

THE ALUMINUM PAINT GRIFT.

INDICTMENTS IN POSTAL SERVICE EXPECTED THIS WEEK.

Postmasters Write That They Know There is Something Wrong With Contracts—Dissatisfaction With Slowness of the Local Grand Jury—How Health's Brother was Railroaded Into Service.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The Federal Grand Jury was occupied to-day in the consideration of what may prove to be one of the most important features of the disclosures due to the recent investigation into Postal service scandals. This concerns the contracts for the painting of the enormous number of letter boxes in the city delivery service with the patented aluminum paint now in general use.

The legal authorities of the Post Office Department began this morning the preparation of information upon which to bring the matter to the attention of the Federal Grand Jury in the hope of securing indictments against those who appeared to be implicated. The work was completed last week, and the information was presented to the Grand Jury to-day.

At the session of that body this morning certain additional facts were brought out upon which more information was wanted, and consequently the jury was adjourned until next Thursday, when the legal authorities in charge of the prosecution of cases arising from the Postal Service scandal investigation expect to have cases in such shape that indictments will promptly follow.

Since the investigation reached an acute stage with the removal and arrest of former Superintendent Machen of the free delivery division on charges of accepting bribes, postmasters all over the country have written to the Post Office Department, asserting that something was wrong with the contracts for painting letter boxes.

Many of these postmasters alleged that after boxes had been painted in their respective towns and cities, the bills presented would be far in excess of the actual service performed, and their expenses exceeded until they received orders from the Department at Washington to pay the bills in full.

One peculiar phase of this scandal is the fact that while the company manufacturing the paint received 50 cents and 41 cents for 200 square feet of paint, the size of the receipts—the man who actually performed the service was carried on the rolls of the Post Office Department, and their expenses paid out of the funds of the postal service.

The expenses of these men show some remarkable facts. They were technically known as "laborers," yet they put up at the best hotels and expended the full amount of their per diem allowances, and certain additional expenses were paid out of the funds of the postal service.

There is also considerable dissatisfaction expressed with the "slowness" of the Grand Jury in the New York jurisdiction. What are termed the "dilatory methods" of that body are not understood at the Department.

Charles J. Bonaparte of Baltimore and Holmes Conrad of this city were to-day appointed special attorneys to assist in the prosecution of the cases arising from the investigation of postal service scandals. Mr. Bonaparte is well known as a lawyer, a better perhaps, as a civil service reformer. Mr. Conrad was Solicitor-General under President Cleveland and has long been prominent as a member of the local bar.

A further examination into the records of the Civil Service Commission has added another to the list of irregularities published in THE SUN some days ago. The records show that John B. Heath, a brother of former First Assistant Postmaster-General Perry S. Heath, who is now Secretary of the Republican National Campaign Committee, was railroaded into the Government service by way of the unclassified office at Elwood, Ind.

Heath was appointed to the Elwood office June 1, 1898. In July of that office was classified, which is the technical term for the consummation of the first stage of the railroad process, and just a month and a half later Heath was transferred to Marion, Ind., and later to St. Louis. This specific instance of railroad was accomplished by First Assistant Postmaster-General Heath.

FALSE STORY ABOUT HEATH. Has Not Been Deeding Property to Relatives. CINCINNATI, June 23.—The story sent out from Muncie, Ind., as to the disposition of certain properties held by Perry S. Heath, former First Assistant Postmaster-General, and at one time identified with Cincinnati newspaper interests, has received a vigorous denial from Mr. Heath, who is now at Salt Lake City, Utah, engaged in looking after his newspaper interests there. He telegraphed a local newspaper to-day as follows:

SALT LAKE, Utah, June 23.—There have recently been published statements published against me, but none of them have been quite so low and entirely false as the one that I had transferred my property at Muncie, Ind., to my brother or any other. I have neither made nor contemplated any transfer of my property to any one. Some years ago I transferred a small block of stock in Cincinnati Commercial Trust to my nephew, but I presume that is the subject of another attack upon me by the yellow newspapers. PERRY S. HEATH.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 23.—Late yesterday afternoon Edward C. Heath of Muncie, nephew of Perry S. Heath, former First Assistant Postmaster-General, received a notice from the Assessor's Office showing that he had been assessed on certain property in Muncie, Ind., as if he were the owner. That he did not own any property, he jumped at the conclusion that his uncle had deeded him the fifty-three lots, and told his friends of other property valued at $100,000. The conclusion was reached that Perry S. Heath was putting his property out of the hands into those of relatives, and the inference was drawn that the transfers had been for the purpose of escaping the consequences of some alleged irregularities as First Assistant Postmaster-General.

Inquiry to-day did not sustain Edward C. Heath's statement, receiving notice of assessment on fifty-three lots, the blank was made in the name of E. C. Heath and not Edward C., and it only bore on one lot, 53, instead of the fifty-three. Neither had President B. C. Bowman of the Muncie Trust Company who transferred the property to the Heath family, received any notice of any transfer of property rights.

Local records fail to show that Edward C. Heath was newly figuring in the Muncie duplicate. On the contrary, it did show that Perry S. Heath still owned two valuable business buildings in Muncie, one with other property, aggregating $50,000, all of which is in his own name.

FRISCO IN THE SCANDAL NOW. Postmaster and Superintendent Interested in a Mail Box Register. SAN FRANCISCO, June 23.—The San Francisco post office has become involved in a phase of the postal scandals which have been uncovered in Washington. The Postal Development and Improvement Company, a California corporation, has sold some 12,000 letter devices for indicating the hours of collecting mail. An expert of this corporation is Postmaster W. W. Montague.

The introduction of the device into the Government service here is largely due to the general superintendent of the San Francisco post office, D. R. Richardson, who was the first salaried secretary of the company and is now its president. Richardson

SCANDAL IN INDIAN LANDS.

FRAUDS IN ALLOTMENTS TO BE INVESTIGATED.

Attorney-General Knox and Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock insist that Alleged Criminal Acts Said to Equal Those in the Post Office Be Unearthed.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—It was learned to-day that another Government scandal, as serious in its way as the recently discovered post office frauds, is about to be exposed. These are alleged gigantic frauds in Indian Territory land allotments and in the enrollment of tribesmen for the dissolution of tribal relations.

For some time rumors have been in circulation which hinted at extremely serious conditions in the administration of affairs in the Indian Territory, both under the jurisdiction of the Department of Justice and of the Department of the Interior. Recently the reports of these alleged conditions became so tangible that President Roosevelt has commissioned Francis E. Leupp, a newspaper correspondent of Washington, who is a close personal friend of the President, to visit the Indian Territory, and particularly the Comanche, Apache and Kiowa Indian reservations.

The District Attorney says that McSweeney gave statistics to railroad companies for the purpose of receiving favors in the form of free passes.

THE PRESBYTERY'S CLASH. The Rev. Dr. Foote Outvoted on a Question of Future Punishment.

The question of the duration of future punishment came up at the stated meeting of the Brooklyn Presbytery at the Central Church on Tuesday. Charles F. Shaw, who is the pastor of the church, presided.

The Department of Justice recently recalled to Washington Play L. Soper, formerly in the Indian Territory. It is confidently believed by those in a position to know that the conference which Mr. Soper attended in the Department of Justice will be followed by some interesting developments.

The remarkable thing about the situation in the Indian Territory is that it is understood that the Government purchased from the Brand-Dent Company 600 "cashiers." Mr. Driggs has said that he got $12,500 for the cashiers, but that the money was not divided with any one.

Denied by Mr. Madden. DETROIT, Mich., June 23.—Third Assistant Postmaster-General Madden, who was in this city to-day, has sent a letter to Postmaster-General Payne, asking an explanation of the charge that he stifled competition for the contract to supply the Department with carbon papers. He says that a statement to that effect coming from Washington is absolutely false.

THINK HE KILLED ABEARN. Police Get More Evidence Against the Prisoner Peffo.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., June 23.—Facts discovered to-day by the police and detectives who are trying to run down the murderer of Policeman Maurice Ahearn greatly strengthen the theory that Frank Peffo, the Italian who was arrested in Scarsdale last night, committed the crime. The police say now that the only link that they need to complete a chain of circumstances is the evidence against the prisoner in the finding in his possession of the bag which the murderer carried on his back when Ahearn

Several facts seeming to involve the prisoner were learned to-day by Coroner Wisendanger. He discovered that on the day after the murder Peffo had visited a day in Oak street and that he had washed his coat and hung it on the clothesline in the back yard to dry. The police have learned that Peffo had been accustomed to pass through the park when he went to call on his friends.

It also became known that the conservatories of Henry Siebrecht had been robbed on the night of the murder, and that the chief store of the robbers was a barrel. The flowers in the barrel were packed in raffia, the same material which was found near the spot where the policeman was shot to death.

Another robbery occurred the same night, at the home of ex-Alderman Robert Archer, a neighbor of Mr. Siebrecht. The police have learned that Peffo formerly worked for Mr. Siebrecht, but was discharged a few months ago and that he had been seen in New Rochelle on the night of the robbery and murder.

The police theory was further strengthened by the fact that Peffo had a copy that he had bruises on his head which Doctors Emberson and Brennan think were made at a clinic in Scarsdale. The Italian has told conflicting stories to the coroner, and the police are convinced that his explanation of how he received the bruises on his head is false. The coroner told them that he was hurt by falling while crawling through a wire fence. They say the fence he mentioned does not appear so strong this evening that he was arrested before Police Justice Phelps as a suspicious person and commanding the custody of the police. His brother is also being held as a witness. The suspected man passed through a drainage board at his own home at 6 o'clock, when a bloodstain was brought to the police station, after having secured the park, and was turned loose by his brother.

The suspected man grew pale and trembled with fear as the animal smelled of his clothing. Sergeant J. J. Kelly removed the man but at all allowed the dog to enter, also the wounds on his head, which are supposed to have been made by the murderer's police dog. The bloodhound, after spending a few minutes in the cell, gave up the scent, seeming to lose interest in the prisoner.

WEST TO THE BEACH IN THE RAIN. The Weather Had No Terrors for Tenement Mothers and Little Ones.

One hundred and fifty mothers, with their children, went over the East Twenty-third street ferry in a body yesterday on their way to Sea Breeze, the Coney Island summer resort. The Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, every mother and child who had been invited was on hand at the starting hour. The pouring rain did not scare them in the least. At Sea Breeze they will be entertained for a week or two and have all the fun that the beach can offer. The children and attendants and kindergarten teachers are there to see that they keep out of serious trouble and that they shall not die of cold as they have done in the past.

TO PROSECUTE McSWEENEY.

Former Assistant Commissioner of Immigration at This Port.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—At a conference to-day between the President and the Attorney-General it was decided to proceed with the prosecution of Edward F. McSweeney, formerly Assistant Commissioner of Immigration at the port of New York.

McSweeney was dismissed from office about a year ago, when President Roosevelt ordered the general shaking up of the immigration service. Subsequently McSweeney was accused of having abstracted official records and of having caused them to be shipped to his home in boxes as personal property.

The District Attorney says that McSweeney gave statistics to railroad companies for the purpose of receiving favors in the form of free passes.

McCALL GUEST OF PRESIDENT.

MCKINLEY'S STEADFAST FRIEND IN TWO CAMPAIGNS.

Also the Personal Friend of Hanna and Chief Judge Parker—"Better the Devil We Know than the Devil We Don't Know" Seems to Be the Sentiment Now.

WASHINGTON, June 23.—President Roosevelt's chief guest at the White House to-night is John A. McCall of New York. Mr. McCall is to remain with the President until to-morrow afternoon. The President, it is understood, desires to talk with Mr. McCall about many matters concerning New York State affairs.

Up to 1896 Mr. McCall was a Democrat. He was elected to the office of Mayor of New York in 1896, and he is, and always has been, the personal friend of Chief Judge Alton B. Parker of the New York State Court of Appeals, who, President Roosevelt has declared, would without doubt be his Democratic opponent in the national battle next year.

In the campaigns of 1896 and 1900 Mr. McCall was the steadfast friend of President McKinley and Marcus A. Hanna, chairman of the Republican National Committee, and the relations between Mr. McCall and Mr. Hanna have remained of the most cordial character.

For some time many Republicans were led to believe that Senator Hanna would, despite every protest, become a candidate next year for the Republican Presidential nomination, or at the latest moment he might, with the aid of the machinery of the national committee, push forward the availability of his personal friend, Gov. Taft of the Philippines. It is the opinion now, though, that Senator Hanna is firmly convinced that only a miracle can prevent the President's nomination in the national convention next year. In fact, he has said something to that effect.

Since the Ohio State Convention, which nominated Mr. Hanna's friend Myron T. Herrick of Cleveland for Governor, and in fact some time before that event, he has been in the State of New York, and his friends, including Postmaster-General Henry C. Payne, and Gen. James S. Clark, surveyor of the Port of New York, have believed that Senator Hanna should be induced to remain as chairman of the national committee and conduct the battle for Roosevelt in 1904 on the same victorious lines that he did for McKinley in 1896 and 1900. Senator Hanna hasn't said much on this subject, save to speak of his health and, possibly, the necessity for his leaving either New York city or Europe for treatment.

Many Republicans and their allies since 1896, the gold Democrats, do not hesitate to speak of Chief Judge Parker of New York in the highest terms and as the most dangerous antagonist for the Democrats to nominate against President Roosevelt next year, but then they go on to say that the Democratic National Convention may be more trusted to put Judge Parker, or the candidate in any name, on some sort of crazy-quilt platform which in no way will inspire confidence in business communities any more than the President has. So it comes down to about this in the estimation of Republican testimony. "Better the Devil We Know than the Devil We Don't Know." At least it is expected that this will be the drift of most of the consultations which will be held from now until national election time.

STARTS A NO-TIP BARBER SHOP. Boss Barber's Life and Death Struggle Against Self-Shaving.

On Broadway, near Fourth street, M. Lopard has opened a no-tipping barber shop. He has put five paintings on the walls. He has raised the salaries of his barbers to $12 a week, and hung out this sign:

ANY OF MY EMPLOYEES WHO ACCEPTS A TIP WILL BE IMMEDIATELY DISCHARGED.

Comforts that the shop couldn't boast under the tipping system have been added, just to show customers that letting them off their tips will not deprive them of the no-tipping system, which came with a handy dime. M. Lopard's smile is an inch wider since he abolished tips.

Many a man has asked himself the question: "Why should I pay a quarter for a shave?" he said. "I have answered himself, and I should answer you. I don't pay in a shop where, where he has omitted to give the barber a dime. So, when a man has but 15 cents to spare, the proprietor of the shop where he goes to get shaved. You cannot run a shop where tips are allowed and give a man who doesn't tip the service that you give a man that does. I think the no-tipping system is going to be a great success. If it isn't, it is because the people would rather give away that extra dime than save it."

KEPT HER TREASURES IN A BARN. Unexpected Discoveries in the Dwelling Place of a Recluse.

FORT LEE, N. J., June 23.—Unexpected wealth was discovered to-day in the dilapidated barn which for ten years had been the home of Mrs. Mary Gallagher, who died in Brooklyn a few days ago. The housewife had hidden in the barn, at 50 Hicks street, The weather-beaten and paintless structure was found to be filled with the belongings of a fortune teller, brocaded silk gowns, the furs, choice bric-a-brac and solid silverware, amounting in value, so it is declared, to $8,000 or $10,000.

Mrs. Moran came over to-day to look after the belongings of her sister, and was surprised to find the barn filled with the goods of value, and as the search proceeded her astonishment grew with the discovery of any articles of great beauty and costliness.
