

IRISH PRIMATE ADMITS ETHEL ROOSEVELT AT BATTERY PARK.

Notable visitors at the Festival of the Youngsters of Battery Park District—Visiting Prelate, Cheers One-Lane Girl With a Blessing and a Chat.

Rene Maher, leaning a little on her crutch, sat under a big tree in Battery Park yesterday morning making believe she was having lots of fun, as much as any of Uncle Dan Finn's boys and girls that were romping over the grass and among the benches from the Aquarium.

But it was hard to keep pretending all the time, especially when none of the kids came around to ask her if she wouldn't have some ice cream, and Rene felt as much alone among the 1,500 children as if there hadn't been a soul in the park save herself.

They didn't exactly forget Rene, but they were so strong and well themselves and so excited over the barrels of apples and the freezers of ice cream and the oads and loads of cake, that Johnny McGrath and Tony Spisito and the big girls were standing guard over that they couldn't be expected all the time to remember that Rene wasn't just as they were.

The grownups were too busy to bother about Rene's feelings, because if they didn't look sharp all the time the ice cream freezers and cake boxes would have got the goodies that must be divided without fear or favor.

They had to patrol the seawall to prevent adventurous youngsters from tumbling into the harbor. They had to break up the battles which started suddenly and raged over the lawns when Tommy McGann punched Blinky Moran's little pug nose, or when Stubby Wilson forgot the courtesy of winking and smacked his sister May.

Along about noon two men in silk hats and long black coats came to the picnic and spoke to Johnny McGrath, and Johnny lifted his derby and bowed very respectfully. The kids came scurrying from all parts of the park and massed about Johnny McGrath and the two visitors.

Oh, Mickey, it's th' Cardinal wid Mr. McGeane of St. Peter! Geel What'd ye think of that?

He shut up, Stubby. Th' Cardinal don't wear his red clothes when he goes out on th' street. I say he don't. You're a liar!

Sure, Mister McGrath, knows the Monsignor and the Monsignor is a good friend of th' Cardinal. Ah, quill fer ordin'. D'ye want Mister McGrath to bowl you out right in front of the fathers? You ain't got no sense.

Evans' Cream Ale

is, as its name indicates, a luscious, creamy, mellow, enticing, appetizing beverage, of which it is written:

"There you have quality and perfection, the body as rich as color as cream, the creamy feeling of foam as fine and delicate as spun silver and a bouquet as dainty and delightful as the first breath of a Summer morning wafted to you across a field of blossoming hops."

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD Bulletin

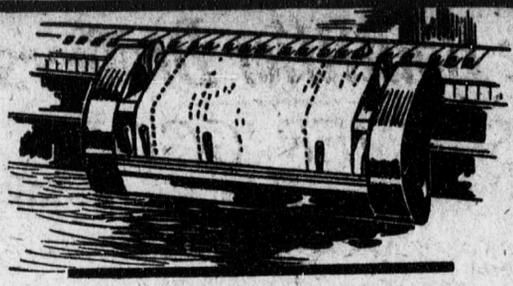

THE FORTY BEACHES OF NEW JERSEY.

The one hundred and twenty-five odd miles along the New Jersey coast line from Long Branch to Cape May presents the greatest pleasuring section in the United States.

Upon the bluffs of the northern end and the gently shelving sands of the southern end are located forty resorts which entertain during the spring and summer season millions of pleasure seekers.

At no time in the year is this section more delightful than during the spring and early summer months. One who has not seen them at this season would marvel at their delights.

Long Branch with its beautiful cottage-neighbors, West End, Hollywood, and Elberon; Deal and Allenhurst, largely devoted to cottage life; Asbury Park and Ocean Grove, attracting thousands yearly; Avon, Belmar, Como, Spring Lake, and Sea Girt, are a galaxy of attractive places upon the bluffs where "the country meets the sea."

"Artistano" THE FIRST PLAYER-GRAND

Perhaps what will most impress you when you play upon this great instrument is the marvelous range of effects of which it is capable, and the ease with which you can secure them.

The Artistano is the first player-piano of which it may truly be said that it exactly reproduces the touch of human fingers.

It is particularly fitting that this incomparable device is combined with the highest possible grade of grand and upright pianos. Over 50,000 A. B. Chase instruments have been sold since 1875.

BLACK HAND AND ROBBERIES

WORK TOGETHER TO SCARE WEST SIDE FLAT TENANTS.

Threats in Letters of Burglaries, and They Follow—House Owned by Banker Arnold Kohn's Son—Tenants Told to Move—An Arrest in a Week Old Case.

The tenants in the six story flat house at 203 West 148th street are excited over Black Hand letters they have received and robberies which have occurred in the house in the last two days.

On the same day other letters came to Mrs. Martha Blue, a widow who lives on the ground floor, and to Mrs. Lichenstein, the landlady. Mrs. Blue was told that if she did not move she would be "carried out in ashes."

That day she went to do some marketing and when she returned home she found that her rooms had been entered and clothing and jewelry taken. It was the third time she has been robbed. She was frightened so badly that she barricaded her rooms, lighted the gas and waited for her husband to come home.

Examination showed that the lock had been taken from the roof door. The burglar got into the flat by a passkey. In one of the letters received by Mrs. Kohn the writer said he had keys to every flat in the house.

The owner of the building is Walter T. Kohn, a son of Arnold Kohn, president of the United States Trust Company. He was informed of what was going on and he made a report to the police. He thinks he knows who wrote the letters.

Leonardo Bertolino, 20 years old, who lives at Sixty-sixth street and First avenue, was arrested last night and locked up in Police Headquarters charged with setting off the bomb which on last Sunday night exploded in the building.

The arrest was made by Detectives Staff, who say that Bertolino has been identified as the man who was seen running from the hallway of the building before the explosion. The bomb is supposed to have been intended as a persuasive force for Achille Salomono, who has an undertaking shop on the ground floor of the building, and who is the receiver for the part of the embezzled money.

Mr. Harrison told Mr. Gordon just how much money he needed to extend an enterprise. Mr. Gordon responded that there was on the way to him from St. Paul a draft for $50,000 which should arrive by Wednesday and he would advance the money money Mr. Harrison wanted.
