

PRESIDENT HOME AGAIN.

PAYS A WARM TRIBUTE TO JACOB RISS AT RICHMOND HILL.

His Political Delegation of the Season Calls on President at Oyster Bay, Wearing First Roosevelt 1896 Badge Inured-Ark Him to a Banquet.

OSTEN BAY, N. Y., Sept. 8.—President Roosevelt got back from Syracuse at 10 o'clock this morning. One scheduled stop was made on the trip down. That was at Richmond Hill, where Mr. Roosevelt took the time to pay a tribute to Jacob Riss before more than 2,000 of Mr. Riss's fellow townsmen who had gathered at the railroad station.

The announcement had been made that the President would speak, and for the time being the town took a holiday. Mr. Riss, who had been the President's guest on the trip to Syracuse, was standing with Mr. Roosevelt on the rear platform of the last car when the train rolled. A great about went up as the crowd caught sight of the Chief Executive, a shout which was sharp and shrill with the voice of several hundred women and children.

Many of the children carried American flags. A committee of the Richmond Hill Republican Club, headed by Theodore P. Wilsnack, its president, tried to greet the President but nobody heard what was said because of the cheering. Finally the Rev. Joshua Kimball, who had been pushed up close to the bumper at Mr. Roosevelt's feet, spoke as follows:

"Mr. President, we have gathered here to give you a cordial welcome. You are the first President who has honored us by his presence. You also honor us by your affection for our fellow townsmen, Jacob Riss, as well as by your public service as Chief Magistrate."

President Roosevelt said: "Dr. Kimball and you, men, women and children of Richmond Hill, are all I could ask for better to me than I have ever had. I have a little patience for you moment while I have you here. I am glad to see all of you and to tell me that I am most of you, to see those who are sure to be in the future. Laughter and applause."

You know I am very fond of Mr. Riss, and the reason why is because when I speak about decent citizenship I can turn to him and think he has practiced just what I have been preaching. The worth of any person lies in the way in which that person can be and is applied. If I believe in the value of the man who shows by his life that he knows how practically to apply the principles of citizenship, I will not be more lenient to those who are false in any kind, or by weakness."

I want to see men decent. I want to see them act square. I want to see them work. That does not mean that I want to see them sweat faces. I want to see all enjoy themselves—men, women and children. I have in play, I believe in happiness, and in the joy of living, but I do not believe in the life that is nothing but play. I believe that you have a thought more on your mind. If work comes first, but make your time to play also. I believe in cheerfulness as well as in industry and honest endeavor. I believe in strength with weakness. Dr. Kimball, I believe in the good man who will fight if it is for the right. I am glad you fought in the civil war."

Now, Jacob Riss could never have been of any use in the Police Department if he had not carried on a rose-water revolution. Unless a man has the facts of the case, he is a decent fellow does not count. If he is not decent, then the stronger he is the worse he is as a citizen. I want to say how deeply touched I am at your coming out to greet me, and I want you to understand that I am glad to see you all here when you come in this way. I greet you all. I am glad to see the grown-up people of Richmond Hill. I am glad to see the children. [Cheers and applause.]

The President's remarks were received with the greatest enthusiasm. When he mentioned the children many of the mothers in the crowd lifted their little ones above their heads and sought personal recognition.

Almost at the moment the President stopped speaking his train pulled out. A man from the crowd made for the rear step and tried to climb up on the platform. Two Secret Service men, who were running by the side of the car, pulled him off. The man clung to the railing and tried hard again to get in. Mr. Riss was trying at the same time to get off.

There was a general mix-up on the car steps, which resulted finally in the intruder being knocked over on the track behind the moving train. The train was just beginning to gather speed at the time, and Mr. Riss had to make a flying leap when he succeeded at last in getting out between the Government agents. The man who tried to get on the platform with the President wanted only to shake hands with Mr. Roosevelt.

At Hoboken, where the train arrived at 7:25 o'clock in the morning, a crowd of more than one thousand commuters was waiting. They cheered Mr. Roosevelt as he went from the train to the tug which took him to Long Island City. At the latter place a special train was waiting, which carried him to Oyster Bay in fast time, stopping at Richmond Hill.

The President showed great satisfaction with the trip and with the way in which he had been received in Syracuse and elsewhere. His son Kermit was at the station to meet him. The President was driven immediately to Sagamore Hill. He hardly had arrived at the house when visitors who had appointments with him began to arrive. George R. Sheldon and Joel B. Erhardt of New York came to talk over the proposed financial legislation with Mr. Roosevelt.

They were at Sagamore Hill for luncheon. So also were Robert D. Winthrop and Civil Service Commissioner Alfred W. Cooley. Later in the afternoon Theodore Gilman, former Deputy Comptroller of New York, came to talk finance. Other visitors were J. C. Meyers of Ohio and Mrs. Meyers and State Senator E. R. Brown of Watertown.

Later in the afternoon a committee of twelve representing the Commercial Travelers' Sound Money League called on the President and assured him of their support in the next campaign. It was the first campaign delegation that has called at Sagamore Hill.

The committee invited Mr. Roosevelt to attend a banquet of the League to be held in New York this fall. Mr. Roosevelt accepted the invitation, but he could not accept, but promised afterward, when the place of the banquet was changed from New York to Washington, that he would attend. The committee presented to the President a set of resolutions, in which the League sets forth the part which it took in the fight for a sound currency in the last two campaigns, and pledges its support to Mr. Roosevelt. The members of the committee wore red Roosevelt 1901 campaign badges, the first it is said to have been given out.

Col. Joseph D. Cunningham of Ohio also was a visitor in the afternoon. He came to invite the President to attend the unveiling of the McKinley memorial monument on the Antietam battlefield by Ohio. The President promised to consider the invitation. The monument is being erected on the spot where McKinley was then Secretary General, took a meal on the night of the battle.

The President, it was announced to-day, will return to Washington with his family on Sept. 28. He will make one trip to the battlefield of Antietam on the 17th.

He will leave here on the 18th and will spend the afternoon of that day inspecting Ellis Island, leaving Jersey City for Maryland late that night.

Exhibition of Bindings at Columbia.

An exhibit of rare bindings and of books about binding from the private collection of Samuel P. Avery, will be on view at the library of Columbia University on Saturday afternoon from 2:30 to 5, and a special invitation has been sent to employers and workmen who are interested on the subject.

IN PLOT AGAINST KING PETER.

Two Serbian Army Officers Arrested for Being in Conspiracy.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN. LONDON, Sept. 8.—Despatches from Belgrade say Gen. Magdalienica and Capt. Lontkovic, who was an aide de camp to the late King Alexander at the time of the assassinations, were arrested in connection with the latest so-called conspiracy against King Peter by army officers who refuse to serve under the murderers of the former King and Queen. Gen. Magdalienica was afterward released.

The Serbian Legation in London has issued a communication from the Minister of Foreign Affairs at Belgrade declaring that the alleged plot of army officers at Nish to kill the plotters who were responsible for the murder of King Alexander and Queen Draga was exaggerated.

The twenty-eight officers arrested at Nish for being concerned in the conspiracy simply signed a protest, which was not aimed at a counter revolution and was not directed against King Peter. These men will be dealt with by a military court.

TO KEEP ORDER IN REICHSTAG.

Herr Bebel Vetoes Plan to Elect Social Democrat a Vice-President.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN. BERLIN, Sept. 8.—The eagerly expected article by Herr Bebel, the Social Democratic leader, on the question whether the Social Democrats should seek the election of a member of that party as a Vice-President of the Reichstag was published to-day.

Herr Bebel vetoes the proposition on the ground that if a Social Democrat were elected to the office he might be acting as a presiding officer at the close of the session, when it is customary for the presiding officer to call for cheers for the Emperor.

The Social Democrats would refuse to give these cheers, and this would cause an interruption of the session.

Herr Bebel does not believe that the office would add to the power or influence of the party.

QUESTION OF DISARMAMENT.

Interparliamentary Conference Favors Scheme Formulated by Russia.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN. VIENNA, Sept. 8.—The interparliamentary conference, at its session to-day, adopted by a large majority a motion to settle the question of disarmament, and in view of the constant increase of armaments since 1899, the time is opportune for the scheme formulated by Russia in 1898 to be submitted again to an international congress of the Powers.

AMERICAN STABBED IN HAVANA.

James Quinn, a Composer, Dies of Wounds Received in a Brawl.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN. HAVANA, Sept. 8.—James Quinn, an American who was employed as a compositor on a newspaper here, died to-day of the effects of eight stab wounds which he received in a brawl at midnight a week ago last Sunday in a low part of the town. Quinn was too intoxicated to give any clear account of the affair.

There is considerable feeling among the Americans over the matter, as it is alleged that because of the neighborhood where the trouble occurred several persons must have seen it, and yet no arrests have been made.

TO MAKE CONSUL A CENSOR.

And Give Him Power to Suppress Foreign Papers Published in China.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN. LONDON, Sept. 8.—A despatch from Shanghai says it is stated that the Chinese Government has proposed the insertion in the commercial treaty with the United States of a provision imposing upon the American Consul at Shanghai the duty of suppressing any newspaper published in the foreign settlement there which may print what is regarded by the authorities as seditious or offensive articles. This proposal is regarded in Shanghai as ridiculous.

JAIL FOR LESE MAJESTE.

At Once When the Offense is Charged—A New Order Issued in Berlin.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN. BERLIN, Sept. 8.—Confidential instructions have been issued to the police that persons charged with lese majeste shall in the future be lodged in jail forthwith. Hitherto those accused of this offense were only put in jail if it was suspected that they intended to avoid trial by flight.

RAILWAY STRIKE IN SPAIN.

3,000 Employees of the Southern Company Out.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN. MADRID, Sept. 8.—Some thousand workmen employed by the Northern Railway Company have gone on strike because several of their number were discharged for trying to induce their comrades to cease work.

The Bubonic Plague at Marselles.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN. LONDON, Sept. 8.—A despatch from Marselles to the Daily Mail says there have been eleven cases of the bubonic plague there in a few days. Seven of these resulted fatally. The disease has been traced to a steamer which arrived with a cargo of rags from Constantinople last Saturday.

No Epidemic at Daiquiri.

SPECIAL CABLE DISPATCH TO THE SUN. HAVANA, Sept. 8.—Dr. Gutierrez, who was sent to Daiquiri to investigate the reports in regard to an epidemic of a serious disease there, reports that there is no yellow fever in Santiago province, nor is there any sickness to speak of at Daiquiri, except some bad forms of malaria.

BECAUSE THEY WED IN SECRET.

Trouble in Store for the Curate and Organist of a Saratoga Church.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 8.—There is an intimation that Archibald J. Robinson, the organist, and the Rev. Frank J. Knapp, the curate, of Bethesda Episcopal Church may be called upon to resign because Robinson was secretly married to Miss Julia Boyd of Washington at Mechanicsville early last summer, the agreement being that the marriage should not be made public till October. The ceremony was performed by Curate Knapp, who accompanied the couple twenty miles to the knot. The secret soon became general gossip.

Herr Watson an Illusionary Being.

Henry Watson, who is 160 years old, was a woman graduate of the Fagan school of Business in the Lyric Theatre, Hoboken, last night. The gist of the Colonel's talk to the young people was not to make money their ideal of a successful career. The most successful person in life, he said, was the one who found the most happiness.

"The idyllicism of the last century was liberty," he said, "and the idyllicism of the present century is business."

LAKE GEORGE'S BATTLE MARK.

MONUMENT UNVEILED AND GIVEN TO THE STATE.

Three Governors and a Lieutenant-Governor There to Pull the Canvas Away—Military Parade and Big Crowd Add Life and Spirit to a Memorable Day.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Nearly 25,000 people witnessed the culmination this afternoon of an effort begun over half a century ago, when a committee was appointed to mark the Lake George battleground, where was fought 168 years ago the most severe of the engagements in which the English and their allies under Sir William Johnson and King Hendrick, the Indian chieftain, defeated the French and Indians commanded by Baron Dieskau.

The first committee was unsuccessful, but a few years ago the Society of Colonial Wars took the matter in hand, and the unveiling ceremonies to-day marked the completion of the task.

At 10:15 o'clock a force of Regulars and State soldiers, commanded by Major-General, was reviewed by Gov. Odell of New York, Gov. Chamberlain of Connecticut and Gov. McCullough of Vermont and Lieut. Gov. Guild of Massachusetts.

At noon luncheon was served to the Governors, Senator Depew and other distinguished guests.

The procession to the monument, which formed at the New York William Henry Hotel, a quarter of a mile from the battleground, included Troop I, Second Cavalry, U. S. A., a company of Regular Infantry, Companies B and G, Seventy-first Regiment, New York; Company K, Second Regiment, of Glens Falls; two companies of the Governor's Foot Guards of Connecticut, Company F, Second Regiment, of Massachusetts and the Albany Burgesses' Corps.

The scene of the monument was striking. In the foreground were many officials of this and neighboring States. Back of them were the members of the Colonial and Revolutionary societies. Further back were the State and national troops, and still further from the stand was the multitude of witnesses gathered from many places.

Howard Peil, chairman of the committee of arrangements, presided. The invocation was offered by Charles E. Brugler, chaplain of the New York State Society of Colonial Wars. Frederick J. De Peyer, Governor General of the Society of Colonial Wars and chairman of the monument, then addressed the assembly. He gave a graphic description of the battle of Lake George.

Then came the unveiling. Gov. Odell, Gov. Chamberlain, Gov. McCullough and Lieut. Gov. Guild each stood at a corner of the monument and on signal each pulled a rope that released the bronze figure. As the figure appeared the guns of the First Battery of the New York National Guard belched forth a salute.

James William Beckman, governor of the New York society, accepted the monument in behalf of the society. He then called upon the representatives of the State of New York. The Senator's speech was a historical review of the French and Indian War and its consequences.

Gov. Odell, in accepting the monument, said in part:

"A noted writer has said that far beyond wealth and fame the heritage left by our ancestors to our country, but a few years beyond the century mark, grateful as we should be for that it is our right to enjoy it, it is well that we should remember deeds and words and achievements which have made our history."

In marking the battlefields of our republic we not only pay tribute to the memory of our great forefathers, but we also serve to inspire our youth to the same noble deeds of our forefathers. As we look over this peaceful scene, this historic spot, we are reminded of the courage and daring which taught our foes that the sturdy fighters of our soil have the right to be free for the homes and the firesides.

It was a great pleasure to accept this monument on behalf of the Empire State. May it always be an inspiration to the youth of our State, and may it serve here in this peaceful spot as a reminder not alone of the courage and daring of our forefathers, but of the future which shall be theirs and ours.

Lieut. Gov. Guild made one of the finest speeches ever made in the State. He spoke of the heroic fighting of the Massachusetts troops took in the battle. Gov. Chamberlain also spoke in the same vein. Gov. McCullough admitted that Vermont was engaged in the battle, but that the troops at the battle, but some of the citizens of its territory were there. He spoke of the expedition of Vermont men to Ticonderoga and the brilliant result.

The Rev. Dr. Henry Hopkins, president of Williams College, made a short address, saying that he esteemed it an honor that the monument should be dedicated at Williams College, where he was engaged at this battle, where he lost his life.

The exercises were ended with the benediction pronounced by the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stiles of New York. Gov. Odell went to the Hotel Champlain at Buft Point, and to-morrow he will attend the Clinton County Fair in Plattsburgh.

The monument is a fine structure of granite and bronze. It stands on the spot where the last of the three engagements of the battle was fought, an elevation at the head of the lake. It is visible for many miles in several directions.

The monument features two heroic bronze figures representing Gov. Johnson and Chief Hendrick, standing side by side, surmounting a pedestal thirteen feet high. It was designed by Albert Weinert.

McComas Wins a Fractional Fight.

CUMBERLAND, Md., Sept. 8.—The McComas faction in the Republican party won in the courts here to-day by a decision by Judge Boyd which dismissed a petition for a writ of mandamus sought by F. Brooke Whiting to compel the officers of the recent county convention to certify his name as a candidate for State's Attorney. Whiting is anti-McComas. The officers certified to the nomination of David A. Robb, a McComas man, and his name goes on the ticket.

OBITUARY.

Charles A. Cutler, librarian of the Forbes Library at Northampton, Mass., and formerly librarian of the Boston Athenaeum, for many years, died at Watpole, N. H., on Sunday. He was born on March 14, 1827. He entered Harvard in 1845 and graduated in 1849. While studying at the Cambridge Divinity School he was called to assist in the college library and was made assistant librarian in 1856, serving until 1862. He then became librarian of the Boston Athenaeum and served for twenty years. In 1887 he was elected librarian of the Forbes Library, where he remained until his death.

Miss Julia Clinton Jones, a great granddaughter of Gen. Jackson, died at the age of 100 years on Sunday. She was born in 1793 and lived in the same house in which she was born. She was the inventor of a catalogue system which has been used generally in the libraries of the United States. She was also the author of "Rules for a Dictionary Catalogue" and the "Etymology of the Language of the United States."

WRIT FOR LYNCHBAUM.

Irish Suspect Appeals to Federal Court to Prevent Extradition to England.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 8.—The proceedings for the extradition of James Lynchbaum, the Irish suspect, who was arrested here after having escaped from prison where he was serving a life sentence for attempted murder, were dropped before the United States Commissioner to-day and at once taken before Judge Baker of the United States Circuit Court.

When the prisoner was brought before the Commissioner the prosecution moved to dismiss the warrant under which he had been arrested here two weeks ago. The motion was not contested and as soon as the warrant was dismissed another warrant, sworn out in New York, was served on the accused.

The defense was prepared for the new phase of the case and before entering the courtroom had a petition ready for a writ of habeas corpus and had asked Judge Baker to be at the Federal Building. While the New York warrant was being read to the prisoner one of his attorneys was in Judge Baker's chambers presenting the petition. The point was made that while the extradition treaty with England in 1842 provides for the extradition of persons accused of crime, it makes no provision for the extradition of persons who have been convicted and have escaped from prison. The writ was immediately issued, and was made returnable on Thursday next.

The friends of Lynchbaum say that the prisoner has been played into their hands by taking the case from the United States Commissioner, for appeal from him could have gone only to the United States Supreme Court. The habeas corpus enables them to go into the whole case and if necessary carry the fight to the United States Supreme Court.

IMMIGRANT GIRL ASSAULTED.

Lured to a Lonely Place by Man Who Pretended to Be Helping Her.

Albina Gustafson, 20 years old and comely, arrived at Bayonne from Ellis Island on Saturday. She came from Sweden to meet John Johnson, to whom she is engaged to be married. She says she was placed aboard the steamer at the address of Mrs. Mary Johnson of 240 Railroad avenue, Bayonne, on a piece of paper. The girl was made to understand that she was to leave the train at the East Thirty-third street station, where she was to meet her fiancé. She had a little bit of money and she was not at all afraid. She went with Mrs. Johnson's address and made them understand that she wanted to go to the address.

One of the young men volunteered to escort the girl to the house of Mrs. Johnson. He led her over the railroad bridge at the East Thirty-third street station, and then turned toward the bay. In an unguarded and dark spot he assaulted the girl. She tried to escape, but was held by a man who pretended to be helping her. She was taken to a police station and the man was arrested.

The committee unanimously nominated the Hon. Denis O'Brien of Watertown, Democrat, to be Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals, to succeed himself, thus ratifying the action of the Democratic State Committee at Albany on Saturday. In a former time the Republican State Committee, nominated Robert Earl, Democrat, to be Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals, and a number of years ago the Democratic State Committee nominated Judge Andrews, Republican, and the Republican State Committee nominated Judge Andrews in return. In off years very little concern is manifested by the two political parties in a situation of this kind.

HEINZE ON DROP IN COPPER.

Says He Heard of "Drive" From Jesse Lewishohn and Sam Rosenstamm.

BUTTE, Mont., Sept. 8.—F. August Heinze was again on the witness stand to-day in the trial of the MacCinnin injunction and receivership suit against the Boston and Montana Company.

He said that in his opinion the drop in copper in 1901 was due to the attempt of the unorganized company, through the United Metals Selling Company, to force certain parties into line by giving it out that the market would be forced down gradually from week to week. Heinze told the jury that he had heard of a "drive" from Jesse Lewishohn, but said that the information he had received was that Lewishohn was a partner in the United Metals Selling Company.

The taking of testimony was concluded, and the case will be submitted in briefs and arguments in ten days.

LIPTON HOPES TO TRY AGAIN.

Tells His Fellow Guests at a Dinner That He Looks for Another Chance.

Benedict J. Greenhut entertained Sir Thomas Lipton at a dinner at Stuyvesant Hotel to-day. Sir Thomas said that he would like to try for the Cup again. In the course of his remarks he said: "While I am not going back with the old trophy, I have gained many friendships where it value has not been forgotten. The Cup is not only beaten by the better way. The reliance is better in every way, as far as speed goes. I don't say that I won't try again, and I hope that I will have the chance to try. Nothing would give me greater pleasure."

Herman Ridder was called upon to make a speech on the Cup question and he had this to say about it: "Although I am not an Irishman, some of my friends say that from the amount of trouble I have caused New York I must have some Irish blood in me."

BACK TO THE WIGWAM.

Three G. N. Y. D. Leaders Recant and Make Their Peace With Murphy.

What Tammany called the beginning of the end of the Greater New York Democratic platform was yesterday when three of Sheehan's leaders went to Tammany Hall and asked Leader Murphy to forgive them and take them back into the Wigwam. The three were Robert E. Murphy, former chairman of Sheehan's Ninth Assembly District Committee; John L. Jordan, Sr., and John L. Jordan, Jr. Young Jordan is Assistant Superintendent of Buildings, a job he got from Borough President Cantor as Greater New York Democratic leader. They had previously given out a recommendation that Thomas F. Martin, president of the United Dealers' News Company, be nominated for Sheriff on the fusion ticket.

They think they thought never actively or offensively engaged in politics, he will draw thousands of Democratic votes to the ticket.

KEAN'S FRIENDS DEFEATED.

Fowler's Candidate for Assembly Gets 15 Out of 19 Union County Delegates.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., Sept. 8.—Senator Kean's friends were routed at the Republican primaries here to-day. Congressman Fowler's candidate for Assembly, winning 15 out of 19 delegates to the Union County Convention. Plainfield is the Republican stronghold in Union county, in which both Fowler and Kean live.

Kings County Convention Days Fixed.

The Republican County Committee of Kings met at 360 Fulton street, Brooklyn, last evening, with Alexander Robb in the chair, and adopted the days recommended by the Executive Committee for the various conventions as follows:

Assembly district judicial conventions for the election of delegates to the Judiciary Convention, Tuesday, Sept. 22. County Convention, Monday, Sept. 28. Judiciary Convention for the nomination of a Justice of the Supreme Court in the Second Judicial Department in lieu of William W. Goodrich, whose term expires on Dec. 31, Friday, Oct. 2. Assembly district conventions for the nomination of Assemblymen, Monday, Oct. 5. County Convention for the nomination of Albany, Tuesday, Oct. 6.

CITS CHEER JEROME'S NAME.

DISTRICT LEADERS WAKE UP WHEN HE'S MENTIONED.

Had a Smokey to Talk Over Campaign Plans, but Didn't Mention Candidates—Sip at Untrustworthy Candidates—Everett P. Wheeler Sees a Victory.

The district leaders of the Citizens' Union and their workers from all the boroughs had a smookey last night in Lyric Hall. After the speeches there were stereotyped views showing some of the parks, recreation piers and schoolhouses which the present administration has provided for the city. These views will be used in the campaign.

No specific reference was made at the meeting to Mayor Low or any other officeholder as a candidate for reelection. The heartiest cheer was when Leader Stebbins of the Third Assembly district referred to "that peerless District Attorney, William Travers Jerome."

Fielding E. Marshall, vice-president of the organization in The Bronx, said something that may interest President Cantor. "This time," said Mr. Marshall, "we must be careful to know the records of all the fusion candidates and not repeat the mistakes of the last campaign. Let us have a candidate of our own for every place on the ticket, or else a candidate of the allies whom we can trust."

"Some of the weak spots in the present administration are due to our inability in the last campaign to name a good man for every office."

President Fulton Cutting said that the strength of the Citizens' Union had been and always would be in its appeal to the moral sense of the community. He indicated in a little bit and said that the Citizens' Union was the principal factor in the last campaign and had directed it and that the representatives of the present administration had come into its headquarters.

The nearest reference to Mayor Low was made by a Mr. Harris of Richmond, who said that he would vote for the present incumbent or some other candidate for Mayor who will consider the best interests of all the boroughs.

Everett P. Wheeler predicted a sure victory and E. R. L. Gould said that in place of the "brass check" and other features of the last campaign which appealed to the sentiment of the people there must be this year individual enthusiasm in standing for a great principle.

ALL PEACE IN STATE POWWOW.

O'Brien Nominated and No County Troubles Brought Up—No Canal Resolution.

The meeting of the Republican State Committee at the Fifth Avenue Hotel yesterday morning was a good deal like that saying of Uncle Josh Billings: "I have had a heap of trouble in my life, most of which never happened." There was a goodly representation of the committee. Col. George E. Dean, chairman, presided. Deacon Fox put down on paper the few things that the committee said, and it was all over in a very few minutes.

The committee unanimously nominated the Hon. Denis O'Brien of Watertown, Democrat, to be Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals, to succeed himself, thus ratifying the action of the Democratic State Committee at Albany on Saturday.
