

BATTLESHIP IN BAD SHAPE.

WATER POURS OUT OF MASSACHUSETTS IN DRY DOCK.

Would Have Foundered But for Aulkheads—More Than 300 Tons of Water Leaked—In Men Were Transferred and Prisoners Freed for Fear She'd Sink.

The battleship Massachusetts, which struck on Egg Rock near Bar Harbor two weeks ago yesterday, while running through a fog to get to Oyster Bay for the President's review of the fleet, was put in dry dock at the Brooklyn navy yard yesterday, for repairs. As intimated in yesterday's Sun the battleship's injuries are much more serious than was first reported.

Like Mercurio's wound, the holes in her bottom are not as deep as well nor as wide as a church door, but they're enough. Over 300 tons of water leaked into her lower beam and two of her forward compartments. Had it not been for the water-tight bulkheads she would have foundered where she struck. The docking keels, which were practically destroyed, no doubt acted as buffers between the rock and the plates of the ship and prevented much more serious damage to the hull.

The ship was damaged forward and aft and on both port and starboard sides. She probably struck twice.

As soon as the water was pumped out of the dry dock, and before any careful examination was made, it was seen there was a hole in each side of the keel about thirty feet from the stern. The two steel plates of the docking keel on the port side were ripped apart for half the length of the ship and the plates were crumpled up and broken. The docking keel on the starboard side was bent flat upward against the hull for several feet amidships. The shoe plate just forward of the rudder post was cracked at right angles to the keel. The stern casting was broken.

The ends of two of the blades of the port propeller had been clipped off by the rock and the blades badly bent. There is a dent in the line plate on the port quarter about on a level with the rolling chock, and the ship's keel is bent up in several places so much that it does not rest on the blocks in the dry dock.

The Massachusetts went into dry dock about 10 o'clock and it was 5 o'clock before all the water had been pumped out. As soon as the pressure of the water in the dock was removed the water in the lower hold and in two of the forward compartments began to pour through the two cracks near the keel, in spite of the wedges that had been driven in by the divers as a precaution.

The unofficial opinion of several naval officers who saw her in dry dock yesterday was that the Massachusetts will have to go out of commission and that it will take two or three months to put her into shape again.

Commander Capps, the Naval Constructor in the yard; Capt. Joseph G. Eaton, commander of the Massachusetts, and Lieut. Hayes, her navigating officer, examined the hull of the ship when enough of the water had been drawn out of the dock to allow the cracks and dents to appear. Neither the Naval Constructor nor Capt. Eaton expressed an opinion as to the extent of the damage or as to the likelihood that the Massachusetts would have to go out of commission.

"Concerning the accident itself Capt. Eaton said:

"We were doing the best we could."

He said that he didn't know at what rate of speed the ship was going when she struck. The day after the ship struck the rock Capt. Eaton referred to it as "an incident" and said that the damage had been very slight, "about as serious as a bruised shoulder which a man might get by knocking against the side of a door."

Lieut. Hayes, who was navigating officer of the Massachusetts when she struck, used a different simile yesterday. "The damage is not serious at all," said Lieut. Hayes. "It's just about the same as if you dropped a tin can into a kitchen sink and dented it a little. There is no reason why the Massachusetts should go out of commission. All necessary repairs can be made at the yard and then the ship will be fit to go to any part of the world."

Lieut. Hayes thought the Massachusetts was making about six knots an hour when she struck in the fog. "That was the speed ordered by the Admiral, anyhow," he said, "and we were trying to obey orders. Some of the men of the engineering force on the ship was making something over eleven knots when she struck. Eight turns of the screw to a minute means about an hour. The screw was making ninety-one turns when the ship hit Egg Rock, they say."

The shoulder bruising incident wasn't an amusing matter to the officers and men aboard ship when it happened. According to many of those who were aboard the ship didn't merely scrape the rock. She struck and there was a perceptible hit to starboard. All preparations were made for immediately abandoning ship. One incident was the hustling on deck of one man who had been confined in the brig and four more who were being held up in the grip deck. Those offenders were immediately set at liberty.

"Why," said a sailor yesterday, "the men-at-arms was so nervous that it took him almost twenty minutes to unlock the doors on those four men."

As soon as it was possible to make the transfer of the Massachusetts's crew were sent to other ships. Her ammunition and all the coal, except what was needed to steam to New York with, was taken out of the ship before she started on her trip down the coast. She had coasted on Sunday, three days before the accident.

The Massachusetts has been in commission since 1896, except for one month, three years ago, when she was laid up in order at Philadelphia. She has had more than her share of big and little mishaps in that time, according to the sailors, who think that the Massachusetts is a well-kept ship on the rock. It was on the trip to the navy yard when they let nearly all the water get out of one of the boilers. In a few minutes more that boiler would have gone to hell.

"Sure," came the chorus from the fleet. "Think what happened down off Culebra Island during the gun practice last January, when there was an explosion in the bow of one of the turrets and nine men were killed."

"And the Department said they'd never know the cause of the killing. We could tell you. There's an order that when a gun hangs fire the breech plug shouldn't be opened for five minutes. That gun hung fire, but the gun crew was ordered to open the breech in two minutes. They would have been court-martialed if they had

SARATOGA'S AUTUMN SEASON

WILL OPEN TO-NIGHT WITH A FLORAL BALL.

The Racing Throng to Be Succeeded by the Autumn Tourist—Successful Race Meeting—All the Bookmakers Quit Winners, With Wm. Cowan in the Lead.

SARATOGA, Aug. 26.—The Saratoga summer season of dancing and prancing and racing and chasing will end to-morrow with the close of the summer meeting of the Saratoga Association for the improvement of the Breed of Horses. The frivolous and fortune-hunting summer throng will have left this garden spot of the great North Country Friday night. For a few hours the town will look like a deserted village. Then a complete metamorphosis will take place.

The early trains of Saturday morning will bring in the vanguard of that army of American tourists who are wont to spend the month of September in Saratoga. These autumn visitors are as different from the crowd now here as summer is from autumn. They wouldn't know a starting barrier from a betting ring, and they are proud of their ignorance. The talk of the boulevards and the hotel piazzas for the past month has been of the horse and the odds thereon. For the next four weeks it will be of books and theology and philosophy and things that are heavy and learned.

The autumn season will be opened to-morrow night, weather permitting, with a grand floral ball on the lawn in the garden of the Grand Union Hotel. The ball will be preceded by a concert by the Pittsburg Orchestra, Victor Herbert leading, on the hotel porch. The garden will be brilliantly illuminated, the electrical effects being arranged by Hawkins of New York. The use of the hotel, grounds and orchestra has been tendered to the Saratoga Floral Association by W. E. Woolley, and the proceeds of the ball will go into the treasury of the association.

The race meeting, which closes to-morrow, has been, so the officers of the racing association say, the most successful of any held under the present management. The figures given out show that, with the exception of yesterday, the attendance at the track on each day of the meeting has exceeded materially the corresponding days last year. This means that the stockholders in the association will get the usual 5 per cent. dividend on their stock, with the handsome bonus of the treasury for improvements after the tax to the State has been paid. This is rather a remarkable showing, considering the great number of rainy days since the meeting last year. But the crowds that have gone to the races have paid the piper.

It is asserted here, on the authority of the multiplicity of the racing officials, that there has not been a race meeting in years that has returned so large a profit to the bookmakers, and that there is not a bookmaker in the ring who will not quit a winner. The biggest winners among the layers are said to be William Cowan, who, according to semi-official figures, is more than $100,000 to the good after paying all expenses. Other heavy winners among the layers are Daniel Donnelly, Leo Mayer, Al Uhlmann, Lewis H. Snell, George Whoolock Sol Lichtenstein and Eddie Burke.

An example of the luck of the layers was furnished in the fourth race to-day, when the colored boy, Hicks, rode rings around Master Grover Cleveland Fuller and the Canadian colt, Reservation, Loui Faulconbridge. Fullerton's horse looked upon as the good thing of the race. Although the colt runs in the name of A. W. Fox it is said that the real owner is Diamond Jim Brady. How this may be, Brady came up from New York this morning to see the colt run and to place a heavy commission on him. It became known that the horse was in large quantities was going on the colt and the talent got aboard, making the son of the Bard an equal favorite with Reservation, but carrying the odds.

About the hardest jolt the ring has received during the meeting was given to it by the backers of Sweet's horse, the beautiful daughter of Flying Dutchman and Bartle Bell from the stable of John W. Schorr, the Memphis brewer. The filly started in the Kentucky Handicap, but she was backed and was backed from 15 to 1 to 1, the stable commission being placed at the opening odds.

The filly was touted all over the track, and John W. Gads heard about it. He went into the ring and did his own betting and was still there when his son Charlie tried to get him away by telling him that the Bark could not beat the horse. What he said to the younger Gads assured the elder that he (Charlie) had a bet on the Bark. Charlie is dining at the club to-night at the Governor's expense.

The "Cavanagh Special" will leave here to-morrow evening in two sections. The first section will pull out at 6:30 and the second at 8:40. The section will arrive at the Grand Central station at 11:30.

WONT BE A CUP-BEARER. Disappointment on the Teutonic, Just In. Over the Yacht Race News.

The officers of the White Star liner Teutonic, in last night from Liverpool and Queenstown, were much disappointed when they heard that Sir Thomas Lipton was not likely to carry the Cup back to England. The Irish Baronet had promised Surgeon Bromley that the Teutonic should have the distinction of carrying the Cup across the sea.

A dozen young women of George Edwars's "Three Little Maids" company and G. P. Huntley, who will take the leading part in the piece, were passengers by her from New York to Liverpool. The Teutonic, owned by her, was Matthew C. Danneberg, L. E. Auchincloss, Col. Charles H. Blair, George Carroll, Col. Maurice Cockerell, Edward Gray, Col. B. F. Jackson, Clarence V. Kellogg, John S. Garvin, Henry R. Wilson, Charles M. Hayes, Capt. E. W. Scott and Robert H. Thayer.

Clarence V. Kellogg, who, with T. F. Hartley, went to England in July to persuade the Royal Government to exhibit in a separate booth at the St. Louis Exposition, said he hoped to achieve the object of his mission. Mr. Hanley is still in England.

Miss Thomas's Testimony Ended. Miss Lillian "Thomas," the manicure, who was with Charles W. Roxbury on the night when he was assaulted and robbed, occupied the stand again most of yesterday morning at the trial of Charles Jackson, the negro who is accused of murdering Roxbury. She was put through a stiff cross-examination by the State, and her testimony in a separate booth at the St. Louis Exposition, said he hoped to achieve the object of his mission. Mr. Hanley is still in England.

Under command of Capt. Lowndes, 100 privates and non-commissioned officers left Brooklyn yesterday for the Philippines. They were taken from the yard to Jersey City in a Government tug, where they will join another battalion of marines at Washington.

The Rev. J. D. S. Chidwick, who was chaplain of the battleship Massachusetts at her launching in Havana harbor, visited the navy yard yesterday. It is his desire to resign as chaplain to devote his time to regular parish work.

Fleeing Negro Jumped Into Her Bed. MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 26.—While fleeing from a mob, chasing him because he had knocked a white boy unconscious with a brick, a negro ran into the house of Walter Campbell and jumped into the bed where the latter's wife lay sick. The woman tried to hold the negro until the mob could reach him, but he made his escape.

The Bostonians' Silver Jubilee. The Bostonians will be, as an organization, 25 years old next Tuesday night, and they are going to celebrate that fact that evening at the performance of "Robin Hood" in the Academy of Music. It will be a regular silver jubilee of the family gathering, the Bostonians are ready to make the particular public yet.

THE BATTLESHIP IN BAD SHAPE.

WATER POURS OUT OF MASSACHUSETTS IN DRY DOCK.

Would Have Foundered But for Aulkheads—More Than 300 Tons of Water Leaked—In Men Were Transferred and Prisoners Freed for Fear She'd Sink.

The battleship Massachusetts, which struck on Egg Rock near Bar Harbor two weeks ago yesterday, while running through a fog to get to Oyster Bay for the President's review of the fleet, was put in dry dock at the Brooklyn navy yard yesterday, for repairs. As intimated in yesterday's Sun the battleship's injuries are much more serious than was first reported.

Like Mercurio's wound, the holes in her bottom are not as deep as well nor as wide as a church door, but they're enough. Over 300 tons of water leaked into her lower beam and two of her forward compartments. Had it not been for the water-tight bulkheads she would have foundered where she struck. The docking keels, which were practically destroyed, no doubt acted as buffers between the rock and the plates of the ship and prevented much more serious damage to the hull.

The ship was damaged forward and aft and on both port and starboard sides. She probably struck twice.

As soon as the water was pumped out of the dry dock, and before any careful examination was made, it was seen there was a hole in each side of the keel about thirty feet from the stern. The two steel plates of the docking keel on the port side were ripped apart for half the length of the ship and the plates were crumpled up and broken. The docking keel on the starboard side was bent flat upward against the hull for several feet amidships. The shoe plate just forward of the rudder post was cracked at right angles to the keel. The stern casting was broken.

The ends of two of the blades of the port propeller had been clipped off by the rock and the blades badly bent. There is a dent in the line plate on the port quarter about on a level with the rolling chock, and the ship's keel is bent up in several places so much that it does not rest on the blocks in the dry dock.

The Massachusetts went into dry dock about 10 o'clock and it was 5 o'clock before all the water had been pumped out. As soon as the pressure of the water in the dock was removed the water in the lower hold and in two of the forward compartments began to pour through the two cracks near the keel, in spite of the wedges that had been driven in by the divers as a precaution.

The unofficial opinion of several naval officers who saw her in dry dock yesterday was that the Massachusetts will have to go out of commission and that it will take two or three months to put her into shape again.

Commander Capps, the Naval Constructor in the yard; Capt. Joseph G. Eaton, commander of the Massachusetts, and Lieut. Hayes, her navigating officer, examined the hull of the ship when enough of the water had been drawn out of the dock to allow the cracks and dents to appear. Neither the Naval Constructor nor Capt. Eaton expressed an opinion as to the extent of the damage or as to the likelihood that the Massachusetts would have to go out of commission.

"Concerning the accident itself Capt. Eaton said:

"We were doing the best we could."

He said that he didn't know at what rate of speed the ship was going when she struck. The day after the ship struck the rock Capt. Eaton referred to it as "an incident" and said that the damage had been very slight, "about as serious as a bruised shoulder which a man might get by knocking against the side of a door."

Lieut. Hayes, who was navigating officer of the Massachusetts when she struck, used a different simile yesterday. "The damage is not serious at all," said Lieut. Hayes. "It's just about the same as if you dropped a tin can into a kitchen sink and dented it a little. There is no reason why the Massachusetts should go out of commission. All necessary repairs can be made at the yard and then the ship will be fit to go to any part of the world."

Lieut. Hayes thought the Massachusetts was making about six knots an hour when she struck in the fog. "That was the speed ordered by the Admiral, anyhow," he said, "and we were trying to obey orders. Some of the men of the engineering force on the ship was making something over eleven knots when she struck. Eight turns of the screw to a minute means about an hour. The screw was making ninety-one turns when the ship hit Egg Rock, they say."

The shoulder bruising incident wasn't an amusing matter to the officers and men aboard ship when it happened. According to many of those who were aboard the ship didn't merely scrape the rock. She struck and there was a perceptible hit to starboard. All preparations were made for immediately abandoning ship. One incident was the hustling on deck of one man who had been confined in the brig and four more who were being held up in the grip deck. Those offenders were immediately set at liberty.

"Why," said a sailor yesterday, "the men-at-arms was so nervous that it took him almost twenty minutes to unlock the doors on those four men."

As soon as it was possible to make the transfer of the Massachusetts's crew were sent to other ships. Her ammunition and all the coal, except what was needed to steam to New York with, was taken out of the ship before she started on her trip down the coast. She had coasted on Sunday, three days before the accident.

The Massachusetts has been in commission since 1896, except for one month, three years ago, when she was laid up in order at Philadelphia. She has had more than her share of big and little mishaps in that time, according to the sailors, who think that the Massachusetts is a well-kept ship on the rock. It was on the trip to the navy yard when they let nearly all the water get out of one of the boilers. In a few minutes more that boiler would have gone to hell.

"Sure," came the chorus from the fleet. "Think what happened down off Culebra Island during the gun practice last January, when there was an explosion in the bow of one of the turrets and nine men were killed."

"And the Department said they'd never know the cause of the killing. We could tell you. There's an order that when a gun hangs fire the breech plug shouldn't be opened for five minutes. That gun hung fire, but the gun crew was ordered to open the breech in two minutes. They would have been court-martialed if they had

The Band that identifies The Brand The Cigar that beats them all at 5c Cremo The Largest Selling Brand of Cigars in the World. The Band is the Smoker's Protection.

THE satisfaction and enjoyment of being able to play the piano, which is experienced by owners of the Pianola, much more than repays the cost of the instrument; while its possession means a liberal musical education. The Metrostyle is a new Pianola recently introduced. It possesses unique and important features, which are destined to make it one of the most popular musical instruments ever invented. This latest development of the Pianola principle should be seen by everyone directly or indirectly interested in music. PRICES: Pianola, $250; Pianola with Metrostyle, $300. Purchasable by moderate monthly payments. The Aeolian Company, Aeolian Bldg. 362 Fifth Ave.

MORE GREENE-HOGAN LETTERS.

The Commissioner Says He'll Have Magistrate's Charges Thru His Out.

Magistrate Hogan, whose recent charges that the police were more active than ever in levying petty "grat" were not verified by Deputy Commissioner Davis, sent this reply yesterday to Gen. Greene's demand that he prove his statements or retract them.

I cannot comprehend, nor did I see from the first, in what manner the testimony collected by Mr. Davis could affect me. I do not quite understand why you have sent it to me. Those cases came before me in the regular way. The charges were made by the officers who made the arrests, or a citizen complaint, exceeded materially the corresponding days last year. This means that the stockholders in the association will get the usual 5 per cent. dividend on their stock, with the handsome bonus of the treasury for improvements after the tax to the State has been paid. This is rather a remarkable showing, considering the great number of rainy days since the meeting last year. But the crowds that have gone to the races have paid the piper.

It is asserted here, on the authority of the multiplicity of the racing officials, that there has not been a race meeting in years that has returned so large a profit to the bookmakers, and that there is not a bookmaker in the ring who will not quit a winner. The biggest winners among the layers are said to be William Cowan, who, according to semi-official figures, is more than $100,000 to the good after paying all expenses. Other heavy winners among the layers are Daniel Donnelly, Leo Mayer, Al Uhlmann, Lewis H. Snell, George Whoolock Sol Lichtenstein and Eddie Burke.

An example of the luck of the layers was furnished in the fourth race to-day, when the colored boy, Hicks, rode rings around Master Grover Cleveland Fuller and the Canadian colt, Reservation, Loui Faulconbridge. Fullerton's horse looked upon as the good thing of the race. Although the colt runs in the name of A. W. Fox it is said that the real owner is Diamond Jim Brady. How this may be, Brady came up from New York this morning to see the colt run and to place a heavy commission on him. It became known that the horse was in large quantities was going on the colt and the talent got aboard, making the son of the Bard an equal favorite with Reservation, but carrying the odds.

About the hardest jolt the ring has received during the meeting was given to it by the backers of Sweet's horse, the beautiful daughter of Flying Dutchman and Bartle Bell from the stable of John W. Schorr, the Memphis brewer. The filly started in the Kentucky Handicap, but she was backed and was backed from 15 to 1 to 1, the stable commission being placed at the opening odds.

The filly was touted all over the track, and John W. Gads heard about it. He went into the ring and did his own betting and was still there when his son Charlie tried to get him away by telling him that the Bark could not beat the horse. What he said to the younger Gads assured the elder that he (Charlie) had a bet on the Bark. Charlie is dining at the club to-night at the Governor's expense.

The "Cavanagh Special" will leave here to-morrow evening in two sections. The first section will pull out at 6:30 and the second at 8:40. The section will arrive at the Grand Central station at 11:30.

WONT BE A CUP-BEARER. Disappointment on the Teutonic, Just In. Over the Yacht Race News.

The officers of the White Star liner Teutonic, in last night from Liverpool and Queenstown, were much disappointed when they heard that Sir Thomas Lipton was not likely to carry the Cup back to England. The Irish Baronet had promised Surgeon Bromley that the Teutonic should have the distinction of carrying the Cup across the sea.

A dozen young women of George Edwars's "Three Little Maids" company and G. P. Huntley, who will take the leading part in the piece, were passengers by her from New York to Liverpool. The Teutonic, owned by her, was Matthew C. Danneberg, L. E. Auchincloss, Col. Charles H. Blair, George Carroll, Col. Maurice Cockerell, Edward Gray, Col. B. F. Jackson, Clarence V. Kellogg, John S. Garvin, Henry R. Wilson, Charles M. Hayes, Capt. E. W. Scott and Robert H. Thayer.

Clarence V. Kellogg, who, with T. F. Hartley, went to England in July to persuade the Royal Government to exhibit in a separate booth at the St. Louis Exposition, said he hoped to achieve the object of his mission. Mr. Hanley is still in England.

Under command of Capt. Lowndes, 100 privates and non-commissioned officers left Brooklyn yesterday for the Philippines. They were taken from the yard to Jersey City in a Government tug, where they will join another battalion of marines at Washington.

The Rev. J. D. S. Chidwick, who was chaplain of the battleship Massachusetts at her launching in Havana harbor, visited the navy yard yesterday. It is his desire to resign as chaplain to devote his time to regular parish work.

Fleeing Negro Jumped Into Her Bed. MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 26.—While fleeing from a mob, chasing him because he had knocked a white boy unconscious with a brick, a negro ran into the house of Walter Campbell and jumped into the bed where the latter's wife lay sick. The woman tried to hold the negro until the mob could reach him, but he made his escape.

The Bostonians' Silver Jubilee. The Bostonians will be, as an organization, 25 years old next Tuesday night, and they are going to celebrate that fact that evening at the performance of "Robin Hood" in the Academy of Music. It will be a regular silver jubilee of the family gathering, the Bostonians are ready to make the particular public yet.

The Saratoga summer season of dancing and prancing and racing and chasing will end to-morrow with the close of the summer meeting of the Saratoga Association for the improvement of the Breed of Horses. The frivolous and fortune-hunting summer throng will have left this garden spot of the great North Country Friday night. For a few hours the town will look like a deserted village. Then a complete metamorphosis will take place.

The early trains of Saturday morning will bring in the vanguard of that army of American tourists who are wont to spend the month of September in Saratoga. These autumn visitors are as different from the crowd now here as summer is from autumn. They wouldn't know a starting barrier from a betting ring, and they are proud of their ignorance. The talk of the boulevards and the hotel piazzas for the past month has been of the horse and the odds thereon. For the next four weeks it will be of books and theology and philosophy and things that are heavy and learned.

PUBLICATIONS.

In connection with the recent great feat of "Lou Dillon" every one interested in horses should read

Portraits of Famous Horses. The Darley Arabian, The Godolphin Barb, Justin Morgan, Andrew Jackson, Henry Clay, Rysdyk's Hambletonian, Lexington, Flora Temple, Nimrod, Leopard, Linden Tree, Naomi, Borloma, Clay Eclipse and others.

THE HORSE —IN— AMERICA By JOHN GILMER SPEED, in the September CENTURY Just Out.

Wall Street Men Will Enjoy the Article on the "BERLIN BOURSE" in the Same Number.

INSTRUCTION. For Boys and Young Men. The Loyola School, 68 East 54th St., near Park Ave. PREPARATORY COLLEGIATE DAY SCHOOL. Under the direction of Fathers of the Society of Jesus. REOPEN MONDAY, OCT. 5. Each class limited to 20 pupils. N. N. McKinnon, S. J., Principal. J. F. Fagan, S. J., Vice-Principal.

BERKELEY SCHOOL, No. 5 WEST 107TH STREET. Opening Day, 24th Year, Sept. 30th. JOHN STUART WHITE, LL.D., Head Master. Dwight School for Boys, 15 West 41st St., New York City. Principal, ARTHUR WILLIAMS, B. A. Business College.

EASTMAN SCHOOLS. In a recent speech President Roosevelt said, "Words are only good when backed up by deeds." Every promise we make is backed up—and the record reads clear for 44 years. We claim to have the Best School Day and Evening Sessions.

ST. FRANCIS' COLLEGE. Commercial, Academic and Collegiate Departments under the Regents of the State of New York. For Catalogue apply to President.

AMUSEMENTS. MANHATTAN BEACH TO-DAY. 330 SHANNON'S 23rd ST. TO-NIGHT PAIN'S POMPEII and GRAND FIREWORKS LAST TWO WEEKS! AT 8 P. M. THE SLEEPING BEAUTY and THE BEAST TO-NIGHT 35th ANNUAL PAIN'S CARNIVAL OF FIRE Gigantic Aerial Display—Gorgeous Set by PAUL RITZMAN. A SCENE OF DAZZLING SPECTOR.

DALY'S DANIEL FROHMAN, Manager. MATINEE. SEPT. 1. NEXT TUESDAY. CHARLES FROHMAN and GEORGE WARREN'S LONDON COMEDY in the Musical Comedy "THE THREE LITTLE MAIDS" with G. P. HUNTLEY. "SEATS NOW READY."

GARRICK THEATRE, 86th St. and Broadway. Evenings, 8:30. Matinee, Saturday, 2:15. JOHN C. RICE. Vivian's Papas. BROADWAY THEATRE, 41st St. & Broadway. Evenings, 8:15. Matinee, Saturday, 2:15. "The Girl in the Red Velvet Gown." Presented 1 Year in London.

MADISON SQUARE THEATRE 24th St., near Broadway. First Matinee, Sat. 2:15. MR. & MRS. ROYLE is a New Musical Comedy. "The Girl in the Red Velvet Gown." Presented 1 Year in London.

It's Cool at PROCTOR'S TO-NIGHT, 25c. 50c. 23rd St. (Continued) "The Girl in the Red Velvet Gown." Presented 1 Year in London.

5th Ave. "The Sweetheart." With All Stock Favorites! Big Vaudeville. Continues.

58th St. "The Peddler." Mat. Mon. Wed. Thurs. Sat. Pop. Prices.

125th St. "A Gilded Fool." All Stock Favorites! Big Vaudeville. Daily Mat.

MAJESTIC CIRCLE—GRAND 8th MONTH WIZARD OF OZ BEST SEATS Wednesday Matinee, 3c. 50c. Evening & Sat. Mat. 5c. 50c.

FLOATING ROOF GARDEN. Str. Grand Republic. High Class Vaudeville. West 120th St. 39th St. West 120th St. Battery Ledge 52nd St. DARING OF THE GALLERY GARDENS. "The Girl in the Red Velvet Gown." Presented 1 Year in London.

14th St. Theatre, at 8th Ave. Mat. Wed. & Sat. THE HAPPY TRAMP. In the new musical comedy, A SON OF BENT.

JOHNSTOWN FLOOD CONEY ISLAND. EDEN WORLD IN WAX. Yacht Races. CINE MATOGRAPHS. MUSEE Extra attractions. Charming Music.

PUBLICATIONS.

In connection with the recent great feat of "Lou Dillon" every one interested in horses should read

Portraits of Famous Horses. The Darley Arabian, The Godolphin Barb, Justin Morgan, Andrew Jackson, Henry Clay, Rysdyk's Hambletonian, Lexington, Flora Temple, Nimrod, Leopard, Linden Tree, Naomi, Borloma, Clay Eclipse and others.

THE HORSE —IN— AMERICA By JOHN GILMER SPEED, in the September CENTURY Just Out.

Wall Street Men Will Enjoy the Article on the "BERLIN BOURSE" in the Same Number.

INSTRUCTION. For Boys and Young Men. The Loyola School, 68 East 54th St., near Park Ave. PREPARATORY COLLEGIATE DAY SCHOOL. Under the direction of Fathers of the Society of Jesus. REOPEN MONDAY, OCT. 5. Each class limited to 20 pupils. N. N. McKinnon, S. J., Principal. J. F. Fagan, S. J., Vice-Principal.

BERKELEY SCHOOL, No. 5 WEST 107TH STREET. Opening Day, 24th Year, Sept. 30th. JOHN STUART WHITE, LL.D., Head Master. Dwight School for Boys, 15 West 41st St., New York City. Principal, ARTHUR WILLIAMS, B. A. Business College.

EASTMAN SCHOOLS. In a recent speech President Roosevelt said, "Words are only good when backed up by deeds." Every promise we make is backed up—and the record reads clear for 44 years. We claim to have the Best School Day and Evening Sessions.

ST. FRANCIS' COLLEGE. Commercial, Academic and Collegiate Departments under the Regents of the State of New York. For Catalogue apply to President.

AMUSEMENTS. MANHATTAN BEACH TO-DAY. 330 SHANNON'S 23rd ST. TO-NIGHT PAIN'S POMPEII and GRAND FIREWORKS LAST TWO WEEKS! AT 8 P. M. THE SLEEPING BEAUTY and THE BEAST TO-NIGHT 35th ANNUAL PAIN'S CARNIVAL OF FIRE Gigantic Aerial Display—Gorgeous Set by PAUL RITZMAN. A SCENE OF DAZZLING SPECTOR.

DALY'S DANIEL FROHMAN, Manager. MATINEE. SEPT. 1. NEXT TUESDAY. CHARLES FROHMAN and GEORGE WARREN'S LONDON COMEDY in the Musical Comedy "THE THREE LITTLE MAIDS" with G. P. HUNTLEY. "SEATS NOW READY."

GARRICK THEATRE, 86th St. and Broadway. Evenings, 8:30. Matinee, Saturday, 2:15. JOHN C. RICE. Vivian's Papas. BROADWAY THEATRE, 41st St. & Broadway. Evenings, 8:15. Matinee, Saturday, 2:15. "The Girl in the Red Velvet Gown." Presented 1 Year in London.

MADISON SQUARE THEATRE 24th St., near Broadway. First Matinee, Sat. 2:15. MR. & MRS. ROYLE is a New Musical Comedy. "The Girl in the Red Velvet Gown." Presented 1 Year in London.

It's Cool at PROCTOR'S TO-NIGHT, 25c. 50c. 23rd St. (Continued) "The Girl in the Red Velvet Gown." Presented 1 Year in London.

5th Ave. "The Sweetheart." With All Stock Favorites! Big Vaudeville. Continues.

58th St. "The Peddler." Mat. Mon. Wed. Thurs. Sat. Pop. Prices.

125th St. "A Gilded Fool." All Stock Favorites! Big Vaudeville. Daily Mat.

MAJESTIC CIRCLE—GRAND 8th MONTH WIZARD OF OZ BEST SEATS Wednesday Matinee, 3c. 50c. Evening & Sat. Mat. 5c. 50c.

FLOATING ROOF GARDEN. Str. Grand Republic. High Class Vaudeville. West 120th St. 39th St. West 120th St. Battery