

POISON FOR "DR." McCULLOCH.

POLE-RAID HER PLANT, WITH "RED CROSS" INMATES, AND SHE TAKES MORPHINE IN EARNEST AFTER A DRAMATIC POISON INTERLUDE—PATROL WAGON CARRIES OFF EIGHT WOMEN, DRESSED AS NURSES, AND TWO MEN.

Capt. O'Connor of the Tenderloin station last evening emulated the example set by some of his predecessors by raiding the "sanitarium" run by Frances McCulloch in East Twenty-seventh street. The woman, who is listed in the directry as a physician, was morphine after the raid and an ambulance was called to the police station at 11th street.

The captain found no pink slippers about the place this time as once the invaders did, but got a number of young women dressed as nurses with red crosses on their caps.

"Dr. McCulloch has been branching out lately by adding the adjoining house to her place. This is the present being by the police and one of the things done by the women was to break an opening through the party wall, so as to connect the houses.

Capt. O'Connor and eight plain-clothed men entered the new house last night. None saw them enter. They found the opening in the wall, and the women were able to continue straight on into the "sanitarium" proper, taking its inmates wholly by surprise.

There were eight women besides the "doctor," and two men were found in the place. When the presence of the police in the building was known to her, the proprietor declared that she would never submit to the disgrace of being dragged to a station-house. She called on one of her nurses to help her "the red cross" nurse. The nurse promptly took a vial containing a white powder from a closet and handed it to her chief.

The "doctor" poured the liquor with steady hand into a water glass, added some red stuff to get color, poured in water, raised the full glass to her lips, paused a moment to see if anybody was being watched, and had the satisfaction of seeing a detective knock the glass out of her hands.

The capt. O'Connor spoke up: "That old bluff don't go—come on; and be quick about it." The drama ended, everybody was hustled into the waiting cars by the wagon. At the station "Dr. McCulloch said that she was an osteopath. The taking of the prisoners of the other women brought to the presence of the police, and her daughter among the "nurses."

They said they were Matilda Weyland, Edith Weyland, 18. Both were the matron in the room. It was ascertained that the girl was not over 16 years old, and that he would notify the Children's society.

None of the prisoners was let go. The men had had hopes of being released, but were disappointed. They gave names and addresses for the police to be called on. After the McCulloch woman had been in jail for some time the matron heard her groan and found her in a state of semi-consciousness. The woman, who was called by the matron, the prisoner said that she had managed to swallow a large dose of morphine while she was being taken down to the police station. The matron was summoned from the New York Hospital. The doctor who attended her said she had taken a good deal of poison, but, after leaving her, he said she would recover.

The raid was made on warrants issued by Magistrate Flammer in the Jefferson Market court. "Dr. McCulloch is charged with keeping a disorderly house. Capt. O'Connor said that his men had been gathering evidence against her place for some time and that several of them had succeeded in getting in repeatedly.

Young Deserter Intended His Bullets for Girl Who Discarded Him. Twenty-two-year-old Adolf Schloss deserted the Eleventh Battery, Light Artillery, at Fort Hamilton last Friday and left his eighteen-year-old sweetheart, Louisa Friedman, of 323 East Eighth street that she might go with him to the front. She wouldn't, but that he might go. Yesterday morning the pair met at Seventh street and Avenue B.

"I'll teach you to throw me," said Schloss, and he put his hand to his hip pocket. The girl screamed and dodged behind Policeman Mulvey, who was standing on the corner. As the collector reached his right hand around Schloss's back to search him, the latter yanked out a revolver and fired two shots at his pursuer. One of the bullets struck Mulvey in the left side of his head. Then, as a crowd collected, shouting, "They're both dead," a soldier policeman ran up with a bullet for an ambulance and a patrol wagon.

Mulvey was taken to Bellevue Hospital, suffering from a scalp wound. He will recover. Schloss was taken to the station to shoot the policeman. He has been a soldier only a month.

As Policeman Carpenter was taking Mulvey to the Police Market street station, where Schloss was arraigned, an hour later he found a big East Side crowd jabbering around a Grand street ferry horse car. The crowd was in a state of excitement, and the driver endeavored to avoid a cyclist the Prince turned the machine sharply and ran into a tree. His chauffeur was instantly killed and the Prince was dangerously injured. He was conveyed to a farmhouse, where doctors are attending him.

GUNNING FOR BROADWAY HOTELS

The Police Have Proprietors Up on the Sunday Law. It came out in Jefferson Market police court yesterday afternoon that Capt. O'Connor of the Tenderloin station has been gunning on the quiet for the proprietors of Broadway hotels which, in the captain's opinion, have been violating, on Sundays, the Liquor Tax law. Extraordinary E. Roche, proprietor of the Rosemont, Tom O'Rourke of the Delavan, and Samuel Martin, who runs a restaurant named after himself in Broadway, between Fortieth and Forty-first streets, appeared before Magistrate Flammer yesterday afternoon in answer to summonses charging them with violation of the Liquor Tax law last Sunday.

The summonses were obtained at the request of Asst. Wickman, a Tenderloin patrolman. They were served on Monday and were returnable yesterday. Wickman obtained a summons, also, for John Considine of the Hotel Metropole, but Considine's case was adjourned until to-day.

When the cases were called yesterday afternoon Emanuel Friend appeared for the accused and Wickman appeared for himself. He told Magistrate Flammer that Capt. O'Connor had sent him out last Sunday to look for violations of the Liquor Tax law in upper Broadway. He said that he went into the Rosemont, the Delavan and Martin's, and saw liquors exposed in bottles in the room that was used for a restaurant in each place.

He admitted that there was a screen between that part of the room in each place which was used for a restaurant and that part which was used for a bar. He went behind the screen, however, just as the waters did, and he saw the bottles exposed there. Therefore, at the direction of the captain, he applied for summonses for the proprietors of the places and got them.

Mr. Friend told the Magistrate that there was no more exposure of liquors than was necessary to transact the usual business of a hotel and no more than was permitted by law. He added that had not Wickman followed the waters he would have seen nothing at which he could have been offended. The Magistrate ordered the discharge of his clients, and the motion was granted immediately. It is assumed that Mr. Considine's case will be disposed of in the same way.

On leaving the court room Mr. Roche said: "I don't believe there is a hotel in town who is as careful to obey the letter of the law as I am. This whole proceeding was a most assinine performance, but since it has occurred, you might say that the law is not next Sunday, Mr. Bolt of the Waldorf, Mr. Caddagan of the Hoffman House, Mr. Russell of the Gilsey and other proprietors of well-known New York hotels may expect summonses for violations of this very same law."

ASPHALT VS. THE COBBLES, ALSO THE REV. DR. ALSOP VS. BANKER ARTHUR M. HATCH.

Dr. Alsop Said Belgian Blocks Were Good Enough—Said Banker Thought So, Too—Mr. Hatch Hears Milk Cart Rumors and Says There's a Mistake.

Borough President Swanstrom of Brooklyn yesterday awarded a contract for the paving with asphalt of Remsen street between Clinton and Hicks, in that borough. The rest of the street is already paved with asphalt, but the section between Clinton and Hicks streets is paved with uneven Belgian blocks, which Banker Arthur M. Hatch of 124 and others say are an unmitigated nuisance.

A month ago the Rev. Dr. Alsop, who is the rector of St. Ann's Church and whose wife owns their home at 90 Remsen street, wrote a letter to Borough President Swanstrom. At least, Mr. Swanstrom got this letter signed with Dr. Alsop's name.

DEAR SIR: In behalf of property owners in Remsen street, between Clinton and Hicks, I desire to enter a protest against the paving of the same. I think a canvass of property holders will show that a large majority are opposed to such a pavement. We have a good many trees which do not thrive when shut in by asphalt.

Two blocks which are not used as a public thoroughfare and are not freed from the nuisance of the asphalt pavement. The boys who warm up from the river district. I called upon Mr. A. E. Orr last night and he authorized me to call upon you. I am one of the protesters. I speak in behalf of Mrs. Alsop, who is a property holder.

I know that Mrs. Chapman and her husband are equally opposed, and I have reason to believe that the Church of the Holy Trinity, representing 200 feet of frontage, would join in such protest. Would it not be better, therefore, to hasten the asphalt upon people who want it rather than to force it upon those who do not?

Mr. Swanstrom then got Col. Willis L. Open of the Civil Service Commission to make a little private canvass of the residents of the two blocks where the Belgian cubes are. Col. Ogden, in a letter written a day or two later, said he had discovered that not only Mr. Hatch but several other people, among them three trustees of the Church of the Holy Trinity, were in favor of the change. He sent this letter to Mr. Hatch:

As the Rev. Dr. Alsop has never consulted me in regard to the paving of Remsen street, between Hicks and Clinton streets, I am surprised that he should quote me as opposed to the improvement. I have not been so heartily in favor of it as are all the members of our household. I am, however, in favor of the opposite neighbor, Charles A. Hull of 112 Remsen street, and he expressed himself as being in favor of the change.

Mr. Swanstrom didn't wait any longer. Dr. Alsop and his family are in Digby, Nova Scotia, for the summer. Mr. Hatch stood last evening on the stoop of his house at 124, gazed out on the two blocks of uneven cobbles, many sections of which have been made into little valleys and mountains by the gutter and others which have been made into little rocky roads to Dublin. Doesn't it? And in the morning the bumping jump of the milk carts and grocers would make you think you're sleeping over a thunder clap.

"Dr. Alsop may want to keep it from being a public thoroughfare, but I'd consider a paved public thoroughfare that is reverberating copath. Yes, I did write to the Borough President about Dr. Alsop's misuse of my name. Dr. Alsop would be glad to let me know if he would give me a word to me personally on the matter."

DIED IN RACE TO HOSPITAL. Letter Carrier Stricken After a Run for His Train in Brooklyn. John L. Lawrence, a letter carrier attached to Station J, at Eighth avenue and 124th street, died suddenly early yesterday morning in a Bath Beach motor car. He ran from his motor car to his house in Homewood and caught the train in New Utrecht avenue just as it was pulling out.

He sank back exhausted in his seat and was dead before the train had reached the Thirty-sixth street station, although the motorman rushed his train past all stations to that point, which is near the Norwegian Hospital.

Twenty-six manufacturers in this country are making 50 per cent. of all the gasoline automobiles produced here. One of them represents also several European makers. Such was the statement made yesterday by George H. Day, president of the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers, to a Six reporter.

To this end the association has issued formal notice which Mr. Day said would be given, that all infringers of the Selden patent and 400 other United States patents owned by the members of the association would be prosecuted.
