

FULLER CO.'S WORK STRUCK, AND UNGRATEFUL HOUSEHOLDS ARE AMONG THE STRIKERS.

All the Company's Bricklayers Out Because It Didn't Keep a Rule of an Association of Which It Isn't a Member—Its Arbitration Disregarded.

The George A. Fuller Company, after trying to keep on good terms with the building trades unions since the general shut down by the Building Employers' Association began last May, is now entangled in two strikes of its own. The union bricklayers were ordered out yesterday on the ground that the company had violated a rule of the Mason Builders' Association, of which, incidentally, it is not a member. Also a general strike was ordered on a large building at Fourteenth street and Sixth avenue, in sympathy with the journeyman stonecutters who quit work because the stonecutters were not allowed to work on the building.

In all, about 1,000 bricklayers are affected by this strike. It is the first important strike of bricklayers in twenty years. In a few days, however, the laborers and the men in several other trades will be affected and several thousand more workers will be thrown idle. The bricklayers' unions are not affiliated with any central body and have signed the arbitration agreement of the Employers' Association. The peculiar feature of their strike is the non-recognition of the Fuller company in the association whose rules it is accused of violating on the Mercantile Building, at Twenty-third street and Fourth avenue. The company was formerly in the Mason Builders' Association, but is so no longer; but this, according to the interpretation of the agreement by the union, cuts it out. The rule alleged to be violated provides that members of the association must include in their contract for a building, a provision for the payment of brick floors, the brickwork of the damp-proofing system and all fireproofing, and must not lump or subcontract the work of bricklayers with any other contractor.

The Fuller company's subcontracting of the fireproofing work in the Mercantile Building to the National Fireproofing Company, which employed its own men instead of employing bricklayers. The other buildings affected by the strike include the new Times building at Forty-second street and Broadway, the new office building at Fourteenth street and Sixth avenue, the Butterick building, a building at Wall and Water streets, the Surrogate building at Broadway and Forty-second street and a building in Pine street. As the Fuller company declined to take part in the shut-down ordered by the bricklayers' association, the members of the latter were not displeased at the news of the strike yesterday. The Fuller company had its own men working on the building, and the Board of Building Trades, which the employers' association was fighting, but that doesn't matter.

LABOR CONVENTION STORMY. Bolderous Conduct of Delegates to the Federation Meeting in Boston.

Boston, Nov. 11.—To-day's session of the American Federation of Labor was bolderous because of a despatch sent here by the International Union of Journeymen Bakers and Confectioners of Cleveland demanding that its delegates be seated immediately. Every kind of a motion that in any way could affect the situation was made, much to the bewilderment of the Chair. It was a paper and a resolution for a roll call on the question of laying the whole matter on the table. The secretary said that there was no roll in the hall, and it became necessary to defer the matter to the next session.

The protest against the seating of another delegate, Ernest Bohm of New York, caused almost as much trouble and had not been disposed of when a motion to adjourn passed the convention. Another storm was caused by the distribution in the hall of literature without the union label. The delegates wanted to know about it, and President Gompers replied that he had seen such literature in the hall and collected and thrown out of the room. Mr. Gompers announced that some one had so committed himself to the common ownership as to have stolen his watch yesterday and he was very anxious for its return. This evening the delegates had a banquet at the expense of the city.

WAGES IN COTTON MILLS CUT. Ten Per Cent. Reduction in Fall River.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 11.—Notices were posted to-day in all the local cotton mills of a reduction of 10 per cent in the wages of operatives, to go into effect on Nov. 23. The matter has been considered many times in the past few weeks at meetings of the mill owners, but it was thought to be impossible to get the industry in the movement. Within a day the needful harmony has been brought about. An agreement has been signed in which the mills have agreed to reduce the scale into effect on the date agreed upon by a committee, and it is not thought now that anything can be done in the next few days to prevent such action being taken. The present scale went into effect in March, 1902, when a 10 per cent increase was made. Manufacturers give as cause for the reduction that they are now and have been for a long time making goods for sale below cost. Promises have been made that New Bedford and Rhode Island mills and the mills in other parts of New England, except at Lowell, will follow the Fall River reduction at once. The cut down will affect nearly 30,000 operatives in this city, and if all the other manufacturers follow, from 75,000 to 80,000 textile operatives will be obliged to submit to a reduction.

DRESSER CLAIM OF $44,667. Made by the Importers and Traders' Bank on the Whitlock Estate, in New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 11.—The settlement of the bankruptcy case of former Senator Sturgis Whitlock, who is also president of the Connecticut Baseball League, was complicated to-day by a claim from the Importers and Traders' National Bank of New York for $44,667 to partly cover a debt of L. De Roy Dresser of New York, for which the bank holds Mr. Whitlock liable. Mr. Whitlock recently filed a statement of his assets. They were found to be nearly sufficient to pay his debts, and he was almost settled when this claim came up. Mr. Dresser bought from the Whitlock Realty Company, of which Senator Whitlock was the president, twenty-one acres of land on Staten Island. The company of which Dresser was the head failed before the money was paid for the land. Mr. Whitlock, with several other creditors, pressed to Tammany and to the court, according to the claim of the New York bank, to give Dresser an extension of time for the payment of this debt. From April to July, 1903, Whitlock signed an agreement giving Dresser this extension and agreeing to pay his debt to the bank if he didn't settle at the expiration of that time. Dresser didn't pay. In the meantime Whitlock failed. The creditors for Dresser now want to take the money for which they say Mr. Whitlock is liable out of the bankrupt Whitlock estate. The case will be brought by the creditors here of Mr. Whitlock who want all there is in the estate.

"A LITTLE" knowledge is a dangerous thing. The CHELTENHAM Press has found this especially true of men who know a LITTLE about Printing.

HER HOUSE GOT AWAY FROM HER.

JOHN FLOOD, ACTOR, HAS MRS. D'HERBLAY'S REAL ESTATE.

With a Deed From a Woman Who Held Her Power of Attorney—Court Says It's a Curious Business and Wants to Know What Consideration, if Any, Passed.

Mrs. Emille L. d'Herblay has begun an action in the Supreme Court to recover possession of the house 12 East Thirtieth street, which she owned for twenty years, but which, according to deeds on file in the County Clerk's office, is now the property of John Flood, said to be an actor. Mrs. d'Herblay is past 60 years old and very nearsighted. She instructed Mrs. Helen Reddick with power of attorney to collect the rent of the house. On Oct. 28 last, as Mrs. d'Herblay has since discovered, two deeds were simultaneously filed in the Register's office. One, purporting to have been signed and delivered by Mrs. d'Herblay on Dec. 21, 1901, conveyed the house to Mrs. Reddick, and the other conveyed it from Mrs. Reddick to John Flood, who boards in Mrs. Reddick's house. According to Otto H. Droge, Mrs. d'Herblay's counsel, Flood is an actor without means.

Mr. Droge appeared before Supreme Court Justice Clarke yesterday asking for the appointment of a temporary receiver for the property and an injunction restraining Mrs. Reddick, John Flood and Edwin Wood, a codefendant who has a small judgment against Mrs. d'Herblay, from collecting or disposing of the rents of the house. Mr. Droge told the court that Mrs. d'Herblay had brought suit to have the two deeds set aside on the ground of fraud. She alleges that Mrs. Reddick, executing any such deed to Mrs. Reddick, but admits that she was in her confidence in the woman that she was in the habit of signing any paper that Mrs. Reddick assured her was "all right," as she is too nearsighted to read. The property in question is of great value, and Mrs. d'Herblay, said Mr. Droge, if she cannot get it back she must starve. Counsel for Flood attempted to reply to Mr. Droge's arguments, but when he told Justice Clarke, in answer to a question, that he had no knowledge of what consideration had passed between Mrs. Reddick and Flood in return for the deed, Justice Clarke declined to hear him any further. Counsel for Mrs. Reddick in opposing the motion for a receiver declared that Mrs. d'Herblay owed Mrs. Reddick some money and that a conditional deed of the house had been executed to guarantee the payment of the money.

KILLS CATTLE TO BE HUMANE. Mrs. Murray, Vegetarian and Farmer, Says but Never Reaps—To Kill Horses.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 11.—Mrs. Evelyn W. Murray, owner and occupant of the old Snyder Frelinghuysen farm, on the road from Somerville to South Branch is disposing of the live stock on the farm by having it put to death, although the stock is in the best of health. Mrs. Murray is one of the wealthiest women in Somerset county. She is prominent in the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and has a horror of the slaughter of any animal coming to the farm. Many of the animals have been on the place since she bought it. She does not believe in eating meat and will not allow any of her stock to be sold let it go into the hands of the butcher. Of late she has been having all the calves born to her placed in a large tank and immediately killed four full grown cows and a bull about three years old, by poison injections which brought the quickest death possible. Mrs. Murray has owned the farm for about two years. The carcasses of the cattle were brought to this city. Two dogs were put to death at the same time. Mr. Murray is preparing for a systematic slaughtering of the rest of her stock, including two fine carriage horses, also two old horses and mules which have been for many years on the farm. She has given up driving and goes about the country in a large automobile.

DEPUTY SHERIFFS MUST GO. Sheehan and O'Brien, Though Verdicts on Tammany, Can't Save 'em.

Eleven deputy sheriffs of New York county are not protected by the civil service law, and Tammany has given word that they must all go and be replaced with Tammany men. This although Sheriff O'Brien tried to peddle himself to the county speakers' bureau in the last week of the campaign. John Sheehan is interested in three of the deputies and has tried to save them, arguing that he went over to Tammany and ought to get something. Mr. Sheehan has been told that some men who never went out of Tammany have got to be taken care of.

DEVEREY SPENT $10,859. $5,000 Was for "Incidental" Election Expenses—Formes Spent $588.

ALBANY, Nov. 11.—William S. Devereay's campaign as an independent candidate for Mayor cost him $10,859, according to his sworn statement filed with the Secretary of State to-day. He spent $5,000 for printing, $1,000 for postage, $400 for music, $240 for fireworks, $180 for badges, $150 for buttons, $85 for cigars, $145 for ratting trucks, $40 for use of trucks, $325 for perambulator, $14 for lithographs, $50 for car or cart, $100 for campaign, $100 for carpenter work on trucks, $300 for use of automobile, and $5,000 for "incidentals."

ADMIRAL BEARDSLEE DEAD. Retired Naval Officers Dies Suddenly While Visiting in Georgia.

AGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 11.—Rear Admiral Lester A. Beardslee, U. S. N., retired, died suddenly of apoplexy last night at the home of Col. D. B. Dyer, near this city. The body will be taken to Washington to-day for cremation. Admiral Beardslee was born in Little Falls, N. Y., in 1836. He entered the navy in 1850 and served on the sloop Plymouth in the East Indies as acting midshipman until 1855, taking part in the battle of the Chinese at Shanghai. He then went to the Naval Academy and in 1856 became passed midshipman and in 1862 Lieutenant-Commander. He commanded the monitor Nantuxet in the attack on Charleston Harbor on April 7, 1863. He was later stationed off the Brazil coast in the steam sloop Wachusett, looking for rebel privateers, and succeeded in capturing the Florida. After the close of the war Admiral Beardslee did much shore duty. In 1870, however, he took the tug Palos to China, the first American ship to pass through the Suez Canal. He was promoted to Rear Admiral in 1879 to 1880 in Alaskan waters and discovered and named Glacier Bay. He became Captain in 1880, and fifteen years later Rear Admiral. He was retired in 1898. His last service was on the Pacific Coast.

GRUBER WOULD CAST OUT C. U. SAYS THAT UNDER CUTTING IT'S AN IMMORAL PARTY.

Expects to See a Powerful Anti-Tammany Democracy Established in Place of a Union That "Adds Treachery to Arrogance"—Sore Place in 21st.

Abner Gruber, the Republican leader of the Twenty-first Assembly district, who, when the Republican city convention was reconvened to put Grout and Formes off the ticket, tried to have it adjourned for twenty-four hours so that the Citizens' Union might be coerced into endorsing his candidate for Municipal Court Judge, gave notice last night that he will try to stir up a fight against the Citizens' Union next Thursday night at the monthly meeting of the Republican city committee.

"I do not propose to cut any party away with his gang," said Gruber. "He actually thought that Low would win easily [Gruber wagered that Low would lose Manhattan by more than 20,000]. Cutting was obligatory to the fundamental conditions which made the Citizens' Union what it is. It is not only immoral but immoral. The Union added treachery to arrogance. I do not say this solely because of the defeat of Judge Bennett by a man induced by Tammany after the exercise of disreputable methods. Mr. Cutting's whole course of procedure shows that he is ready and willing to use the Republican organization and at the same time dicker with Tammany in Republican stronghold. He did this not only in the Twenty-first district, but in the Thirty-first as well, where Alderman Meyers, a thoroughgoing Republican, was made a public servant, was almost defeated by a coalition of the Citizens' Union and Tammany. He did it also in the Twenty-second district. Guerrilla tactics of that sort are utterly devoid of morals, of solidarity and of the cohesive manliness necessary for a successful fight against the Citizens' Union. It would be disreputable on the part of a major organization. It is a piece of unbusinesslike effrontery and cheek by a minor body whose only office is in the toleration and off-tying patriotism and civic righteousness of the Republican party."

Mr. Gruber thinks that it was principally his shift on enforcing the excise law that beat Low. He said: "Low was right at first. He was swept off his feet by newspaper pounding and the radicalism of Jerome and Greene. As soon as he sanctioned their methods we were doomed to defeat. The immortality of the soul is regarded as proof that souls are immortal. In like manner it is held that the immortality of the party is proof that the party is immortal. It is a conclusive proof that the masses of the voters, despite the advice of the party along administrative lines by the Low heads of departments, wanted a change. Within a few years I look to see built up the most powerful political party in this organization that this city ever has had. The evolution of politics demands it and I believe it will come. It will not be offered by me like Cutting, for the honest man cannot trust him."

C. U. PRIMARIES, NOV. 23. There Seems to Be No Doubt That Cutting Will Remain Leader.

Another discussion of what it did took place at the meeting of the executive committee of the Citizens' Union at Mr. Cutting's office yesterday afternoon. A report from the committee on plan and scope was read by Mr. Cutting. The report was that the plan was to run in eastern Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio and Michigan, and threatening conditions with scattered rains in the lower Mississippi Valley. Fair weather prevailed in all the Atlantic States and in the States west of the Mississippi River to the Rocky Mountains. There was a severe storm over Washington, moving inland from the north Pacific ocean. The wind was blowing a gale on shore from San Francisco north. Snow was falling in Washington and rain in Oregon and California. The temperature was ten to twenty degrees lower and below freezing point in Montana, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas and northern Texas. It was warmer in about all the other States.

MAY HAVE MRS. OLIVER'S WILL.

ALDERDICE'S LAWYER SON NOW FIGURES IN THE CASE.

Neighbor Says the Young Man Owns a Flat-house That Was Supposed to Have Belonged to Her—His Office Closed—Her Relatives Get Into the House.

An effort was made yesterday by the heirs of Mrs. Mary J. Oliver, who died on Monday in the dirt-covered house at 2393 Third avenue, to get possession of her estate, which is estimated at $200,000. Early yesterday morning Miller Campbell and his father, Philip Campbell, who married Mrs. Oliver's daughter, went to the house, which was guarded by a policeman and demanded admittance. The policeman, under instructions from Capt. Nally of the East 124th street station, barred the way. Young Campbell went to the station. There he made known his identity to Capt. Nally, who told him that he would be allowed in the house, but that he couldn't search it. Campbell and his father stayed in the house most of the day. A representative of the Public Administrator was told by the Campbell family that they didn't want the Administrator's office to have anything to do with the estate. He told them that the proper thing for them to do would be to apply to the Surrogate's Court for letters of administration.

So far no will has been produced. The Campbell family says that one had been found. Young Campbell intimated that there was a will, but he wouldn't go beyond that. If there is a will it is the general impression that it is in the possession of James Alderdice, the son of the Methodist minister who was Mrs. Oliver's agent. Young Alderdice is a lawyer, and it is said, looked after Mrs. Oliver's legal affairs. He could not be found yesterday. He has an office at 302 West Broadway, where there was a sign on the door that it would be closed for a week, "on account of death in the family." The city directors say that James Alderdice, lawyer, lives at 118 East 118th street, but there is no such number in that street.

Something more was learned yesterday from the family of Mrs. Oliver and her family. Her father, John York, was known in Harlem thirty or forty years ago as Pop York. Noah H. Stevens, a cooper in East 118th street, who knew him well, said yesterday that when York died he left an estate worth about $120,000. The estate, according to the family, was divided equally between York's daughter Mrs. Oliver, and Mrs. Campbell, his granddaughter. Mrs. Campbell had three daughters, two of whom are living. They are Mrs. Jacobson, who lives in West 127th street, and Mrs. Stevenson, who is said to live in Brooklyn. Mrs. Campbell had a son, a Mrs. Jacobson, but left a child. There is also a nephew, named York. Stevens is authority for the statement that the flat house in East 124th street which Mrs. Oliver is said to have owned belonged to her father, James Alderdice, who says that the three lots at 17th street and Second avenue in which she had an interest, were disposed of under a foreclosure sale to the late Mrs. Oliver. The real estate reports show no such sale.

The neighbors of Mrs. Oliver are much surprised that no money or bank books were taken from the house when it was searched. The only money found so far is four cents. The police say that if $10,000 has been stolen from the house, it is a very large sum. They also say that there are any strong boxes filled with money in the house. The body of James Alderdice was taken to Merritt's undertaking establishment, but no arrangements had been made yesterday for the funeral. The funeral of Mrs. Oliver will take place to-day from home of Mrs. Jacobson.

PONTIUM CEREAL. DRIED UP. Coffee Was Drying Up Her Blood.

"Coffee had the peculiar effect on me of thickening the blood and lessening it in quality; in other words, drying it up," says a young lady of Shelton, Neb., and so long as I used the drug coffee, I had terrific headaches frequently accompanied by sour stomach and a very bad breath. My condition was serious and I knew something had to be done, so I decided to quit coffee and drink Postum. A few days after I quit drinking coffee and shifted to Postum I felt much better and continued to improve on the Postum until I am now entirely free from headaches and stomach trouble and steadily gaining in flesh and health and feel happy and full of life, pure blood. My parents were ailing as long as they were coffee drinkers. They were certainly great coffee fiends and claimed that they could not get coffee strong enough for them, and my father in particular was a regular slave to coffee, drinking many cups of it daily, although he had terrible headaches about once a week, while my mother complained of her liver and took different liver remedies, but all to no avail. Then I persuaded them to quit coffee and drink Postum Food Coffee, and the result was all that I had hoped for, and both are now hearty eaters and are strong and well. I know of many other cases where leaving off coffee and drinking Postum has resulted in wonderful changes in health. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.
