

FOOTPAD GETS $5,000 BROOCH.

DOGGED COUPLE FROM SHERRY'S - ROBBED THEM IN BRONX.

"I Must Have Some of Those Jewels," Said He to Mrs. Cornish, who Wore $15,000 Worth - 2 Shots at Cornish and One at Tumbling Cop - Man Minus Front Teeth

A bold man even more desperate than Sandroek Smith has broken loose in The Bronx. He held up and robbed John W. Cornish and his wife almost in front of their own home, 72 East 135th street, early yesterday morning. He had probably followed them all the way from Sherry's in order to rob them. After throttling Mrs. Cornish and tearing from her throat a diamond brooch valued at $5,000, and firing two shots at Mr. Cornish and one at a policeman, the ruffian made good his escape. Although Harlan and The Bronx were faithfully swarming with detectives yesterday not a trace of him was found.

It was about 2 o'clock in the morning when the attack was made. Mr. and Mrs. Cornish were going home after a visit to the theatre and late supper. Mr. Cornish is a real estate speculator and is reputed to be wealthy. Mrs. Cornish has a number of diamonds, and those she wore on Friday night in her earrings and finger ring and in the clasp brooch which the thief got. Mr. Cornish estimates were worth about $15,000. It is the belief of the Cornishes that the police that the robber's attention was attracted by these jewels and that he dogged the couple all the way from the restaurant, where, the police believe, he was lurking for the express purpose of trailing anybody with valuable jewels in sight who might leave the place on foot instead of in a carriage.

In fact, both Mr. and Mrs. Cornish are sure they saw the man who robbed them on the subway train by which they went uptown, and in the 138th street cross-town car which they took at 135th street. They recognized him, they say, when he attacked them, and they have been able to give the police a remarkably minute description of him considering the circumstances. One of them distinctly features a scar on his face, both of them noticed that several of his front teeth were missing.

It was between 1 and 2 o'clock when Mr. and Mrs. Cornish left Sherry's. They walked down Fifth avenue to Forty-second street and there took a Lenox avenue subway train, on which they rode to 135th street. There they got off and took a 138th street car, which passed their home, a south side of the street and about midway in the block between Willis avenue and Brown place. On the same car were Mr. and Mrs. E. Morris of 751 East 135th street. The car was crowded and Mr. Cornish and his wife were separated, he sitting on one side and she on the other. Mrs. Cornish's display of diamonds as she sat in the car was conspicuous, and both Mr. and Mrs. Morris noticed the man who afterward committed the robbery looking intently at her.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornish left the car at Brown place and started to walk back to their house. When they got off the young man who had been looking so intently at Mrs. Cornish's diamonds got off with her. He was about 3 feet 6 inches tall, with yellow hair, 40 years, appeared to be 27 or 28 years old, was slender and smooth faced, wore a tan colored overcoat and as to his upper jaw was conspicuously short the usual allowance of front teeth.

When Mr. and Mrs. Cornish started westward toward their home, walking on the south side of the street, the man in the tan overcoat followed them. He was about 40 years old, appeared to be 27 or 28 years old, was slender and smooth faced, wore a tan colored overcoat and as to his upper jaw was conspicuously short the usual allowance of front teeth.

FIREMEN'S LEADERS HOLD CONFERENCES IN THIS CITY.

Said to Have Met Financial and Railroad Men With a View of Bringing About Arbitration - Strike Talk Not So Strong in New Haven - To Consider Plans.

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 18.—From what can be learned from the leading officers of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen to-night men of important railroad and financial influence have been in conference to-day with officials of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, and there is not so much talk of a strike of the firemen on the New Haven railroad as there was last night.

Several days ago Lawyer Greenberg wrote to the lawyer in Jersey City who got a new trial for a man who was convicted by a jury on the toss of a coin. Affidavits were submitted in that case, and Mr. Greenberg wanted to know what ground the Judge had accepted the affidavits. He said that in the case of Dr. Jackson he had been "informed that there was some misconduct in the jury room, and we have several affidavits by jurors, but I can find no decision permitting these affidavits being accepted by the Judge."

Mr. Moss was asked yesterday if he intended to ask for a new trial on the ground that a coin had been flipped by the Jackson jury. "Oh, no," he said. "We don't charge any flipping of a coin. I can't give you the names. Mr. Rand seems to be up a tree."

Mr. Rand wouldn't say what he had the jurors at the District Attorney's office for. It was said that the only thing that happened in the jury room was that one of the jurors who had taken stenographic notes during the trial had read them to his fellow jurors. That is not irregular.

Maybe Jerome and Gruber Will Be Getting to Closer Grips.

No announcement was made yesterday by Armitage Mathews, Aie Gruber's handy man and secretary of the New York City Republican committee, as to the statement made by his attorneys, Black, Olcott, Gruber & Bonny, to the effect that Mathews was the subject of investigation by the District Attorney's office.

District Attorney Jerome was at his home in Lakeville yesterday and was not inclined to discuss the affairs of his office. He said that on Monday he would be ready and willing to take up any differences between the lawbreakers and the law in this country. Until then he begged to be excused. Mr. Gruber said:

"I want this community to know that I have been keeping a book on this man Jerome for a long time. I know what his conduct has been and I know how I can call him to account for it. I mean to ask him before long in some way which he cannot escape how he accounts for the things which Fritz Lindberg has said before the Legislature at Albany about the disposition of the liquor dealers' corruption fund as far as Lindberg's statements affect Jerome."

WOMAN'S FLIGHT IN AIRSHIP.

Brought Herself Safely to Earth by Biting a Hole in the Gas Bag.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 18.—With broken ropes dangling and with Mrs. George W. Heaton, wife of the inventor on board, the airship California Messenger, suddenly disappeared 2,000 feet over Idora Park this afternoon. There seemed no hope for its occupant, but the plucky woman bit a hole in the gas bag and the machine plunged downward to land lightly in East Berkeley.

Mrs. Heaton had ascended in the Messenger a short distance above Idora Park to allow the taking of some photographs. Light ropes held the machine, but hardly when it risen above the treetops when the ropes parted. Like a rocket the airship soared upward. Suddenly it seemed to stop. Then it came down part way like a flash and then descended slowly.

Mrs. Heaton said later that when the airship began to descend she had presence of mind enough to steer it to a good place to land.

He turned out to avoid one party of coasters coming up, and in so doing crashed into a boy who was dragging his sled behind him. The blow was so violent that, while it did not break his skin, it caused Foehrer's windpipe to swell, and almost instant suffocation resulted.

MRS. JANE STANFORD POISONED.

ATTEMPT MADE TO KILL THE CALIFORNIA WOMAN.

Poison Put in Mineral Water From Which She Drank Three Times—Had to Give Up Social Functions—She Sailed on Thursday for Japan to Get Well.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 18.—It leaked out to-day that an attempt was made to poison Mrs. Jane L. Stanford in her California street mansion within the last month, and detectives are now trying to run down the criminal. The poison was placed in a bottle of mineral water. Mrs. Stanford drank three times of the mixture, but the poison had been used in such a large quantity that it served as its own emetic.

Mrs. Stanford was taken violently ill. The contents of the stomach and the water left in the bottle from which she had taken three drinks were analyzed, and sufficient poison was found to kill a dozen persons had it been used with judgment. Detectives are watching the servants in the Nob Hill residence and following every clue suggested.

Mrs. Stanford sailed on Thursday for Japan to recover from the trying experience that nearly cost her life. She was ill when she sailed on the steamer Korea and almost a nervous wreck from the realization of the attempt to kill her. She was to have entertained at home on California street on Feb. 8 in honor of the debut of Miss Jennie Lathrop, her niece. Society looked forward eagerly to the brilliant affair when suddenly all the invitations were cancelled. The reason given was that Mrs. Stanford was ill.

That was the second proposed social function abandoned by the widow of the university founder. On Jan. 23 it was announced that all invitations had been recalled for a reception at which the members of the board of trustees of Stanford University were to be her guests. Mrs. Stanford had just returned to her home in this city and had announced that she would entertain freely.

About a year ago Mrs. Stanford returned from a trip around the world. With her on the voyage were Miss Bertha Benner, her secretary, a man named Beverly, who was her butler, and a maid. Soon after her return to this city Beverly, the butler, was discharged, and another man employed.

Just what led to the discharge of the butler, who had accompanied her around the world, is not known. Miss Benner made many pleas to have him reinstated, but Miss Benner sailed with Mrs. Stanford on the Korea.

President Mellen of the New Haven road was informed to-night that the firemen's Brotherhood, after talking with prominent railroad men in New York and leaders in the financial world, was prepared to submit the existing disagreement to arbitration. He said when a proposition looking to arbitration came to the board it would certainly be considered.

When the negotiations between the road and the firemen are not absolutely closed? "The road is always willing," he replied, "to reason with its employees and has stood in that position from the very outset of this matter. When the firemen have something further to suggest the road will hear what they have to say. I can state that there has been absolutely nothing done by the road or its officials since the directors' reply was forwarded yesterday to the officials representing the firemen."

HIRING MEN HERE.

Fewer Applicants Yesterday for Places in Event of New Haven Strike.

On account of the publicity given by the newspapers to the opening of the offices at 129 Cedar street and 83 John street to hire men for the New Haven road and the talk of possible arbitration of the trouble there were fewer applicants yesterday. The applications are made at 129 Cedar street and the applicants when accepted are sent to 83 John street, where Conrad Schulze, the head of the bureau, has his headquarters.

At 129 Cedar street, when a SUN reporter called there yesterday, it was not denied that the men hired were for the New Haven road in case of a strike. Mr. Schulze's assistant who had charge there asked the following question of each applicant first: "Are you willing to work on a railroad running into New York where the men are on strike, not for wages or hours of labor, but on account of a dispute between two unions?"

If the question were answered in the affirmative the applicant was sent to 83 John street to be examined. The tests were age, weight, physical condition, hearing and eyesight. Mr. Schulze's assistant rejected a number of applicants whose appearance he did not like without putting any questions.
