

A POINT FOR PASTEURIZATION.

ALDERMANIC COMMITTEE UNANIMOUS FOR ORDINANCE.

It Provides That All Raw Milk Below a Certain Standard Sold in New York Shall Be Boiled—Marks a Departure in Liquidating City From Disease Supply.

The committee on public health of the Board of Aldermen, which has been holding public hearings on the milk question and whose investigation of the subject has covered a period of many weeks, decided unanimously at a special meeting yesterday in favor of an ordinance which, if passed, will require that the milk from every dairy supplying New York shall be tested by the Health Department once a month, and any milk showing over 500,000 bacteria to the cubic centimeter will have to be pasteurized before being sold.

There is no bacterial standard which milk must pass at present in this city, and the absence of any provision for such tests has caused unfavorable comment on the action of the Health Department. While the proposed ordinance is not as drastic as some have desired, it will mark a departure in the matter of safeguarding the community from diseased milk. The ordinance has been made a special order for the meeting of the Board of Aldermen next Tuesday, and there is likely to be a fight over its passage. In the first place, the ordinance would mean the pasteurization of only such milk as would be manifestly harmful to drink, and would not affect the so-called certified milk or much of the milk served by the better class of milk dealers, the members of the committee are hopeful of its passage.

The ordinance has many provisions which will be far-reaching and drastic as compared to the regulations hitherto covering the milk supply. In the first place, the ordinance provides that no raw milk or cream shall be sold at retail in the city of New York unless it comes from herds certified as being free from tuberculosis, and unless such milk or cream has been certified by the Department of Health as containing not more than 500,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter.

All milk and cream not from certified herds, the ordinance goes on to say, "or not conforming to the said bacterial standard shall be pasteurized by exposure for at least twenty minutes to a temperature of 167 degrees Fahrenheit, or by exposure for thirty minutes to a temperature of 158 degrees Fahrenheit, under the supervision of the Department of Health, and sealed with a label showing such process."

The milk certified by the county medical associations as containing not more than 20,000 bacteria, which is the so-called certified milk prepared under the supervision of the milk commission, made up of physicians, is, of course, exempted from tests by the Health Department.

For the purpose of enforcing the ordinance it is provided that it shall be unlawful to ship milk to New York except in cans which shall show the name and location of the dairy whence it comes. It is further provided that dairies wishing to supply milk to be sold raw shall have their cattle tested once every six months by the health authorities, the certificates of such inspection to be filed with the Board of Health of this city. In the case of dairies outside of the State of New York the Board of Health is empowered to accept certificates from the proper health authorities of those States.

Milk from a dairy whose cows on such inspection are found to be tuberculous must be pasteurized. As to how the bacterial standard is to be enforced, the ordinance says: "In order to enforce the bacterial standard of 500,000 bacteria to the cubic centimeter it shall be the duty of the Department of Health to take samples in the city at least once a month of milk and cream of each dairy shipping its product to the city for the retail trade and said department shall have bacterial examination of said samples made at its laboratory, to cause any sample of milk or cream from any dairy whose cows more than 500,000 bacteria to the cubic centimeter, or in case the herd is not certified as free from tuberculosis, the Board of Health shall: a) once forbid the sale of milk or cream from that dairy unless it is pasteurized as required by the ordinance; b) if a herd is certified as free from tuberculosis and at least three samples of the milk from a dairy show less than 500,000 bacteria, the Board of Health is to certify that such milk can be sold raw for a month. All milk pasteurized under the ordinance must be placed in clean cans or bottles, each of which cans or bottles shall be stamped and sealed under the supervision of the Department of Health in such a manner that said cans or bottles cannot be opened without breaking the seal. This is to prevent contamination after pasteurization.

For a violation of the ordinance the permit of an offender can be revoked, and for a second offense not only can the permit be revoked but he is punishable for a misdemeanor.

In its report to the Board of Aldermen the committee dwelt at length on the number of medical men and experts that had been heard.

"Your committee," said the report, "also made a personal investigation of the conditions under which milk is shipped and sold in this city and have consulted with various authorities.

"Your committee has reached the conclusion that no milk should be sold in this city unless said milk or cream comes from certified herds and has been daily inspected, and your committee further believes that all milk or cream not coming from such herds and complying with the bacterial standard proposed should be pasteurized under supervision of the Department of Health.

The ordinance if passed would go in effect on June 1, when the infant mortality begins to increase rapidly, and this is the season when the disease is most prevalent. It is believed that the ordinance is one proposed by Alderman Griffenhagen and amended so as to make the standard 500,000 instead of 1,000,000. Alderman Griffenhagen said yesterday that it had been submitted to one of the experts recently appointed by the Mayor and had received his approval. Although many doctors have fought pasteurization of any of the milk on the ground that its efficacy had not been determined as yet, the standard of 500,000 is believed to be liberal enough to meet with the favor of most of the doctors. Nevertheless there is no doubt that many of the big milk dealers will have a good deal of trouble in getting milk to pass even this test in the summer months, it was said yesterday.

The cost of pasteurization, the committee estimates, would be not more than an eighth of a cent a quart. One large milk company already has installed a pasteurizing plant on the ground that it found it practically impossible to get pure milk from the average dairy farm. The investigation furthermore has shown that an immense number of the cattle of the State are tuberculous. The number has been estimated as high as 80 and 90 per cent.

Smart Styles In Women's Raincoats

This is the month when raincoats are needed. Here are models that represent the best Paris can send. They are from Edmond Dietz. There is no great elaboration of detail and trimming about them, but there is grace, there is distinction in every line. Though designed primarily for outing coats, they are suitable for street wear.

They are made in various pretty checks in black-and-white, blue-and-white, brown, tan, green and white; also in plain colors of tan, red, black, blue, brown and gray.

There are also Gloria Coats in light and dark shades, with contrasting colors on collars and cuffs. They show the same smart simplicity in line and finish as the satin and rubber-lined coats.

We show also four different styles of Domestic Coats, adapted for traveling and motoring. Domestic Tweed Coats, $12 to $25. Domestic Raincoats, $12.75 to $25. Domestic Worsteds Rubber-lined Coats, $13.50 to $23.50. Domestic Rubber-lined Satin Coats, $19.50. Imported Rubber-lined Coats, in pretty checks, $25 and $30. Imported Satin Rubber-lined Coats, in plain colors, $20 and $35. Imported Gloria Coats, $18.50 and $20. Imported Pongee Coats, $27.50 to $200. Third floor, Stewart Building.

Women's 12-Button Glace Gloves, $1.60

Gloves of an excellent quality; finely finished, with spear point backs. Colors are tan, brown and gray. These gloves represent a large purchase, at a special price, therefore we may offer them at $1.60 a pair, though they are regularly worth $3.25 a pair. Main floor, Stewart Building.

Women's Fine Tan Shoes

These models are smart in style, of graceful lines, and show the best workmanship and finest finish. They are shoes which critical women will appreciate. At $7 a pair—An unusually smart, graceful model, made of tan calfskin, with cloth tops, pointed toes and Cuban heels. At $7 a pair—Of the same shape as above, but with suede or linen uppers. There are four models in this style, and they are practically hand-made, with the comfort and finish which that implies. Main floor, Stewart Building.
