THE FINANCIAL SITUATION.

There were a good many developments last week. Most of them, it may be said, were of a tentative and to a greater or less extent merely suggestive character, which combined to produce a better feeling in the financial district.

It is true that the bonds offered by the Pennsylvania were of a gilt edged character not often witnessed, the securities comprising what was, with the exception of $20,000,000 of prior lien, a first mortgage on the main line of the Pennsylvania system.

During the week general indications of this kind became more pronounced. Optimism was particularly increased, naturally by the immense success that attended the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's bond sale.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

later call upon our national banks for another large share of the public money left in their care; but unless the withdrawal is very rapidly conducted it does not seem likely to prevent the continued export of gold.

No doubt, too, an element in the general letter outlook last week was the prospective rise in railway freight rates. The sound principles justifying an advance here have been adverted to on various occasions in this column for more than a year back.
