a society evening entertainment.

Sir Charles Hartopp admitted that he made bets on the races and played cards before and after his marriage. He also testified that Lady Hartopp made bets on the races. He said she lost £270 on the Epsom and Ascot races in 1899.

The maid employed by Lady Hartopp at her hunting cottage, in Leicestershire, testified that Earl Cowley was habitually alone with her mistress in the latter's boudoir, which could only be entered through a bedroom. He was also alone with her in the drawing room, the door of which was kept locked. He often washed his hands at the stand in Lady Hartopp's bedroom while the latter was standing dressing there. The maid testified further that Lady Hartopp often visited Earl Cowley at Baginbun Hall, near her cottage. On these occasions she took a change of clothing with her.

GREEK OR NO GREEK AT OXFORD.

Extent of the Change Proposed—Arguments Offered on Both Sides. LONDON, Nov. 15.—That candidates shall not be required to offer both Greek and Latin in the examination in stated subjects in Congregation at Oxford on Wednesday last.

In a house of 35, this revolutionary motion was rejected by only 23 votes. When next it appears, as appear again it must, though probably in different form, it seems certain that it will go through. Then for the first time will be seen Oxford graduates who have never known even the elements of Greek.

It is unnecessary to enter into the broad arguments for and against Greek which, of course, always brought forward when school entrance university curricula are discussed. They are too well known. But the question of Greek at Oxford when applied to Oxford brings other considerations into its train.

DADY MAY NOT BE APPOINTED.

REINFORCEMENT BY REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE NOT CERTAIN. Question Will Be Decided at a Special Meeting in Kings County About the Middle of December—His Candidacy Will Not Be Urged Upon Mayor Low.

The controversy over the choice of a successor to Col. Michael J. Dady as Elections Commissioner is not likely, according to the present outlook, to disturb the harmony of the new Republican County Committee in Brooklyn when it meets for organization next Tuesday night. The question of a reinforcement of Dady for another term or the selection of a new man for his $5,000 a year job is to be left in abeyance until a special meeting of the committee is called, about the middle of December, unless within the next five days Dady becomes convinced that even with an endorsement by the Republican organization, Mayor Low will not reappoint him.

As Lieut. Gov. Woodruff announced a few days ago, there is no intention to get into a vexatious tangle with the Mayor by urging upon him a candidate to whom he has opposed. Mr. Woodruff had a half-hour talk with Mayor Low on Wednesday, at which, doubtless, his Honor's views with respect to the election of E. E. Smith were disclosed, and, very likely, the fate of Col. Dady, so far as the office is concerned, determined.
