

ALL THE EXPORT GOLD BARS

CLEANED OUT OF THE ASSAY OFFICE BY THE DEMAND.

$10,500,000 Now Engaged to Go on This Monday, Making $52,500,000 in This Movement So Far—Demand is Still Brisk—Plenty of Gold Coin, If That's Wanted

The supply of gold bars at the Assay Office was exhausted yesterday when 200 New York bankers secured $2,500,000 more to be shipped to Europe on Tuesday, making $10,500,000 to go on that day. The first application took a little more than half of the supply on hand, and the rest of the supply had to be content with what was left. Neither applicant wanted his name made public. These two applications were filed almost as soon as the Assay Office opened yesterday morning, and they were followed by something like half a dozen other requests for gold bars. Supt. Mason had to turn down all other applications, for the very good reason that he had no gold bars to hand out. He told the bankers, however, that there was plenty of coin in the sub-treasury, which they could have for shipment, were they so inclined.

Nobody seems to want the coin, however, and it is believed that many shippers of gold will wait until the supply of bars has been replenished before making further shipments. The American Smelting and Refining Company, the smelting and refining company at Irvington, N. J., and one or two other smelters and refiners are turning in gold bars to the Assay Office every day, and a good part of this is of the requisite fineness for shipment. All have to be toughened, however, and this will require several days. Mr. Mason said yesterday that he hoped to have a few millions in bars ready within a week or ten days.

Since Friday, May 6, $20,399,831.92 in gold bars have been shipped abroad. Since April 7, up to and including the engagements for next Tuesday, $52,500,000 of gold has been shipped to Europe. It is estimated that before the present movement ends fully $75,000,000 of gold will have been sent abroad.

In 1895 the shipment of gold abroad amounted to $104,900,000; in 1894, $101,000,000; in 1893, $79,000,000; in 1892, $74,500,000; in 1891, $77,000,000; in 1890, $70,000,000; in 1889, $70,000,000;
