

165 DEATHS FROM THE FEVER.

NEW ORLEANS HAS NEARLY 1,000 CASES SO FAR.

Yellow Jack Lessing Its Italian Character—No More Shipments of Bananas—Dr. Leach Finds Men Who Will Let Him Experiment on Them With Arsenic.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13.—The yellow fever is beginning to lose the distinctly Italian character it had during its first days, and in consequence the death rate is decreasing. In July it was almost wholly limited to Italians, there being 280 cases among them, as against 24 among all the other nationalities of New Orleans, and 49 deaths were of Italians, against 12 deaths of other races.

Next to the Italians stand the Crooles, French, in cases and mortality, this being due probably to the spread of the disease from the Italian to the Creole quarter. There have been very few cases among those of American or English descent and still fewer among the negroes. The popular belief that negroes could not have the fever and that Crooles rarely had it has been thoroughly disproved.

The Board of Health has laid down a number of illegal quarantines to-day. The worst case was at Woodworth, where the track of the St. Louis, Watkins and Gulf Railroad was barricaded with cross-ties, placed there by the quarantine guards to prevent the passage of any trains, freight or passenger. Complaints come from the lumber camps on Bayou Black, Terrebonne and other streams in Terrebonne parish, that the quarantine business has been practically suspended and the loggers are actually suffering for lack of supplies in consequence of the closure by quarantine of all communications between them and the rest of the world.

Bananas have been declared contraband of quarantine at New Orleans. The fruit is so infested with mosquitoes and is so unsatisfactory and mosquitoes may be found in them. On order from Washington no bananas will be allowed to be shipped from New Orleans to any other port during the rest of the season. Among the victims of the fever last night was Carl Schaaf of the New Orleans Item. He was taken to the hospital and died at 10 o'clock. New Orleans only a few years. Although not immune he had a number of assignments in the fever district. His wife was taken to the hospital and died at 10 o'clock and he nursed her to convalescence. When he was attacked the nervous strain and exhaustion of nursing had left him unable to work and he succumbed easily to the fever.

The citizens' volunteer sanitary association has voted to become permanent and to keep up its work until the next year, until New Orleans is in perfect sanitary condition. Inspector of Police Whitaker will use the police to enforce the order that no one shall be allowed to enter a house unless he has been vaccinated. A number of affidavits were made to-day against landlords and real estate agents for not screening the sick and for not having the houses disinfected. The Italian relief committee has added a free hospital to the kitchen for destitute Italians. Dr. Leach of St. Paul, Minn., who is the author of the theory that the taking of arsenic in small doses will prevent the fever and has proved here and will test his theory. Several men have offered themselves for experiment and will submit to being bitten by infected mosquitoes in a room after two weeks of arsenic treatment.

Mayor Bohman has received a copy of the resolutions adopted by the Louisiana Board of Health, and has expressed his hearty sympathy for the people of New Orleans and declaring that the brave and energetic fight which they are making against the dread disease is a noble and patriotic one and stamp it out until it entitles them to the admiration and thanks of people everywhere.

Louisiana Confederate reunion fixed for Aug. 23 and 24 at Lafayette has been postponed until all quarantines have been removed. The City Council of Lafayette has levied a tax of $2.50 per $1,000 for quarantine expenses. This is the first quarantine tax so far levied, the expense in other cases being met by the State or Federal Government. The Board of Health of Minden, La., has gone to pieces over the enforcement of the quarantine regulations, the president, Dr. J. H. Leach, resigning and the members of the board resigning. He declares that it is impossible to enforce the quarantine regulations and that the same should be declared by town councils and city meetings.

Atlanta, Dallas and half a dozen other Southern towns are now engaged in denying the fact that they have had the fever and are looking for the man who started the rumor.

SAVED BY GOOD SWIMMERS.

Ferryboat Passengers Thrown Into River by a Collision.

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich., Aug. 13.—The steamer Eastland and a ferryboat crossing the river here collided last night. That no one was drowned was due to prompt action on the part of men on the pier, who saw the accident and dived to the rescue of the crew and passengers of the ferryboat, all of whom were thrown into the water. The ferryboat, crowded with women and children, was almost at the dock when the accident took place. The Eastland was just starting on its return trip to Chicago. As the big steamer swung down stream the ferryboat attempted to pass in front of her and make the dock before the passenger boat went by, but was unable to do so in time, and the ferryboat crashed into the side of the Eastland. The collision did not damage the steamer at all, but it wrecked the ferryboat. A gasoline tank exploded, throwing the passengers into the river. Most of the men on the pier were in the water, many of them struggling in the water, many of them in great danger of drowning. All were safely landed.

Wrong Charge, Prisoner Let Go.

The bartenders of three Raines law hotels have been "closed" on three consecutive nights were again arraigned in the West Side court yesterday for excise violation. They were John Zimmerman, 1551 Broadway; Ed Jolly, and Barney J. Flynn, a bartender at the Raines law hotel at 188 1/2 eighth avenue. Flynn was charged with violating section G of the excise law, which forbids the opening of a bar on the door between a licensed Broadway and the rear room.

Your honor, said Counselor James Smith to Magistrate Pool, "the proprietor of this saloon has been notified that his license has been revoked. It is no violation of the excise law for this man to have his door open if his license has been revoked." "Quite right," said Magistrate Pool. "The man is discharged."

Letters in Washington Square Sent Away.

Eight women of uncertain age, though none of them more than fifty, were arraigned in the Jefferson Market court yesterday charged with loitering about Washington Square North. Most of them were captured in the glare of the two lamps which illuminate the residence of the Mayor, Margaretta Whitman, sent them to the workhouse.

NO INDEMNITY—GOLDWIN SMITH.

He Declares That Japan Would Receive No Money From Russia.

TORONTO, Aug. 13.—In the simple manner that characterizes the man, Goldwin Smith will celebrate his eighty-second birthday at his residence, the Grange, to-morrow. The event will be marked only by the presence at the dinner table of a few relatives and intimate friends.

Goldwin Smith is following with the keenest interest the progress of the Russo-Japanese peace conference at Portsmouth. The game of war and the game of peace are both familiar to him. In conversation to-day Goldwin Smith said that in his opinion Japan was not entitled to a cent of indemnity from Russia, and that the Czar should not pay it.

It was Japan who started hostilities with a formal declaration of war. Japan has spent enormous sums of money, but she has no Russia, and the latter has lost territory. If the Mikado attempts to enforce his alleged demand for $1,000,000,000 indemnity, or any large part of it, the Czar will be enabled to appeal to the patriotism of his people, disgruntled though the nation is, to resist the demands. And if Japan were to succeed in obtaining recognition of her money claim, she could not collect it. Germany objected from France because she had conquered France, but Japan will have absolutely no means of making Russia pay.

"Russia has lost territory and should not have to pay enormous money claims in addition. If she gives up Manchuria, recedes from the Pacific Coast, being allowed to retain a port there, along with some of the other territorial stipulations alleged by the Czar, she will be satisfied. It is all that can reasonably be expected of her."

Mr. Smith did not seem to be of the opinion that this conference would result in peace. He seemed more pessimistic over the result.

CHOOSING NEW CABINET MEMBER.

President Not Likely to Select New Yorker as Shively's Successor.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—Secretary Leslie M. Shaw will retire from the Cabinet in February, and it is believed here that the President has already given some thought to his successor. Hamilton Fish has been suggested, but in view of the acceptance by the Root of the Presidency, the suggestion will be deemed ill-advised. It is a question whether it will be State policy for the President to take a second member of his Cabinet from New York. If he decides to pass by New York, the name of Postmaster-General Cortelyou will be eliminated from the possibilities, and he has been strongly "outed."

Charles E. Dawes, ex-Comptroller of the Currency, now president of the Central Trust Company of Illinois, at Chicago, is in favor. On a recent visit to Washington Mr. Dawes suggested the suggestion with the statement that while he had no knowledge that the President was considering his name he was frank to say that he had no desire for the place. Mr. Dawes is rapidly making a name for himself in the financial circles of Chicago and a place in the Cabinet would interfere with his money making plans and hardly promote his political ambitions, which are supposed to turn in the direction of the United States Senatorship from Illinois.

Mr. Hanna of Indianapolis, whose name has been so favorably associated with the efforts for currency reform legislation during the past eight years, is one of those from the Middle West much discussed. Mr. Hanna is free from the political factional disputes that are stirring up Indiana politicians. He is free from party prejudice and is generally believed that the commercial interests of the country. He served with Prof. Jenks and Charles A. Conant on the last international monetary conference at Washington. The President is successful in concealing his plans from the public in the matter of selecting the next Secretary of the Treasury as he was in filling the naval and military cabinets. No one suggested or even guessed at the possibility of Mr. Hanna's appointment until the President announced it from the White House.

SENATE COMMITTEE CHANGES.

Deaths and Retirements Leave Many Chairmanships Vacant.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—A reorganization of the committees of the Senate may be accomplished at the extra session in November, but it will be postponed until the regular session in December.

Death and retirement have caused a number of vacancies at the head of important committees. The deaths of Senator Hoar of Massachusetts and Platt of Connecticut, both within the year, have made it possible for a far Western man to go to the chairmanship of the Judiciary Committee, which has belonged to the East for more than a decade. Senator East of Wyoming is in line for this chairmanship.

The death of Senator Hawley creates a vacancy at the head of the Committee on Military Affairs. Senator Warren of Wyoming is likely to succeed to the Military Affairs or Agriculture committee chairmanship. Senator Proctor and Senator Scott are striving for the chairmanship of Public Buildings and Grounds, made vacant by Mr. Fairbank's election to the Vice-Presidency. Senator Warren is in line for this vacancy, but prefers either Agriculture or Military Affairs. Senator Hunt of Oregon is likely to succeed Warren at the head of Claims.

Other vacancies occurring in chairmanships are General, held by Senator Quarles, at United States Circuit Judge; Education and Labor, held by McCoombs, now on the District of Columbia bench; Forestry, held by Senator Chandler; Reservations, held by Senator Quarles; Survey, held by Foster of Washington; Indian Affairs, held by Stewart; Intercommerce Canals, held by Mitchell of Oregon, to which Senator Platt of New York will probably succeed; Irrigation and Reclamation of Arid Lands, held by Bird of California, and the select committee on the subject of the Tennessee, Tennessee, Dietrich and Kearns were chairmen. The reorganization will necessarily be sweeping.

The Weather.

The passing of the low pressure area over the St. Lawrence Valley has permitted the easterly movement of the high pressure and cooler weather from the North-west into the Lake region and the West. The change in temperature caused showers and thunderstorms throughout the Lake region and on the coast.

The cooler weather will spread over the Atlantic States to-day. In this city the day was warmer and sultry, with occasional thunderstorms; wind generally light to fresh southerly at 7 p. m.; barometer, corrected to read on sea level, at 8 A. M., 79.98; at 3 P. M., 79.85. The temperature yesterday, as recorded by the official thermometer, is shown in the annexed table.

HOTELS FURNISHED A FLAT.

THE MANHATTAN CONTRIBUTED MORE THAN ANY OTHER.

Dut a Drift of Pickings From the Waldorf, the Cumberland, the Belleaire and Other Places Garnished the Grogan Home—William Grogan Is Wanted.

A truckload of table and bed linen, silverware and other property bearing the marks of various hotels was spread out in the police room of the Yorkville court yesterday. It had been taken from the home of William Grogan, arrested on complaint of Edward M. Shanks, assistant manager of the Hotel Manhattan.

Grogan had been a houseman in the hotel and lives at 211 East Fortieth street with his wife and children. His wife was formerly employed as a servant in the hotel. The hotel management had for some time been missing knives and forks, lace curtains, bed linen, ice pickers and other articles. Grogan threw up his job a week ago Saturday. The housekeeper told Mr. Shanks last Saturday that she had seen Grogan put some bath towels under his coat shortly before leaving the hotel for home one night. Grogan had been implicitly trusted and had a pass key to all of the rooms of the hotel, as his duties required.

Mr. Shanks got a warrant, with which Court Policeman Carew went to the hotel in the expectation that Grogan would call for some of his clothes that he had left there in a locker. Grogan did not come and was arrested. Outside the hotel he broke away from the policeman and ran. Carew threw his club at Grogan's legs and brought him down. After lodging him in the Fifty-first street station the policeman with the assistant manager searched his flat.

The policeman had learned that Grogan and his wife had been in the habit of entertaining servants from various hotels at growler parties. The rooms were furnished with silver and other articles of luxury. In the kitchen the table had a fine cover that must have cost $40. There was a handsome silver pitcher on the sideboard, flanked by silver spoons and knives of different patterns. In some of the rooms pieces of velvet carpet lay upon the ordinary ingrain carpet. Fine porcelain curio cases, containing the stamps of the dining room closets were filled with expensive chinaware of many patterns. Lace curtains hung over the windows. Fine carpets covered the beds and the best work of the bed had a lace bedcover and lace fringed pillow shams.

The linen bore the stamps of several hotels. There were towels and napkins galore, and on these, too, he found the stamp of his own hotel as well as of others.

There was a napkin from the Waldorf-Astoria and towels bearing the stamp of the Young Men's Christian Association. Other articles bore the stamp of the Hotel Wolcott, the Cumberland Hotel, the Hotel Belleaire and the Fulton company. The two visitors also found a quantity of expensive underclothing. Carew gathered up the goods that bore hotel marks and found him had enough to fill a truck. He got the truck and took the stuff to the police room in the court building.

Mr. Shanks made a complaint yesterday in which he charged the prisoner with larceny of fifty dollars worth of towels and napkins. This constituted grand larceny and Magistrate Wahl held Grogan in $1,000 bail for the Grand Jury.

Most of the seized property bore the mark of the Hotel Manhattan and Mr. Shanks was allowed to take away all but enough to show as evidence on the prisoner's trial.

The police are holding the rest for identification by the hotels whose stamps are upon it.

HELD UP BY BOGUS COP.

Adventure of Mrs. Mary Paisley With Four Men on Hackensack Plank Road.

Mrs. Mary Paisley, 35 years old, who lives in Tonnelle avenue, North Bergen, was held up by four men on the Hackensack Plank Road, on Saturday night to get medicine for Mrs. Eppel, who is ill. She was held up in a dark and lonely spot three blocks from home by four men, one of whom said he was a policeman. "I'm sorry, this man said, 'but it's my duty to arrest you. You've got to go to jail.'"

Mrs. Paisley said she wasn't guilty of any crime, and the spokesman for the four remarked that he couldn't help that. Then he made it clear that she could avoid trouble by handing over all the money she had with her. The men seized the woman as if to carry her to jail, and she screamed.

The men started to break away and ran three blocks to the drug store. One man followed her there and repeated that she was his prisoner. The druggist demanded to see the man's badge, and he showed one, but the druggist is not sure that it was a policeman's badge. Renon ejected the man and locked him out. Renon then called the police and they arrested the man and escorted Mrs. Paisley to the town hall, meeting her husband on the way.

Chief of Police Nolan and Recorder Kenyon were on duty at the time. The man who held up Miss Loretta Pfeiffer of 59 Grove street, New York, and her escort at Little Coney Island a week ago and demanded $100,000 for her freedom, was Miss Pfeiffer was so badly frightened that she died of heart disease several hours later.

NEWARK MAN DISAPPEARS.

Wife Gets Strange Note, but No Trace of Writer Can Be Found.

Joseph Hild, a butcher, 48 years old, of Fifteenth avenue and Hays street, Newark, has been missing since Wednesday. Yesterday his wife and children advertised extensively for information about him and begged him to return.

Hild went away from the shop with about $100 in his pocket and stopped at the office of the Board of Street and Water Commissioners, where he paid his water bill. He then went to the Newark office and said he was coming to the city on a business trip. That was the last seen of him.

On Friday evening Mrs. Hild received a letter from him postmarked Yonkers. It was a scrawl, different from his usual style, and contained the simple message: "I have been in bad health and may be deranged. He has sandy hair and gray eyes, and wore a pepper and salt suit. His son went to Yonkers and found no trace of his having been there."

ASBURY PARK'S BACKSLIDING.

Lamented by Bishop Fitzgerald, Who Advocates Voting Against High License.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Aug. 13.—Bishop J. N. Fitzgerald in the Ocean Grove auxiliary this morning issued a note of warning against the liquor movement in Asbury Park, which he characterized as an attempt to break up the peace and good order of the community. He urged all within his jurisdiction to vote at the election next Friday to reject their ballots against the proposed ordinance for high license and lamented the backsliding tendencies of the twin city across the lake.

TRIED TO LYNCH A MURDERER.

West Philadelphia Mob Had Ropes and Clubs—Fell Saved Prisoner.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 13.—Pursued by an infuriated mob of men and boys carrying ropes and clubs, two policemen rushed for three blocks through West Philadelphia early this morning with a man accused of murder. The crowd had determined to lynch the prisoner and it was only the grit of the police that saved him.

He was Hugh J. Gahagan, 48 years old, who invited Francis P. Craig, 48 years old, into his house on West Thompson street, and then shot him to death with a rifle. The murder was committed shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday and Gahagan disclosed it by his own fear. He rushed into the street and aroused the neighborhood by his frenzied cries.

"Craig's dead," he yelled. "For God's sake somebody come in, Craig's dead!" In a few minutes the neighborhood whole was aroused and men and boys filled the streets. Everybody knew Craig, who was a popular young man.

As soon as the crowd learned that Craig was really dead it began to mutter angrily. Gahagan retreated to his house and the crowd became more threatening in its attitude and cries of "lynch him!" reached his ears. Gahagan picked up his rifle and stood guard at the door, declaring that he would shoot the first man who came toward him.

The crowd was swarming into the front yard when Policemen White and Shaw fled from the Haddington station. They fought their way through the crowd and into the house, where they seized Gahagan.

Meanwhile the crowd had collected clubs and ropes. The policemen realized that the situation was critical. The nearest hotel mark and found him had enough to fill a truck. He got the truck and took the stuff to the police room in the court building.

Mr. Shanks made a complaint yesterday in which he charged the prisoner with larceny of fifty dollars worth of towels and napkins. This constituted grand larceny and Magistrate Wahl held Grogan in $1,000 bail for the Grand Jury.

Most of the seized property bore the mark of the Hotel Manhattan and Mr. Shanks was allowed to take away all but enough to show as evidence on the prisoner's trial.

FINDS HIS LOST WIFE.

Maine Clergyman Had Several Days of Worry About Her.

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—Mrs. Christiana Clarke, wife of the Rev. John Clarke, pastor of the Baptist Church at Lubec, Me., who, with her two young children, has been missing since last Tuesday, was found to-day at a hotel in Bridgewater, where she arrived yesterday. Mr. Clarke went to Bridgewater this afternoon and took her to his family. The circumstances of Mrs. Clarke's disappearance are so singular that they lead to the belief that she has been mentally unbalanced and the heat of last week is supposed to have been the cause. She appeared rational when her husband joined her.

Mr. Clarke has been nearly distracted over the affair. Two weeks ago Mrs. Clarke and her children left Lubec for Millville, this State, to visit her brother. Mr. Clarke planned to join them here and wrote his wife to come to Boston with the children and meet him at the steamboat dock. When the clergyman arrived on the steamer from Boston he found that she had not come and promised, and upon learning from Millville that she had started for Boston he went to the police for assistance. No trace of her was found in Boston.

On Thursday Mr. Clarke received a postal card from his wife asking him to meet her at the South Station at a certain time, but she did not appear. Later in the day he had another postal card complaining because he had not been at the station and asking for a meeting at the Steamboat Wharf, where he was to meet her. She had not come and he was disappointed. The wife of the Bridgewater selectmen read the story in the newspapers and located the woman to-day.

WANG OF GEM SMUGGLERS?

Federal Officers Make Two Arrests of Suspects in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. A gang of diamond smugglers is believed to make Chicago its headquarters. Disclosures made yesterday persuaded police and Federal agents that such is the case. Eight one-carat diamonds were recovered in a jewelry store at 201 West Madison street, and a man believed to be Henry Hoffman was arrested. The Washington authorities first learned of the operations of the supposed smugglers through a letter from a Chicago jeweler, Deputy Marshal A. A. Bach and John F. Scanlon of the special agents' office began an investigation. Working in secret, they came on the trail of Hoffmann and Bohi, who were traced to a saloon at Robey street and Chicago avenue.

When the police reached the saloon Hoffmann and Bohi were in bed. A Government warrant for their arrest on the charge of smuggling was secured to-morrow. Search warrants for the West Madison street and other stores were then secured. Places in which the alleged smugglers stored their jewels will be sought.

Cut Her Throat With Butcher Knife.

Kate Ammon, 43 years old, housekeeper for Charles Foehl and his son, Frederick, at their home, 351 Flushing avenue, Williamsburg, was found with a bed yester-day with a large cut in her throat cut. She had a large carving knife clutched in her hand, and the police decided that she had killed herself. Foehl and his son were arrested as well as the woman. A Government warrant for their arrest on the charge of murdering was secured to-morrow. Search warrants for the West Madison street and other stores were then secured. Places in which the alleged smugglers stored their jewels will be sought.

Forty Nine a Militiaman.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 13.—Col. Thomas S. Chambers has applied to the office of Adjutant-General F. J. Conroy for forty nine service medals for the late Militiaman John G. Bosc of the Second Regiment. The medal means that Sergt. Bosc has been in the State military service for forty nine years. This will be the first time that a continuous service medal is issued to any one but an officer.

ASKS DAMAGES FOR SON'S HURTS. Lewis Galloway Sues Francis Delaney Hyde, Who Ran Down Young Galloway. MONTCLAIR, N. J., Aug. 13.—Supt. Lewis Galloway of the Montclair Water Company's pumping station has brought suit for $20,000 damages against Francis Delaney Hyde of Plainfield. Mr. Hyde is president of the Union County Investment Company and owns a fine automobile. About two years ago while riding along Valley road in Upper Montclair, it is declared, he ran into a two wheel cart driven by Thomas Galloway, the plaintiff's son, aged 13, throwing him into the roadway and breaking four of his ribs.

It is alleged that Mr. Hyde ran on about three hundred feet and then stopped and inquired about the extent of the boy's injuries, offering to make good any damage that had been caused. Young Galloway did not recover rapidly, and it is thought that he is permanently injured. His father says that he waited in vain for Mr. Hyde to come to his relief and then placed the matter in the hands of Lawyer Edwin G. W. Curtis of Newark. It is said that Mr. Hyde does not regard himself blame-worthy and will not voluntarily pay any damages or consider propositions for a settlement.

GAMBLING NOT ALLOWED ABOARD.

Perhaps That Was Why New York Gave New Mexico $200 Back. A story of a gambling game in mid-coast aboard the French liner La Bretagne in a ferryboat from Havre, was denied by all the ship's officers when she got up to her pier yesterday morning. A passenger, who is authority for the story, says that the players were a man from New Mexico and a well dressed American, who gave his address as New York, and who was one of the first men to leave the pier, carrying only a hand satchel. The man from New Mexico lost $50 to the New Yorker at poker. It was suggested by the French liner that they should play pinochle. This time the man from New Mexico dropped $200. One of his friends who had been watching the game declared that the cards were marked. There was a dispute and Capt. Poncelot was appealed to to settle it. He made the New Yorker give back the $200, according to the passenger who talked, but the captain merely said that gambling was not allowed on his ship.

TRAVELERS IN PLASTER CAST.

Mon Wong Carted Around a Long Way From Hospital to Prison. Limping painfully, and padded out until he suggested a pouter pigeon, Mon Wong of 11 Mot street was led into the Coroner's office yesterday afternoon in the custody of two policemen. Mon Wong had just come from Bellevue, where they had packed the upper part of his body in a plaster cast for the protection of three broken ribs. The mid-eyed Mon Wong is one of the three Chinamen charged with the killing of Hop Lee, a laundryman, at 600 East Eleventh street, last Friday. When Mon Wong was brought before the clerk of the Coroner's office yesterday the policemen were told that it would be necessary to take the prisoner to Coroner Scholer's house on West Forty-eighth street for a proper commitment, whereupon Mon Wong limped and bloated, was put into a patrol wagon and rattled and bumped uptown, where Coroner Scholer remanded him to the Tombs without bail.
