The large salaries of those who manage all successful modern enterprises are paid for Intelligent Superintendence and for nothing else. relatives come into court to defeat the will of their benefactor and take what they know the law never intended them to have. The Judge seems to think that he should be attorney for me and my family, to take account his estate and distribute it as he will permit me to take care of my own family. I prefer to retain the memory of the confidence of my friend rather than to have the trust of one who violated the principles which he and I represented.

It may have been a mistake for the testator to provide for the individual who had not seen anything I could in honor do but carry out the wishes of my friend. Mr. Bennett read a number of extracts from letters of Mr. Bennett, extolling him and his principles and concluded: "You will not have to require a bond of me to keep my promise not to accept one dollar of this money for myself and my family without the consent of Mr. Bennett, but I would be unworthy of the trust imposed in me if I were not willing to brave these imputations, nay anything, to distribute this money as he desired it to be distributed."

The private bequests in the will of Philip S. Bennett were made public today. Mrs. Hattie E. Foster of 58 West 150th street, New York, receives $20,000 in trust with Alfred P. Sloan, Mr. Bennett's partner, provision is made for his former two last names, Mrs. Sylvia S. New Haven, who gets $1,000, and Mrs. Robert G. Hunter of 58 West 150th street, New York, who receives $2,000.

Another section of the will provides for $20,000 to be de Witt Conger of Waterville, N. Y., in trust for Della A. Bigelow, sister of Mr. Bennett. There is also $12,500 in trust for Mr. Bennett's half brother, George A. Cable, and $1,000 for Mrs. Blanche Conger, wife of De Witt Conger. A nephew, Herbert Mason of Iambury receives $5,000 in trust, and another nephew, John Bennett, $5,000 under similar conditions.

Several employees of Bennett, Sloan & Co. Mr. Bennett leaves about $10,000. Besides the disputed $50,000 Mr. Bennett had left jointly to his wife and himself for their use and $1,500 for the establishment of a free public library in Salem, Ill. The residuary legacies are Mrs. Bennett, Mr. Cable and Mr. Bennett's sister, Della A. Bigelow.

Mrs. Foster to whom the $20,000 is left, is the widow of the late Samuel Foster. She boarded at the same place with Bennett in New York city, at 58 West 150th street. Mrs. Foster was superintendent of a Sunday school and lectured on Christian Endeavor activity. Mr. Bennett, who admired her ideas as he did those of Bryan, is said to have helped to widen her scope of influence.

Col. George B. McClellan, Edward M. Groat and Charles V. Fornes carried their campaign into the Ninth Assembly district of Brooklyn last night and spoke before a large audience at Visitation Hall, Tremont and Van Brunt streets.

Col. McClellan said that Mayor Low had failed to improve the facilities at the Brooklyn Bridge terminals, as he had promised to do. He read a lot of long letters to him from newspaper editorials and sermons to prove that the Bridge crush was a great moral wrong to Brooklyn.

Several absurd plans have come from the Mayor's Bridge Commissioner, said the Colonel. "Mr. Low has promised and promised and promised and nothing has been done. Now he is beginning to have a little bit of common sense. The Bridge Commission is too late."

BROOKLYN CHEERS JEROME. HIS LASH OUT FOR CROKORAN AS WELL AS GROUT. Academy Audience Liked It When He Called Crokoran a "Wallpaper Grand Dealer," Groat, Brouneger and Trotter—Swanstrom Also Lined.

District Attorney Jerome was the principal speaker at a big mass meeting held by the Citizens' Union in the Academy of Music in Brooklyn last night. Mr. Jerome showed marked tact and discretion in his speech that tickled the audience. At the close, when he asked the audience if the cause of good government was to be put back this year where it would have to begin all over again, there were cries of "No!" from every part of the crowded house.

Mr. Jerome got to the meeting just as Mr. Cutting, the chairman, was finishing his introductory speech. Mr. Cutting also got a fine reception from the audience, especially when he said that it was Brooklyn that had pointed the way to good government for municipalities by his charter of 1888.

"Every effort," said he, "is being made by the other side to hide the issue. Everything in the world is put before us except the record of Seth Low—all kinds of stories and inventions, Devery and his campaign, dinners with Mr. Platt, Odell and Devery meeting in the Fifth Avenue Hotel, anything under heaven except the record of Seth Low as Mayor. But it is on that record that this campaign is going to be fought, and that is what we are going to bring home to the people of this city."

Mr. Cutting said that the only thing remaining to be done was to make a noise in the last week. Just at this moment Mr. Jerome entered. As the audience caught sight of him half the people rose, waving hands, handkerchiefs and hats.

When Mr. Jerome asked if Brooklyn was going to elect a Democrat, Mr. Haffen said he had something to fight. I thought there might be some rotten spots, but not a single attack has been made which cannot be successfully contradicted. I have been called a liar, a scoundrel, a traitor and so far the only rotten spots the opposition has found have been Mr. Cutting and myself.

There were roars of laughter when Mr. Jerome spoke of Bourke Cockran as "that Mulligan Guard Demagogue" and called his speech at Carnegie Hall a "tissue of lies."

The whole Tammany administration," said he, "tries to put everything on the back of Devery, but Devery comes to the front and says he was simply a victim of the system, and those that were in the system know I have known it for fifteen years now that he is telling the truth."

BERRY HAS HAFREN WORRIED. BRONX POLITICS ABOUT THE HOTTEST GOING THIS YEAR. If Haffen, Tammany's Sole Survivor in 1901, Had the Borough in His Vest Pocket Once He's Beginning to Suspect That His Pocket Has Been Picked. If the voters in Manhattan and Brooklyn they are having a lively campaign, they ought to go up to the Bronx and see some political activity. Down here they talk politics; up there they eat it. And the ginger in the campaign has been inserted largely by Joseph I. Berry, the candidate for Borough President of the fusionists and about all the other citizens of the Bronx who are not hidebound Tammany men.

DALTON PUNCHES GROUT'S HEAD. Lieutenant of Murphy Follows Bourke Cockran's Headless Lead. William Dalton, who was Commissioner of Water Supply, and Van Wyck, sent to Mayor Low yesterday a letter saying that the property and plant of the New York and Westchester Water Company, which the city bought last January for $612,000, was worth only $250,000 and could be easily duplicated for that amount.

BRUCE IS FOR BENNETT. And Looks for an Increased Law Penalty in the Twenty-first. President M. Linn Bruce of the Republican county committee lives in the Twenty-first Assembly district, which has shown such a large increase in registration. He said last night that he looked for a much larger plurality for Low than was polled in 1901. He also said that he favored the election of Judge Benet in the Twelfth Municipal district, where the Citizens' Union and Tammany have endorsed Seannell.

There are men who buy shoes simply for service—they want long, solid wear—every hour of wear they can get for their money. They don't care for style, but don't object to it. We are looking for these men. King Calf shoes are what they need. King Calf is a leather which we control absolutely—it is a leather that nearly never wears out. It is as tough as iron and pretty nearly as flexible as kid. It is practically water-proof. We put a King Calf upper on a double sole of oak-tanned sole leather and make absolutely the most durable shoe in the world. And the style is there too. And it fits. It has the comfort of an old shoe. The price, $3.50—only one price for

The Boss And How He Came to Rule New York By ALFRED HENRY LEWIS An Absorbing Story of City Life and Politics. The BOSS tells his own story through Mr. Lewis, and it is most astonishing and surprising. The inner life of New York is laid bare; you see who are the real rulers, where they get their power and where the money comes from.

HOPE OF NEW DEMOCRACY. To Make Tammany a Minority Faction—Circular on Corporations. In a campaign argument put yesterday by the Democratic fusion campaign committee this statement appears: "The most important issue in this campaign is the question of the public franchises. The great corporations holding public franchises. These franchises are rapidly being concentrated in the hands of a few men, and the great political corruption funds are the result of this concentration of franchises. They are the main contributors to Tammany Hall, and they have been enriched in the past by a combination between Tammany, certain Brooklyn Democrats led by Senator McClellan, and the country Republican machine, although some Tammany members of the Legislature have sometimes broken away and voted against their schemes."
