

HINTS AT MUTUAL SENSATION

INTERMAYER HAS SOMETHING TO SAY ABOUT M'CLINTOCK.

The Spoke of the International Committee as Small Potatoes—Once Instructed an Agent Over His Signature How to Kill Legislation, the Lawyer Says.

Samuel Intermayer, counsel for the International Policyholders' Committee, in a statement given out yesterday hints at a new sensation in the affairs of the Mutual Life Insurance Company.

Mr. Intermayer's statement regarding Mr. McClintock is in the nature of a reply to the remark which Mr. McClintock made on Monday, that he was inclined to regard the members of the international committee as "pretty small potatoes."

I see that Mr. McClintock, with a dignity quite in keeping with the plane on which his company is conducting this controversy, squares the circle and finds White out, in the various walks of life from all parts of the world as "small potatoes."

POLICYHOLDERS IN GERMANY.

Imperial Government Report That Our Companies Are in Good Standing.

BERLIN, Aug. 14.—The report of the Imperial Insurance Department, which was published here yesterday, says that nothing has been found to justify the apprehension of the German policyholders of the Equitable, Mutual and New York Life that their claims would not be paid in full.

HOME MARKET CLUB STANDS PAT.

Boston Tariff Worshipers Trying to Drive Party Away From Revision Stand.

BOSTON, Aug. 14.—The Home Market Club has begun a campaign of retaliation against Gov. Guild to punish him for his declaration that the Republicans of Massachusetts cannot afford to retreat from their stand for tariff revision taken last fall.

SAY STENSLAND IS IN CHICAGO.

Police Find a Man Who Saw Bank Looter Last Saturday.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Paul O. Stensland was in Chicago last Saturday, says Capt. O'Brien, the new head of the detective bureau. Positive information as to the whereabouts of the much sought banker at the close of last week has been placed in the hands of the police and it is thought that the arrest of Stensland will be made soon.

FOR CLEAN, SHORN SOLDIERS.

Kansas Militia Must Wash, Trim Hair and Clean Their Nails.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 14.—Orders have been issued by Brig.-Gen. Wint, in command of the Fort Riley manoeuvres, which will stir the Kansas soldiers who will go into camp there next week.

No man will be allowed to wear hair or beard more than half an inch long while in camp. What a cropping of locks when the Kansas regiments arrive! When the rule becomes known football players are expected to despair.

The short hair rule is only one of many sanitary regulations promulgated here are some more: Every man must wash his face, head and neck, and if possible the folds of the body, and his feet daily.

ZIEGFELD CONFIRMS STORY

About a Call That Several Girls Made on Stanford White.

Florence Ziegfeld, husband of Anna Held, who came over with the actress on the Kaiser Wilhelm II., arriving yesterday, said that the report from Paris that he had said that a chorus girl (Hattie Forsythe) told him that shortly before Stanford White was killed by Harry Thaw several girls had called at the studio in the Madison Square Garden building, finding White out, in the various walks of life from all parts of the world as "small potatoes."

FURNITURE So Fine

That You Marvel at the Genius That Constructed It

This August Sale is as broad in its scope as the furniture craft is in production. It supplies lowest-priced furniture for the careful wage-earner, as well as the most elegant furniture that art craftsmen produce. It meets the wishes of all, and offers proportionate savings in price all the way through the magnificent array.

Yesterday we told you of the well-made oak chiffoniers at $6.50—and here is a splendid mahogany High Boy at $125, worth $175. Yesterday we told you of the oak bureau at $7.50—and here is an exquisitely inlaid bureau at $150, worth $205. Then here is an elaborately carved Italian Renaissance Bedroom Suite at $1050, worth $1750.

There are a hundred such instances of elegant furniture—never seen in other furniture sales—offered at large and positive reductions from the real value. Ambitious and thoroughly artistic housekeepers have a gratifying opportunity to indulge their desires without extravagance during this August Sale.

A few descriptions are given in detail:

$400 Dutch Marquetry Library Table, $300. In mahogany; richly carved and moulded; carved mouldings and claw feet; wooden lattice over doors.

But don't forget that the popular-priced furniture is here in still greater abundance; and EVERY PIECE OF FURNITURE IN OUR ENTIRE STOCK IS REDUCED IN PRICE, for this last August Sale in this building.

If you are not ready for the furniture now, we'll deliver it later on in the Fall, at your convenience. Third, Fourth and Fifth floors and Basement, Stewart Building.

End-of-the-Season Sale of Women's Washable Shirt-Waist Suits

We have taken about eight hundred dainty, well-made Shirt-Waist Dresses out of our stock for a final clean-up for the season. The new prices have very little connection with the original values, and the dresses should be taken away in a jiffy.

In two groups, as follows:

Suits that were originally worth $4.50 to $7. Now $1.50 a Suit

Suits that were originally worth $7.50 to $9.50. Now $2 a Suit

The materials are fine white and striped lawns, fancy madras, dimity, linen and colored chambray. The making is unusually well done. Waists are made in full plaited styles with fancy stock collars; some trimmed with embroidery insertion, some with square neck and some in "Peter Pan" blouse style. Sleeves are elbow and full-length. Skirts are gored, circular, plaited and with shirred flounces.

There is a complete range of sizes from 34 to 42 bust measure. Splendid suits for house wear, vacation wear, and many smart suits for the street. $1.50 and $2 a Suit.

BLOCKED THE SPECULATORS.

HOW VALUABLE LANDS WERE SAVED TO OKLAHOMA.

Inferior Department Says Secretary Hitchcock and Advisers Were Responsible for Defeat of Warren Amendment Relating to Mineral Land Leases.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—In a carefully prepared and deliberately authorized statement given out to the press to-night from the Interior Department credit is given to Secretary Hitchcock and his official advisers for having saved to the new State of Oklahoma "subsoil lands containing oil and other minerals which are estimated to be worth between one and two million dollars."

This was accomplished, it is declared by the Secretary, by securing the defeat of the amendment proposed by Senator Warren of Wyoming relating to mineral leases, which, according to the view of the Secretary of the Interior, was being sent an organized band of land speculators.

The statement makes the claim that Secretary Hitchcock "learned early in March that an amendment had been slipped into the Statehood bill, which would have given the Warren amendment."

It was said the "Secretary on looking into the matter reached the conclusion that the claims of the parties who would benefit by the amendment were entirely without merit, and that the whole scheme bore some resemblance to a raid upon the Treasury."

A detailed recital is given of the Secretary's persistent efforts to defeat the Warren amendment. He submitted briefs to the conference committee on the Statehood bill, stating "that the alleged mineral claims of the parties were void; that their validity was not due to any mere technical defect, but to the fact that the claims were set up in violation of express enactments of Congress, and that the only reason for making the claims was that the parties had laid plans for slipping into the Statehood bill measures like the Warren amendment."

Concluding the official statement Secretary Hitchcock said: "When the people of Oklahoma were celebrating the passage of the Statehood bill it is probable that they did not know how near the new commonwealth came to losing some of its most valuable possessions, besides having a blot on its escutcheon from having been made the victim of unscrupulous speculators upon its first entrance into the Union of States."

The appearance of the statement at this time, reviving the controversy which closed when the conference committee on the Statehood bill eliminated the Warren amendment, has created a mild sensation here.

STRIFE OVER ARMY CONTRACT.

Henry H. Lippert Protests Against Blanket Award to Higher Bidder.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Henry H. Lippert, a jobber of Milwaukee and Chicago, has filed with the Secretary of War a protest against the award recently made by Gen. Humphrey, Quartermaster-General of the army, to the American Woolen Company for furnishing 40,000 blankets to the army.

The contract involves about $200,000 and Lippert declares that his bid was lower than that of the American Woolen Company by nearly $5,000. Mr. Lippert has enlisted Representative Wilson of Chicago in his behalf, and this morning the General Quartermaster received a long despatch from Mr. Wilson demanding the reason for this "rank injustice" in not awarding the contract to the lowest bidder.

Gen. Humphrey declared that Lippert failed to comply with the specifications by not stating who the manufacturers of the blankets would be, also that the experience which the Department had previously had with Lippert in handling contracts was quite unsatisfactory. It was Lippert's plan, if successful, to purchase the blankets required from small manufacturers in Wisconsin, Illinois and Indiana.

Lippert first began dealing with the Department about a year ago, and this morning when he was then a regular contractor, he was awarded the contract for furnishing blankets and gloves. He manufactured none of these himself, but acted entirely as a middleman, purchasing his supplies from others. One contract which was awarded to Lippert two years ago provided specially for the same, the goods having been manufactured by King & Co. of Philadelphia (who were also one of the bidders against Lippert) and purchased by him to turn over to the Government.

Lippert contends that the American Woolen Company is a trust and that it was made to order by Special C. Bone, former managing editor of the Washington Post, that on October 1 he would begin the publication in Washington of the Herald, a one-cent morning newspaper, Washington capitalists will be associated with Mr. Bone in the enterprise.

New One-Cent Daily for Washington. WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Announcement was made to-day by Special C. Bone, former managing editor of the Washington Post, that on October 1 he would begin the publication in Washington of the Herald, a one-cent morning newspaper, Washington capitalists will be associated with Mr. Bone in the enterprise.

HUGGED GIRL IN THE STREET.

Man With Deputy Sheriff's Credentials Arrested for Wanton Insult.

Charged with hugging and otherwise insulting a girl he didn't know, Richard Hohen, 31 years old, of 800 Vanderbilt avenue, Brooklyn, was put under bonds by Magistrate Sweetser in the West Side police court yesterday afternoon. He was unable to furnish the bond and was committed to the court jail. In his pocket were found credentials indicating that he is a deputy sheriff.

Annie Van Holt, a quiet mannered nineteen-year-old girl, living with her parents at 44 West Twenty-eighth street, was returning to her home at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Tenth avenue, where she had been to buy a spool of thread. Hohen stood in front of a flat house at No. 40 with several other men.

Miss Van Holt told the Magistrate that Hohen stepped toward her as she was passing, threw both arms about her and hugged her. The girl screamed and struggled, while the other men looked on in evidence enjoyment. She finally freed herself and started on a run toward her home followed, she says, by a torrent of abusive language from Hohen.

Patrolman Brick of the West Thirty-seventh street station appeared just then and arrested Hohen, charging him with disorderly conduct. Magistrate Sweetser said he would like to send Hohen to the workhouse, but since the limit for disorderly conduct was only five days he would put him under $200 bonds to be of good behavior for three months instead.

Another thing that's "out to stop," commented the Magistrate. "The streets are not safe for women when men like that are around."

FISHING BOAT BREAKS DOWN.

Anglers Who Went Out on the Mt. Desert Steamboat Mt. Desert out to the Banks yesterday came back on another boat. In the Narrows on the return trip the Mt. Desert's machinery went out of business and she was helpless, except that she could blow her own whistle, which she proceeded to do.

Several boats, among them the Atlantic, which runs from Sea Gate to the Battery, came to her call. The Atlantic volunteered to take the fishermen aboard and the Harbor Supervisor's tug Caribarra passed a line to the Mt. Desert and towed her to the Eric Basin.
