

BAD DAY FOR WEINSEIMER.

HIS WITNESSES RATTLED UNDER THE PROSECUTOR'S FIRE.

East Side Delegate Says He, Not Weinseimer, Ordered the Chatsworth Strike. Doesn't Know Why—Dates Mixed More Pictures of Conspiracy Building.

"Diamond Phil" Weinseimer's defence to the charge that he extorted $2,700 from George J. Essig, a master plumber, was begun before Judge Newburger in General Sessions yesterday, and at the end of the day it was the general opinion of those in court that it had been a disastrous session for the walking delegate who founded the Building Trades Alliance.

It will take at least two more days to get Weinseimer's side. His counsel have now practically decided to put him on the stand. George Raines, Weinseimer's chief counsel, almost said address to the jury, but he was interrupted by the court.

Mr. Raines said in his address to the jury, "Weinseimer, Mr. Raines said in his address to the jury, was a mere feather in the cyclonic atmosphere of chaos and disorder in the building trades last summer. Counsel pictured the prominent builders of the city deciding that he had to be put out of the way."

Mr. Raines said, "It is the language of Wall Street and the business world." He argued that the evidence against Weinseimer was manufactured in cold blood by the $70,000 employers' organization, and the charge against him was invented so that he might disappear and his organization be dissipated.

There is not a scintilla of evidence in the story that Weinseimer ever received any money or got a note from Essig. Mr. Raines said, "We will show that Weinseimer never saw a cent of money from Essig, and that Essig never paid him any money."

Daniel Finn, one of the walking delegates who had testified with the centre for the plumbing job, Mr. Rand, cross-examined, showed that the contract was dated Dec. 21, Finn said he "must have been mistaken."

As the cross-examination went on Finn became greatly flustered. There were four walking delegates in the witness box, he said, and they had districts. His district was on the East Side, south of Fifty-ninth street.

Mr. Raines asked Finn to state that Weinseimer never saw a cent of money from Essig, and that Essig never paid him any money.

Mr. Raines asked Finn to state that Weinseimer never saw a cent of money from Essig, and that Essig never paid him any money.

Mr. Raines asked Finn to state that Weinseimer never saw a cent of money from Essig, and that Essig never paid him any money.

Mr. Raines asked Finn to state that Weinseimer never saw a cent of money from Essig, and that Essig never paid him any money.

Mr. Raines asked Finn to state that Weinseimer never saw a cent of money from Essig, and that Essig never paid him any money.

Mr. Raines asked Finn to state that Weinseimer never saw a cent of money from Essig, and that Essig never paid him any money.

LIVE TOPICS ABOUT TOWN.

"Look out for the man riding alongside a car on a bicycle," remarked a Central Office detective yesterday. "The street car have a new dodge, and the man on the bicycle is part of the game. He's the 'outside man,' as it were."

A group of Catholic priests who attended the golden jubilee celebration in St. James' Church in James street last Sunday walked around the streets on the lower East Side after the services.

Louise Homer is a Metropolitan prima donna who is never considered as arriving from Europe or sailing for that continent. Mrs. Homer is an American and stays in her own country, where she is usually kept busy when she does not want to rest.

Col. John L. Butler and Hugh O'Donnell of the Republican oratorical corps are telling this story in the way of business, but they youch for its truth. They were passing the corner of Bleeker and Sullivan streets and a group of boys was playing there at "blamming," a game which consists in shying a button—in this instance, of the campaign variety—against a fence, and from where it falls flicking it with bent finger toward a chalk line on the sidewalk.

Col. Butler stopped and glanced at the buttons. "Whose head is that?" he asked his companion. "It shows that his hands are clean of having demanded any money, either as the representative of a labor organization or for himself. He had nothing to do with the return of Essig's men to work; that was in the hands of the business representatives of the organization. As to the day of his arrest, we will show that Weinseimer never saw a cent of money from Essig, and that Essig never paid him any money."

Just as the curb brokers in Broad street were about to finish trading the other afternoon a hearse drove up to the Blair Building. Undertakers were jumped out and hurried into the building. Brokers and messenger boys stopped to wonder who could be dead, and waited to see the body brought out.

The girl went on down Sixth avenue, turned the corner and then she noticed a large assortment of gloves in a store window. "They'll have them here sure," she said to her companion.

An addition to the lion family in the Park is expected in a few days, and a large warren box has been ordered. Rosie's cage for the last night in the People's Park zoo, but is as lively and as youthful looking as many of her offspring.

One of the striking plumbers, who broke the rules of his union by taking a job over in Jersey, offered these observations on "strike benefits" the other day: "I'd have stuck it out if the strike benefits had been of any use, but they weren't. You see, we get a dollar a day from the treasury while we're on a dollar a day. But just as soon as the benefit money is paid the whole gang adjourn to a saloon to drink it up."

An area of high pressure occupied about the country east of the Rocky Mountains yesterday, save for the low pressure which has been extending the southern end of Florida for several days past.

The temperature yesterday, as recorded by the official thermometer, is shown in the annexed table.

Highest temperature, 69° at 1 P. M. WASHINGTON FORECAST FOR TO-DAY AND TO-MORROW: For New England, eastern New York, eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, fair to day and to-morrow; for the middle States, fair to day and to-morrow; for the West, fair to day and to-morrow; for the Northwest, fair to day and to-morrow; for the Southwest, fair to day and to-morrow; for the South, fair to day and to-morrow; for the Southeast, fair to day and to-morrow.

The Old Reliable ROYAL BAKING POWDER ABSOLUTELY PURE There is no substitute

OUR FILIPINO POLICY GOOD.

ARCHBISHOP IS FOR ROOSEVELT. TO KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK.

His Opinion Formed After a Tour of the Islands—Americans Have Assured a Task That Must Not Now Be Shirked or Abandoned—Good Results He Found.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. MANILA, Oct. 14.—In an interview to-day at the Archbishop's Palace, the Most Rev. J. J. Harty, Archbishop of Manila, declared that he favors the election of Theodore Roosevelt to the Presidency of the United States.

The Archbishop, who has just completed an extensive tour of the remote provinces within his ecclesiastical jurisdiction, was received everywhere affectionately, thousands of persons flocking to greet him and bringing children for confirmation in greater numbers than ever before known in the history of the island.

He stated, in referring to the situation here, that Aglipayan had been routed and the authority of the Church of Rome re-established thoroughly. He added that the insurrection was dead and that the independent church, or Aglipayan, being insurrection under a clerical cloak, was also dead.

Continuing, the Archbishop said: "I was impressed during my journeyings by the progress of American institutions among the masses of the people, the general happiness, the security of persons and property, and the supremacy of order and justice. I believe that under divine guidance the beneficent rule of America is destined ultimately to place the Christian Malay race on a moral and political plane that as yet has never been attained by an Oriental people. This task that the Americans have assumed they cannot abandon."

Archbishop Harty is eminently qualified to judge the situation. During his nine months residence he has held exhaustive conferences with the Bishops and provincial priests. He has spent months actually living with the people, travelling practically alone and unguarded even in the remotest provinces, inspecting parties and visiting the people in their homes. In some of the districts he visited it had been thirty years since a Bishop had been there.

Gen. Leonard Wood and the members of his staff have arrived here from Mindanao. He will assume the command of the Division of the Philippines to-morrow pending the arrival of Gen. Corbin, who has been appointed as the successor of Gen. Wade, who returns to the United States.

STICKNEY ESTATE, $3,448,629.

Result of the Appraisal of the Late Coal Merchant's Property.

The estate of Joseph Stickney, who died on Dec. 21, 1903, has been appraised at $3,448,629 net in real and personal property. He was a member of the firm of Stickney & Conyngham, coal merchants, 1 Broadway. His interest in the business amounted to $2,420,481, including his running account. His house at 874 Fifth avenue is valued at $450,000. His real estate holdings in this State aggregate $877,800.

BANDITS HOLD UP TOWN.

Seared Away From Plundering Bank, They Armed Citizens and Escaped.

LAKOTA, N. D., Oct. 14.—An attempt was made last night to blow up the safe of the People's State Bank. Two explosions of dynamite awakened the citizens, who turned out with shotguns and revolvers. The bandits forced the guests of the Grace Hotel, nearby, to keep inside the building on penalty of being shot. Among the guests was E. J. Saries, the Republican candidate for Governor.

MAY SAVE CITY $125,000.

Delany Says Prevailing Rate of Wages Law Doesn't Affect Annual Salaries.

The prevailing rate of wages law does not apply to city employees working on an annual salary, according to an opinion sent yesterday by Corporation Counsel Delany to Comptroller Grout. The question came up in the Board of Estimate when it was found that a large part of the increases in appropriations asked for by heads of departments was in order to comply with this law.

GLADYS TREMAYNE WINS OUT

LITTLE GIRL WON'T HAVE TO GO BACK TO MOTHER SHE LEFT.

Worldly Wisdom of 13-Year-Old Runaway Startles Court—Tale of Nomadic Hotel Life and Longing to Be Like Other Girls—Gerry Society Man Butts In.

Gladya Mona Tremayne, the thirteen-year-old girl who took her fate into her own hands and asked to be delivered from her mother's guardianship, gained her point yesterday. By decree of the Children's Court she will live in the custody of new friends and see her mother from time to time as a lawyer's office until money is raised for her education. It is a queer case and Gladya is a queer child.

Her mother, Mrs. Mildred Tremayne, a widow and a gentlewoman by birth, came to New York five years ago. She is a handsome woman and a singer of merit. The earlier years of her career in New York were prosperous. The surroundings, however, were not always good for an eight-year-old child, the Legal Aid Society people say. The only perceptible effect on Gladya is the development of a great worldly wisdom, which startled Judge and attorneys yesterday.

This went on for two or three years. Then came trouble. The source of supply vanished. Mother and daughter went out to live a nomadic hotel existence. Gladya was an over-dressed hotel child. There were ups and downs, mostly down. Last year, a period of wretchedness was over, the little girl was sent for a while to a convent on Staten Island. There, for the first time, she saw how other girls lived—heard about their homes.

"And I wanted to be that way," she said yesterday. "I wanted to have a nice, quiet home and be like every other girl. I didn't know anything different—until then."

These are the little girl's exact words. The maturity of her point of view, the way she has thought everything out, like the precocious child of a novel, startles every one.

She came back from the convent because there was no more money. And after that she says she had to help. She tells of carrying notes to men and women from whom assistance might be gained. She stood between her mother and the wrath of landlords. They drifted from hotel to hotel, leaving each one, the child says, as credit was finally exhausted and trying again at a new one whenever the child could raise the money for the necessary "first week in advance." They were hungry around the hotel, she said. "It was part of the game."

The course ran from Fifth avenue to Seventh avenue and back again. One night they sat up in the Grand Central Station playing that they had missed a train. They were there for a week. And all that time Gladya was watching her mother and remembering the girls at the convent, and comparing and thinking. "I don't like this life," she said last week. "The little girl was down to one foolish white frock which she had worn while they were in some of the big hotels. One day Gladya went to Dr. J. F. Fike, who had been good to them and who is their physician. She looked him square in the eye with that straight, honest glance which she gives when she is talking straight, and said:

"I want to leave my mother. It isn't good for me to be with her. I want to be like other girls. Help me to get away." Dr. Fike knew most of the story already. Gladya told the finish. He kept her for a few days in a rooming house, and with the Legal Aid Society, Mrs. Rosalie Loew Whitney, through counsel, took up the case. No one thought to communicate with Mrs. Tremayne. They hardly knew where to find her.

Next morning, Saturday, when she couldn't get her things together for the police, they found the child two days ago in the custody of Mrs. Whitney and yesterday the case was brought into the Children's Court. Mrs. Tremayne, who had been in the court and talked, but Gladya never budged an inch from her determination.

She is a nice girl, but she is a discriminating policeman said in her court. She is rather pretty. Her head is large, her complexion pale, her big eyes are dark and she has a fine, straight nose, a yellow faculty, and her voice is low and musical. Never once in court did she lose her self-possession.

"I'm sorry, madame," he said, "but just a few minutes ago I showed you all we had to live with. We haven't had any new ones in since." "I never could get used to these big stores," said the country girl, who is intelligent and got out as quickly as possible.

Under his will the Fifth avenue house and the residuary estate of $2,572,829 went to the widow, Carolyn Foster Stickney, she, Robert L. Jenks and John G. Hannah are the executors. The will contained specific bequests of about $876,000, of which $25,000 went to charity.

BANDITS HOLD UP TOWN.

Seared Away From Plundering Bank, They Armed Citizens and Escaped.

LAKOTA, N. D., Oct. 14.—An attempt was made last night to blow up the safe of the People's State Bank. Two explosions of dynamite awakened the citizens, who turned out with shotguns and revolvers. The bandits forced the guests of the Grace Hotel, nearby, to keep inside the building on penalty of being shot. Among the guests was E. J. Saries, the Republican candidate for Governor.

MAY SAVE CITY $125,000.

Delany Says Prevailing Rate of Wages Law Doesn't Affect Annual Salaries.

The prevailing rate of wages law does not apply to city employees working on an annual salary, according to an opinion sent yesterday by Corporation Counsel Delany to Comptroller Grout. The question came up in the Board of Estimate when it was found that a large part of the increases in appropriations asked for by heads of departments was in order to comply with this law.

Advertisement for Weber Pianos. The Weber Art Catalog (Just Issued) will be sent upon application to any person contemplating the purchase of a piano. The most artistic publication perhaps ever brought out in this industry is the new catalogue of Weber pianos which made its appearance this week. It is a veritable treasure in book making and from the viewpoint of typography, presswork and in a literary way, nothing has been overlooked to insure the highest degree of excellence.

Advertisement for Saka & Company. NOTE, when examining our Four-in-hand Scarfs, that they are made of one piece of silk—that the face of the Scarf and the back of the Scarf are of the same material. We make them this way because they are better, they wear better than ties that are lined with a cheap material. It costs almost twice as much, but our fifty cent Scarfs are all made this way.

Advertisement for Coward Shoe. The Coward Shoe. Water-proof Shoe. Intended for use without rubbers, impervious to all forms of dampness, the Coward Water-proof Shoe for Fall and Winter wear is unequalled. It fits as perfectly as it protects. $5.00

Advertisement for Mrs. Lippincott Got Scared. MRS. LIPPINCOTT GOT SCARED. Mr. Lippincott Bore Down to the Hook and Reached Their Lunch. SANDY HOOK, N. J., Oct. 14.—The motor launch Jean was run ashore on the beach off Sandy Hook this afternoon to allow Mrs. Oliver Lippincott, her son and little daughter to land.

Advertisement for Duke of Connaught Better. DUKE OF CONNAUGHT BETTER. Injuries Received in the Automobile Accident Not Serious. LONDON, Oct. 14.—The Duke of Connaught, brother of the King, who received cuts about the head yesterday in a collision between his automobile and a cart on his way from Edinburgh to Gosford house, the seat of the Earl of Wemyss, and was taken back to Edinburgh, passed a good night and is making satisfactory progress.

Advertisement for Postum Food Coffee. All the many ails caused by coffee yield to well boiled POSTUM FOOD COFFEE. Get the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville," in each pkg.

Advertisement for Men's Underwear. A Sale of Men's Underwear. One-Third and One-Half Under Price. The better class of shops would not consider their stock complete if it did not afford the specific brand which this offer involves. The garments are without fault or flaw, perfect in proportions and serviceable in quality.

Advertisement for Brokaw Brothers. BROKAW BROTHERS. ESTABLISHED NEARLY HALF A CENTURY. IT is a fact—which you may prove when you will, by any test or comparison you have a mind to make—that a Brokaw Suit shows finer cloth, better trimmings, more finished detail, than any other suit to be had at equal price, whether custom or ready-made.

Advertisement for Living Telephone. If You are Living Have a Telephone. NEW YORK TELEPHONE CO. 23 East 59th Street, cor. of Madison Ave.

Advertisement for Charles Hirschowitz. Charles Hirschowitz, the cadet, who abducted Annie Garfinkel, 16 years old, and put her in a disorderly house in West Thirty-second street, was sentenced to nine years in Sing Sing by Judge McMahon, in General Sessions yesterday.

Advertisement for Fines for Insurance Adjusting Swindle. Fines for Insurance Adjusting Swindle. Alexander S. Spear of Spear & Co., Sixth avenue furniture dealers, and Arthur Schlesinger, an insurance adjuster of 56 Pine street, were fined $500 each by Judge Cowing in General Sessions yesterday.

Advertisement for Cluett. Cluett. CHALTON. QUARTER SIZES, 25 CENTS EACH. MAKERS OF CLUETT AND RONACHE SHIRTS.