

FAST TRAINS NOT YET DOOMED

TWO CENTS A MILE, OF COURSE, WHERE A STATE SAYS SO.

But if New York Doesn't Say So Central Can Get the Extra Fare—Pennsylvania Proposes to Take It On to the Pullman Charge—No Fast Trains at Slow Prices.

A number of passenger agents of the New York Central Lines had an informal conference yesterday at the Grand Central station and talked chiefly of the possibility of finding some way by which the fast through trains to the West on which an extra fare is charged can be run if a two-cent-a-mile movement spreads outside of Ohio and Indiana. No one could devise any way of getting around the provision that if Illinois, Michigan and New York ever adopt the two-cent rate, and it was the general opinion that if passenger rate laws keep up there won't be anything leaving New York for the Middle West but slow trains.

So long as New York State leaves passenger rates alone, said one of the passenger agents, "we can find some way of making the extra fare even if the man who pays it does travel most of the way through a country where there is a two-cent rate. There has never been any complaint from persons who use the trains. If they want to get across the country faster than they can go on an ordinary train they are willing to pay for it. I have no doubt they would be willing to pay no doubt that proved necessary for they are interested in the rate cutting proposition.

While it is true that our through trains were put on as an accommodation to business men whose time is valuable, I will not deny that the New York Central and every other railroad makes its money from its fast trains. The Empire State Express has been a gold mine, for there is never a vacant seat on that train, and there is little spare room on the Second Empire, which was put on to take the business that the first train couldn't handle.

The New York Central will never give up its fast trains until the States unite on a two-cent proposition and then grab the company by the neck and force it to carry every one for one price. The company would much prefer giving up all its commuter business to cutting out the fast trains. The business is the least profitable of all, is generally run at a loss and causes more trouble than any other. Before the eighteen-hour train is switched on to the siding, however, I hope to see one of our limited trains doing the run from here to Chicago in fifteen hours. We could maintain such a schedule without as much safety as at present."

An official of the Pennsylvania said yesterday that his road had a solution of the two-cent fare puzzle ready to spring the minute it becomes necessary. The extra rate to be tacked to the Pullman fare, if the rate cutting States get the Pullman company and compel a reduction for sleeping car accommodations, the company is undoubtedly prepared to fight, the official said, and will have to cut out the fare.

"I don't think public sentiment will ever permit the enactment of laws which would enable a man to ride on a slow train if he has the money to travel on a fast one and wants to pay for the privilege. Just now there is no telling what the legislators of certain States might do, but it doesn't seem to reason that either a State or national Government would take a man that he couldn't pay what he pleased for traveling accommodations. It would be just as sensible to say that the railroad would have to carry a trainload of perishable water-sealed eggs at the same rate as those charged on sandstone from Pennsylvania."

This official said that the Pennsylvania had no intention of installing a sixteen-hour train with its new passenger terminal when it is finished. He said that the Pennsylvania special now makes the run to Chicago in seven and a half hours. He said the eighteen-hour train on the Twenty-third street station and includes the time in crossing on the ferry. It also includes slow time from Englewood in Chicago, where extensive improvements are being made.

The only new fast schedule that the Pennsylvania has in mind is four hours to Washington, which is at least less than the running time of the Congressional Limited," he said. "This schedule will be really maintained on the track elevations through Newark, Elizabeth and other Jersey cities are completed and the New York terminal is done."

N. Y. C. TO SHIFT BRONX RIVER.

Railroad Company Also Institutes Condominium Proceedings for Two Parcels. WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., March 2.—The New York Central Railroad Company today started proceedings in the Supreme Court to condemn two large tracts of land in Westchester county, in order to carry on the work of changing the motive power from steam to electricity.

One section to be condemned consists of several acres of land at the New York and Harlem Railroad station in the center of White Plains. The tracks in White Plains will be shifted about 400 feet west of their present location. If this is done a Catholic church of the Italian residents and several hotels and buildings will be wiped out. The other parcel is of about twenty acres near the Ossining station of the New York Central road. The condemnation is against the old Daily Hotel, the Ossining Yacht Club and property owned by the Southern Westchester Lighting Company. The lighting company through its attorneys has interposed objections.

Another important work now being carried on by the Harlem company is the changing of the course of the Bronx river, so that it can widen its bed for four miles. A new channel for the river is being dug, and the river will be shifted several hundred feet from its present location.

Henry Graves Left Nearly $5,000,000.

An appraisal of the estate of Henry Graves, the broker who died at Orange, N. J., on August 29, last, was filed yesterday in the Surrogate's office and shows that he was worth nearly $5,000,000. Of this only about $350,000 is within the State of New York. His seat on the Stock Exchange, which is valued at $90,000, is included in that amount. About the only real property that he leaves in this State is an interest in 102 Broadway valued at $40,000.

PUCINI FROM 2 TO 11.

Continuous Performance of His Music at the Metropolitan. There was a continuous performance of Puccini at the Metropolitan Opera House yesterday. In the afternoon the opera was "Mamma Lucia" and in the evening it was "Madama Butterfly." Both performances were attended by great audiences, that of the evening being somewhat the larger. Miss Lina Cavalleri enjoyed her final appearance of the season at the matinee. She is to sail for Europe on Tuesday, and it is to be presumed will presently burst upon the astonished gaze of Italy with the record of a tremendous success in the Metropolitan Opera House and a renewal of contract.

Mr. Caruso, who was the Des Grieux yesterday afternoon, has also had a success at the Metropolitan and is to return at an increased rate of remuneration. The musical cognoscenti in Italy will perhaps be able to tell on what artistic principle these two performers have both succeeded in the same place and before the same public. Last night Mr. Dippel sang Lieut. F. R. Pinkerton of that singular American navy romance which is called "The Captive of the Sea." As Mr. Scotti had to caper through "Lecca" in the afternoon the eminent Mr. Straccolari (also reengaged) officiated in every role but one. At the Manhattan Opera House "Un Ballo in Maschera" was sung in the afternoon and a mixed programme in the evening.

HAMMERSTEIN TO SUE BONCI.

Will Bring a Personal Action for Damages Against the Tenor. Oscar Hammerstein, acting on the advice of his attorney, Nathan Vidaver, decided yesterday to bring a personal suit for damages against Alessandro Bonci, the tenor. Mr. Hammerstein will have the papers served on Signor Bonci this week. Charles Gilbert yesterday signed a contract for next year at the Manhattan Opera House. Mr. Hammerstein said last night that he and Miss Barnes had come to an agreement, with a portion of the American soprano desiring a contract covering two seasons, while Mr. Hammerstein is prepared to give her an engagement for only one year.

Dance Music for Young People.

Frank Damrosch's fifth concert of orchestral music for the young took place yesterday afternoon at Carnegie Hall. The entertainment was devoted to an illustration of national dances from England, Norway, Russian, Arabian, Chinese, Polish, Hungarian, Italian and Spanish dances, chiefly as idealized by distinguished composers, were played. The finale of Mendelssohn's "Italian" symphony represented the Salsola, and the Schalkowsky's second symphony contributed the sample of dance translated into symphonic form. English, Polish and Spanish dances were danced.

DRAKE SALE ENDS.

More Than $34,000 Realized by the Collections of Brasses and Coppers. The sale of the A. W. Drake collection of brass and copper articles at the American Art Galleries, Madison Square South, closed yesterday afternoon with a record breaking day both as to prices and attendance. There was hardly standing room when the sale opened and the attendance did not noticeably fall off until the close. The sales for the day amounted to $30,854.00, exceeding that of any previous day by more than $4,000. This brings the total realized to $34,152.

The highest price paid was $500, the bid of W. L. Clark for a large old hammered copper Spanish water jar with handles at the neck and the cover surmounted with a knob. European and Oriental plaques commanded high prices. An old Russian hammered copper plate 2 1/2 inches in diameter, engraved with a portrait of Peter the Great in the center, was sold to Mrs. A. C. James for $280. A copper plaque from Bosnia with Moorish ornamentation went to Mrs. E. E. Smalley for $250.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art bid in an Italian brass church plaque for $130. The museum also secured a Russian brass cauldron when the bidding came to a lamp and a brass Hanukkah light for $50, $80 and $42.50 respectively. The second highest price of the day was $350, bid by Mrs. W. L. Moore for a Spanish hammered brass brazer with perforated cover and dolphin legs. Other buyers were Spencer Trask, Will N. Harbey, Robert W. De Forest and Richard Watson Gilder.

DICKER IN ENGRAVINGS.

Lands Simmonds in Ludlow Street Jail on Buffalo Man's Suit. Deputy Sheriff Walzinger arrested yesterday Herman Simmonds, Jr., of 181 West Seventy-fifth street on an order signed by Justice Edward W. Emery of Erie county in a suit for $2,065 which has been begun by Charles Hoyt Williams of St. Gates Circle, Buffalo. The information which accompanied the order of arrest Simmonds was accused of obtaining the money sued for by fraud in connection with the sale of thirty Shakespearean engravings known as the Darley plates.

Simmonds was taken to Buffalo on Monday for trial. U. S. Authorities Beginning Active Work Against the Pest Wild Parasites. DALLAS, Tex., March 2.—Prof. W. D. Hunter and other Government entomologists at the United States Laboratory in Dallas are arranging to combat the boll weevil with parasites. A plan of campaign has been mapped out for this year. Preparations have been made to ship large numbers of weevil destroying parasites from places where the parasites are abundant to regions where they do not exist.

Besides George M. Cohan, Essie Flynn, Alice Lloyd, George Beban, Alex Carr, Catherine Conahan and Jack Norworth will appear.

IN SOCIETY.

One of the earliest of the notable Easter week weddings will be that of Miss Annie Ward Kountze, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Kountze, and Gordon Douglas, to take place in St. Thomas's Church on Thursday, April 4. Bishop Potter will perform the ceremony, and the bride will be attended by the bridegroom's sister, Miss Sibyl Douglas, as maid of honor. Miss Kountze made her debut a couple of seasons ago. Probably her brother, De Launcey Kountze, will be one of the attendants. His marriage to Miss Martha Johnson, niece of Mrs. Ogden Goebel, took place soon after that of the Duke of Roxburgh with Miss Goebel, at which she was a bridesmaid. Mr. Douglas is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Douglas.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Kountze will issue a large number of invitations both for the church ceremony and the reception to be given at their home, 5 East Fifty-seventh street. They have a place at Morristown, N. J., known as Delbarton, where they pass a part of each year.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Vanderbilt were among the dinner guests of President and Mrs. Roosevelt at the White House on Thursday night. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt have returned to their town house after a stay at Elyce Park, N. Y.

Mlle. d'Avenel, who is here with her father, Vicomte d'Avenel, will be the recipient of many attentions from relatives and friends of her mother, who will be a member of the Floyd-Jones family and one of the victims of the Charity Bazaar fire. Her marriage to Vicomte de Romanet is to take place in May in Paris. He is here also with the family party.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Townsend, with their young daughters, sailed yesterday for Europe on the Friedrich der Grosse. On their return, in June, they will go to their country place at Ardley-on-the-Hudson.

Louis Bruguière, who did not sail last week with Mr. and Mrs. Eliza Dyer, as arranged, will sail on Tuesday for Europe.

The wedding of Miss La Montagne, daughter of Mrs. Auguste La Montagne and Nicholas Murray Butler, will take place on Tuesday at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Francis Key Penlington, 7 East Eighty-sixth street.

The wedding of Miss Janet Alexander McCook and Malcolm Whitman will be celebrated on Easter Tuesday, in the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church. Miss Harriet Alexander, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Alexander, a debutante of the first time, and her cousin, Miss Jennie Crocker, will be bridesmaids. The bridesmaids will be the bride's sisters, the Misses Susan McCook and Martha McCook, and Miss Marion Fenno and Miss Edith Root. Miss Martha McCook served as bridesmaid at the bride's wedding on February 2. Hallett Hendricks Whitman will assist his brother as best man and the Messrs. George M. Sargent, John Arthur S. Pier, J. Wells Farley, Hamilton Durand, George Atkins on, Jr., and James F. Curtis will be ushers.

Miss Dorothy Whitney is now at Aiken, S. C., with her brother, Harry Payne Whitney, and his party, which includes Mrs. James A. Burden, Jr., Mrs. Whitney's cousin, and his family, and Miss Katherine Barney, Mr. Whitney's cousin, and her fiancée, Cortland D. Barnes, at whose wedding on Wednesday, April 10, Miss Whitney will be a bridesmaid. Miss John Field is the bride of one of the Barnes-Barney bridesmaids, will also be at Aiken, as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William Jay Thompson, whom she has visited at their home at Elyce Park. Gladys Vanderbilt, who is expected to reach Aiken with her sister, Mrs. Whitney, today, will probably be added to the Barnes-Barney list of bridesmaids.

Miss Dorothy Whitney and the Misses Susan Sedgwick, for whom her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Whitbridge, gave a party when she came out a couple of seasons ago, and Dorothy Kissell, debutante of this winter, all of New York, Dorothy Tuckerman and Julia Tuckerman of Boston, cousins of the bride elect, and Edith Green of New York, will be bridesmaids. Miss Mary Tuckerman, at her wedding with G. Hermann Kinnicut, to take place on Thursday afternoon, April 18, in the Church of the Incarnation, will be bridesmaid and thirty-fifth street. The Rev. Dr. William M. Grosvenor, the rector, will perform the ceremony, and the bride will be given away by her father, Bayard Tuckerman.

Mr. Kinnicut's ushers have not yet been decided upon, but his brother, Francis H. Kinnicut, will assist him as best man. He is a son of Dr. Francis P. Kinnicut. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Kinnicut will give a reception at their home, 118 East Thirty-seventh street. Miss Tuckerman, like Miss Barney and one or two other of the Easter brides, is now at Aiken, S. C. She is to be attended by Miss Edith Green, Tuckerman, as maid of honor. Mrs. Stephen Elkins, Jr., is a married sister. It is likely that Mr. Kinnicut will give his bachelor dinner at the Harvard Club. He was graduated from that university, class of '98.

Mrs. Charles H. Truax of 12 East Sixty-fifth street gives one of the big bridge parties to-morrow. Mrs. Truax will give a bridge party at her home, 118 East Wood of 88 West Forty-first street. Mrs. Arthur Barney of 161 West Fifty-second street will give a bridge on Tuesday, preceded by a luncheon. Miss Noel of 18 Washington Square, New York, will give a bridge on Tuesday, for her sister, Mrs. William Armstrong Greer, who was married on November 7. Mrs. Charles Augustus Peabody will give a party on Tuesday. Mrs. John C. Neeser of 5 East Sixty-fifth street will give a large bridge party at Sherry's next Thursday, March 7, preceded by a luncheon at the Harvard Club. Bull of 805 Fifth avenue will give one of the bridge parties on next Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Seymour Darlington, nee Hubbard, will, after their honeymoon, live at Villanova, near Philadelphia. The bride was graduated not long since from the Bryn Mawr College.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Wilson, Jr., who have left town for the South, gave a pretty dinner of forty covers last Sunday night in the dining room of their new residence, 15 East Fifty-seventh street. Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Wilson gave one of the big dinners of Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Wickes and also Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cravath, of 107 East Thirty-ninth street, among other dinner givers on Wednesday night were Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Pierson, Jr., and Mrs. Herbert L. Griggs.

Mrs. Vanderbilt and her daughter, Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, have been in their house here on Fifth avenue and Fifty-seventh street, since they arrived from Europe on Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, due to reach Europe in a couple of days, will have a party at their town house, 107 East Thirty-ninth street, and Grace Vanderbilt, Jr., and Grace Vanderbilt.

A COURSE IN HOUSEWIFERY suggested by President Schurman of Cornell at an Alumnae Luncheon. The Cornell Alumnae Club gave a luncheon at Delmonico's yesterday afternoon in honor of Jacob Gould Schurman, president of the university. The Daughters of Ezra hoped that Gov. Hughes would come, but he couldn't. President Schurman spoke of the excellent opportunities offered women at Cornell, and said that the university took pride in the work of a number of Cornell girls who had gone out into the world and done things in engineering, the law and medicine. He mentioned Nora Stanton Blatch, an engineer, and the Cornell alumnae gave ladylike cheers.

FIGHTING FOR HIS BEACH. Leonard Jacobs Wants a Two Mile Strip From Oyster Bay Town. MERRILL, L. I., March 2.—Justice Dickey has denied the motion of counsel for Leonard A. Jacobs of East Island to have transferred to a county other than Nassau his suit against the town of Oyster Bay. Papers for the change of venue were filed here to-day. The dispute between Jacobs and Oyster Bay town is over a strip of beach two miles long on the edge of East Island. Jacobs bought land on East Island and says that the deed to the property covers the beach in dispute. The town contends that through an ancient grant the ownership of the beach lies with the town. About a year ago there was a lively time over the possession of the beach and Jacobs had deputies on guard to protect what he says is his property. The case was taken to the Supreme Court of Nassau County and the town won. An appeal was taken to the Appellate Division and the town again was victorious. Then the fight was continued in the Court of Appeals and a new trial was ordered. Jacobs wants a change of venue because he thinks he will have a better chance of success outside of Nassau county.

Lucania Brings Mrs. Brewster's Body. On the steamship Lucania of the Cunard line, which reached her pier last night, was the body of Mrs. William Brewster, wife of the carriage manufacturer. She died at the dinner table a week ago Saturday night, just after the ship had left Liverpool. Mrs. Brewster and her husband had been in Europe automobiling, and she was apparently in good health. The Lucania had very rough weather, and for three days the passengers were not allowed on the decks. Among those on the ship were Miss Marie Hall, the English violinist.
