

GROWN-UP SUBS CRY-BABY.

THE YEARS HAVE FLED SINCE ARTIST'S MODEL WROTE HIM.

At 46 She Wants 200 Weeks' Wages Earned When She Did Not Need Armless Chairs to Sit On—Artist Says She's Got $13,000 Out of Him Already—Calls It Blackmail.

The suit of Miss Lizzie L. Clark, who weighs now about one-eighth of a short ton, but was more sylphlike in 1876, when she was an artist's model, against Charles H. Miller, formerly an artist, now of Queens, N. Y., was tried yesterday before Surrogate Justice Stover and a jury. Miss Clark says that on Jan. 26, 1876, Miller engaged her as model and amanuensis at the stipulated salary of $15 a week. She says he owes her for 200 weeks, a total of $4,200.

Miss Clark testified that she posed in the nude for Miller from time to time from 1876 to 1900. She always was tall and now she is broad also. A large chair without arms was provided for her in the court room. The artist is gray-haired now, and his mustache curls ferociously upward, like the Kaiser's. He is 61 years old. Some people call him "Dr. Miller," she called him for years "her dear, dear Cry-Baby," because, as she naively expressed it, "he cried so easily." She was his "Pettty Baby."

There were only two witnesses, the principals themselves. Miss Clark was asked to tell her story. Briefly, it was that she had met Miller in 1874 as a model and had posed for him in the nude. She called him "The Enchanted Mill" and "The Whirlwind of Fate." In 1876 he suggested that she confine her work to him and he would pay her $15 a week. From that time, she said, she became his employee, posing, studying elocution, reading passages from Shakespeare aloud while he painted and copying manuscripts. She was his amanuensis, at his suggestion, and afterward gave public readings in various cities. On cross-examination, Miss Clark wore a determined look behind her glasses and snappd out her answers.

Q. Who paid your expenses to San Francisco and back to New York? A. He did. Q. And it all came out of his weekly? A. No, sir, not all. Q. Well, where did it come from? A. I refuse to answer. Q. How did you come to give these lectures? A. Why, Dr. Miller insisted on my doing so. It was at his suggestion I went to the Convent of Notre Dame and studied elocution. He wanted me to make a name for myself. Q. Tell us how your friendly relations with Mr. Miller came to a convention? A. He came to me and told me that he was short of funds and would have to marry a wealthy widow. He threatened that he would have nothing more to do with me if I did not destroy all the letters I had from him. I did so, but shortly afterward he came into a big house from his mother, and later he got married. Then he refused to give me any more money, though he did give me $10 on account on Sept. 11, 1900.

Miss Clark admitted that she had received sums ranging from $20 to $150 at various times from Miller when she was in financial straits on her lecturing tours. Q. Why did he ask you to destroy his letters? A. I don't know and never inquired. I was never curious. Q. Haven't you demanded money from him continuously from 1882 to 1902? A. No, sir, except on my contract. Q. Haven't you extorted money from him by threats? Did you not threaten to show him? "No, sir," shouted Miss Clark. "Are you willing to tell the truth about your relations with Mr. Miller?" To this question Miss Clark's counsel objected, and Justice Stover ruled that she need not answer.

"Didn't you kiss him often and hug him and write him loving letters?" "I refuse to answer," she replied. "Counsel asked Miss Clark her age, and she replied 'Forty-six,' but when he asked her weight, remarking that he wished to show the impossibility of her having given a model in late years, Justice Stover remarked that it was all a matter of taste and she need not answer. Her counsel then remarked that the testimony of the first two witnesses was contradictory. The first two witnesses were the Rev. Dr. George R. Van De Water, rector of St. Andrew's Church, who is named as correspondent in the divorce suit brought by Archibald Watt against his wife, sailed yesterday aboard the Italian line steamship Lombardina for a three months' vacation in Italy. Dr. Van De Water was accompanied by his wife. About fifty members of the clergyman's congregation saw him off and the first train cabin with flowers. In regard to the charge made by Mr. Watt, Dr. Van De Water said: "On advice of my counsel, I will not answer the charge now, but will do so when I return in September. I will say, however, that the accusation against me is made to cover up charges which I have made. I have always acted like a gentleman, a rector and a chaplain."

ST. ANDREW'S CURATE ACCEPTS A TEXAS CALL. The Rev. W. E. Henckell, the curate of St. Andrew's Protestant Episcopal Church, of which the Rev. Dr. George R. Van De Water is rector, has accepted a call to St. Paul's Church at San Antonio, Tex. He will go there on Sept. 1.

GARVAN'S MARRIAGE NULL. Bride Prosecutor's Brother Found in the Adirondacks Is Another's.

Supreme Court Justice Giegerich annulled yesterday the marriage between John Stephen Garvan of Hartford, Conn., brother of Assistant District Attorney Garvan, and Mary Ledwith Garvan, who met in the Adirondacks under the name of Eleanor Hollingsworth Kimball. She told him she was the widow of H. F. Kimball, a Harvard graduate, and when they came to town they were immediately married at the Little Church Around the Corner, on 121st street. Garvan discovered later that Kimball was still living and that the woman was Kimball's wife. Mrs. Kimball is five years older than Garvan and a niece of Bernard H. Ledwith.

JUDGE COWING OBJECTS TO CARRYING IN A COMPLAINTING WIFE. Jesse Green, a negro of 2316 Arthur avenue, The Bronx, was brought from Bellevue in an ambulance yesterday and carried on a stretcher into General Sessions. Judge Cowing was told that he was suffering from paralysis, the result of a pistol shot wound inflicted on Aug. 4, 1902, by John Hulbert, a forist of 2219 Bassford place. He had been brought into court to testify against Hulbert.

HULLBERT'S COUNSEL DECLARED THAT IT WAS UNFAIR TO THE DEFENDANT TO BRING A WITNESS INTO COURT IN SUCH A CONDITION. Judge Cowing said he thought so too, and ordered the man's removal.

WILL BE BISHOP OF CEBU. Appointment of Father Hendrick Expected to Be Declared on Thursday.

A private cablegram received in this city yesterday from Rome announced that Father Thomas Hendrick of Rochester will be officially declared Bishop of Cebu, in the Philippines, at the public consistory on Thursday. The fourteen Cardinals of the Philippine commission have unanimously endorsed Father Hendrick for this see. It is said by Father Hendrick's friends that he will endeavor to have an exception made in his case to the rule for having all the new rulers of the Church in the Philippines consecrated in Rome, and it is hoped to be consecrated in the United States.

FRANKIE'S CONSPIRACY CHARGE DISMISSED. The summonses obtained by Naham Franko against two members of the Metropolitan Opera House orchestra, whom he accused of conspiring in instigating charges against him of withholding musicians' pay, were withdrawn yesterday by his counsel in Jefferson Market Police Court. Franko's lawyer had tried to have the examination of the musicians again postponed and the request was denied.

FOUR NEW POLICE INSPECTORS

WIEGAND, BALDWIN, ALBERTSON AND WALSH MOVED UP.

Greene Fills All the Vacancies and Leaves a Place for a New Captain—Wiegand Goes to Brooklyn, But the Others Keep Their Acting Inspectorships.

The four vacant police inspectorships were filled by Police Commissioner Greene yesterday, and all those eligible for the post, including Capt. "Smiling Dick" Walsh, were moved up. Walsh missed the promotion during the first days of Commissioner Greene's administration because he failed to pass the civil service examination. The new inspectors are: Capt. John Wiegand of the Mercer street station; Capt. Sylvester D. Baldwin, acting inspector of the Ninth district, with headquarters at Lee avenue station, Brooklyn; Capt. Charles L. Albertson, acting inspector of the Fifth district, with headquarters at the West 126th street station, and Capt. Richard Walsh, acting inspector of the Fourth district, with headquarters at the West Sixty-eighth street station.

All of the new inspectors, except Walsh, were sworn in yesterday. His appointment does not go into effect until July 12, when Inspector Brennan retires at the end of his twenty-day leave of absence. Meanwhile Walsh continues acting inspector and will retain the same district when he is sworn in. Wiegand leaves the Mercer street station immediately to take up his headquarters at the Ninth district station in Brooklyn, which has been without a head since Inspector Brennan started on his vacation on Sunday. The other three inspectors keep their districts they have been ruling as acting inspectors.

As there were eighty-one captains on the force in addition to the four acting inspectors, the full number necessary for the administration of the department, Capt. Wiegand's promotion makes one vacancy in that rank. Capt. William Hogan has been transferred from the East Eighty-eighth street station to the Mercer street station, and Capt. William W. Burdett, newly made captain of the Morrisania station, comes down to Manhattan to fill Hogan's place. No one has yet been sent to Morrisania.

After the new inspectors had been sworn in Commissioner Greene held a meeting and looked over with his three deputies and the fifteen borough and district inspectors. The talk was all about disciplinary matters, Greene said afterward. New York train, comprising an old engine and five cars, was approaching the Court Square station. The rails were slippery, and the engine was unable to draw the train around the long curve in front of the Hall of Records. Directly in the rear was an electric motor train from Coney Island, and in the rear of this was another East New York train.

The motor train in charge of the second train moved up, as he believed, carefully in order to give the first train a boost. He had more power on than he thought, and in boosting the train he forced the first car against the engine in such a manner that the coupling between the engine and the car snapped. The engine started ahead toward the Myrtle avenue station. At the same time the Coney Island motor train rebounded and the coupling between its two rear cars was broken. The last car went backward and bumped into the third train before the brakes could be applied.

A Miss Risley of 355 Jefferson avenue, who was a passenger on the first train, was thrown from her seat and sustained a scalp wound, which was dressed by Ambulance Surgeon McChesney of the Brooklyn Hospital. The accident delayed travel for half an hour.

DR. VAN DE WATER GOES ABROAD.

By Advice of Counsel He Will Not Answer Divorce Charge Till September.

NEW ISSUE IN IOWA CAMPAIGN.

Democrats Likely to Make Their Fight on Government Ownership.

DRS MOINIS, Ia., June 23.—The Democratic State Convention, which will meet here to-morrow, promises much stir. The question of rechartering the Kansas City platform will be fought out again on the floor of the convention. The anti-reformers will control the Committee on Resolutions and will bring in a majority report omitting any reference to past platforms. The Bryan forces will surely offer a substitute, as they did last year. Rechartering was beaten in 1902, but it will probably meet the same fate to-morrow.

A new issue, Government ownership of railroads, has been interjected into the fight, and as the only man willing to make the sacrifice involved in becoming the party's nominee for Governor is in favor of it, it will probably be the issue on which the convention will bow to his wishes and make that plank the principal utterance of the platform. The probable nominee for Governor is ex-Judge Anthony Van Wagenen, who was a strong Bryan man but has become convinced that it would be folly to recharter issues that have been passed upon already.

In taking the initiative for Government ownership friends of this policy are hopeful that it will be interjected into national politics. A spirit of banter may lead the convention to endorse the Republican Iowa idea, which is ex-Judge Anthony Van Wagenen, who was a strong Bryan man but has become convinced that it would be folly to recharter issues that have been passed upon already.

MAJOR POND'S FUNERAL.

Just Before He Died He Said: "Perhaps I Will See Beecher To-morrow."

Funeral services for Major James B. Pond were held last night at his home, 107 West 114th street. The service was held at 8 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, officiated. He said that two weeks ago he had a talk with Major Pond and the latter, in discussing his approaching death, said: "A man has behind him a long and happy life. He has years are short and opportunities few, and they are crowded with ignorance and mistakes." Dr. Willis said that Major Pond referred to the death of Henry Ward Beecher, and just before they parted remarked, "Perhaps I will see Beecher to-morrow."

MAY INVOLVE U. S. COURT CLERK.

Story That Blank Naturalization Papers, Signed and Sealed, Were Sold.

Roberto Bannaro, the reputed head of a gang of Italians who forged and sold fraudulent naturalization papers, pleaded guilty in the United States Circuit Court yesterday and was convicted. It is said that, in addition to using forged papers, Bannaro obtained and used some which bore genuine seals and signatures and lacked only the name of the recipient. Bannaro is said to have offered to turn State's evidence and to tell to the assistant United States District Attorney how he got hold of the officially signed papers. It is said that his confession, if accepted, will result in the arrest of the clerk's office of the United States District Court.

ATTEMPT TO SHAKE DOWN ERIE.

With the Egan Bulkhead Lease, Says Prosecutor Clarke.

Assistant District Attorney Clarke, in commenting yesterday on the refusal of Joseph Egan to answer questions about his transactions with the old Tammany Dock Board, said that in his opinion the lawyers who had advised Egan not to answer the questions put to him in Mr. Jerome's investigation in May were acting for the old Dock Board. Egan obtained a lease of the bulkhead between Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth streets when the Erie Railroad was trying to get it for a depot.

EVERY BODY SAYS IT'S ONE ON MURPHY.

"When Egan refused to answer Jerome's questions on the ground that it might incriminate him," said Deputy last night, "he convicted Charles Murphy. Any one who goes to the dock board and says that he got the bottom of that dock graft when he gets Egan and some of them fellows to answer his questions, just so long as the dock board is in the hands of those who incriminate them they go on convicting Murphy and the rest of that gang."

JAIL FOR TWO STOCK SWINDLERS.

Clarke and Putnam of the Summerfield Gang Sent to Sing Sing.

Justice Fitzgerald sentenced Charles Carbone, convicted under the name of Egan, Frank Sing and Thomas Summerfield to the police as "Baker Tom," to terms of not less than two years and three months and not more than three years in Sing Sing yesterday in the criminal branch of the Supreme Court. Both were members of Larry Summerfield's gang of swindlers who got thousands of dollars for worthless mining stock, which the victims bought from a pretended rich engineer with the expectation of selling at an advance to the mining company.

THREE AID IN HIS FACE.

Mrs. Leonard Says She Did It Because She Feared Kane.

Mrs. Kate Leonard, a widow, 24 years old, who lives with her sister at 15 Dry Dock street, threw carbolic acid yesterday afternoon in the face of John Kane, a deckhand on a tugboat, who lives in Staten Island. According to the police, Kane and the woman lived together for about three months in Jersey City. When the woman was arraigned in the Essex Market police court last night she said: "I took this man's drunken abuse as long as I could. When he used to threaten me in Jersey City I used to pull a bottle of carbolic acid out of my pocket and pretend that he was going to use it on me. He would always pull it out of my hand. I tried to do the same thing to-day. He pulled it away from me and tried to throw it at me. Then he took a bottle away from him and dashed the contents over him to save myself. He has frequently said he would kill me if I did not go back to live with him."

AUXILIARY FOR ABP. FARLEY

TO BE APPOINTED SOON, AND MGR. MOONEY WILL BE CHOSEN.

This Archdiocese Too Big for One Man Alone to Rule, and as is usual, the Vice-General will be promoted.

Plans for Mr. Farley's Investiture.

It was said yesterday by high officials of the Roman Catholic Church in this city that Archbishop Farley is to have an auxiliary Bishop and that Vice-General Mooney will be the man. It has long been conceded that the province of New York is too large for even so young and vigorous a man as Archbishop Farley to administer alone, and it is well known that Mgr. Mooney would be the choice of Rome for an auxiliary Bishop. Moreover, he is favored by Archbishop Farley. It has been the custom for the Vatican to elevate to an auxiliary bishopric the senior Vice-General of an archdiocese.

It was said yesterday that the appointment may be made on Thursday, but as the heaviest duties of the Archbishop for this season are nearing a close, and so many important questions are now before the Congregation of Cardinals, Archbishop Farley's auxiliary Bishop may not be appointed until September.

Vice-General Mooney was born in Rondout and is about 58 years old. He was educated at St. John's College, Fordham and at Troy, where he was professor of theology for three years. For the last four or five years he has been the rector of the Church of the Sacred Heart, in West Fifty-first street. Several times the mitre has been offered to him, but he has always expressed a desire to spend his life in parish work. His duties as auxiliary Bishop would not interfere with his parish work.

Arrangements for the formal investiture of Archbishop Farley were made yesterday, at a meeting of the pastors of the archdiocese held in the diocesan house. July 23 was set for the ceremony. One hundred of the rectors of Catholic churches were present.

The pallium will be bestowed at a pontifical mass, and Cardinal Gibbons will confer the insignia. All of the Bishops of the New York province will attend and eleven visiting Archbishops are expected. The sermon will be preached by Bishop McQuaid of Rochester. It was decided to give a dinner in the Archbishop's honor the cost to be defrayed by the rectors of the archdiocese. Mrs. Edwards, Father Lavelle of the Cathedral, Father Larnelle of St. Joseph's Church, and Dean O'Flynn of St. Patrick's, were present.

THE BOMB FOR ROOSEVELT? One Loaded With Dynamite Found When He Spoke at Montpelier, Vt.

MONTPELIER, Vt., June 23.—Laborers raking over the State House yard today found a dynamite bomb. It had been lying in the grass apparently for a long time, as it showed marks of exposure to the weather. Its aspect and the fact of its being found near the State House promptly recalled the visit of President Roosevelt to this city last September, and the question has arisen whether or not the bomb was to be used in connection with a plot against him.

President Roosevelt spoke from a stand on the State House grounds, and the question has been expressed that whoever had the bomb found no opportunity to carry out his plan, owing to the fact that the State House was guarded by the President's bodyguard. The bomb was quietly dropped on the ground and trampled into the grass brought to light.

Mr. Gilbert, it is announced, will not remain here, but will leave to become secretary of the Syracuse Trust Company.
